Thirty or more members of the Christian Endeavor societies of Westerly were in Providence Friday, on Washington's birthday, to attend the Rhode Island Christian Endeavor convention at the Elmwood Christian church. Refreshments were served at the close of the session.

Much ice was harvested by men in the employ of Alden Lodge of Westerly from the No Bridge pond, Friday. Visitors to the pond had an opportunity to see the new gasoline plow and planker in operation, it being the first time that a machine of this type has been used to advantage near Westerly. In operation the machine is not unlike a power lawn mower; the operator walking behind, guides the machine across the ice. A circular saw operated by gasoline motor with Ford parts drives the cutting teeth into the ice and it is adjusted to any depth of cut required. A runner guides in a previously made cut keeps the saw cuts evenly distanced and the machine passes over the ice as fast as a man can walk behind it. The ice, after being marked, is broken away by a few scoops of a hand saw and guided to the pen by men with spuds. From the pen-way, the ice cakes are guided to the motor-driven elevator and carried to the ice house to be stored. The weather of Friday was almost ideal for icing and with the gang of men employed the east and west sections of the large icehouse were filled rapidly. The ice on this pond is about the last to freeze near Westerly, but a good quality of ice, one foot inches thick was run into the house [illegible]

JEWETT CITY

Mrs. F. D. Ballou entertained the Ladies' society of the Congregational church Thursday afternoon, twenty-five being present. Mrs. E. A. Faust, the new president, presided and appointed twelve directresses for this year. One very pleasant and unusual feature was the presentation of a gavel to the society. Mrs. A. H. S. Vaughn of Norwich, made the presentation. The gavel was made from wood brought from Lookout Mountain, Southern Tennessee, by Mrs. James O. Sweet, a former president of this society in years long gone by. This was where Hooker's big battle Above the Clouds was fought, and a bullet is imbedded in this gavel, Look Out is carved upon it, and there is also a silver plate inscribed "From Mrs. Ellen Cole Sweet's daughters."

Mrs. Sweet gave this gavel to her daughter, Mrs. Vaughn, when the latter was elected president of a Norwich society. Two other sisters, Mrs. Clara A. S. Crawford of Fairhaven, N. Y., and Mrs. Ballou of Saylandale, have both served as presidents of the Congregational church society, and now a third sister, Miss Faust, has been elected to that office. So it seemed fitting to these sisters that they give this historic gavel to the society in memory of their mother, whose interest in her church never abated, and who gave such material and efficient help during her life here. Mrs. H. S. Stephenson sang two solos, and Miss M. A. Burdick read sketches of Lincoln's life. Mrs. Ballou was assisted by Mrs. John Whalley, Mrs. C. D. Wolf, Mrs. B. W. Albertine and Mrs. Walter Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. French, Mrs. J. T. Stewart and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox attended a chicken pie supper in Central Village Friday evening.

It is interesting to know how many Norwich Bulletins are circulated in Jewett City each day: 330 come to B. R. Gardner's news store, 340 to the very efficient paper boy, Charles Plencidz; 41 to the postoffice, which includes the R. F. D. route; 4 go to Pachaug and 4 to Glasgo, all in the town of Griswold; 612 Bulletins each day. Count three persons reading each paper, which is an average number. This is a fine circulation for this town.

Wednesday night at the local range, the following scores were shot and prizes awarded the high men in their classes: A. Stebbins, 50 (first prize); D. Ballou, 49; J. Wolf, 46; H. Burke 45; R. Glest, 45 (44, 2nd prize); J. Davis, 43; E. Wyatt, 43 (34, 3rd prize); E. Hiscox 43; J. LeClaire, 42; O. Gilbert, 40; R. Ericson 39; E. Gutknecht 37; H. Beaudry, 35; H. Ambot, 34; P. Ambot, 34; G. Davis, 25.

You Can Tell

A Rickenbacker — By The Space Behind It

That was a happy thought—putting on every Rickenbacker car as standard equipment—with all the other things that leave the owner "Nothing Else to Buy"—a drum tire-cover with lettered warning, "4-Wheel Brakes!"

That notice which says, in effect, "the car ahead can stop in Nothing Flat" gives the Rickenbacker owner Right of Way at all times.

If you could look down from an aeroplane upon the moving throng of automobiles during the rush hour—five to six p. m.—you could pick out every Rickenbacker Six easily.

You could do that even if you were so high you could not distinguish its graceful lines.

It is amusing, by the way, for the Rickenbacker owner to watch thru his Rear Vision Mirror and note the actions of the car behind.

If perchance it comes in from a side street, and as so many foolish drivers do, approaches to within four feet of the car in front of him in dense traffic, before he catches sight of the "4-Wheel Brakes":

You will see him suddenly back off—and stay at a respectful distance.

Often you will see his wife indicating, with lips clearly saying, "Look out, that's a Rickenbacker Six in front—I hope we may have one soon."

No other car can stop as quickly as a Rickenbacker Six—that has been proven in the most conclusive tests; no 2-Brake car can stop half as quickly.

It's the front-end accident that you are responsible for. Your Rickenbacker 4-Wheel Brakes take care of that.

And that Warning which every Rickenbacker owner carries on his spare tire always guarantees more space than he needs between him and the next car behind.

Owners of previous Rickenbacker models which had only two brakes—tell many amusing stories about the wide berth other cars give them also. They Own the Road if you believe all they say.

That's because the very name Rickenbacker and the term "4-Wheel Brakes" are synonymous in the minds of motorists.

For all authorities know that Rickenbacker not only pioneered in this greatest improvement since the Self-Starter, but that Rickenbacker still has the best 4-Wheel Brakes—the most perfectly equalized and the simplest to adjust—in the whole world.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Friday afternoon, at his home in Brooklyn, funeral services for Dexter W. Young were conducted by Rev. John R. Pratt. The body was taken to Moosup for burial in the Union cemetery. The bearers were Judge Oscar F. Atwood, Frederick Miller, S. L. Frink and Harry Lathrop. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

It has been commented upon that very few of the smaller holders of Liberty bonds in this territory are offering them for transfer into cash, of late. This was quite a common practice when these issues of bonds were quoted considerably below par in 1920. Many sacrificed their bonds at that time either through necessity or fear that they would go much lower. This is not happening nowadays. The bonds are being held for redemption and are more generally regarded as the gilt edge investment they always have been. The holding of them also is evidence of the reserve financial strength of hundreds of people who possess them.

If Killingly gets a stretch of concrete highway northward from the borough line to Dayville Four Corners or beyond and an improved state highway to East Killingly in 1924, the achievements will be generally regarded as noteworthy, and there is prospect that these things will be accomplished. The state already has signified its intention of building a concrete highway all the way from Putnam to New Haven, via Danielson, and there is the possibility that what is known as the Elmville stretch might be obtained this year. The town, too, will have funds from the state to use on state aid roads in Killingly and from this source the money for the East Killingly improvement might come. Both suggested pieces of new roads are really needed and represent no extravagance of expenditure.

State and federal tax returns are now due. Call on us for assistance at any time. A special assistant will be here each Saturday evening until Mar. 15. The Danielson Trust Company.—adv.

Members of the board of relief will close up their records within a few days completing their work for this year. The financial meeting of the town will be held next month and will fix the tax rate for the ensuing year.

Water in rivers and brooks in this territory is at an unusually low level for this time of year and with the amount of supply that is now congealed as ice the reserve is so low that some manufacturing concerns having water power are depending almost wholly on steam for power.

Representatives of various Methodist churches in towns in this section came to Danielson Friday evening for the banquet and Quinebaug Valley Circuit league meeting at the Methodist church.

While there is complaint because so much snow is piled along the sides of the street in the business section, it is pointed out that the quick drop in temperature after Wednesday's storm and the attendant freeze-up made it impossible to get this snow away.

While state highways to the north of Danielson are covered with ice, there is little to the south of here and far less snow south of Danielson than there is right in the borough and points immediately north.

PUTNAM

Thomas P. Ryan, city clerk, elected assistant prosecuting attorney of the city of Putnam, has accepted the appointment and has qualified. Mr. Ryan is not an attorney-at-law and when Judge M. H. Geissler, of the city court, was asked if he would recognize Mr. Ryan if he appeared before the city court as prosecutor Judge Geissler stated that he did not care to make any statement at this time and would rather wait until the exigency arose.

The appointment of a layman assistant prosecuting attorney has been under discussion by local lawyers and has brought to mind a similar situation back in 1900, when the late Richard Gorman, formerly of Norwich, was appointed by the then members of the common council to be prosecuting attorney, Mr. Gorman not being a lawyer.

The charter of the city of Putnam provides for the appointment of a prosecuting attorney and assistant prosecuting attorney, the assistant to act in the absence from the city, inability, or at the request of the prosecuting attorney.

When the common council elected Mr. Gorman prosecuting attorney, Attorney E. H. Johnson was holding the office and Judge E. M. Warner was judge of the court. Attorney Johnson refused to relinquish the office in favor of Mr. Gorman and proceedings in the nature of a quo warranto were brought in the superior court. Judge George W. Wheeler, now chief justice of the supreme court of errors, rendered the opinion, holding that a man not an attorney, could not hold the office of prosecuting attorney. In his memorandum of decision Judge Wheeler said in substance:

The charter of the city of Putnam provides for the election by the common council of a prosecuting attorney and vests him with all of the powers of a state's attorney so far as the jurisdiction of the city court of Putnam extends. That court is a court of record with very considerable powers, and the prosecuting attorney alone has authority to appear before it and present all crimes and prosecute them before said court.

The question is whether the common council can elect to such office one who is not an attorney at law. This involves a question of construction. What did the general assembly intend by the term of the office, prosecuting attorney? Ordinarily the word attorney standing in a statute unqualified means an attorney at law, unless there be something in the context repelling such construction.

This would be the natural import of the word and it is a principle of construction that the natural import of words according to common use are to be taken unless the intention so regulating be contrary to sound principles of public policy, and the natural import of words is that which their utterance promptly and uniformly suggests to the mind. When the word attorney is used in this connection with the conduct of the business of a court of record, it means one who is by law qualified to appear in court.

A prosecuting attorney is an officer of the court. His election does not confer on him the right to appear in court, that arises because he is an attorney at law duly qualified to appear in court and he appears as prosecutor because he has been elected to the office and is an attorney qualified to appear in court.

Judge Wheeler points out some early decision sand calls attention to the statute setting forth that no other person other than an attorney shall plead at the bar of any court in this state.

The prosecuting attorney of Putnam must present and prosecute crimes in the city court of Putnam and this he can not do unless he is an attorney at law, duly qualified.

The decision continues and points out decision that uphold the judge's view and he states that even had such construction not been held so conclusively by established authority, he would find ample support for such construction in the very nature of the duties of the office.

The successful prosecution of cases in our courts require training, experience and learning of the attorney at law. No other is competent to transact such public business. The public safety is of too paramount importance to have crimes go unpunished and the criminals escape justice because the prosecutor is ignorant, inexperienced or unskillful.

It is pointed out that where the attorney is responsible to the court over the layman the court has no control. That experience had demonstrated the necessity of requiring recognized qualifications for admission to the bar; and other matters of concern to be considered in determining whether the general assembly intended the prosecuting attorney of Putnam to be a layman.

While the above decision is in the office of prosecuting attorney it is apparently equally applicable in the office of assistant prosecuting attorney, for in the absence, or at the request of the prosecuting attorney, the assistant in effect becomes prosecutor and must appear before the court as much.

Continuing to create country-wide interest in the pure bred bull campaign, County Agent F. L. Davis issued the following statement on Friday:

Few persons, probably, realize that the dairy cow annually produces milk to the amount of from three to ten times her own weight. As a machine for manufacturing human food from such inedible materials as grass, hay, silage and coarse grains, she has no equal, either in the realm of nature or of human invention.

Further than that, she must produce more than her own cash value every year in order to satisfy her owner. It is interesting to note that all the dairy cattle of Windham county, some 16,251, including calves, bulls and heifers under milking age, are valued by the census at $1,070,894, while milk from the 10,483 cows of milking age has an annual value of $1,078,879.

Not only are the products of Windham County dairy cows worth more than the combined total of all cereals, vegetables, fruits and other crops grown in the county, but these same cows supply the principal market for $1,307,950 worth of hay and forage annually grown in the county.

Dairying, being the central agricultural industry of the county around which other farm operations are largely grouped, the Windham County Farmer's association plans to devote a large share of attention in 1924 to improvement of this industry. This will [illegible] m of a campaign to get rid of all scrub bulls and to replace them with well selected pure bred bulls, capable of breeding up the efficiency of the dairy herds.

It is pointed out that in Holland, where pure bred bulls are the rule rather than the exception, the national average production is 7,580 pounds of milk and in Switzerland, where considerable attention has been paid to good breeding the average production is 6,560 as compared to 3,431.4 pounds per cow in Windham County. There are many herds in Windham County, where pure bred bulls have been used, that offer equally convincing proof of the value of better breeding. The United States Department of Agriculture, after nine years investigations, found that farmers using pure bred bulls average 48 per cent. better financial returns than farmers who use scrub bulls.

Of general interest in this corner of the state is the fact that the town of Eastford has a special town meeting called for March 3 to decide what action shall be taken on the request of the state park commission relative to reopening the highway running from the Phoenixville-Chaplin turnpike between dwellings of George A. Willis and Joseph Slovik to a point where it meets the Phoenixville-Hampton road, discontinued by action of a town meeting held July 3. The meeting also will be called upon to decide as to making an appropriation of $10,000 for one year in anticipation of a state aid grant as suggested by the state highway commissioner's office.

Rev. James M. Gage, of Boston, superintendent of the Boston area world service work is to be a speaker on Thursday next at the church home night at the Methodist church. THE NEW LONDON JIBBOOM CLUB FEASTS ON WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 22.—The petition is being circulated in this city and which calls for a vote of citizens to determine whether the city shall erect a junior high school building that will cost half a million dollars is being very generally signed, the circulators declare. One of them said today that the procuring of signatures was an easy matter and he expressed the opinion that 1,000 persons would sign the appeal to refer the matter of construction to the citizens, if such a number was desired. The opinion gathered by the distributors of the petition from those who sign it is that no such money as it is contemplated shall be spent for this school should be expended until the tax-payers and voters of the city have passed upon the matter. They hold that a few men should not have the power to saddle an expense upon the rest of the residents here without allowing the whole people to decide as to whether the expenditure should be made. There is a divided opinion as to the necessity for the school, but the distributors of the petitions declare that there is an opposition to the plan that they did not expect to find to the extent manifested. It is not known whether the petition will be presented to the town clerk before the first Monday in March. Then the signatures must be examined and the legal aspects of the document determined. When these matters are determined, the petition will be offered to the city council and that body must grant it and the meeting to cast ballots will be called.

Daniel M. Cronin was in Hartford last evening attending a meeting of the grand lodge officers of the order of Elks. Among those attending was the grand exalted ruler of the order.

There is skating on the city pond, on the public playground on Hillsview avenue.

Members of the city council are studying the building code which it is proposed to enact into law for this city. Never has there been a comprehensive a code for the government of building construction as the one under consideration. It is framed after the provisions of the ordinances of other cities and goes into the matter of construction of residences, stores, warehouses, etc., in a most thorough fashion. Alderman H. C. Chappell and a committee of the former common council had the code under which the city has been working for a couple of years passed and it was the most positive improvement that could have been asked for. But some changes have been made in that law and there have been additions to it also that are regarded as making safer all buildings erected. It is expected the new code will be reported out of committee Monday evening next, but that action may be delayed another week.

Linn Beckwith, owner of land taken by the city for the extension of Colman street, is very much dissatisfied with the allowance she was made by a commission which determined the extent to which she was damaged. Miss Beckwith is not the sort of person who sits down under an adverse decision and rumor has it that she will carry this matter beyond the council.

Morris Furth, 34, is recovering from illness which the attending physician pronounced pneumonia. Mr. Furth was engaged in the sewing machine repair business for many years and is well known to residents generally.

The planning board of the city has not, so far as has been announced, had the matter of the establishment of building lines in the commercial center of the city under consideration to the extent that the board is ready to report to the city council. The council referred two matters in which building lines were associated at the meeting of the council last week for "immediate report," but the haste asked for may not be given the matter. The board has been somewhat dilatory in considering the building line question, and in fact, the board has made no report to the council on any matter referred to it. Some members of the board are understood to be opposed to any slackness of lines in the city, while Councilor Whiton, at the last meeting of the council said he "spoke for one member," when he said the board was opposed to granting petitions without the earnest consideration of the council when permission to build was sought. That statement places Mr. Whiton as against unrestricted privileges.

George N. Lake, 80, died last night at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Jessie L. Wilson, in Montville, having been in ill health a long time. The body was forwarded to Danbury this morning for the funeral and burial.

A work car of the Shore Line Electric Street Railway company struck a traffic beacon at the corner of Main street and Crystal avenue this morning, causing the traffic signal to be put out of commission. The damage was caused when the big car was rounding the curve, the rear end hitting the beacon with such force as to cause disconnection of the wiring.

Elmer E. Kenerson of Rosemary St., complained to the police this morning because of the acts of youths on Crystal avenue last evening. Mr. Kenerson alleged that a revolver in the hands of one of several boys was fired, the bullet passing through the window of a shop at No. 41. The police did not ascertain the identity of the boy who fired the shot.

Mrs. Ernest Dickinson of Paquet avenue, Miss Margaret Cummings, of Westerly, Mrs. Anna Drew, Montauk avenue, Miss Margaret Stillwell, Saybrook Point, Lloyd McCrum, Park avenue, Mrs. Isabel Grant, Mystic, Miss Frances McKenzie of Groton and Mrs. William Reeves and infant daughter, of Riverview avenue, patients at the Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Morris Maloof has purchased the house and lot, Nos. 3-5 Colt street of Mrs. Maren.

The annual celebration of Washington's birthday by the Jibboom club took place this afternoon and tonight, a banquet preceding the installation of officers. At noon about 35 members, headed by two drummers and a fifer, depicting the Spirit of '76, made a brief street parade and then partook of a turkey dinner in Odd Fellows' hall, Bank street. Following the dinner, Rear Admiral F. C. Billard of Washington, formerly in charge of the United States Coast Guard academy here; Lieut. Com. H. D. Hinckley, superintendent of the United States Coast Guard academy, at Fort Trumbull; Capt. Ernest L. Kiis, U. S. N., commandant of the submarine base; Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth and City Manager William A. Holl, were the principal speakers. This evening in the club's rooms on Bank street, the installation ceremony was held.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. John Welch of Clement street of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Gertrude, to Daniel Driscoll of Waterford. The marriage will take place the 27th inst.

Mrs. Henry Norman of Groton attended the birthday celebration of Grace Circle, of the King's Daughters, at the Johnson Home, Norwich, Tuesday.

Francois Baudrax, 57, died Wednesday at the Convalescent home, Groton, having been under treatment at the home about eight months. This afternoon at 2 o'clock funeral services were held at 48 Shapley street, Rev. Frederick W. Halst, rector of Bishop Seabury Memorial church, Groton, officiating. The body is being held here until such time as relatives determine as to its disposition.

No clues have been obtained in connection with the alleged theft of $135, two suits of clothes and bedding from the home of E. W. Daniels, 24 Golden street, reported to the police yesterday forenoon by Daniels. The police are inclined to believe that Daniels was not robbed, at least not of any money, for information gathered by Sergeant Frank Howard today shows that Daniels has been securing loans from several of his acquaintances of late. If this statement is true the authorities fail to comprehend Daniels' idea of borrowing money when he had in his possession the sum he alleges has been stolen.

The automobile owned by Leverone & Musante and operated by John N. Leverone and a machine owned and driven by Benjamin Barber of 148 Montauk avenue, were in collision this afternoon, corner of State and Bank streets. Barber's machine was damaged.

Michael J. Doyle, contractor, complained to the police today that youths were making a nuisance of themselves by annoying employes at Doyle's garage. An officer was sent to the garage and the boys disappeared.

The condition of Patrolman Michael Corcoran, confined to his home on Crystal avenue as the result of injuries sustained earlier in the week by slipping and falling on a cellar casing on State street, does not improve. The officer sustained severe bruises and wrenched the ligaments of his right leg.

A sailor stationed at the submarine base was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Charles Hammond and Traffic Officers William Corcoran. The sailor had obtained a quantity of hooch and the strength of the liquor caused him to be deprived of his senses entirely. He sought to make friends with a horse that was left unattended and attached to a wagon on State street and after leading the animal to the middle of the street attempted to push the animal toward Main street. Sergeant Frank Howard nabbed the sailor and guided him to the Salvation Army's lodging house, but the fellow did not remain there. Going to Bank street he forced bystanders into the street and then started to deliver pugilistic punches at pedestrians on State street. He was swinging both arms frantically when Sergeant Hammond and Officer Corcoran spied him and his arrest followed.

The automobile owned by Constable Fred Dimmock, of Waterford, was wrecked this evening when a car owned and driven by Frank J. Wyant of 52 Ashcraft road, crashed against the Dimmock machine on Broad street. Wyant, who admitted having partaken of two or three drinks, was arrested, charged with reckless driving and was held for trial in the police court tomorrow morning. Dimmock had parked his car at the corner of Georgiana street under an electric light, while he visited a friend. About 9 o'clock the car operated by Wyant and headed in an easterly direction, came along at a fast clip and just as a trolley car was approaching from the opposite direction, Wyant alleges that there was not sufficient room to pass between the trolley car and Dimmock's automobile, so he applied his brakes. Instead of the machine coming to a stop it crashed against the motionless car, driving it up on the sidewalk. The Dimmock car sustained a broken fender and mudguard and one of the rear wheels was forced under the body of the car. In order to remove the machine from the highway the services of a wrecker were required.

Daniel S. Marsh, Jr., of Bellevue place is to join the New Londoners now in Florida. Mr. Marsh will leave within a few days for several weeks' stay at Miami.

VARIOUS WAYS OF TELLING THE TIME

A 24-hour day, beginning at midnight, is so universally accepted by landsmen that the recent announcement that the system would be extended to ships, which now begin their day at noon, was surprising.

"However, land time and ship are only two of a number of ways which men have marked the fleeting moments, and variouse other ways survive even now," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Alfred the Great had wax candles, 12 inches high, marked in notches to tell off the four hours they burned. He later covered them with thin white horn, lantern-fashion, to protect them from drafts, but he was far behind his times in comparison with other portions of the world, and his timepiece was crude in the extreme compared with other inventions before 900 A. D.

"Primitive peoples, before the dawn of history, fixed a pole or stick in the ground and drew a line about it representing the course of the shadows it cast from sunrise to sunset. We may suppose that when Mr. Caveman started out in the morning on a foraging expedition, he led Mrs. Caveman out and notched the shadow to show her when she could expect him home. Some of his fellow-mortals in other parts of the world in the same stage of development made a kind of hemp or grass rope which they dampened and knotted in regular spaces. When this was lighted, the slowly and regularly creeping spark told off the flight of time. It is said that these primitive time-markers are used in parts of Chosen (Korea) today.

"Though some students believe that the early Japanese had no method of reckoning time, others claim that primitive Japanese and Chinese used almost the same thing as the rope, though their device more nearly resembled a wick which had been so treated that it smouldered out the hours. One of these ancient wicks is now in a museum in Paris.

"Even before 3500 B. C. the sparkling stars over Eastern deserts had made astronomers of men who had begun to reckon time by the cycles of the planets. No one knows when they first divided the time from sun to sun into 24 parts nor when the hours were first divided into minutes, but Ptolemy adopted the method in the second century and save it to his world.

"Some of the Malays even today use a crude apparatus for measuring time which has probably been in vogue in the Far East for almost 5,000 years. It is called the water-clock and is simply a small dish or round bowl with a small hole in the bottom. When this is placed in a tub of water it gradually becomes full and sinks, which always happens in the same period of time. On the Malay junks it is the customary thing to use a coconut shell floating in a bowl of water to tell off the time away from the home port.

"The ancient Egyptians knew the water-clock too, and the British Museum possesses one inscribed with the name of Alexander the Great.

"The Greeks claimed that the sun-dial was invented by a pupil of Thales of Miletus, but the great sun-dial of Ahaz was mentioned in the Bible when God promised the sick Hezekiah to deliver his city out of the hands of the king of Assyria. Historians have fixed this date as being about 713 B. C.

"From Greece the sun-dial made its way to Rome, the first one being set up in the temple of Quirinus. Roman citizens evidently suffered from that universal failing of orators, for in 61 B. C. Pompey the Great set up in the Forum a valuable water-clock which he publicly announced was to limit the long-windedness of speakers.

"No one knows how old the sand-glass is. It may not have been suggested by the water-clock and probably originated in one of the desert countries—Egypt or Babylonia—where water was at a premium. We cannot tell exactly of what substances they were made, but they were shown on Greek sculpture before the Christian era. The sand-glass or water-glass has two uses all its own at the present time—for boiling eggs, and in the English House of Commons to time the bells that ring to notify members that a division is at hand.

"Water-clocks and sun-dials reached high perfection and elaborateness during the ninth century, the masterpieces exchanged by Haroun al Raschid and Charlemange being two of the most famous of history. The first notable astrolabe arrived from Arabia about 700 A. D. and from that Peter Lightfoot in 1335 made the earliest real clock wothy of our modern definition.' This old hand-maiden of Father Time still is 'going' in the Science Museum at South Kensington.

"The wrist watch is usually considered a modern development of the watch and clock industry, but Queen Elizabeth wore the first one about the time she introduced silk stockings."

The only agar manufacturing plant outside of Japan is located at Los Angeles. The agar is a product of seaweed and is much used for medicinal and other purposes.

Coal in Siberia.

The presence of coal in eastern Siberia has been known for many years, and since the construction of the first railways through that region lignite and soft coal mines convenient to transportation have been worked. The total known deposits on the mainland contain some 625,000,000 tons, part of which is hard coal.

Chinese emigration began in the seventh century.

THE FLINT SIX

Is One of the Outstanding Motor Car Successes.

New cars are often marketed while in the experimental stage. Not so the Flint. Over two million dollars were spent on experimentation work.

The performance of the Flint Six is its strongest selling point.

A feature difficult of description but always noted by passengers, is the light movement of the Flint Sixes. It is a quality not to be confused with lightness of car weight, but lightness of travel. Somewhat similar to the soft smoothness of Ocean travel, yet always on an even keel; a bit like flying, yet always with utmost safety and ease. From two to twenty and so on up to Seventy miles an hour the Flint leaps without the sudden jerk common in motor cars. Where most cars run, Flint glides.

You don't know joyful motoring until you drive a Six—and you don't know Sixes until you have driven the Flint Six.

A Demonstration will clearly prove these statements.

Prices quoted on Flint Sixes is on a "delivered to the customer's door" basis, completely equipped includes every single charge a customer is called upon to pay. War tax, freight and all handling charges. The equipment includes extra tire, tube, tire cover and rim, moto-meter with special winged radiator cap and moto-meter lock; front bumper, running board kick plates, Elgin clock, gasoline gauge on dash; windshield wiper and rear vision mirror.

LIGHT ON THEIR ERROR?

Reports coming from Washington to the effect that certain of the insurgents who gave their support to the Garner tax rates have undergone a change of heart or are feeling the effects of pressure from home may or may not result in a different situation in the house before the final action is taken on the tax reduction bill.

They have of course been playing into the hands of the democrats, who have put forth a substitute plan which is known to be unsound and unscientific solely as a matter of political expediency. The effect of excessive surtaxes is not unknown to the democrats. They were warned of it by Woodrow Wilson when he was president. He took occasion to tell them that the excessive surtax defeats its own ends, and yet in the playing of the political game they are found to be acting contrary to such advice. It is quite as inconsistent as the unwillingness to rule out tax exempt securities. When surtaxes are kept high it means the retention of funds in the securities that are not taxable, and when such securities are not to be restricted there will be an unlimited field for employing such funds which ought to go into the industrial development of the country.

The disposition of the insurgents to go hand in hand with the democrats has been the cause of much distress to those who had hoped for some constructive legislation at this session of congress. The time is ripe for it and the country needs the benefit of the tax reduction that has been advocated, a tax reduction that will not involve a deficit, but will leave the treasury in a healthy state even though the taxpayers are called upon to provide less money to meet its requirements.

The indications are that the insurgents are beginning to realize what a responsibility is going to rest upon their shoulders in connection with tax reduction and other matters through their coalition with the democrats. They will do well to open their eyes before they permit themselves to be carried too far to sea.

THE WARREN CHOICE.

It was not the choice of a man for ambassador to the recognized Obregon government that bothered President Coolidge, but bringing him to see the need of serving his country after he had expressed his desire to stay out of public office.

For several reasons Charles B. Warren of Detroit is the man to represent this country at Mexico City at this time. He has had diplomatic experience and he thoroughly understands the Mexican situation. It is noteworthy that President Obregon has been particularly pleased at the idea of Mr. Warren's appointment, which is all the more significant in view of the fact that Mr. Warren was one of the commissioners who negotiated the agreement which resulted in the recognition of the Obregon government. That he should have made such a favorable impression at that time that it was desired that he should be the first ambassador upon resumption of diplomatic relation augurs well for that better understanding between the nations which is so much desired.

Mr. Warren has apparently been impressed by the opportunity that exists to serve the country, and by the fact that existing conditions point to him as the individual who can best render that service. In view of his well known opposition to returning to such work, or in fact to accepting any public office, it must be regarded as a case where he feels impelled to sidetrack his personal desires that the government may be served.

Suspicion has existed on the part of Mexico for a long time. Mr. Warren has made an impression in Mexico City that should do much to overcome that during his term as ambassador. His choice must be regarded from every point as an excellent one, but as matters now stand he stood in a class by himself.

Having been able to convince Mexico of the wisdom of entering upon the agreement, it is to be expected that Mr. Warren's ambassadorship will be the means not only of insuring the adherence to its terms but of establishing a better understanding and cooperation between the nations that will be permanent.

WHERE POLITICS MAKES DIFFERENCE.

It often makes a difference whose ox is being gored. Senator Walsh of the committee that has been investigating the oil scandal has come out in behalf of the presidential candidacy of William G. McAdoo. He has expressed himself strongly in favor of his nomination for the highest office in the gift of the people, and has declared that his character has in no way been touched by the revelations thus far made.

The same senator has lost no opportunity to denounce Edwin Denby, a member of the president's cabinet. It has not been shown that Mr. Denby was involved in the Doheny or Sinclair affairs. He got none of their money for any services rendered, though Mr. McAdoo has been drawing on the Doheny funds for a considerable time. He was working for the Doheny interests, and was used to further the Doheny purposes because of his relationships and the fact that he had been a cabinet member. In spite of Doheny's methods and motives Mr. McAdoo was willing to serve him, and did serve him.

While it is to be realized that it has not been shown that there was anything illegitimate in Mr. McAdoo's employment by Mr. Doheny, it is equally evident that Mr. Denby hasn't even had the association with the oil magnate that Mr. McAdoo has and he hasn't any Doheny money to show that bears the Doheny stamp.

The reason for the endorsement of Mr. McAdoo and the decrying of Mr. Denby is of course entirely political. Mr. McAdoo is a democrat, whose chances for getting the nomination at the democratic convention have already received a severe jolt just because of his association with the oil interests. Mr. Denby is a republican and whatever can be done to indicate wrong doing on his part is expected to have its effect on election day. Yet in the case where there has been connection with oil a full endorsement is given, and where there has been none it is considered unfitness prevails.

It thus becomes evident how conspicuous a part partisanship is playing in the statements that have been made by Senator Walsh.

JUST AS EXPECTED.

President Coolidge hasn't changed his views on tax reduction and the bonus. He has been and still is in favor of the first and opposed to the other, and it was only in his Lincoln day address that he elaborated his reasons for it.

But because of his views he doesn't propose to let it be understood that he gives endorsement to any plan of coercion in favoring the tax cut and opposing the bonus. When his attention was directed to the fact that a subordinate in a large concern was warning the employes that they must voice their opposition to the bonus plan and that they would be checked up on it, the president was quick to make it plain that he was absolutely opposed to any such action and desired no support that might be obtained by force.

As a matter of fact it has been disclosed that the officials of the company in which the coercion was brought to light are quite as strongly opposed to anything of the kind. It was a move of which they were ignorant and which originated with the subordinate who has been discharged for his misrepresentation of the situation.

Through the letter issued by the president's secretary, any scheme of that kind is vigorously denounced. The president urges the importance of the Mellon tax reduction plan and, as has been reiterated, such a plan makes a bonus impossible. But in obtaining action on one or both, nothing but straightforward methods are sanctioned. Those overzealous individuals who hope to accomplish an end through threats fail to realize that they are doing more injury than good to a worthy cause. The president's views and position upon such a matter is no more than might have been expected.

DECEPTIVE METHODS.

Brought into court on the charge that it was misbranding its goods by inferring that they were made of Cuban tobacco when such was not the case, a cigar company has agreed to abandon its practice in this direction and henceforth its product will not be set forth as misleading the public.

It may be reasonably supposed that there was some merit to the claim of the cigar company when it insisted that the public was not being fooled for the public knew that cigars bearing the "Havana" are not made from Cuban tobacco. In all probability there are those users of tobacco who are fully acquainted with such a fact. Others may be fully conscious of the view that other tobacco is better than Cuban tobacco. It was regarded, however, as a roundabout way to have that fact registered when the use of the name "Havana" was continued. It implies something that isn't so.

It is evident that if the pure food and drug act is going to accomplish what was expected of it, and serve the interests of the public, it must be respected. The idea of branding a particular line of goods one thing and expecting the purchaser to know that it is something else doesn't meet the situation. Inasmuch as misrepresentation isn't favored it is well that either "Havana" should mean what it says, or else that it should not be used.

Those who practice fraud in order to make their business increase or continue are taking advantage of their patrons, and it is for the purpose of preventing such situations that the laws against fraud have been enacted. There may be tricks in all trades but some of them make necessary protective measures for the public.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Possibly by another year mah jong will be added to the list of Olympic games.

Mr. McAdoo is bound to believe now that he has been drafted for the democratic nomination.

In view of the attacks by oil and bullets in Washington coats of mail may yet become necessary.

Great days for those auto drivers who like to spatter buildings as well as pedestrians and other autos.

The man on the corner says: Those who dislike to cut grass have nothing to complain about this month.

Even though Denby has resigned that doesn't mean that there's no chance for him to be vindicated.

Spring is the time for things to start, but the predicted move for the return of the former kaiser will probably never sprout.

No one seems to mention Josephus Daniels as a possible successor to Edwin Denby when he leaves the navy department next month.

An agreement between the bituminous coal miners and operators seems certain of ratification. Certainty that there would be no strikes during the life of it would be even more pleasing.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Washington—The Boy Well-born. Possibly in the past more emphasis was put on that expression "well-born" than it could reasonably stand. But whether it can stand much emphasis or not depends on just what you mean by the term. If you mean by it being born into a merely wealthy home, objection will at once arise and very justly so, because something more than wealth is needed to produce wellbeing. The same is true if the inheritance is nothing more than a distinguished family name. It is quite possible for one to be born into aristocratic surroundings and be nothing but a poor stick through life. To be well-born means coming into a home of moral and spiritual power that is raised above abject poverty, where parents have the ability to give their offspring all that is necessary for the fullest development of their powers. Into such a home was Washington born; he came into the world with the wealth of a noble heritage.

Washington—The Young Surveyor. "As the twig is bent the tree inclines" is true in more cases than we imagine. If the size, shape and utility of a tree is the natural development of the twig, it must be equally true of the young sappling. If the full grown man is the perfected image of the twig, then the boy in his teens is a logical link in the process. This was strictly true in the case of Washington. It was no sudden jump into the limelight of an international reputation. There was no long period of obscurity that bridged the long distance between the baby in a well-to-do home and the victor in the Revolutionary war. He did not take a college course in either Harvard or Yale but must have qualified himself in the higher mathematics to become the competent surveyor he was. This led him into vigorous outdoor life, dangers and hardships which stimulated his imgehuity, and hardened his physical frame for the harder duties of the Revolution.

Washington—The Commander-in-Chief. This was the third starting point in his remarkable career. In alluding to it there are minor, but not unimportant, details that must be passed over for lack of space. We must leave out the part he played in the French and Indian war; his experience with Braddock; the reputation he made as a strong man in the Virginia legislature, and the continental congress. After the battles of Lexington and Concord, on the motion of John Adams he was unanimously chosen as commander-in-chief of the American army. His assumption of command took place on July 2, 1775, at Cambridge. How many people as they have stood under the noble, historic elm of that city have thought of the calm masterful spirit who was to guide the infant state to victory and immortality! How little did the congress think that "his courage, prudence, firmness, and perseverance through defeats, jealousies, disaffection, and lack of men and supplies that never failed" was alone to bring the war to a successful issue in 1783!

Washington—the general adopting the Fabian policy. There are two general ways open for conducting a long and hazardous military campaign: the first and more brilliantis by a rapid series of attacks, of which Marshal Ney of Napoleon's staff was a most illustrious example, and this was imitated by the ex-kaiser in the early part of the World war. This gets the victory quickly if there are enough men, well-drilled and well-equipped, but the price paid is usually a terrible sacrifice of life. The second way is called the Fabian after Fabius, five times consul and later dictator of Rome, who in the second Punic war hung like a thundercloud on the outskirts of Hannibal's great army and avoided a direct engagement with him. By so doing he tantalized the great general with his caution, harrassed him by his marches and countermarches, and cut off all foragers and stragglers, until his army was in the position to make the necessary stroke. Washington imitated this policy and succeeded.

Washington—At Valley Forge. It is not always the greatness of the thing done that displays the greatness of the doer. It is rather the doing of a thing under circumstances seemingly insuperable. If a general can accomplish great things when he has to tread the verge of the impossible then Washington was a military genius. One can hardly recall greater obstacles than Washington had to endure in the winter of 1777 at Valley Forge, a little hamlet, 24 miles south west of Philadelphia. Under his command were 11,000 men, and in what a condition! Not only were they half fed, but the food was wretched in quality. Their clothing was reduced to rags and the cold was terrible. The statement is not "mere Sunday school stuff" that Washington had frequent resort to prayer, while Lord Howe and his troops were revelling in Philadelphia. The "victory is not always to the strong." In this cast as all the world knows Washington at length won.

Washington — Possessor of Lord Cornwallis' Sword. Lord Cornwallis was not a distinguished military man. Possibly he was the best that England had at its disposal at this time. Both Sir Henry Clinton, and Lord Howe had been recalled. Neither of them had been put out of commission by any crushing defeat, and yet defeated by the provoking Fabian policy of Washington. As time goes on and we can look back at these campaigns in the clear, cold light of history, we can see that any other strategy, under the conditions, in which Washington was compelled, would have meant the complete annihilation of the continental army. His raw, underfed, ragged troops had no show whatever in open conflict with the best-disciplined soldiers of Europe. And hence it is the final judgment of the world that he merited the sword of Lord Cornwallis.

Washington—The First President. Seldom has there been such a complete reversal of judgment on the part of any national deliberative assembly as that of the continental congress of 1777 which was very outspoken in opposition to and criticism of Washington's dilly-dally policy, and the attitude of the new national congress which met in Philadelphia in 1788 to frame a new constitution. At this time the whole country was one vast chorus singing his praises, and when this convention met no other name was thought of for its presiding officer than this man heralded on two continents as the greatest living general. After the provisions of the constitution had been accepted, and the time came to make choice of the first president, there was but one name mentioned throughout the length and breadth of the new republic, that of Washington. When the electors came together for that purpose the unanimous vote was in his favor. In 1792 he was unanimously re-elected. In 1796 he declined another re-election.

Washington—The Aristocrat. His contrast with Lincoln is striking in every point of contrast, and yet they constituted our two greatest men. And yet when it is said that Washington was an aristocrat the meaning is not that he was snobbish. He simply carried through life the air that was perfectly natural to one born and bred as he was. He was calm, grave, dignified, elegant and grand in his tastes, society and manners. It goes without saying that he was perfectly at home in high society, and that he liked society functions with music and dancing. But it makes little difference whether he was aristocratic or not, he was a great patriot and always himself, and the like of such men is never duplicated.

ALL ABOUT PARTIES.

"Did you get asked to the party across the street?" inquired the tall, lank householder who had been carefully peering through the net window curtains, assuming that though home with a cold a little polite amusement was due him. "Six tables and 24 chairs have gone in. Now don't you wish you had learned to play mah-jongg?"

"I've told you before I don't know that blond bride," said his wife. There's nothing to get excited about over a party this time of year—everybody gives parties and nobody can go to all of them and live! After you've had chicken salad, meringue puddings and chocolate cake ten days running you are ready to go away and die uncomfortably, let me tell you! And somebody else always gets the prize! Or if you get it, you have one like it at home, which puts a crimp in your enthusiastic thanks!"

"I've studied this matter of parties a lot," the tall, lank householder told his wife, reaching for a forbidden cigar when she was not looking. "I'd class parties among the things which nobody likes much but knows he must go through with because they are good for him.

"Invariably when a woman receives an invitation to a party she bursts forth in loud lamentations. If it is something she'd like to attend she has already accepted another invitation for that date, and if it is for an affair she'd rather be shot than be seen at, there isn't an excuse under the four-square of heaven's canopy for her to decline. The cat sending her the invitation no longer ago than yesterday heard her say blithely she hadn't a thing to do next Wednesday, so she can't plead an engagement. She's known never to be ill, so she can't drag in a headache. That blurb about having to meet an old school friend at the train who is going through to California has whiskers and there is nothing to do but go and suffer and chalk up one against her hostess. And the hostess sent her the invitation after much mental wriggling, trying to get out of so doing. 'No,' the hostess says despairingly, 'there's nothing to do but include that tiresome Mrs. Sodamint, because if she is left out there's no limit to the things she can say about one.'

"Giving a party is wonderful mental and spiritual exercise and every woman ought to do it occasionally for that reason. First, there is a delicate tact necessary to impress George with the absolute impossibility of evading this party. His shrieks and moans and flat bankbook she ignores ruthlessly as she explains that unless they give a party themselves nobody will ask them to their social occasions. Then she tries to lure him on to saying that it will be all right if she asks the Rubbertress and the Capsicums at the same time in spite of their feud. He's a goner either way, because if he says go ahead, and the Capsicums' and Rubbertrees' blessing at each other practically ruins the party, she'll blame the catastrophe upon him and if he says no she'll do it anyhow and blame him twice as much.

"Then she has all the excitement of deciding what she can borrow and from whom—because, no matter how many dozens of things a girl gets for wedding presents she always is short of something when she gives a party. Lots of women hate to lend spoons and knickknacks, because if they send sixteen-carat silver what they get back is somebody else's tinware, and they spend the rest of their lives at parties trying to identify their own.

"The menu causes a hostess the most anguish. If she just yearns to have creamed sweetbreads and peas she recalls that six women before her have served them, and when she endeavors to think of something equally as good she has to go to bed with a headache. As the day approaches her agony increases. She knows the cakes are going to fall, the ices melt, the coffee will be weak and Hulda won't have good luck with her rolls. Husband and children are shooed out of the house early, everybody is on edge, and fifteen minutes before time some feminine fiend calls up to say sweetly she can't come.

"The only time from start to finish that a hostess enjoys herself is the fifteen minutes following the instant when the crowd settles down to the bridge tables. Nothing more can happen and things are started as they must go on. The heaven of that quarter hour makes up for all the previous disturbances.

"When folks are gone and she can breathe Thank goodness, that's over, then is the very best time she draws out of the whole affair. Maybe some of the guests enjoy themselves—that is, if they get home in time to have Henry's dinner ready on time, or don't see a woman there with a more expensive gown than theirs or something like that. You have to go to parties."

"It's time for your medicine," the wife of the tall, lank householder interrupted, firmly. "And you'd better lie down and rest awhile because you are talking awfully wild, Albertus! Your cold seems to be in the very top of your head!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Vernon Hartshorn, Britain's new postmaster-general, owes his prominence chiefly to his activity as a leader of the South Wales coal miners and his agitation in behalf of a minimum wage. He learned the meaning of responsibility in a hard school. Once a miner, a local preacher for seven years, a check-weigher and lodge official, he was for a long time the miners agent in one of the largest and most difficult districts to control in the South Wales mining area. Without much aid from the arts and graces of popular oratory, Mr. Hartshorn won his place in the front rank of the miners' leaders mainly because of his possession of those qualities of self-command and restraint which usually characterize the statesman rather than the labor leader. His election to a seat on the executive council of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain was regarded as one of the most significant events in the history of that great labor organization.

Stories That Recall Others

The Family Circle

Two brothers and two sisters who grew up together and then drifted apart where they set up homes of their own, have an unusual way of keeping the family circle intact, despite great distances and no visits except at intervals of years.

One of the girls wrote a general letter to the other three in the family and mailed it to the nearest brother. He added a similar letter and sent the two to the other member of the family. That member also wrote a similar letter and sent the three letters on their way to the fourth one. The fourth wrote another letter, dropped out the letter written by the first one and sent the three to the one who began the chain letter, and the ever changing letter started over the circuit, each adding a letter and each dropping out a letter. The circle letter has been an established institution in the family for many years, making its round in one to three months with all the family news.

The Worm Will Turn

Two men in a crowded car were busily chatting and their chief topic seemed to be the precocity of their children.

The small daughter of one sat near her mother and was plainly embarrassed.

After some length she blurted out so all could hear: "Mother if you tell another thing on me I'll tell how old you are."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

LENINGRAD

In changing the name of Petrograd to Leningrad the soviet government has named a dying city after a dead man. Moscow, like Vienna, Riga, and Trieste, after passing under the shadow of poverty thrown by war devastation, is once more on the path to prosperity, but the city of the Tsars, despite its glorious past, appears to be drifting toward oblivion.

"Old St. Petersburg by any name will always be known as a city, which, like Tell-el-Amarna, the citadel of Tutankamen's father-in-law, was dedicated to a great ideal," a bulletin from the National Geographic Society says. "St. Petersburg was the lever used by Peter the Great to life Russia out of her stodgy Asiatic habits into the light of European culture and commerce.

"'Russia's window to Europe' was the significant designation of St. Petersburg before the war and revolution. Riga and Warsaw now are both the doors and windows of Russia when she chooses to use them, and with the transfer of government to the more centrally located city of Moscow, Leningrad has lost its chief reason for being much more than a railway junction. Before the war it had a population of 2,000,000. Now it has fewer than one-third that number.

"Except for the main avenues, Leningrad's streets are deserted; grass grows between the cobblestones, street cars are running half empty when they do run, most of the shops and gay restaurants are closed. The harbor holds no fleets even when the ice is out in April. Lenigrad offers a melancholy sight to the tourist. Stately mansions of royalty are tumbling in. Many were built on piles like houses in Venice or Amsterdam and the foundations are collapsing. Basements are filled with the Neva's overflow and roofs and window frames have been torn out long ago to supply fuel for a desperate citizenry. Famous parks are wildernesses. Gaunt factories are empty and still. Long streets of laborers' home dilapidated, echo no sound.

"How different when the brilliant Catherine ruled 100 years ago! Some called her Catherine the Great; many called her Catherine the Bad. Good or bad, with an empire as large as the Roman Empire from which to exact wealth, she set a pace for extravagance, contempt for human life, and loose living which Nero himself might be pushed to equal. She built palaces in rapid succession for her favorites. One of them, Orloff, returned the favor by strangling her husband, that Catherine might satisfy her ambition to be sovereign of all Russia from the Atlantic to the Pacific. For Potemkin she built the Taurida Palace at a cost of millions, estimated in dollars, and hundreds of lives. The Taurida Palace became the meeting place of the Duma and in turn the birthplace of the Soviet government.

"Potemkin, in his gratitude, gave an entertainment typical of lavish royal St. Petersburg. For illumination 300,000 was spent. On one evening 140,000 lamps and 20,000 wax candles were burning. Between the palace and the river, the whole space was occupied by booths, swing and shops, where clothes, boots, caps, and gee-gaws were distributed gratis to the people. Three thousand guests were invited and all attended in costume. White dresses of members of the special ballet were decorated with diamonds. Invisible music boxes played selections of noted composers. When they were silent three hundred musicians and singers played and sang for the merry-makers. Potemkin, himself, had a crown for the occasion so heavy with jewels he was compelled to give it to his adjutant to carry!

"This former capital of Russia has always had the reputation of being disease-ridden. Within the last year the death rate has fallen lower than the usual figure, which hovers about 35 per thousand. The reason offered, however, is that the weak have all died off and only the strong remain. This is what comes of a Tsar's whim, for Peter the Great insisted that his 'window of Europe' rise on the swamp where the Neva enters a shallow bay of the Gulf of Finland. There it stands, now girded 'round about with gray granite quays, but the Neva still gets out of hand when a stiff southwest wind backs up water in the bay; Royalty suffered along with serf. Peter died from fever caused by his rescue of a peasant woman and child who had fallen through the ice. The average reign of seven monarchs in the first forty years after the founding of the city was less than six years.

"Peter the Great had a 'marine complex.' Russians traditionally avoid the ocean. But not Peter. He loved the sea from boyhood when he satisfied his longing by making boats. His great desire was that Russia should become a sea-faring nation and that his capital would one day outshine Venice or Amsterdam. So profound was his veneration of the Dutch that he called his city Sankt Petersboorgh. This became St. Petersburg, which gave way at the opening of the World war to Petrograd, because the older name was too German. Leningrad, like Venice and Amsterdam, has numerous canals, but unlike these two cities, it can never be a great port. The river and bay, for one thing, are frozen solid six months of the year. The hinterland on which Leningrad draws is a forest district. Riga is the logical western port for the great producing sections of Russia.

"Leningrad is like New York in its utilization of islands at the river mouth, but the main part of town is on the south bank, corresponding to Brooklyn. Again, Leningrad is similar to Washington. Like the capital of the United States it has broad avenues radiating from the main government buildings on the river bank. These avenues are called prospects. The chief of these is the Nevski Prospect, 115 feet wide, running nearly three miles from the Admiralty buildings to the Alexandra Nevskava Monastery. It is lined with great bazaars, rich homes, hotels, and government buildings. In the old days droskas of members of the special ballet were decorated with diamonds. Invisible music boxes played selections of noted composers. When they were silent three hundred musicians and singers played and sang for the merry-makers. Potemkin, himself, had a crown for the occasion so heavy with jewels he was compelled to give it to his adjutant to carry!

WASHINGTON BANQUET AT AMERICAN CLUB IN PARIS

Paris, Feb. 22 (By the A. P.)—One hundred and fifty members and guests of the American club this evening, brushed up their memories on numerous features and characteristics, both real and legendary, of the life of George Washington, at a banquet celebrating the 1932nd anniversary of the birth of Washington.

The speakers vied in relating the less familiar anecdotes illustrating the greatness and character of Washington. Nobody considered it necessary even to mention the cherry tree and hatchet story. George Howland, vice president of the club, who presided, recited the story of Washington throwing a silver dollar across the Potomac remarking "that dollar went higher and further than any has done since."

Count Charles De Chambrun, of the French foreign office, who is a descendant of Lafayette, was the guest of honor. He represented the French government. Count De Chambrun related the numerous incidents during his speech, showing that Washington was fully appreciated in France, even contemporaneously, leading Frenchmen of that time recognizing that he was destined to permanent greatness, despite the smallness of the country in which he played the leading role.

The speaker cited a remark Washington made after the revolution had been successful, "Our battles might have been skirmishes, but they decided the fate of a world."

The impact threw the grain truck against a Ford automobile owned by Ralph Elliott of Killingly and parked by the curb. The Ford was pushed up onto the sidewalk and was damaged to some extent. KU KLUX KLAN MARKS WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY WITH TWO FIERY CROSSES

Two fiery crosses, erected by the Ku Klux Klan, one on Jail Hill and the other off Asylum street on the West Side blazed up suddenly at 9 o'clock Friday night. Evidently the Ku Klux Klan was celebrating Washington's birthday, just as they celebrated Lincoln's birthday ten days ago, when two crosses were fired at 10 o'clock that night. The Jail Hill cross, 16 feet high with a four foot cross arm, secretly erected in the darkness on what is known as the Dr. Cassidy lot, on the highest point of the hill, blazed up, lighting the sky with a red glare, just as the town clock had struck the hour of nine. Almost at the same moment the torch was applied to a similar cross erected on what is known as the Maples lot, opposite the almshouse on Asylum street.

Both crosses were visible from many sections of the city and attracted attention far and wide. Word that the K. K. K. was staging a spectacular demonstration on the hills of Norwich spread rapidly and scores of people hurried to points of vantage to watch the burning emblems of the klansmen which illuminated the skies for about fifteen minutes.

Hardly had the crosses been fired when the police started an investigation. Officers Timothy Driscoll, Peter Driscoll and John O'Neill hurried to Jail Hill. Beside the burning cross they found a wooden signboard with the following inscription written in large charcoal letters:

George Washington, a 100 per cent. American, believed in law and order, free speech, free press, free public schools, separation of church and state, protection of our pure womanhood, white supremacy and Protestant Christianity. So do we.

(Signed) K. K. K.

Alongside the signature "K. K. K." was a miniature cross, drawn with red crayon to represent the fiery cross. The sign, together with one of the heavy props used to support the 16 foot cross was taken to the police station by the officers.

Sergt. Thomas Murphy and Officer Patrick Murphy went to the scene of the Asylum street demonstration. In the center of the Maples lot, partly surrounded by a wire entanglement, which somewhat impeded their progress, the officers found near the smouldering cross two cans smelling of kerosene. Standing near the cross was a large cardboard sign nailed to a wooden frame. The charcoal inscription on this sign was as follows:

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

We were here yesterday. We are here today. We will be here tomorrow and forever more. Our membership includes the highest type of American manhood. We are (1,326) strong in Norwich. Bootleggers, gamblers, dive keepers, seducers of crime and illegal practitioners beware. We are out to make Norwich clean.

(Signed) K. K. K.

As in the case of the Jail Hill sign a miniature cross, in black this time, appeared along side the letters K. K. K. The officers took possession of the sign and turned it over to Capt. D. J. Twomey at police headquarters.

During the evening there were rumors that a fiery cross had appeared in Taftville but the rumor could not be verified.

From Greeneville came the report that about 8.15 o'clock a fiery cross was seen burning somewhere on the Preston side of the Shetucket river. The exact location of the cross could not be settled upon, but those who saw it from the vicinity of Second street and North Main street stated that it appeared to be on Fox Hill

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 22.—R. Lindley Murray of Niagara Falls, former national champion, defeated James M. Davies of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 in the feature match of the opening day's play in the annual mid-winter indoor tennis tournament of the Buffalo Tennis and Squash club here today. Murray's terrific service and his spectacular midcourt volleying enabled him to win from the young Californian despite the latter's tremendous rally in the second set when he repeatedly aced Murray or drove him out of position with dazzling cross-court drives from both his forehand and backhand. Davies made a brave bid for the honors in the deciding set when the games four to love against him he forced the play and evened the match at four all only to lose the last two games and the match when Murray made a belated but determined rally.

Paired with Watson M. Washburn, Davies won his doubles match defeating Eric Hedstrom of Buffalo and Ned Herndon of Boston, after the first pair had won a love set and looked to have the match well in hand. Washburn found himself in the second set, however, and combined with Davies' spectacular work at the net, was able to turn the tide. The scores: 9-6, 6-2, 6-2.

William T. Tilden, national title-holder, defeated Cedric Maior of New York in straight sets and with his protege Sandy Wiener, the Philadelphia boy, won his doubles match in straight sets, eliminating Myrick of New York and J. H. Williams of Buffalo.

COMMISSION TO ACT ON TICKET SCANDAL NEXT WEEK

New York, Feb. 22.—Charges that Tex Rickard has acted in collusion during the seat sale of the Dempsey-Firpo fight will be considered next Tuesday by the state athletic commission, Chairman George E. Brower said today.

Attaches of the commission are gathering data concerning the case to be presented to the commission next week. Chairman Brower was not prepared to forecast the commission's action, because he was not familiar with the facts, but he said that if next week's meeting brought out substantiation of the charges made by Tom O'Rourke, offenders would be punished and possible criminal action taken.

Rickard today reiterated a general denial of all O'Rourke's charges and said he was preparing a further statement to be presented before the commission next week. Asked whether Rickard would be called before the commission on Tuesday, Chairman Brower said he did not think so, as a detailed report of the disposition of all tickets for the Dempsey-Firpo fight had been made by Rickard to the commission.

LEGISLATURE TO BE ASKED TO MAKE INVESTIGATION OF TICKET SCANDAL

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22.—The state legislature will be asked next week by at least two of its members to conduct an investigation into charges recently made by Thomas O'Rourke, veteran sports promoter, that wild speculation in the sale of tickets took place at the time of the Dempsey-Firpo fight last fall.

Such was the announcement made today by Assemblyman Bert Lord, republican, Chenango, sponsor of the bill which seeks to repeal the Walker boxing law.

The decision to seek an investigation by the legislature rather than by the state athletic commission was said by Assemblyman Lord today to have been reached after he had received from O'Rourke a letter, containing among other information, the charge that "Rickard has friends on the commission."

In the letter sent to Assemblyman Lord, O'Rourke recited in detail incidents regarding the sale of tickets for the Dempsey-Firpo bout which he had disclosed for the first time Tuesday at the assembly ways and means committee hearing on the Lord boxing repeal bill.

It was the final paragraph of the letter, however, which determined the legislatures to request their own body to conduct the investigation. In it O'Rourke declared, "these reports (figures showing the proportion of fight receipts turned over to the federal government) should be subpoenaed at once, before they are juggled with as the publicity given the committee meeting is going to drive Rickard and his friends on the commission to cover."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

QUALITY COMES FIRST

The American public is fast acquiring the tea habit following in the wake of our English cousins, to whom tea is a national drink, welcomed everywhere as a source of rest comfort, and social friendliness. Canada and Australia, too, have an assured liking for the beverage. In this country the tea drinkers are becoming more numerous every day, and they are also becoming better educated as to the differentiation between good, bad, and indifferent tea.

Recently an added impetus has been given, and curiosity has been aroused by a campaign of publicity started by the Growers of India Tea. One of their aims is to have the product absolutely pure and of high quality. It matters not, they say, that your cup of tea shall be pure India, for it may be a blend of India, Ceylon, or Java, but it certainly should be of superior quality.

Hon. P. C. Larkin, President of the Salada Tea Company, for more than a third of a century has made quality the cardinal principle of his business, and has steadily maintained it ever since, in the face of repeated advance in prices at the source of supply, as well as by competitors.

During the last year prices have mounted steadily, so much so that one of the most prominent tea buyers in this country alleges: "the producers have never before experienced anything like the high prices now prevailing."

Notwithstanding this, the consumption has maintained its phenomenal total of close onto 736 million pounds, compared with 718 million pounds in 1923. The quality, too, of the product has undergone an equally remarkable betterment, and the reason is that the public is becoming educated the more it partakes of the beverage.

Take into consideration this fact, with the apparent further increase in consumption, and even the most skeptical mind will have to admit that tea is proving the most acceptable as it is the most economical of beverages to the American public.

If the consumer will make the teapot test and then insist upon getting good tea, he will always have a daily delight which millions enjoy in England, Australia and Canada, where tea is on of the most satisfying and exhilarating functions of everyday life.

Into a warm crockery put a level teaspoonful of the genuine Salada tea for every cup required. Pour on freshly boiling water—but be sure it is bubbling hot—and infuse for five minutes. You will have the most delicious cup of tea you ever tasted.

BREED THEATRE

Half-a-Dollar-Bill, Max Graf's new production for Metro release, that is announced to be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Breed theatre, is said to be the finest sea story ever screened. It not only has a cast of such prominent players as Anna Q. Nilsson, William T. Carlton Raymond Hatton, Mitchell Lewis, George MacQuarrie, and Alec D. Francis, but it introduces a new juvenile actor in four-year-old Frankie Darro, who gives an exceptional performance as the young boy who is nicknamed Half-a-Dollar-Bill, because as a baby he is found abandoned with a ten dollar bill pinned to him.

Curtis Benton wrote the story and W. S. Van Dyck was director, Andre Barlatier was photographer and Alfred A. Cohen wrote his titles. Max Graf personally supervised the production.

Today's bill consists of Marshall Neilan's production, The Rendezvous, the second chapter of The Way of a Man, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy.

The first director to have two superfeatures on Broadway simultaneously, Sidney Olcott has carved for himself another niche in the Hall of Fame by his new Pasamount production of "The Humming Bird," adapted from Maude Fulton's famous stage success of the same name and starring Gloria Swanson.

Sidney Olcott, actor, adventurer, man of the world, director, has won fame for his handling of mob scenes. It has been said of him that he obtains more realistic effects than any other man now directing photoplays. This is due undoubtedly to the manner in which he treats members of a film mob as individuals, each of whom is entitled to know the full story of the production. In rehearsing a mob scene, Mr. Olcott not only tells the "extra" actors what they are to do and how, but most important of all, why.

"The "Humming Bird" which will be shown at the Broadway theatre on Sunday offers the director several big opportunities to display this rare ability for true mob direction and should again place him on the top of the list with one of the year's best productions, just as did "Little Old New York." and "The Green Goddess" in the past season.

Betrayed by her own kind, arrested and thrown into prison—an air raid—escape. Toinette, queen of the Apaches, played by Gloria Swanson, has quite a time of it in her latest Paramount picture, "The Humming Bird," which will be shown at the Davis theater Sundya. She plays a dual role—takes a boy's part—first time in her career as a star.

Edward Burns is the man. Sidney Olcott directed the picture which is an adaptation by Forrest Halsey of the stage play of the same etitle by Maude Fulton. Gloria revels in it. You will too.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Norwich will have the pleasure of seeing the greatest vaudeville show ever presented in the city at the Broadway theatre in conjunction with this great feature picture.

PALACE

The Chicago Stock Company will conclude their most successful engagement at the Palace theatre this afternoon and evening by presenting two of the best productions in their large repertoire the matinee offering starting at two-fifteen being F. Marion Crawford's story of a life and a love entitled The White Sister and a direct dramatization of the widely read book of the same name. This story of a nun and a soldier facing danger, perhaps death that others may live is gripping and holds the interest of the audience from the rise of the first act curtain until the fall of the final one. The evening attraction starting at eight o'clock sharp is the mystery thriller The Love Test a melodrama that the New York critics said "outbats" The Bat. It is full of thrills, a few chills and laugh upon laugh and is a splendid evening's entertainment. Each and everyone of the popular artists of the company have a splendid role to enact in this play and it will be staged in the same careful manner that all the plays have been presented.

During the week the Chicago players have attracted large crowds to the Palace and they have well merited the large patronage. Their plays have been well chosen, excellently acted and staged in a splendid manner and should they return at some future date they are sure to receive a warm welcome from local theatregoers.

Palace

An unusally brilliant photoplay program is scheduled for the Palace thertre Sunday evening, one that will be hailed with a great deal of delight by lovers of the best in screen offerings. Douglas MacLean who scored such a big hit here in Going Up, is coming to the silver sheet in his latest comedy scream The Yankee Consul which was taken from the famous musical comedy of the same name. This is the first showing of this laughable hit in New England which this week is playing at New York's greatest temple of the silent art, The Rivoli. Along with this big super feature is the famous Universal star Jack Hoxie in Where is This West a photoplay just packed with thrills and comedy, the Fables and the Sing Them Again novelty reel. A truly great show at the usual Palace theatre prices.

Next week the popular playhouse will go back to its vaudeville policy offering a program that is sure to create a sensation in Norwich the list of acts headed by the Corson Youngblood sextette a group of girls who play almost every musical instrument that is made, besides being singers and dancers of note. As a special feature Monday afternoon a bargain matinee for ladies will be given, any seat in the theatre for ten cents. No seats are reserved, come early and avoid the rush. Doors open at one thirty performances start at two p. m.

Big Demand for Mammoth Minstrel Tickets

Tickets for the mammoth minstrel show March 3rd and 4th under the auspices of Mercier Assembly, C. L. of C. and White Rose Council, K. of C. are going rapidly and those who do not want to miss either of the performances are urged to secure their tickets before they are all gone.

The rehearsal last Friday night was extremely encouraging as the full cast were present and the talent displayed indicated beyond question that there is considerable truth in the contention of Chairman Frank Leonard and director Edward Connelly that this show will be one of the last of this kind ever displayed in Norwich.

The committee are continually receiving applications from New London, Willimantic, Westerly and the other nearby towns for tickets, and the manner in which the tickets have been purchased by members up to date gives ample grounds for the belief that all who would like to attend the show will not be able to, owing to the fact that no more tickets will be sold than those already printed, which just take in the seating capacity of the theatre.

Special scenery and lighting effects have been procured as well as a 12 piece string orchestra for the second part beside the regular house orchestra.

The opening chorus which consists of 75 voices was written especially for this show by Jeff Brennan a personal friend of Mr. Connelly who wrote every opening and closing chorus used in Neil O'Brien's Minstrel show. Tickets on sale, Sisk's Drug Store, Mara's Drug Store, Quinn and Desmonds, Marringtons Cigar Store, Maddens Cigar Store, Joseph Sullivans Cigar Store, Ethier's Stationary Store.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Taken to the Lollypop Garden

Yes, the Nightie Bird had flown away in the last story, and it was morning, bright, cheery morning as Little Jack Rabbit hopped around to the big barn to hear the tramp all attered and torn say to the cow with the crumpled horn. "Have you had your breakfast of yellow corn?"

"No, I eat grass in the summer time," answered the nice kind cow.

The next minute, out of the House That Jack Built came the Maiden All Forlorn.

"I once knew a cat
With a feather in his hat.
And red topped boots on his feet
It was in the month of June
When my cow jumped o'er the moon,
And landed in a patch of clover sweet."

"Oh, I've read about that famous cat," answered Little Jack Rabbit "His name is Puss in Boots, Junior."

All of a sudden, the Dog That Worried the Cat ran out of the barn, so the bunny boy hopped over the fence and set out once more on his journey.

"Dear me, I never thought I've have so much trouble to find a fortune," he sighed. But he didn't give up hope. Oh, my, no! He hopped along the dusty road, whistling "Over the hills and far away," and pretty soon, not so very long, he heard a voice say.

"O, won't you come and play with me,
Play with me all day long.
I'll show you where the lollypops grow

"First tell me who you are," answered the bunny boy, looking about. But he could see no one except a big yellow bee.

"Come, I'll show yau where the lollypops grow," he drowsily buzzed, and away he flew across the daisy starred meadow until he came to a fairy garden where lollypops grew on bushes, and pink and white ice-cream cones on little fir trees. Oh, it was a pretty garden and so was the little fairy who kept it free from weeds.

"Dear me, I never thought I'd have with a bow, "will you have a pink or a yellow lollypop? And what kind of ice cream do you like best? Chocolate or rasberry?"

But the bumble bee ate only a lollypop. I guess he was afraid an ice cream cone would give him a cold.

After a while, the little bunny said goodbye and went upon his way, with a dozen little lollypops in his pocket, for the fairy was a most generous little person, as are all the fairy people of Fairy Land to those who believe in them.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 23.—Three armed masked men overpowered a negro porter in the Kendall square station of Cambridge subway early today and rifled a safe and two strong boxes, escaping with about $102. Worcester, Mass., Feb. 22.—A daring gunman held up Edward F. Brady, proprietor of the Flagg Brothers diamond shop, here this afternoon and escaped with more than $5,000 in diamonds. Michael J. Toner, a city plumbing inspector who was in the shop at the time of the hold-up, was held at bay by a revolver while the robber backed down the corridor and escaped down the street.

The thief had made a previous visit to the shop yesterday and, returned this afternoon on the pretext of having a diamond washed. Police arrived just as the gunman exited into Elm street, but no trace was found.

CONDITION OF SENATOR GREENE IS BETTER

Washington, Feb. 22.—Senator Frank L. Greene of Vermont, shot down a week ago by a stray bullet fired in a battle between prohibition officers and suspected bootleggers, apparently strengthened his grip on life today. Physicians believed his condition was better today than at any time since he was taken to the hospital, although they said that no definite prognosis could be made at this time. The senator is now taking nourishment.

United States District Attorney Gordon continued today his personal investigation into circumstances surrounding the shooting and expects to complete his inquiry by tomorrow or Monday. Legal action is being withheld, pending the outcome of the senator's fight for life. Three men are out on bail in connection with the shooting.

There is no hope for the man who can't tell the truth without lying about it.

FOOD SALE
Saturday Morning at 9 o'clock, the Delta Epsilon Phi Society of the Norwich Free Academy will hold a Food Sale in our Downstairs Store.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The week in Norwich fifty years ago was an unusually quiet one. According to the files of The Bulletin of that week little of note occurred here with the exception of a grand masquerade ball of the Silber Gard and a social held by the Independent Hose Co., of Thamesville, one of the old time volunteer fire companies.

Monday, Feb. 16, 1874—The attendance at the Central Baptist Sunday school yesterday was the largest in the history of the church, 338 persons being present of whom 276 were members of the school.

The water in the city reservoir is now three feet and eight inches below high water mark. This is the largest amount noted this season and is almost exactly the same as noted this time last year.

New London is greatly improving her commercial facilities. A wharf is being built 1,200 feet out into the harbor from which freight can be loaded directly upon European steamers. An elevator is to be constructed and the Pennsylvania coal companies will establish a large depot there.

Tuesday, Feb. 17, 1874—The propeller El Cit was the last boat that left this port before the closing of the river. She returned yesterday. A path for her was broken through the ice by the steamer City of Norwich of the New York line.

The grand masquerade ball of the Silber Gard was given by the members at Franklin Hall last night and was crowded to the utmost limits. The grand march commenced at 9 o'clock and the Gard in their fine uniform en mask with their ladies also appropriately dressed took up the line. All of the maks were in fine taste and many were exceedingly rich and entirely original.

Tomorrow marks the beginning of one of the most important seasons among church observations, being Ash Wednesday and the commencement of forty days fast.

Wednesday, Feb. 18, 1874 — David Allen has sold to Denison Allen eight acres of good land in Scotland for $25. The land had wood enough on it to pay the price.

A large number of friends gave a surprise party at the house of Miss Carrie Webb on Broad street last evening, with abundant refreshments, dancing and other social amusement. A very pleasant time was enjoyed.

A bill has been introduced in congress, abolishing four navy yards, the one at New London being among the number.

The North Stonington Farmers' club will discuss at their next meeting the question, "Whether or not it pays to farm in New England."

Thursday, Feb. 19, 1874—A large masquerade party surprised Selectman C. J. Winters and family at his residence on the West Side last night and a most enjoyable time was the result. Fine music was furnished by the party and dancing made everything merry and sociable.

The ladies of the Universalist society will hold their annual fair and festival at Breed Hall next week on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The taste and experience of those who have the festival in charge are a guarantee that it will be one worthy of patronage.

A new eight day clock of very fine personal appearance has been placed in the postoffice. It is from the depot of C. W. Carter and is both ornamental and useful.

The Rev. A. C. Hurd lectured before the Montville debating society in the Baptist church last Monday evening. He lectured on tobacco and was listened to with close attention and at the close a vote of thanks was extended him. The choir enlivened the occasion with fine music.

The Independent Hose Co., of Thamesville gave a very pleasant social at Grand Army Hall, Tuesday night. A large party was present and dancing continued until a late hour. The company reaped about $40 as the result of their efforts.

Friday, Feb. 20, 1874—James Crowther, formerly of this city and a member of Company D., 8th Regiment Conn. Vol., died of consumption at the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers at Togus, near Augusta, Me., Sunday, Feb. 15th. His relatives in this city have been notified by the officer in charge at Togus.

Owing to the growing business of the street cars they have become insufficient to accomodate the public. If larger and cleaner ones were put on, especially on the road to Norwich Town, it would be a paying investment and would certainly be appreciated by the public.

William Buchanan fell off, or as he says, was pitched off the horse cars opposite Phillip's livery stable yesterday. The car ran over his legs. No bones were broken and no particular damage done except to his boots which were torn to pieces. He was saved from serious hurt by them.

Saturday, Feb. 21, 1874—The committee of the free reading room desire to make the following brief statement to which they call the attention of the public. Since the reading room has been opened, it has, the committee think, fulfilled the objects for which it was started. It has been visited by a large number of readers. From actual count at various times it was found that over one thousand visitors per week were in the habit of coming to the rooms. The greater part of these readers to whom the room was a source of attraction and instruction. It is desirable that at least the sum of $1,500 should be subscribed before the first of March next in order that proper arrangements may be made for the ensuing year.

The City of Boston will resume her place on the line the 1st of April by which time Captain Williams expects to return to take his command.

Scarlet fever is said to be very prevalent in this city. The Rev. Mr. Dana, lost his oldest child, a boy of seven years, Thursday night by this terrible disease, after a sickness of only 40 hours.

T. E. Ryan arrived home from his European pilgrimage yesterday. He brings with him some fine Scotch granite and we understand he made some heavy contracts with parties across the water for finished stone work.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"
Rub on Good Old Musterole
That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.
Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.
Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.
As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.
Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.
To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

SOMEBODY'S MOTHER

The woman was old and ragged and gray,
And bent with the chill of the winter's day.
The street was wet with the recent snow,
And the woman's feet were aged and slow.
She stood at the crossing and waited long,
Alone, unnerved for, amid the throng
Of human beings who passed her by,
Nor heeded the glance of her anxious eye.
Down the street with laughter and shout,
Glad in the freedom of "school let out,"
Came the boys like a flock of sheep,
Making the snow piled white and deep.
Past the woman so old and gray
Hastened the children on their way.
Nor offered a helping hand to her,
So meek, so timid, afraid to stir,
Lest the carriage wheels or the horses' feet
Should crowd her down in the slippery street.
At last came one of the merry troop—
The gayest laddie of all the group;
He paused beside her and whispered low
"I'll help you across if you wish to go."
Her aged hand on his strong young arm
She placed, and so without hurt or harm,
He guides her trembling feet along,
Proud that his own were firm and strong.
Then back again to his friends he went,
His young heart happy and well content.
"She's somebody's mother, boys, you know,
For all she's aged and poor and slow.
And I hope some fellow will lend a hand
To help my mother, you understand,
If ever she's poor and old and gray,
When her own dear boy is far away."
And "somebody's mother" bowed low her head
In her home that night, and the prayer she said,
Was, "God be kind to the noble boy,
Who is somebody's son and pride and joy!"

SINCE WE GOT 'LECTRIC LIGHTS

Our farm's a mile from anywhere an'
Sometimes we'd go all day
Thout seein' any neighbors come
A'trampin' out our way!
But now—why, folks from all aroun'
Come droppin' in o' nights—
They want to see how our house looks
Since we got 'lectric lights!

'Twas lot o' trouble fillin' lamps
With kerosene, yer know!
For first, we'd have to trim th' wick
An' next, ye'd put th' chimbley on,
An' strike a match;—but gee!
Now we jus' press a button an'
It's light as light can be!

An' ma don't need her specs at all
For sewin',—ain't that swell?
An' pa can read th' 'County News'
Thout sweatin' 'bout th' smell!
An' sis, she's got so many beaus
A-hangin' round her nights,
She gits hysterics!—Huh, They come
To see me th' 'lectric lights.

COURTESY HAS NOT DIED OUT

Dear Cornerites: We are indeed having a little winter. Last Friday our Farm Bureau club met with Olga. It was a cold day. You know what hostesses she and her daughter are. Such a warm delicious dinner was served at noon and greatly appreciated. On my arrival home found a sad news awaiting me—a letter informing me of the passing away of a very dear friend of my mother's. For over 75 years our families have been true and faithful friends. I was obliged to go alone. You that know me personally know how difficult it is for me to meet strangers and go about alone which I seldom do.

Some four or five years ago a letter was written by a sister saying the motormen and conductors were not as they once were. I left home early in the morning, nervous and cold and dreaded going. Beyond Jewett City was entirely new country to me. Just before reaching there I simply stated my case to the conductor offered my pad and pencil then settled down and trusted him to keep his word which he certainly did. A good sister got on and saw me on the Central Village car. Then came the most dreadful part. Again pencil and pad were offered. I met with the same kindness and courtesy to the journey's end. There I was met by a smiling face of a friend. The return trip was the same. In Central Village homeward bound Vira at my elbow on her return from Moosup. The question is asked. Has courtesy died out between the trolleymen and their passengers? and I answer, no. It may spend a great deal on ourselves, the way we make our inquiries. And a pleasant thank you goes a long way with everyone. If we are courteous to others they certainly will be to us.

HOT MILK CAKE

Dear Social Sisters: Will write a little this morning to help keep our page full. I wish to thank all the sisters who remembered me with cards on my birthday. It's very pleasant to receive the cards and to wonder who the sisters are.

I see the sisters are sending in recipes, so will send in one.

Hot Milk Cake: Take two eggs beaten with one cup of sugar and a little salt, add one cup flour and a teaspoon of baking powder and flavor. Beat all together and add one half cup of hot milk with a small piece of butter melted in it. Beat until smooth and bake it in quite hot oven. It is very easy to make and is always light. I hope some of the sisters will try it. Best wishes wishes to the Corner

PREPARING FOR ANNIVERSARY

Social Corner Sisters: I want to remind you of our anniversary meeting and not to forget the little (home made) article to donate for sale at the March 5th meeting, when brought in it was to be some article you make yourself, apron, dolly, etc., not expensive, to sell from five cents to ten cents, nothing higher. Please put price tag on your own donation. This is to help our donation and sunshine funds. We have been doing so much good work along this line that funds decrease rapidly. We do not want to see this work held up for lack of funds as it has given so many in sickness and trouble, so much happiness. As our anniversary usually brings a lot of visitors I want to ask those who haven't promised to give to kindly bring crullers and a few more salads—not so many as we can buy these if short. We have been short of cake lately owing to pie being brought in place of cake. Owing to the Buckingham's and our silver not being enough will some of the sisters please bring knife, fork and spoon to use fordinner. As wasn't able to be at the February meeting I thought the I could touch the sisters through the Social Corner page so to have our usual success.

Chocolate would be pleased to have all, who would, provide 'something' for the entertainment. Best wishes to all.

A MESSAGE FROM THE SOUTHLAND

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been quite cold for Florida. The windows and doors, usually open, have been closed. That reminds me of the calendar which I received, the picture of a cottage with door closed and a vine with flowers climbing over it and potted plant and summer settee by the side of the cottage. That's Florida, the flowers are in bloom just the same if the winds are cold. Right here I want to thank the E—for so kindly thinking of me so far away, with the calendar, and the sentiment thereon, well expressing the thought of the country here and kindly greetings. There have been so many nice letters written of late, I would like to refer to many, but I will only take a few one sister wrote of riding in a wheel chair in Florida. I see many of them and they are propelled by a negro sitting on a bicycle in the rear of the chair and with his hands on t he chair just as you see baby carriages pushed. It is large enough for two people to occupy. The chairs are of a willow make. I have seen half a dozen or more standing at a place waiting for calls from tourists.

Roxana Keables is writing of the gossip of folks in which I took part entitled How the Story Grew. It was exaggerated every time it was told from one to the other, and finally there was no cause for any of the words spoken at all to the person gossipped about. Ah! how hearts are hurt by cruel words spoken, sometimes thoughtlessly spoken. How much grace one needs to keep sweet in disposition when buffeted by the many stormy winds of life that come to most of us. Like the trees here in Florida, all leaning toward the water, so we must lean on the arms of our Maker and receive our strength for all the storms of life.

This morning the mocking bird is pouring forth his song, and he's a sweet singer. It is only a few days since he commenced to sing. There may be other birds in Florida which are singers, and come in such a variety. Last winter at our home in Abington there were 16 or 20 different varieties. We fed them the last cold winter of our stay there.

One of the sisters wrote about plants and flowers. When young I liked to roam in the woods and gather wild flowers. But I enjoy going to the ocean here and find many things of interest. At one time we saw some sharks jump out of the water while pursuing small fish. Cranes also, I saw on the shore. Eye stones I have gathered on the shore. These you may know are to put in the eye you do not realize they are in the eye. They come out after removing the substance.

I well remember when a girl of putting an eye stone in my eye to remove something that hurt. In the morning before I arose my eye was all right, but I could not find the stone and thinking it must be lost, I was so sorry, as it was all the one we had. When washing the dishes in the morning the stone dropped in my dishwater.

In today's Courier of Feb. 12 a sister writes about how little respect is often shown to old people. It is true young folks can't be old folks, and they cannot realize the feeling of one who has gotten old. But I feel they should not be saucy which is often the case. This generation of children seem to dominate their elders. I have seen this to be the case, in my experience which I have found in being in many different families. I am glad I was brought up to mind, and loved and so respected my dear grandmother.

I agree with Jennie. It is certainly nice to be appreciated but we often do for people and never get so much as thank you. Even in one's own home it does not hurt one at the table to be polite and thank one for passing a dish at the time it is passed. But alas you find at the present period of existence (I am sorry to say) little of true appreciation and politeness. I have a grandson who when a boy had many books and toys and his mother taught him to keep them nice. At the age he stopped using them, his mother did not like to give them away, after giving a few, for they were destroyed. Yes, it takes all kinds of people to make a world, as an old lady said she 'was glad she was not one of them."

I fear the editor will say halt. With all love and smypathy for those bereaved by deaths and any sick ones, and kind thoughts for all sisters.

TROTTIE

FRIED PIES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I think it is about time I wrote a little for the good page. First I want to thank the editor for the yellow slip I received a few months ago. I was surprised as well as pleased to think that my letter won a prize. I have it safely put away until I decide what it is going to be spent for. It certainly pays to go to the jolly meetings as it gives one something more to think of and I think one accomplishes more by it.

As pie timber is getting short I am sending a recipe for old-fashioned fried pies, such as our grandmothers used to make. I have made them twice this winter and we all are fond of them.

Fried Pies: One quart pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder (or 2 teaspoons cream tartar and 1 of soda), 1½ tablespoons unmelted shortening, 1 beaten egg. Mix together flour, baking powder (or cream tartar and soda) and salt, and sift three times.

Then work in shortening as for pie crust. Use sweet milk for wetting, and make dough somewhat stiffer than for baking powder biscuit, but not so stiff as pie crust. Add the beaten egg with the milk. Roll to a little less than quarter inch in thickness, cut in rounds, the size of a saucer, place a spoonful of dried apple sauce on one half of round, moisten edges of crust and fold in turnover shape, pressing together. (Do not make vent, as in pies.) Fry in deep, hot fat until crust is thoroughly cooked.

The sauce used in these fried pies is made as follows: Soak about three cups of dried apples overnight in a small quantity of cold water. In the morning cook until soft, and it too juicy, cook down a little more.

Sweeten and spice to taste (cinnamon is good), and salt a little. Use warm in pies.

SEWING HELPS.

Dear Social Corner Friends: It seems too near spring to be writing thanks for a calendar, but the dainty bluebird calendar came just after my last month's letter was sent in. So many thanks to A Social Corner Member, both for the calendar and its wishes for happiness and true friendships. It seems to promise well. A calendar received from another friend has two months of February and no March for this year. As I love warm weather I do not appreciate such a plan as that for the season. We will hope it was a mistake and that it does not come true.

A good dress form is always appreciated by the home dressmaker and milliner, and every girl who is interested in hats and dresses should have one. The frame can be easily made by someone in the home, and is a good kind of carpentering work for the manual training class.

We happened to have an old iron tripod with a long adjustable rod which makes a fine support for a dress form and the height can be varied by the adjustible rod. But the skeleton can be easily made with such strips of wood as you have and the height made medium, or according to the one who needs it. A hollow thin frame for the foundation for the waist fits firmly over the rod or strips of the frame. The waist form can be made from the gummed paper, or make a firm fitted lining of heavy cloth coming well below the hips. Draw this lining over the skeleton waist form and stuff smooth and firm with paper or excelsior or cotton. The neck and head piece should be stuffed and sewed in place.

The beginner is more interested if able to place the whole suit and the hat on the form and so be able to study the effect and plan new designs and improvements.

Old materials can be easily colored and the result a new dress and hat with very little trouble and expense. I think the soap dyes are easy to use and that they give good results. The chief trouble in coloring is spotting of the goods. In new cloth the cause is often because the cloth was not thoroughly wet all through before putting it in the dye.

In old cloth it may be because something had been spilled on the cloth and a grease spot remains and does not take the dye like the rest of the goods. Thorough wetting and cleaning is necessary to make it color even. Unbleached cotton is a good material to color and is good for cotton dresses and for curtains and for many other uses.

It makes a good cover for woolen blankets that are too worn for other use, also old coats and woolen goods can be covered and make warm wool comfortables.

The boys usually outgrow waists and coats while new. The neck of waists can be enlarged by ripping off the collar and cutting the neck a little lower just in front.

Coats can be enlarged by putting a V-shaped piece of goods the same color in the part of the sleeve that comes under the arm and ripping the under arm seam and piecing that out the same way.

An easier way is to give them all away when outgrown, but few of us are able to do that.

We were pleased to see the dear old page full and running over and enjoy every letter.

STILL INTERESTED IN CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been months since I wrote to the Corner and I don't know but I am really forgotten, but I hope not. As I see so many Social Corner Sisters I met while I was a resident of Norwich I feel I like to renew our friendship and there's no other way than through the Corner for I am now in another city but have the Saturday Bulletin and read every letter from every Social Corner sister. Business has picked up quite a bit hasn't it? Isn't it real nice so many have got out their pen and ink and are coming to the front.

Scottie: Was real glad to see your letter in Saturday's Bulletin.

Triplets: Those dahlia toes you gave me I let Prairie Chicken plant in her garden and when I came home at the end of the season they were in bloom and helped decorate our home for my daughter's wedding. We saved the toes for this spring planting.

Pocahontas, Serepta, and Savila: Where are you?

Ga. Ga: Do you attend the Social Corner meetings now?

Joan: See your letters occasionally. Did not get up that hill to your house while I lived in the Rose of New England. I often think of the lovely time we all had at that picnic at Versailles.

Prairie Chicken: Can't you steal a little time and send in some things about your farm work? Do you intend to have early chicks this spring?

Bran muffins are good for constipation and I make them twice or three times a week.

Bran Muffins: 1 egg, 1-2 cup sugar, large spoon shortening, a little molasses to make them brown, teaspoon salt. Beat all together add two cups sweet milk, sift two cups of flour with three teaspoons of baking powder and take two cups of bran. Stir in wetting. I bake them in cupcake tins. Eaten warm with butter they are great.

Hope the editor hasn't forgotten me and crossed me off his book. I am as ever

A STRANGER IN THE CITY

APPRECIATES THE POETRY

Dear Editor and Sisters: There is really no part of our page I enjoy more than the Social Corner poetry and I think it is more generally appreciated than those who send it in realize. Some of the poems bring to us pleasant memories of our school days while other are read and enjoyed for the first time.

Spry Bird's letter on teaching children to be kind and useful reminded me of a poem I used to read entitled, Somebody's Mother. I looked it up in a book I have and am sending it for this week. It teaches us a lesson of courtesy and kindliness, two qualities that are never lost. As some one has said, it is safe to treat humanity everywhere and always respectfully. Thus and thus only, may we make our personal influence an agency to lift the world.

I want to thank Anne D. for telling us how to cook a cheap piece of meat. We have tried it and found it "tasty" at right. Also tried Rosy Posy's recipe for prune cake and it was fine. It is nice to see so many letters again and I am inclined to think it would take but one guess to tell who Wee Wifie is but it May be that I am on the wrong track. Time will tell. A number have referred to the anniversary meetings of next month. I want to attend the one at Willimantic. Who will go with me?

A POPCORN EXPERIENCE

Dear Social Corner Friends: It was a year ago last spring that the goodman and I were presented with a fine looking ear of popcorn by a friend who meant well, I am sure, in making the present. Had he foreseen what a trick that corn was going to play on us, I feel sure he would not have been so generous. It certainly was handsome corn, the kernels white and finely shaped. I suggested that we plant only five or six hills which number would doubtless produce enough corn for our own use as popcorn does not make so strong an appeal to us now as in our earlier years. My suggestion was not so favorably received as it should have been and in spite of all my protests the goodman insisted upon planting every kernel of that ear of corn and in our choicest garden spot at that. There was something about that corn that seemed to go to his head for, fearing that if we planted any sweet corn near it the two lots would mix, our sweet corn was relegated to a gravelly knoll at a safe distance. The season proved too dry for the knoll and the result was a decidedly short crop of sweet corn, but the pop corn, being in a much wetter place, did not suffer from drought. It came up well, was ignored by crows and pheasants and being high minded aspired, apparently, to touch the sky. Long I watched in vain for ears to start. At last some did appear at about the same time as the spindles began hobnobbing with the man in the moon. We harvested about two bushels of ears but strange to relate these were not white, like the seed, but of an orange color. Eastern Connecticut Luther Burbanks please take notice. I cannot understand about this change in color unless orange was the color this brand of corn had been in the dim past and some wizard had used his magic upon it and finally made a "bleached blonde" of it, and now, finding that it was in the hands of an unscientific farmerette instead of a horticultural magician, it deliberately took advantage of the situation and reverted to type. This change in color was somewhat disconcerting as we feared orange corn would not be so palatable as white. We soon learned, too, that popcorn does not pop well until the year following its harvesting so it must be shelled and stored. I assisted in the shelling process and this had to be done by hand as we had no sheller. I fear my hands will never be smooth again. For several nights recently I have been kept awake by the gnawing of a mouse overhead, at last I remembered the pop corn stored on the third floor. Oh, yes, mousie had found it and regaled himself in spite of its orange hue. So now, you see, I have a mouse as well as corn to dispose of. The goodman has tried in vain to sell the corn—no one will buy orange corn. Therefore I shall prepare a cheese baited trap for the mouse and an advertisement offering a suitable reward to anyone who will capture corn away. After careful calculation I have decided that the gift ear of corn has cost us about ten dollars. But we have had the experience and, being a woman, I have availed myself, of so excellent and opporeunity to say to the goodman, "If only you had taken my advice."

Thanks for dainty calendar received and with best wishes to you all.

EVELLNE BURR

THE BEAUTY OF THE ICE STORM

Dear Editor and Corner Friends: It is well to follow the old adage "never put off until tomorrow what can be tone today." This letter was ready to send in last week, but I failed to mail it. When I read the Corner page Saturday, lo and behold, there was one on the same subject from the pen of "Zerviah," so this one seems a repetition, but as it is some job, and takes an amount of "brain force" to write a letter for the page, I venture to send it along and try aid find consolation in thinking that "great minds run in the same channel." What say you Zerviah?

Unless one left the city and watched the effect of the sunrise after our recent ice storm, they missed half its beauty. Like other busy housekeepers I seldom take time for sunrise gazing, so as I seated my self in the car to train for Middletown that first clear morning I anticipated a treat in the gray of early day break, the ice covered country seemed cold and unattractive. Soon in the east the sky began to show the beautiful changing tints that no artist can copy, and with the first rays of the sun the whole landscape was transformed. As we sped along there was an ever changing color reflected from tree and bush, a perfect rainbow of colors with here and there a fiery glassy like an immense copper colored jewel, and like the proverbial pot of gold to be found at the end of the rainbow, it seemed as if there must be more than a piece of cold hard ice to form that gleaming point.

In the open country groups of tall white birches all bowed in the same direction as if bent by unseen hands formed large silvery arches as their tops touched the ground, and every tiny twig and the blades of dead grass were enlarged to many times their size by the glittering cover. I reached my destination an hour and a half late as our train was stalled twice, but I felt well repaid for the wait.

From Middletown I took the trolley into Hartford for its nurseries and green houses, I saw a different feature of the storm. The sides of the streets and lawns were strewn with large limbs and branches split from trees and ornamental shrubs. There were two trees that seemed torn up by the roots by the weight of the ice, which was much thicker through that section, telephone poles with their wires were down in places and much damage done. Later as I dined on the fifteenth floor in a restaurant and looked down on the hundreds of cars and the busy traffic, where autos were like toy carts, and people like scurrying Beatles I contrasted the works of man with the wonders of nature.

It seems as if some great power or mind telegraphy must have helped "A Social Corner Member" in selection of the many calendars received by the sisters, as each letter of acknowledgment refers to the individual suitability of the gift. I am sure mine could not be improved upon as it expresses the true Social Corner spirit, and I thank the kind donor. Can't we persuade the "fair unknown" to join us at the the anniversary gathering of the Mother club (No. 1) to be held in Willimantic in March, that we may say thank you in person? We promise a finer reception than Neighbor Eveready had at her "third matrimonial venture."

PRACTICAL POLLY

DISCOUNTING THE COST

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I thank the sisters who wrote me the appreciative letters.

Few of us stop to think that life is made up of balances and that in our actions we come out sometimes on the right and sometimes the wrong side of the ledger. Just as in any other business we pay for what we get, if not in money then in character. But are all the things we do worth the price we pay for them? In our struggle for success we are willing to pay high for the evidence that we have already attained. We will not follow the speedy or speeding motor of our neighbors with the slow carriage and pair, but mortgage our home for the whare withal to keep up with her in the procession. We vie with our wealthier friends in the lavishness and beauty of our entertainments, and strain every nerve to obtain as handsome dresses and rich jewels as those worn by the other women we know. All of these things have to be paid for eventually, in good, hard cash, however much we may strain our credit in the present, else the balance stays on the wrong side and we go down past hope of recovery.

The things are apparent to all the world, and few women stop to count the cost of them in peace of mind and sane enjoyment of life. But there are other things more intangible for which money cannot buy. Few of us, realize that the little "white lie," apparently so harmless, once started rolling will go on like snowball gathering, bulk of its own kind until it is a huge defect in the character, seen by everybody.

Or the morsel of scandal, started by a venomous tongue. An innocent victim may suffer, but the one who defames her loses far more respect and esteem of her friends. They are afraid of her as soon as they realize, as they are sure to, that she has a gossiping tongue. The woman, too, who indulges the evil habit of malice whose friends are never safe from her little malicious thrusts at their foibles and weaknesses, does she not pay for it in the loss of their regard for her? If women would stop to count the cost of such indulgences as a merchant figures up his debts and credits, the balance on the right side would soon grow heavier, and the ideal of womanhood which is the dream of us all.

Sippit Pudding: Cut a loaf of bread as thin as possible, put a layer of it in the bottom of a deep dish, strew on some slices of marrow or butter with a handful of raisins or currants. Do this until the dish is full. Let the currants or raisins be at the top. Beat four eggs, mix with them one quart of milk that has been boiled and become cold, a quarter of a pound of sugar, and a grated nutmeg; pour it in and bake in a moderate oven; eat with a wine sauce.

ALL CAN WRITE INTERESTING LETTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: So many say they can't think what to write. Have you ever heard the story about the kind old gentleman who seeing a little boy carrying a lot of newspapers under his arm, said, "Don't all those papers make you tired, my boy?" "No, I don't read 'em," replied the lad.

So with those who say they can't write good letters, they don't have to read them and, in all probability some one else will be glad to read them, and will pronounce them good.

You have no idea how pleased the readers of the Social Corner are to see a full page and know that it will be such a treat for them when they get a chance to read it.

You who crochet, send in a crochet pattern, tell how to make a new kind of paper flower or a new style belt, or buckle, or how to color lace, or use newspapers. I have a hundred ways to use newspapers. I found out some of them by taking an hour at a time hunting them up.

I don't believe there is a single member of the Social Corner but what can write an interesting letter and there is no excuse unless they do not have the time.

If I am reading any kind of a paper and I think I see a help in it, I try it and then I can find something to add to it, like the sister who wrote concerning the frozen eggs. Those who did not know about it must have been pleased to get such a help.

I saw that wooden beads were strung on raffia for hat trimming. Then I read in another place how to make your own sausage meat. I sent and bought three pounds of lean fresh pork and one pound of fat fresh pork and had it put through the grinder with salt, pepper and sage and it was so much nicer than that you buy. I used to put veal with it but I don't know but I like it better without. Did you know grape nuts were nice to thicken stews and soups?

Lemon Bread Pudding is a bit different from the usual recipe: Mix together 1 3-4 cups bread crumbs, yolks of two eggs, 2-3 cup sugar, one scant teaspoon salt, grated rind of a lemon and about one teaspoon of the juice. Pour over this one quart milk and bake until brown. Make a meringue of the whites.

A splendid foot warmer for the bed on a cold winter night is made by cutting cork into small pieces and filling flannel bag with them. Bake in a hot oven for ten or fifteen minutes. The finely cut corks will retain heat for a long time.

A NEW CHERCKER PUZZLE

Dear Corner Members: I am sending in the crowning checker puzzle, which may be a great help to checker players. First place ten men in a row thus, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Now the object is to lift a man up and pass over two each time, and no more, to crown the next to them, continuing thus until they are all kings. In passing over a king it is to be counted as two men, thus for instance, ((not that this is any explanation of the puzzle, that is for our young friends to solve), suppose we place the sixth on the third. It must pass over two men; and then the fourth on the second, we pass a king (two men.) Here will be two crowns effected, but the puzzle completed must have five crowns and no men. Remember well, that it is required to pass over two, but never more or less than that number.

Explanation of puzzle: Place the fourth on the first the sixth on the ninth the eight upon the third the second on the fifth and the seventh on the tenth.

Great Grandma: Your package at hand. Thank you for your kindness in making those gifts for me. I shall remember you for doing so every time I use them. Your letter received also.

Don Pedro: Was very glad to see an article from your pen once more. Hope you continue to gain. Perhaps when the birds are singing again and the flowers are in bloom you will be back to normal once more.

CRIMSON RAMBLER (March 5).

GREETINGS FROM SWEET WILLIAM

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I intended to write the first of the year but a number of the family were sick and I was prevented because of caring for them, and so I will write now. Better late than never, as the saying goes.

I will try and write a few lines now and then, when I get time, to keep up my membership in the Corner.

Merry Former Boy: I remember meeting you at the old homestead in C. and I had many a good time there. I hope to meet you some time at one of the gatherings, and we will talk over old times. I enjoy the social part of the Social Corner and am glad to see so many letters.

I wish you all a successful New Year.

SWEET WILLIAM.

SURPRISE BISCUITS

To Our Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: First I wish to thank a Corner friend for my pretty calendar. I hung it over my desk where I may use it when writing. From Student's letter I think our views on our calendars must be alike. And our lives must be alike. My husband is a home man. So when I travel, I have to go with friends or alone.

Don Pedro: I am so glad you are improving. I think the prayers of the Social Corner sister's must have helped you. I hope you received my card.

Amy: I was sorry you could not attend the last meeting and assist the parson. As Napa said, 'It is seldom we have a real bride."

Brave: If you see Papa Burton again give him my congratulations.

Huldy: I am glad to hear your brother is improving. I hope the rest of your trip will be pleasant.

L. H. K.: It seemed good to see a letter from you. I hope you will be well enough to come out soon. I often think of our trip foward Boston.

Spry Bird has had some very helpfull letters in. Thank you.

Whirl wind and Foxglove: Too bad you could not come to our last meeting. It must be hard to ride so far in the cold. Your policeman has done his duty and done it well.

Anna Mell: How are you these cold days? I sent you a card. Guess from your letter you did not receive it. Hope to see you soon.

Dear Sis Hopkins and Mr. Sis Hopkins: I enjoyed your music so much but I felt so sorry to lose my daughter I could not get in step.

April Flower 1880: Your pineapple pie was delicious. Please send in your recipe.

Busy Bee: Too bad we could not have had our picture taken. Perhaps we may later.

Wiltwyck: You made a fine looking partner. Wish Marjory could have seen you.

Lucy Acorn: Marigold and I often visit each other.

Here is a good biscuit recipe.

Ryzon Surprise Beaten Biscuits: 6 level teaspoons Ryzon, 4 level cups (1 lb) flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 3 tablespoons (1 ounce) butter or lard, 1 egg, 1¼ cups (¾pint) milk or part water. Sift Ryzon, sugar and salt together, add shortening, cut in with knife, then rub it in as lightly as possible with the tips of the fingers. Beat white of egg to a stiff froth, add milk to it and stir into the dry ingredients. Mix with a flexible knife, and turn out onto a floured board. Beat with a rolling pin until the dough blisters, roll out about ¾-4 inch thick. Cut into biscuits and lay them, not touching each other, on a greased pan, brush over the top with yolk of egg beaten and mixed with one tablespoon of milk. Bake in quick oven 15 to 18 minutes. Sufficient for 35 biscuits.

Sympathy for those in sorrow.

Best wishes for 1924.

MARY FRANCE.

GREETINGS FROM NEIGHBOR EVEREADY

Dear Social Corner Members: Good morning one and all. It is now Thursday, bright and early too, so my letter will go as quick as if left at the office last night, so here goes for Saturday's issue.

Some of you will be wondering how father is, so let me say this morning he shows marked improvement. Had a hard time if it till Monday.

My brothers have been with me nights so I'm rested.

Father had a good day when I was at the reception, and no more of that type till Monday.

Just hope I can arrange to be at our anniversary meeting.

Nona: Thanks for congratulations, a letter due you, when I can find time.

Mary France: Who's who, or who was starter of the reception? I'm thinking now Sis Hapkins was only a booster, and, well as your name seemed to get lost in the items, I think you winked at the reporter, for a word to the wise is enough, and you looked wiser and wiser every minute. That's the way with some of our people. They always do a lot of nice things and have great pleasure in not shouting, and I guess that's you. Did you make the cake? Well anyway that's the time Frances and I "took the cake" and of course the recipe is wanted.

Elnora: That apricot pie just touched the spot, and I've tried to phone you, but never seem to find you when I call.

Dew Kist: Glad you feal better.

Amy: Sure was glad to read your favorable report about yourself.

Brave is surely rightly named, and expect great results in general health from now on.

Savila: Why not come to Willimantic anniversary meeting?

Student and True Blue: I'll look for you then, too.

Beatrix and Foxglove: Too late! Of course not. Thank you.

Well, I'll ring off. I'll wash dishes now, just for necessity you know, one of the daily duties, same as the "daily dozen" that had such a boom.

My best wishes to one and all.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

THINGS TO DO AND NOT TO DO.

Dear Social Corner Friends: How often we read of young girls leaving good homes and broken-hearted parents, to see the sights of New York! Some have been returned by officers and many have never been heard from. Parents should teach their girls never to take advice of strangers. Here are some good Do Nots:

Do not start for a strange city or town even for a night without information about a safe lodging place.

Do not leave home without sufficient money for an emergency or for a return ticket if necessary.

Do not go to strange parts of a city alone at night by public taxi or cab or with a public guide.

Do not ask for or accept information, advice or direction except from police officials or from Travelers Aid representatives.

Do not go to an address given by a stranger, place of amusement or conveyance on invitation of a stranger.

Do not accept offers of work either from individuals or through advertisements without thorough investigation. Ask the Travelers Aid to investigate for you before you make the trip.

Some things to do include:

Before starting for a strange city, or before sending a child or an old person to a strange city, write or wire the Travelers Aid to meet the traveler. Give name, some personal description, time and date of arrival, name of railroad and station. Allow ample time for receipt of this message.

If you are uncertain whether there is an organized Travelers' Aid in the city to which you are going, write or wire the National Association of Travelers' Aid Societies, 25 West 43rd street, New York, for information.

If you arrive in a city and friends fail to meet you or you are uncertain or in distress, ask a uniformed railroad official or police to direct you to the Travelers' Aid representative.

Suppose you are a young girl traveling alone for the first time in your life. You miss your train connection and arrive in New York late at night and the friends you expected to meet you are not to be found. You have no idea how to locate their home and they are not listed in the telephone directory, or suppose you are a man, somewhat elderly and a good deal of a homebody and you are on your way to visit your married daughter in the west. You stop off to see St. Louis for a day. As you reach the station waiting room you discover that the pleasant spoken stranger that sat beside you in the smoking car for an hour has taken your pocketbook with him for a keepsake. You haven't money enough left to send a telegram and you don't know a soul in St. Louis. Now, what are you going to do in such an unpleasant predicament? Of course there are always the police, but after all they are primarily interested in lawbreakers and evil doers and naturally grow hard-boiled and suspicious. You've never been inside a police station in your life and it is likely a distorted version of the affair would get to the folks back home. If you are standing in the middle of a waiting room, looking confused and forlorn, the problem is just about settled for you. Over in a conspicuous place where she can be seen by the throngs passing to and from the trains a plainly dressed keen-eyed woman has been studying you attentively. Now she makes her way towards you through the crowd.

"Are you looking for somebody or something?" she asks in a brisk business-like, but friendly fashion. "If so, I shall be glad to help you. I represent——" She shows you her badge. You may well rejoice in having found a trustworthy friend to whom you can freely pour out your tale of woe. For she is the authorized worker of the Travelers' Aid Society whose raison for the sole purpose of helping, free of any charge, strangers who are in danger or distress. It has branches in every important city in the country, at every big railway station and steamship dock, day and night; its lynx-eyed workers are meeting trains and boats looking for a chance to be of service to inexperienced and unwary travelers. They are ready and authorized to meet any need from directing a stranger to an inexpensive but decent hotel to frustrating an elopament. The Travelers' Aid workers are known by the police and railroad officials who gladly seek their aid in solving the problems of the distressed pilgrim they are also known you may be sure and cordially feared and hated by the human wolves who are looking for young girls in the city.

For want of space we must stop writing and make room for others. There is much that could be said in regard to the young going to the city, which was worse than death to many who never returned.

RURAL DELIVERY (Nov. 1).

BEAUTIFUL EFFECTS OF THE ICE STORM

Social Corner Friends: Have been for a delightful ride today go tonight while it is fresh in my mind must write and tell you about it. My son came to take me for a ride and as most of the ice has melted, which I could see from my windows, you who live down Providence way can imagine my surprise and delight when I saw the beautiful sights along the road. After we had left Sterling we began to see a differspce and never shall I forget the sight, of the ice on the bushes and trees and in the road. Big evergreen trees were covered with ice from top to trunk and the white birches covered with ice and bent to the ground under the load—all this for miles— the most beautiful sight I have ever seen. The road was covered in ice also which didn't look quite so beautiful to us as my son had come from home without the chains, of course in Norwich he did not need them and really didn't expect to find much ice during the day. However, he did not go to Providence and as we reached home safely all is well and we hope to try again for Providence when the ice is gone. Saw a number of cars which had "come to grief" on account of the ice, but nobody hurt as we could hear.

I want to say I, too, knew Prof. Turner and spent many happy hours singing with him years ago when I was a girl. I sang in the choir at Bean Hill church at that time.

Delish Deal: I did laugh over your mishap with the pie, for I had the same thing happen to me a few years ago, only mine was squash pie which I had made for Thanksgiving dinner and made it Thanksgiving morning. I not only lost the pie but had a rug to wash as the result of it. One of the family nearly laughed herself sick, but never offered to help clean up the mess. She asked me what I had to be thankful for now my pie was spoiled. I told her I was thankful I didn't drop it before it was baked for that would have been worse to clean up (and what I had was bad enough.

One of the Sisters has written about making cake which "ran." It reminds me of the first time I tried to bake pie and gingerbread, when my mother was not at home. I was the eldest of a large family and had to learn to do the housework and cooking at an early age. One time when I was ten years old I was left at home with five younger children, while mother went to spend the day with grandmother. I thought I would make an apple pie. I knew that bread must be kneaded a long time so did the same with my pie crust—"kneaded it" mind you! Result, it couldn't be cut with an axe, so the pig got the pie. All I knew about making gingerbread was that there was molasses, flour and shortening in it and I made some of the three ingredients. It came out of the oven much the same as it went in, only most impossible to get out of the tins. This all happened more than 50 years ago, (and I am do better now.) Guess I will stop or this will never get printed.

JACK'S WIFE, Sept. 3.

GREETINGS FROM NEW YORK STATE.

Dear Sisters: Just received a package of cheer from Roxanna Wince. Guess what? A roll of Social Corner News. I do enjoy the papers, although I have not lived in Connecticut for thirty years. I do not write often, but I was down in the good old Nutmeg state in November and had a very happy time at the indoor picnic, held in Willimantic. So glad that there are so many "young old girls." Sickness, is the only excuse one can have for being an old lady now-a-days, and even this will not make us old, if we have learned to "grin and bear it."

Ma of Greene Gables: Will you tell me if the men in general in your locality, are such powerful lovers?

The "crossed shoe" idea for crumps may be old fashioned, but it sure is a new one to me, and the next time I am bothered with them I shall try it.

I am filling a loose-leaf recipe book with dependable recipes for my daughter's "hope chest" and the handy table of proportions will have a first place. There are other recipes I will try right away. The bran muffins, Ma's rolls, and baked pork chops with dressing, make my "mouth water" right now.

Have you a sour-milk pie recipe? Here is the way I make mine and we like it:

Sour-Milk Pie Filling: One cup thick sour milk, one cup sugar, one cup (large) ground seeded raisins, one egg, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ground clove, and one-half teaspoon salt. Just mix thoroughly and bake in one crust with lattice-work crust over top, or in two crusts. This makes a medium sized pie.

You all know what we do with stockings to mend, when we put the ironing away—lay them aside. Well, my doctor has ordered me off my feet for a month, and I feel about like a stocking with a hole in it. I hope when I am around again I will not feel the "darned" places. Anyway I am going to live up to my name and be

A GOOD FIGHTER.

GREAT COMFORT FROM REMEMBRANCES.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I don't want you to think I have forgotten your kindness in remembering Bee with the beautiful ferns you sent her while she was sick at my home. It was a great comfort to her as she was very fond of flowers and ferns. She was going to send a letter of thanks but she was so weak she could not do it, so I will use this way of thanking the kind sisters for their thoughtfulness. They little know how much it means to be remembered when we are ill. I also want to thank the sisters who sent cards and letters, especially Canterbury Bell and Crimson Rambler. They were comforting and I thank you all.

Effie M.: Hope you are better now. Isn't it a lovely sensation? I think you will have to go on a diet as well as myself. Hope to see you soon.

Thanks to the sister who sent the beautiful calendar with the pretty verse on it and the pretty cottage with the gate wide open to invite everyone to come in. Do come for I'm very lonely without my dear daughter to come and talk with mother.

Wishing you all good health and happiness.

BONIE.

WHEN CARING FOR THE SICK

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: I have taken several courses in nursing as there has been more or less illness in our family. When illness first appears I remove most of the pictures and calendars from the walls

The table was set in the form a letter E. emblematic of the order. Valentines and other decorations were used in making the tables attractive for Valentines day. A business meeting followed the banquet. One charter member was reinstated and other names read which will increase the membership which is quite pleasing. Over $35 was realized in donations and a progressive auction of cake, etc., which puts the temple on a good financial basis. On Monday evening a whist was held at Anna Henschel's for the benefit of the order. There was a good attendance. The first prize was won by Mrs. Herman Sears, second by Mrs. Herman Bruckner. WESTMINSTER

February 17th was observed as Wilson and Lincoln day, postponed one week. The pulpit and blackboard bore a number of pictures of each ex-president; a large black bow with streamers being placed between two of Wilson. Beside the large U. S. flag kept over the pulpit platform, and its companion, Christian-conquest flag, a large U. S., the Community service, a U. S. tattered, and a Red Cross flag, the two last having been in service in the World war. There were many small flags of uniform size, tastefully arranged by Heistrom. Passages from the book of Revelation were read, followed by prayer by the pastor. The school gave the salutes to the United States and to the Christian flags, and the programme arranged for Lincoln day by the A. M. A. was followed, interspersed with readings on Lincoln from other sources; Earle MacLeod taking the part of Lincoln. The pastor told some facts of his personal knowledge of Lincoln and Wilson, very interestingly, he having voted for the former at his second election; and then pronounced the benediction.

As the period of national mourning for Woodrow Wilson does not expire until March 4th, the decorations will remain in place over another Sunday.

William Johnson, who, with his family, is spending the winter in Bridgeport, was a guest Sunday at his home. He recently sold the little place on the corner, just above the former Tonnesson homestead, to people who are to take possession in the spring.

Mrs. Allen Moody, her son Manfred and Willie Schoebeck, were week-end guests of Mr. Moody's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf A. Karlson, of Nooseneck hill, R. I., returning Tuesday.

Canterbury is to have a regular school nurse for the balance of the school year. Meanwhile Mrs. Brownell, a state nurse from Hartford, has visited the schools and interested the teachers in providing hot cocoa for pupils remaining at noon; she presenting a box of cocoa, different pupils providing milk, each having his own cup or mug and paying a cent a cup for the cocoa for further expenses. Miss Embleton, county demonstrator for a time during the war, spoke in the schools to interest them in hot lunches, with small effect at that time.

Joe Manes, a pupil of Westminster Hill school, is recovering slowly, following an operation at Day Kimball hospital, for a bad case of appendicitis. On St. Valentine's day he was well remembered by his schoolmates who also made and gave each other, through their school office and their teacher, valentines made by themselves. Miss Kimball gave each of her pupils a valentine very ingeniously made from a lollypop. Other schools also celebrated the day.

Lincoln day was very generally observed in the schools of the town.

Theron Brassil has re-entered his school after an enforced absence on account of a severe cold, with throat trouble.

The ice storm of Feb. 6 lasted here until the 17th when it was covered by several inches of snow. Many had hard falls.

Mrs. William E. Davis of Raymond district has several pots of freesonias in beautiful bloom.

Mrs. Agnes Wood's windows of winter plants, many in blossom, are a joy to the passers-by; and many a home in the region rejoices in choice blossoms unafraid in cold February.

Phillips' wood camp has been able to operate most of the winter so far, a number from Westminster working there.

Several from the hill plan to attend the service scheduled at the Plains for 3 o'clock Sunday.

The 18th of the 30 snowfalls promised, came Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, accompanied by wind, causing drifts. The first sleigh seen on the hill this season, made its appearance that morning.

Topic for home prayer hour, Wednesday, the 27th, Christ and All Men. —Galatians, 4: 1-7.

Friday—Washington's birthday — the schools had a holiday.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Olive Cole and Azirie Brodeau were united in marriage Monday morning at St. John's church by Rev. J. C. Mathieu, of Wauregan. A nuptial mass followed the wedding ceremony. The witnesses were Fred Brodeau and Edmond LaBlonde. The bride was gowned in white silk with Spanish lace. She carried a bouquet of bride roses, and wore a wreath of the same blossoms. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Brodeau will reside in Plainfield.

The first basketball game of the series with South Manchester, commenced under unfavorable conditions of the stormy evening Wednesday. A good crowd gathered for the evening, but were disappointed in the game. The Manchester team, one of the fastest in the state, had no difficulty in winning a sweeping victory over Plainfield.

Everyone is enthusiastic over the Thursday evening game when the high school played their second game of the week, winning a victory over the fast Chapman Tech team from New London. It was a close game, full of brilliant plays. Only a few seconds before the close of the game it was a tie, 32 to 32, but a telling play on the part of Plainfield won the game by two points.

Mrs. C. A. Jerome is spending Washington's birthday and the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Paine, of Winchester.

Miss Christine Burdick of Jewett City is visiting Miss Louise Jerome.

Mrs. Fred Goodale of Glastonbury is in Plainfield for a week, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams.

The Congregational church in Wauregan is planning to have evangelistic services under the direction of Al Saunders and the Congregational church in Plainfield will cooperate to some extent. There will be union services during the series of meetings.

After the regular lodge meeting of the Odd Fellows, Thursday evening, in their hall at Central Village, the remainder of the evening was spent in rehearsing for the initiatory degree, which will be worked next week Thursday evening on a class of candidates. Noble Grand Ernest Wilde presided at the meeting.

Some time ago there was an article in the Memphis, Tenn., News Similar, which is of interest to Plainfield people. It was an account of the narrow escape of Memphis firemen who were battling the flames on one of the Federal barges. The current caught the barge on which the firemen were fighting the flames and swung it out in the river. The chief realizing the danger of his men held the gangplank, which was slowly moving away from the wharfboat. One of the firemen in danger was R. Holloway, son of H. H. Holloway, who formerly lived in Plainfield.

Rev. Thomas H. Melrose was in Mystic Tuesday attending the archdeaconry meeting. He was accompanied by Sidney W. Bard of Danielson, also by the new rector at Danielson, Rev. Mr. Richards.

Miss Joan M. Kirby has been confined to her home for over a week with a severe case of laryngitis.

Ernest Plasman, Jr., is unable to attend school owing to illness with grip.

The Mah Jong club met Tuesday veening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Royle.

Mrs. Irving Flagg has received cards from her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Butterworth, who are visiting in Orlando, Florida.

Mrs. Waldo Tillinghast, who has been confined to her bed for over a year, has been failing slowly during the winter, yet shows wonderful vitality and much patience in her suffering.

Miss Marion Cleland is at home from Hartford, spending Washington's Birthday and the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cleland.

Mrs. Henry Starkweather is about again, after a brief illness which confined her to her home.

SOCIAL CORNER

yours. I missed you and White-Clover at meeting.

Read Amy's letter Saturday and am glad she is comfortable. Keep on gaining and be able to come to the hall next month. I sent you a card at the hospital but you had gone home.

Maine Lover: I understand the girls were coming last week end. Will call up Friday and t alk with them. I wonder how many sisters do their own millinery. I am experimenting on a hat for spring. Perhaps I can make it look like a New York creation, but it doesn't yet.

I am sending a recipe for cake.

Cake Recipe: 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 --2 cups powdered sugar, 1-2 lb butter, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 3 eggs, vanilla and almond extract. Mix butter and flour well—work with hands) add well beaten eggs, work thoroughly. Sift baking powder with sugar—add this to mixture, and extracts and salt.

Now stir with a spoon all together and bake in angel cake pan for 45 minutes. A lady gave this recipe to me after she had treated me to a piece of her cake, and it is fine.

Kindest remembrances to all sisters.

AUGUST.

A BAD STORM

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Just a few lines so I will not be considered a slacker. The ice storm we had was some storm. Our yard is just one solid cake of ice. Trees lost their branches, they were so heavy, telephone wires broken and traveling made very dangerous. One and another would come in and say they had been sitting down. White birches were flat and are not yet straight. The sun shining on the trees and grass made the corner in which I live very beautiful. It also made business rushing. Blacksmiths and livery men had all they could attend to. To the new members I bid a hearty welcome. To those that have lost dear ones I send sympathy. To the sick I send courage and good cheer.

BON AMI.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I have long been interested in the Social Corner, and greatly enjoy the friendly chats, and the various items of interest which I find there.

Shall I be crowding anyone, if I ask you to widen the circle and let me in? Thanking you in advance I will take for my pen name

EXTEND MOTOR CONFERENCE TO SOUTHERN STATES

Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of the Connecticut motor vehicle department and Commissioner Austin E. Baughman of the Maryland department have been appointed by the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators as a committee to approach several Southern states with a proposal for the organization of a Southern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

If the proposal is adopted, the Southern conference will become the third organization of its kind in the country, a Western Conference having been organized about a year ago with the co-operation of the committee of the Eastern Conference. The Eastern conference has been in operation over two years since its organization at the suggestion of the Connecticut department, and has been active in efforts to secure greater uniformity in motor vehicle regulations of the ten states constituting its membership. It is now endeavoring to extend the plan of cooperation in this respect into Canada, and has invited the motor vehicle administrators of the provinces of Quebec and Ontario to attend its next meeting. These provinces abutting Maine on the north, register many cars which make liberal use of New England roads, and the number of automobile tourists in Canada from the states increases every year, making it desirable to have the provinces included in the deliberations of the Eastern Conference to the first instance of y organization reaching out into the jurisdiction of another nation to secure cooperation on the subject of automobile regulations. It is likely that the administrators of the two provinces will be elected honorary members of the Eastern Conference.

The member states of the Eastern Conference deal as a unit with the member states of the Western Conference in their efforts to coordinate administrative policies, and the plan is to make a like arrangement with the Southern states.

SAILED FROM NEW YORK FOR EUROPEAN TRIP

With the expectation of improving his health, which has not been of the best late, Corporation Council William H. Shields, Jr., is to spend two months in Europe and will be accompanied by Edward T. McKay.

They sailed at midnight Friday from New York on the steamer Adriatic of the White Star line and are due to reach Naples, Italy, on the 9th of March. On the way the boat will make stops at the Madeiras, Gibraltar, Algiers and Monte Carlo. They will visit Mrs. Thomas M. Shields who, with her sons, is occupying a villa at San Remo, near Monte Carlo.

After reaching Naples, their plans are indefinite but they are due home by the first of May and will visit Lyons, Paris and London before they return.

B. & A. SILK MILL IS TO RESUME OPERATIONS

The silk mill of the Brainerd-Armstrong Co., now one of the Corticelli Co., mills., on Golden street, which has been shut down since before the first of the year, is to resume operations Monday morning.

For Motor Drivers' Licenses.

Beginning today (Saturday) the New London office of the Connecticut motor vehicle department on Bank street will open at 8 a. m., instead of 9, and close at 4.30, instead of noon, in order to accommodate the applicants for drivers' licenses.

On Monday the office will open at 8 and close at 8 until further notice.

AMERICA HOMICIDE RATE MUCH HIGHER THAN ENGLISH

The homicide rate in America is about twelve times as high as it is in England. Statistics show that an American is about a dozen times as likely to become the subject of a coroners inquest which will find him killed by person or persons known or unknown than is an Englishman.

The statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan life insurance company, Louis I. Dublin, statistician, points out that the year 1923 showed an increase in the homicide rate among its industrial policyholders in the United States and Canada from 6.3 per 100,000 in 1922 to 7.3. The figures are the more significant when it is understood that these industrial policyholders number approximately 15,000,000—nearly one-seventh of the combined populations of the two countries.

Based upon the records which the insurance company has kept for many years, 1923 was a busy year for mankillers. Only the year 1917 showed a higher mortality from homicide among its industrial policyholders than did the year just ended. A comparison of the company's statistics shows that no progress has been made in America during the last two decades toward reducing its homicide rate. The bulletin notes, however, that the fact that the rate is so much higher than that of England "is due, very largely, to the high homicide mortality in America among colored persons."

STORRS HOLSTEIN WINS BUTTER CHAMPION TITLE

Connecticut's new senior three-year-old Holstein butter champion for ten months' production is Prudence Segis Korndyke, owned by the State Agricultural College at Storrs. Her record, as announced by the advanced registry department of The Holstein-Freisian Association of America, is 12,585.4 pounds of milk and 442.06 pounds butterfat—equal to 552.5 pounds butter.

As a consequence of this record this cow displaces the former state champion in this class, Mayland Artis Pauline of the Department of Public Charities herd at Bridgeport, whose record is 12,573.7 pounds milk and 514.5 pounds butter.

HEN'S DROP BACK IN SIXTEENTH WEEK

The trend in egg yield was downward in the sixteenth week of the Storrs contest when the production of all pens was considered together. There were of course outstanding pens that did not follow the general movement. For example, C. T. Darby's pen of White Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., ranked first for the week with a score of 52 eggs. For three weeks this pen had been holding down fourth place in the Leghorn class but last week Darby's birds passed Francis F. Lincoln of Mt. Carmel, Conn., and F. M. Johnson of Waldoboro, Maine, who have held on to second and third places respectively for the last six weeks. Fernside Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Attleboro, Mass., was second best for the week with a total of 51 eggs. White Wyandottes entered by W. E. Moran of Bethany, Conn., finished third with a total of 49 eggs. White Rocks owned by Ameling Farms at Rolla, Mo., was fourth best pen for the week with a record of 48 eggs.

The total production for all pens was 2671 eggs or a yield of a little over 38 per cent. Thus the production of all pens dropped four per cent. under the performance of the previous week. This means that the entire 1000 hens laid actually 249 eggs less than they did in the previous week and over 500 less than for the corresponding week last year. The situation, however, is by no means hopeless when it is remembered that the total score from November first to date is over 4400 eggs in excess of the number of eggs laid in the corresponding period of any previous contest.

STAFFORD SPRINGS WOMAN GETS ANOTHER MAN JAILED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stafford Springs, Feb. 23.—There were further developments in the tangled up affairs of the Booth family, Thursday evening, when Arthur Comfort, who rooms at the boarding house of Joseph LaPite, on Main street, was arrested by State Policeman Hulburt and locked up.

At the local police station, Comfort admitted being on very intimate terms with Mrs. Daisie L. Booth, who is now serving a six months' term in jail. He said that inasmuch as Mrs. Booth had made a confession of her conduct with various men at her home in which confession she named him as a frequent guest, he would plead guilty. He told the officers that his wrong doing with Mrs. Booth occurred so many times he could not recall the dates. Comfort made a plea for clemency before Judge Heald and after hearing his story, the judge sentenced him to a term of four months in jail for his indecent conduct with Mrs. Booth and he was taken to Tolland by Officer Hulburt of the local state police barracks Thursday morning.

The incarceration of Comfort makes six persons, five men and one woman in jail for complicity in the Booth family matters.

The officers are now looking for other men whom Mrs. Booth says were frequenters at her home in the Shahan block and if they are located other arrests will probably follow.

A representative of the child welfare bureau was in town Thursday and this bureau is soon to make application to the court to have Inez Booth transferred from the county home at Vernon to Long Lane Farm, Middletown.

RUM-RUNNING LAUNCH NOW COMPLETE WRECK

Memories of the rum-running motor launch Columbia are all that is left of the vessel which ran aground on Fishers Island the first of December. The wreck did not survive the recent storm. Suspended on rocks, where she had rested since she went aground, she is now completely broken in bits and lies at the bottom.

Weeks ago her motor and other equipment of value had been removed from her hull and then she was left to the mercy of the sea.

WALLINGFORD MAN WILL BE CHRIST CHURCH ORGANIST

Arthur E. Hall of Wallingford has been selected to succeed Ernest M. Ibbotson as organist and choirmaster at Christ Episcopal church, who has left to accept a position as organist at the Church of the Messiah, Detroit, Mich. Mr. Hall, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hall of Fair street, Wallingford, has been organist and choir leader for the last three years at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Wallingford.

In connection with Mr. Hall's resignation as organist at the Wallingford church, a Wallingford correspondent says:

Mr. Hall's first work as organist and choirmaster was at the local church. It will be remembered that Mr. Hall joined St. Paul's choir as a boy chorister during the time that the late Allen B. Fenno was organist. He became soprano soloist of the choir under Organist Charles Donovan. Continuing his steps of music Mr. Hall was later recognized as deputy and finally took over the control of the choir, succeeding Organist Barrington. Since his appointment as organist and choirmaster, Mr. Hall's careful training of the boys' voices has been shown in numerous occasions. He will continue his study of music at Yale university. He goes to Norwich with the best wishes of his many friends in the borough for his continued success. He will have a choir of 32 boys and eight men.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets, compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless, but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eat what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

POETRY

The White Flag

I sent my love two roses—one
As white as driven snow,
And one a blushing royal red,
A flaming Jacqueminot.

I meant to touch and test my fate;
That night I should divine,
The moment I should see my love,
If her true heart were mine.

For if she holds me dear, I said,
She'll wear my blushing rose;
If not, she'll wear my cold Lamarque,
As white as winter's snow.

My heart sank when I met her; sure
I had been over bold,
For on her breast my pale rose lay
In virgin whiteness cold.

Yet with low words she greeted me,
With smiles divinely tender;
Upon her cheek the red rose dawned—
The white rose meant surrender.

—John Hay.

Spring Perpetual

If birds be singing in your soul,
What matter though the snow-clouds roll
Across a sky that's bleak and dread
Or that the winter time is here?

If buds be bursting in your heart,
What though men hasten through the mart
With collars lifted 'round their ears
And eyes a-brim with wind-made tears?

If it be sweet springtime within,
We need not heed the breezes thin;
We need not even wonder whether
The season calls for wintry weather.

—Farm Life.

WALSH IS TO PRESS FOR THE INVESTIGATION OF DAUGHERTY

Public Hearings in the Oil Scandal Are to Be Resumed Today —C. Bascom Slemp, Secretary to President Coolidge, Will Be Chief Witness in a New Line of Inquiry—Resolution Proposing an Investigation of the Administration of the Attorney General Will Be Reported in the Senate Today.

Washington, Feb. 24—Public hearings in the oil scandal will be reopened tomorrow by the senate committee co-incident with renewed efforts in the senate to force a full investigation of the administration of Attorney-General Daugherty.

While the chief law officer of the administration is again under fire at one end of the capitol, C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, will be before the oil committee as the chief witness in a new line of inquiry.

The purpose in calling Mr. Slemp is to establish whether administration officers have had any communication with Albert B. Fall or others involved in the oil scandal since just prior to the trip of Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, to Palm Beach to take the testimony of Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post regarding his statement that he loaned Fall $100,000.

Washington managers of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies have been subpoenaed for tomorrow with instructions to bring with them any telegrams that may have been sent by individual members of the oil committee or by any government official to Fall or to McLean at Palm Beach or to the former interior secretary while he was at New Orleans.

Specifically the committee will require the production of copies of any messages sent to Fall or McLean at the Florida resort between December 10, 1923, and January 30, 1924. It also desires to know whether there was any communication by Senators or others in official place with Fall while he was at New Orleans. It was there that E. L. Doheny informed the former secretary that it was his purpose to tell the oil committee of the loan of $100,000 which he made to Fall before the lease of naval reserve number one in California.

Officials of the Federal-American and Commercial National banks of Washington, are subpoenaed for appearance before the committee tomorrow for questioning as to the records of McLeans accounts in those banks. The Washington publisher told Senator Walsh at Palm Beach that he had drawn checks for $100,000 on one or two other of these banks payable to the order of Fall but that they had been returned to him uncashed.

After the examination of these witnesses the committee hopes to hear from its expert accountants who have been examining the books of Harry Payne Whitney, New York financier, and J. P. Benkard & Company, New York stock brokers, in an effort to run down a report that the attorney general and other administration officers have had transactions in Sinclair Consolidated oil stock.

Without awaiting the result of the accountants examination, Senator Wheeler, Montana, will press for adoption by the senate of his resolution calling for an investigation of the administration of the attorney-general.

The resolution proposing this inquiry will be reported tomorrow by the senate audit committee and Senator Wheeler said tonight he would ask unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

Senator Wheeler will modify his resolution so as to leave to the senate the election of the special committee which is to conduct the inquiry. He still is determined to make a fight to have Senator Brookhart of Iowa, one of the republicans identified with the La Follette insurgent group, named as chairman.

The selection of the Iowa senator is opposed by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, and other administration leaders, but there is no serious objection to the other investigators proposed by Senator Wheeler—Senators Jones, of Washington and McLean of Connecticut, republicans, and Ashurst Arizona and Wheeler, democrats.

Senator Wheeler's idea of the case will be presented first and then the attorney general will be given full opportunity to reply in detail to all the charges that have been made.

Senator Wheeler will insist that Mr. Daugherty appear in person for questioning.

There has been some speculation among senators as to whether the investigation of the attorney-general will conflict with the oil inquiry. Several other inquiries which the senate has authorized have been postponed since the sensational disclosure before the oil committee. These include an investigation of propaganda designed to influence the action of congress and the Russian question.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSED TO THE JOHNSON IMMIGRATION BILL

Washington, Feb. 24—Twenty of the 22 democratic members of the house from New York state, joined tonight in a statement that they are "unalterably opposed to the rigidly restrictive" Johnson immigration bill.

The measure, it was contended, "is particularly objectionable because it discriminates against certain nationalities already going to make up a great part of our population, fans the flames of racial, religious and national hatreds nd brands forever elements already here as of an inferior stock."

"The foreign born population of our country and those born here of foreign parents," the statement declared, "comprise 32 1-2 per cent. of the total population. Of these, at least 25 per cent. are recent immigrants and constitute the young men and women of today's laboring classes so necessary to our industrial prosperity.

"We are under housed, under constructed, and under developed and are in sore need of those who are willing to do our work, both skilled and hard and laborious, but this bill would tend to keep out that class of immigrants best suited for such occupations.

"It would not, moreover, bring into this country a better class or a more assimilable body of immigrants."

$200,000 FIRE IN BUSINESS SECTION OF SALEM, OHIO

Salem, Ohio, Feb. 24—Fire which for a time threatened the destruction of the entire business section here early today destroyed two three-story brick business blocks and caused damage estimated at nearly $200,000. It took the combined efforts of fire companies from three cities to get the blaze under control.

The fire is believed to have been caused by a furnace in the Robert Speidel Shoe Store on Broadway last night.

After four hours effort to check the flames, Fire Chief William Malloy, of the local department summoned aid from Alliance, and Columbiana.

BULGARIA HAS NO HANKERING FOR WAR

Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 23.—(By The A. P.)—"Bulgaria neither wishes, nor can she take any military action against her neighbors," said Minister of War Colonel Volkoff to The Associated Press today. NEW TRIAL DENIED CHIEF OF POLICE OF BEVERLY

Salem, Mass., Feb. 24.—A motion for a new trial for Chief of Police John E. Hayes of Beverly, convicted last Thursday of assault with a dangerous weapon, on two Lynn High school students, has been filed, his attorney, John P. Feeney, said tonight. Mr. Feeney said that the motion, which was filed late yesterday, contends that the verdict was against the law and the evidence; that the presiding justice, without the knowledge or consent of the defendant or his counsel, sent a message to the jury room while the jury was deliberating, and that verdict was illegally rendered.

The charge against the chief of police grew out of the wounding on June 10, last, of Miss Evelyn Spinney and John F. Winston, of Lynn, passengers in an automobile, when Chief Hayes fired a shot from his revolver in an attempt to stop the car, which he said was speeding. Following the bringing of the verdict, sentence was deferred to April 15 to permit the filing of motions for a new trial. Judge Joseph Walsh presided at the trial.

SOCIALISTS MAY CAUSE DISSOLUTION OF REICHSTAG

Berlin, Feb. 24.—The chances today seem about even that the Reichstag may be dissolved in consequence of the determination of the socialists to insist upon revision of the special emergency ordinances issued by the government, notably the tax regulations.

Vorwaerts and other newspapers maintain that efforts will be made to alter there ordinances when the Reichstag convenes Tuesday, Chancellor Marx and his spokesmen are firm in their statements that such action will result in the dissolution of the Reichstag by order of President Ebert.

Dissolution would necessitate new elections in April, rather than the regular Reichstag elections which are due to be held next June. Various states have prepared election lists and are ready to hold a special election.

Vorwaerts says the avowed socialist vote in the present Reichstag is now 42 per cent. and the anti-socialist newspapers express the belief that new elections would bring about a radical reduction of the socialist strength.

Gambler Killed by His Former Partner

Tragedy Was Enacted in New York East Side Restaurant.

New York, Feb. 24.—A gamblers' feud ended in the death today of Joseph Mahoney, known in Yorkville betting men as "Big Mac." John Quigley, his former partner, was arrested charged with the shooting which occurred in an upper East Side restaurant.

Detectives said Quigley and Mahoney recently "split" and for several weeks there had been hard feelings. "Big Mac" had been ordered to keep out of the restaurant and when he entered it today, the fight started.

At first, police said, Quigley asserted he fought with Mahoney only after the latter had drawn a pistol, and that the shooting was accidental. He later admitted, they said, that he had snatched the weapon from his former pal's hand and fired, but maintained he had done so only in self defense.

CAUGHT WHILE SELLING A STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

BRIAND ASPIRES TO AGAIN BECOME PREMIER OF FRANCE

Paris, Feb. 24.—Aristide Briand, seven times premier of France, today opened the electoral campaign with a speech at Carcassonne as a prelude to the May elections, in which he hopes he will be returned to office. Defense of France against the change of militarism was M. Briand's leading theme.

M. Briand defended his own policy during his last tenure of the premiership. He pointed out that the dollar was worth 17 francs when he took office and eleven francs when he left it.

"Germany must be made to feel," the speaker continued, "that the countries of Europe, reassociated, will impose a real peace on her. France is stronger than ever."

Part of the speech was concerned with internal politics. He demanded a union of true republicans, democrats and socialists against the nationalist bloc which supports Premier Poincare. He did not mention the communists, thereby intimating that his appeal for the formation of a left bloc excluded them.

GEN. DAWES SAYS GERMANY DID NOT INTEND TO PAY

The General Declares Occupation of the Ruhr Had Made the Germans Realize That They Must Pay to Their Capacity —Avers That Had It Not Been For French Occupation the Experts Would Not Be in Europe.

Paris, Feb. 24.—(By the A. P.)—"Certainly I said it," declared Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, American member of the first committee of experts, which has been investigating into Germany's financial and economic situation, to The Associated Press tonight. "I repeat it: If the French were not in the Ruhr, we experts would not be here."

General Dawes had been asked by the correspondent if he was the expert to whom Premier Poincare referred in addressing the chamber of deputies yesterday when the premier said that one of the experts recently told a French colleague, "We should have been unable to reach our present results were you not in the Ruhr."

"I said it as early as February, 1923," General Dawes replied. "I repeated it to my colleagues on the committee, and I am telling it to you now because I believe it."

M. Poincare's reference in parliament to the foreign expert's opinion was given great prominence in the French newspapers today, which printed it in heavy type on their front pages. The Matin attributed the remark to Reginald McKenna, head of the second committee of experts.

The semi-official Havas agency, however, in an evidently inspired article this afternoon, asserted that Mr. McKenna was not the expert M. Poincare had in mind when making his reference in parliament. The news agency added that it had good reasons to believe General Dawes was the expert in question.

"You can confirm that I am the man," said General Dawes tonight. "I don't know whether Mr. McKenna said it; but, as far as I am concerned, I did and I stand pat on it."

Asked what he meant by his statement, General Dawes said he thought the Ruhr occupation had made the Germans realize that they must pay up to their capacity, which it appeared they had not intended to do until the French troops entered the Ruhr."

"Have you any comment to make on the report from Washington quoting Senator Wheeler as saying you gave tips on oil and steel to certain administration officials" General Daws was asked by the correspondent.

The general, who had been in good humor throughout the informal talk, showed his first trace of annoyance. He snapped out a few words which showed that he did not even wish to dignify the report by a formal denial of it.

It was said she would attempt to clear up cases unsolved by the New York police including the murder of Louise Lawson on February 3.

Among the experts who, it was said, would study Miss Dennis' psychic power are Dr. Walter F. Prince, investigator for the American Society for Psychic Research; Dr. William McDougall, professor of psychology at Harvard university and Dr. Gardner Murphy, psychology lecturer at Harvard and Columbia.

$20,000 FIRE DAMAGE TO NEW DOM HOTEL, HARTFORD

Hartford, Feb. 24.—The fire that gutted four stores in the New Dom hotel building and forced the guests of the hotel to flee from their rooms at midnight Saturday, was caused by hot ashes placed against the wooden partition between the hotel boiler room and the basement of W. G. Baxter's store by an employe of the hotel, according to Fire Chief Moran's report. The fire caused an estimated loss of $20,000, much of which is smoke damage in the hotel itself.

The position of the freight elevator in the building prevented a much more serious conflagration; investigation today disclosed. The elevator is stopped at the first floor of the hotel, each night. The fire, rapidly eating its way through the wood doors in the basement partition walls, reached the elevator shaft and leaped upward toward the hotel room floors. Had the elevator been lower the heavy wood frame would have been burned through; had it been higher the air space would have provided a draft that would have fanned the flames in the lower floor and basement to greater intensity.

NAVAL DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE IN ROME

Rome, Feb. 24.—"Everybody has put their cards on the table at htis conference," said Commander Hodge of Great Britain, secretary of the naval disarmament conference, to The Associated Press today.

"We all have learned something," Commander Hodge added. "We know just where we all stand, and for that reason this meeting is bound to bring good results on the question of limitation of armaments.

"For instance, take Russia. There was a great problem on which we all were at sea. But we heard the Russian viewpoint frankly discussed by the Russian representative, we offered our counter viewpoints. Then, arriving at some basis, everybody has learned the other man's case. I am sure this feeling prevails throughout the whole commission."

There is evident disappointment regarding Spain's stand for the tonnage she requested and her withdrawal from the conference. The commissioner has met with many snags, similar to that of Spain, but nevertheless many of the delegates insist that the meeting has been a success.

Commander Hodge, asked today by the Associated Press if he thought the conference might be considered successful in overcoming divergencies of the South American countries with regard to naval armaments replied: "Yes, I think it has been. The delegates have discussed their particular claims with great candor and now know each other's viewpoints better."

HAD BEEN MARRIED 1,721 TIMES; DIED 1,120 TIMES

Berlin, Feb. 24.—Marriage ceremonies performed on the stage become mighty monotonous and are not nearly so interesting as death scenes. This is contended in the memoirs of Ludwig Barnay, Germany's best known Shakesperean actor, who died in Berlin recently at the age of eighty-four.

Barnay kept an account of his performances and calculated he had been married 1,721 times in 445 different roles, impersonated in 88 cities, while during his stage career he had died 1,120 times as a hero of one kind or other.

Of his deaths, 166 were by poison, 61 by stabbing, 32 by drowning and 304 by suicide, while he expired 192 times from heart failure and was murdered 109 times.

There were various other varieties of death, but the actor only 55 times had anything like a peaceful, natural end in all the 2,588 Shakesperean performances in which he appeared in various parts of the world, including his tour of the United States in 1883.

Hamlet was Barnay's favorite role. He always dreaded the tedious stage wedding, but the death scenes did not get on his nerves in the least. In fact, after a while he really came to enjoy them to a degree because they meant a certain amount of relief as the end of his night's work.

WILLIMANTIC

The call for the special town meeting to be held Monday evening, March 3, has been issued by the board of selectmen. It promises to be a well attended session as several matters of importance are to be taken up for a vote. The main business of the meeting will be the levying of a tax rate on the grand list of 1923 and last but not least the adjustment of salaries of certain town officers and the consideration to the maximum compensation to be paid to personal tax enumerators and personal tax collector. A movement is also under way to have a concrete sidewalk laid in front of the almshouse property and to make an appropriation for the same. The movement for a sidewalk in this locality has been under fire of discussion for the past three years and will be full explained to the taxpayers at the special meeting. The sidewalk will be close to one thousand feet long and six feet wide. The present sidewalk is of gravel construction and is ten feet wide.

Spirited speeches are expected when the third clause of the warning is read, asking the voters to to establish (or not), a new rate of compensation for the selectmen, town treasurer, tax collector, board of assessors, assistant town treasurer and clerk for the board of selectmen. The new rate would take effect on and after the first Monday in October, 1924, if adopted by the electors.

It is generally understood that a new rate of compensation, actually means an increase in allowances. This does not coincide very well with the agitation under way to reduce the compensation of the town tax collector, who has been paid at the rate of three-quarters of one per cent. on the grand list, collectible from the amount raised for the past years.

The first selectman now receives a monthly salary of $75, or $900 a year. The second and third selectmen receive $12.50 a month or $150 a year. The board of assessors are paid $600 a year each, the clerk for the board of selectmen $50 a month and the town treasurer $300 a year.

The electors will also be asked to instruct the selectmen as to the maximum compensation to be paid the personal tax collector and the special canvassers, known as personal tax and military enrollment enumerators. Since the statute went into effect, over twelve years ago, the collector has been compensated at the rate of ten per cent. on collection. Since women received the franchise and were added to the list of eligibles the office of town tax collector has been much sought as the amount of money received in comparison with the short amount of time put in on the work makes the position a profitable one. The collector received twenty cents on each $3 given him by each person liable for the personal tax. It is expected that many taxpayers will appear in the role of economists at the meeting and ask for a reduction of the compensation of both collectors.

The work of the enumerators, however, is not considered a snap. When canvassing for the personal tax lists was first taken up the enumerators received ten cents a name and during the intervening years it was gradually raised, until they now receive forty per cent.. A fight will be made to retain the same rate.

The taxpayers will be asked to instruct and empower the selectmen to purchase a lot of land in the fourth voting district to be used as a voting place and to make the necessary appropriation for the same. The town and city jointly own small portable voting booths which have been located on private land for the past two years. At the third voting district, the polling place has been at the corner of Jackson street and Jackson place. The one at the fourth district has been placed at the entrance to Elks' park and some time ago it was moved to the Lyman Maine property, on Pleasant street.

Further proceedings in the superior court, on a motion that the South Coventry Water company has no right to use the water from Lake Wangumbaug are proving interesting, but have not yet come to a definite end. The court has denied the claim of the cottagers on the above motion and the present questions hinge on the suitability of the water for drinking purposes. Judge Maltbie of Hartford has handed down a decision in the litigation over the use of the water of the lake by the water supply company of South Coventry and finds that the whole matter originated in a complaint against bathing in the lake made by an outside party. The cottagers have not objection to the use of the lake as a reservoir, providing the right to bathe is recognized in the future as it always has been in the past.

The metric system of measurement was originated in 1788 by James Watt, the noted English inventor. One of the first nations to adopt this system was France during the French revolution. Lavoister, the great French chemist, was the principal influence for its adoption. Today every civilized nation in the world except the United States and Great Britain, has adopted the metric system. These two English-speaking nations now wrestle with a jumble of other systems, hence a strong demand that the world centralize on one popular system—the metric.

Ten persons attended the prayer service at the Methodist Church Wednesday evening in spite of the almost impassable condition of the streets. The address of the pastor on "The Church and the Negro," set forth the fact that the negro problem is a problem of the white man's making. In his greed for gain and desire for comfort he enslaved the negro; in the development of his industry and the progress of his scientific invention, he further exploited negro labor; in his inadequate program for handling the emancipation of the negro he left that race at the mercy of his own worst elements. Discussing the present task of the church, Mr. Sallis said that the church must furnish to the negro a ministry of Christ because Christ is the great unifier of the human race; a ministry of moral and spiritual training which will help the negro to harness his peculiarly sensitive religious nature and his highly emotional temperament to noble purposes; and a ministry of intellectual and manual training in order that the colored man may discover his best self in rendering his best services to the common life of the nation.

Ponemah Wheel Club Minstrels

Perfect, is the verdict of Director "Bill" O'Brien, of the big minstrel show to be staged by the Ponemah Wheel Club in Ponemah hall, Taftville, on Wednesday and Friday evenings of this week. After three years of experience of staging high class minstrel shows, the show this year will surpass even the expectations of the committee and will prove to the public that the Ponemah Wheel club are leaders in this line. The troupe this year is enlarged to 25 members, including several high class comedians, singers and dancers such as has never been assembled before. "Hymie" Schwartz, Frank Carbray, "Bill" O'Brien and "Jake" Benoit will fill the role as colored entertainers and no doubt will prove that they far excell anything in the amateur line ever seen in this section. Escpecially the heavyweight "Hymie" Schwartz, who is in a class by himself over far ahead of professional men. George W. Weller, Jr., will fill in the role as interlocutor. Walter H. McNeely, the famous baritone, will be heard in some famous solos. Besides some of these famous, the committee has secured the flashiest uniforms for the entire company from New York, and the stage decorations by "Hop" Donahue, will surpass anything ever seen. The Palace orchestra, eight pieces, under the direction of Edgar J. Canon, who is also musical director of the show will furnish music for both the big show and the dancing which will be held after. Don't forget Wednesday, Feb. 27th, Friday, Feb. 29th, Ponemah hall, Taftville. It's going to be a real show. Don't miss it.

Helen of Troy, New York

An event of unusual interest in the theatre is the announcement that Wilmer and Vincent, in association with George Jessel, will present at the Broadway theatre Wednesday, March 5, after its long run in New York, "the rollicking musical comedy," "Helen of of Troy, N. Y." George S. Kaufman and Marc Connely are responsible for the book, and Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby provided the music and lyrics. "Helen of Troy, N. Y." is a musical tortoni; as refreshing as a sea breeze; as wonderful as it is entertaining. There is a laugh in every line. The popular song numbers are "Up on Our Toes," "Cry Baby," "Helen of Troy, New York," "I Like a Big Town," "Happy Ending, "What the Girls Will Wear" and "What Makes a Business Man Tired." It is said to be the fastest dancing show seen in years. There is a chorus made up of the prettiest girls of the season, as well as an augmented orchestra. The costumes are equisite and the staging is on a sumptious orchestra. The costumes, with their customary prodigiality, have provided an excellent cast which includes: Pauline Chambers, Marcella Shields, Wm. Sellery, Marie Berne, W. J. McCarthy, Lew Christy, Allen Allenworth, Chas. Williams and Thos. Irwin.

The more a man talks about himself the less use he has for the truth.

By far the greatest and best show that has ever been offered by any local theatre will be seen at the Broadway theatre the first half of this week.

The feature attraction which has been secured at a tremendous salary is the Capps Family.

The Capps Family consisting of Pa and Ma and their eight sons and daughters, who in the past have proven a sensation comes for this season with still a greater offering, which is replete with class. They present almost an entire show themselves, covering almost every phrase of the vaudeville art.

This family is without doubt the greatest of its kind in the world and the press proclaims loudly in their favor.

Bobby "Uke" Henshow, the merry mimic offers a great variety act and has a great surprise for us.

Led by a daring youth, called the "Humming Bird," a gang of thieves flaunts the police of Paris. Randall Carey, an American newspaper man in Paris volunteers to assist in running "him" down. Toinette, a girl, is the "Humming Bird," who preys upon the upper classes to rob them.

Real love for Carey comes into her life—she is willing for his sake to try a respectable life. But then there is another girl, Carey's fiance—Toinette returns to the life she knows.

But why tell more?—the best way we can offer is only an insufficient account of the story—a bear for thrills. You've never seen anything like it. In fact, there's never been anything like it made before. It's individuality, if nothing else, makes it stand out as one of the leading pictures of the season thus far. Gloria Swanson revels in the stellar role—it's tailormade. Then there's Edward Burns, as Carey, Mario Majeroni and others just as prominent in support.

Two Features at the Strand

The motion picture devotees who enjoy a genuine story excellently directed and capably acted, have a rare treat in store for them at the Strand theatre where Hugh Dierker's production, Cause for Divorce, commenced its three days' engagement today.

The original narrative was written by clever Thelma Lanier, who is relative of the gifted poet, Sydney Lanier, and the plot deals with the temptations of two wives who are dissatisfied with their lives they are leading. Miss Lanier brings out with unmistakable clearness the often unwelcome truth that there is always another side to every tale.

Frits' Brunette and Helen Lynch take the parts of the two wives, while David Butler and Pat O'Malley are the husbands. Charles Clary has the role of a millionaire, who discovers to his surprise that money will not buy everything. The rest of the cast is, also admirably suited to the characters they portray.

Broad Theatre

Half-a-Dollar-Bill, a new Metro picture produced by Max Graf, opened yesterday at the Breed theatre, where its reception by crowded audiences indicates a successful engagement. Indeed, Half-a-dollar-Bill has every popular element to insure favor. It is a sea story, and the author, Curtis Benton, has given it a novel twist. The direction by W. S. Van Dyck compels the interest throughout. It is splendidly acted by Anna Q. Nilsson, William T. Carleton, Raymond Hatton, George MacQuarrie, Mitchell Lewis and Alec B. Francis. The fourteen-year-old boy actor, Frankie Darro, gives a sympathetic and exceptional performance in the title role of a little waif who is nicknamed after a torn bill that was pinned to him when he was abandoned.

Andre Barlatier was photographer and Alfred A. Cohen title writer. The production was personally supervised by Max Graf.

Half-a-Dollar-Bill will be shown again today and tomorraw at the Breed and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and an Educational comedy.

At the Palace.

Heading the vaudeville bill the first three days at the Palace will be the Cora Youngblood Corson Sextette, a group of pretty girls in a novel musical revue, elaborately staged and beautifully costumed. Delmore and Lee in a marvelous novelty; Percy Jones, the monopedic comedienne; Brennan and Hale in an act entitled Breaking Into Vaudeville. The Three Alberts, European novelty artists, complete the bill. This is an exceptionally clever act. The feature picture starring Douglas MacLean in The Yankee Consul, is one in which this popular star is at his best. The eighth round of Fighting Blood and a news reel complete the show.

The management is offering a bargain matinee to the ladies on Monday afternoon when all ladies will be admitted for ten cents. A big crowd is anticipated and it is advised that all who intend to come to be early.

Naval authorities landed 4,370 bags of American mail from the liner Minnekahda in Plymouth, Eng., after labor union officials had induced the crews of the Mail tenders to refuse to handle the bags. The mail was taken to the Devonport navy-yard.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Killingly High school was represented by five entrants in the senior typewriting and shorthand state-wide competition for high school students, at Meriden Saturday. A special honor for herself, and in this her school and the town she represented shares, was won by Miss Fleurette Boulaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Boulaine, in annexing a silver medal for having written 1932 words, with only nine errors charged against her, in a speed contest of 15 minutes, a net of 63 words per minute. Only one other entrant of those who came from all parts of the state eclipsed Miss Boulaine's record, and it may be mentioned that Miss Boulaine had the smallest number of errors of any of those who competed conspicuously at the contest.

In the shorthand competition, Miss Boulaine and Miss Margaret Burton received honorable mention.

So impressive was the showing made by entrants of Killingly High school that there was a rush of inquiry by representatives of schools in cities and towns throughout Connecticut taking part in the contest as to where in the state Killingly is located.

Now that may be a reflection on the knowledge of state-wide geography possessed by some really valuable instructors in stenography and typewriting, and that of some of their pupils, but it does not detract one whit from the fine service Killingly High school students rendered, nor take from them any of the credit they so richly deserve for impressing representatives of high schools of the state that there is an institution of learning in this northeastern corner of Connecticut that has an educational system of merit, and that this may be amply demonstrated anywhere at any time in competition by the students who are enrolled here.

Killingly is proud of the showing the students representing the commercial department of the high school made at Meriden Saturday.

As accurately as may be ascertained by listening to what the average person has to say about the matter, February and its exasperating weather can go and be blowed for another year. It has been characteristically rough and cold and stormy and has left this particularly town coated in ice and made going almost impossible for man or beast and a trial to those who drive motor cars and try to keep them in the road without running down pedestrians who have been driven to walk in them because sidewalks are covered with ice and are unsafe for anything with only two legs to walk upon.

The going in the borough is slippery to the point of exasperation, more slippery even than the going for those who have their feet all mussed up with the oil scandal. Strange to say, the highways two miles south of Danielson are as bare as in summer. The southerly line of the borough seems to have marked the limit of the intensity of last Wednesday's storm. There is more than as much snow along the streets in the borough's business section as there is on the route to Wauregan.

Some of those who braved a tramp through the woods Sunday found pussy willows blowing us an advance notice of the coming of spring. But nothing has been heard for the past three weeks about peanuts blooming out of doors or dozens of spring signs to which reference was being made prior to the present long-drawn-out cold weather.

North High school of Worcester will be here Wednesday evening to play Killingly High school in what should be one of the fastest games of a season that is drawing on toward its close. This particular Worcester High school team has splendid ability and should make as good a showing as did the Pawtucket High school team on its recent visit to Danielson.

At a dance at Central Village Saturday evening officers from the local state police barracks arrested Winfred Farr. He will be presented in court at Central Village this (Monday) morning to answer to a charge of having been intoxicated and for breach of the peace.

This week's effort on the part of a unit of the organizations of St. James' parish to raise funds for the new parochial school building will be a whist by the French-speaking members of the Children of Mary. It was pointed out in the announcement at St. James' church Sunday that actual building of the proposed structure will be undertaken as early as the generous giving of members of the parish makes this possible. The school is urgently needed to replace the one now in use and built in 1886.

Pheasants, driven from cover in the search of food, have been noted in state highways and other places where they are not usually seen at this time of year during the past few days. This is also true of partridges and other game birds.

Members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club were at their traps in the Allen hill section Sunday afternoon for a practice shoot, this feature of the club's program for the year holding an appeal for many of the members.

Mrs. Mary Monohan and Mrs. Mary Quinn, sisters, are ill at their home on Furnace street.

A large number attended the meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange in Odd Fellows' hall Saturday afternoon and found the program very entertaining.

The well baby conference scheduled to be held in the town hall, Tuesday afternoon, is a matter in which many mothers have become interested. Dr. Elizabeth Ingraham of the child hygiene bureau will be in attendance.

Miss Lena Roberge and John Bresyea will be married this (Monday) morning at 8 o'clock at St. James' church.

Remodeling of the stores in the Bertis building is continuing. Steel ceilings and sidewalls are being put in. A modern front recently was pleted at this building.

There was a slight thaw during the warmer hours of Sunday, but no great impression was made on the ice that covers streets and walks throughout the borough.

Not an arrest in the town of Killingly over the week-end—another evidence that people of communities hereabouts are not so bad.

A committee of the chamber of commerce is engaged in ascertaining the sentiment of Danielson's business men on closing Thursday afternoons throughout the year, excepting during the Christmas season. Clerks, who have been petitioned for the half-holiday are anxiously awaiting a verdict on the matter.

It is possible that farm help will not be as scarce this coming spring as has been the case for several years. An operator of a large farm near Danielson says he received a peck of letters in answer to one advertisement for a farm foreman.

Professor Esten, bacteriologist at Connecticut Agricultural college; Frederick Rosebrooks, Miss Dorothy Buckley of the Connecticut Dairymen's association, and George Deane, of Woodstock, will be among the speakers, when a Dairymen's institute under the auspices of the Windham County Farmers' association is held tomorrow (Tuesday), opening at 10 a. m. at Guilford Smith hall in South Windham. Miss Buckley will discuss the food value of milk. A representative of the Connecticut Dairymen's associaiton will talk upon the principles of dairying. Mr. Deane will discuss the Farm Flock as a Sideline to Dairying. Mr. Deane has successfully carried poultry as a side line to dairying and his talk will hold a dual interest for poultrymen and dairymen.

SAVED CONNECTICUT MILLS FROM RECEIVER, HE SAYS

R. J. Caldwell, president of the R. J. Caldwell company, selling agents for the Connecticut Mills Corporation at Danielson, since its organization fourteen years ago, was shown the statement of the committee of preferred stockholders of Connecticut Mills company, and being asked to comment on the same, stated the following:

On two distinct occasions since the death of the treasurer of Connecticut Mills, I saved the company from receivership, by subordinating my claim (one of the largest against the Connecticut Mills company) to that of all other creditors. When the preferred stockholders took hold of the company, I came to its rescue with a loss. The "long term sales contracts for a considerable portion of the Mills' products," to which the preferred stockholders' committee refers, have been and are the salvation of the company. These contracts were secured by my sales organization.

In view of all this, which is a matter of record and beyond dispute, it is not difficult to understand the situation.

R. J. CALDWELL.

PUTNAM

Putnam's new music hall was opened for the first time, Saturday night. A large crowd was attracted to see the interior of the new building, also by the dancing to music by the Dixieland orchestra of Worcester.

Following the closing of Union hall on account of the fire hazard, there remained no place in the city large enough for gatherings of any size. It was then that William St. Onge, who had started the erection of a building, ostensibly to be used for a moving picture house, changed his plans and made up his mind to give Putnam one of the best dance halls and sites for concerts, balls and other large public gatherings in eastern Connecticut. That Mr. St. Onge has done this was the unanimous opinion of the many people present at the informal opening, Saturday night.

The building is a one-story structure of concrete and stands in the rear of Livery street. The entrance however, is on Livery street, where one passes through a smaller building used for ticket selling and the checking of wraps. This avoids all confusion in the main building.

The hall itself is built in pavilion style, the dance floor being railed off with a wide promenade on three sides. The stage is a low one and is at the south end of the building and was arranged with a view to proper acoustics. The heating plant is under the stage; from there hot air is forced to all parts of the building.

Attorney J. F. Carpenter, acting for Thomas J. Corcoran, Jr., has filed a notice of appeal with the clerk of the superior court from the decision of Judge George E. Hinman granting a divorce to Mrs. Laura Brodeur Corcoran, with alimony appoximating $12,000. While a notice of appeal contains nothing from which the grounds of appeal may be determined it may be assumed as there was no contest relative to the divorce, that the appeal will have more to do with the matter of alimony granted by the court.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Mann of New York were week-end guests of Mr. Mann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Mann.

Mrs. W. H. Holmes of Mount Vernon, N. Y., has returned home after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. A. W. Macdonald.

The Soder building has been rushed to such a degree that it is now believed office tenants will be able to move into the building the first of March, or soon after, instead of the first of April. All but one of the stores of the Strombella block are occupied and the vacant one is leased.

T. H. DeCourres has returned from a trip to Florida. Mrs. DeCourres and her two daughters will remain south until warmer weather.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Putnam Rotary club are planning a joint Find Yourself campaign in this city and a meeting will be held this (Monday) afternoon to perfect plans. The idea is to assemble boys from 16 to 20 years of age and help them to determine upon as their life's work.

Putnam grange held a largely attended whist in Odd Fellows' hall, Friday evening, at which 22 tables were in play. The first lady's prize was won by Mrs. Louis Bonnin and the first gentlemen's prize by O. E. Hermanson. Following the whist refreshments were served and there was dancing.

Charles W. Thompson of East Woodstock came near being seriously burned when his automobile caught fire and was destroyed, Friday evening, and a chicken coop and seven chickens were burned. What started the fire Mr. Thompson does not know, but he thinks it came from trouble in the battery. The car was insured.

Mr. Thompson had been to Fabyan and was returning home. Suddenly there was a burst of flame and in a few seconds the car was surrounded by fire. Mr. Thompson had to jump and, so quickly did the fire envelop the machine, he had no opportunity to rescue the small coop in the tonneau in which were the seven chickens. Neither did he have time to get the car to the side of the road. Although assistance arrived, nothing could be done to save the car, which was a new one.

United States Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue Leon T. Wilson of this city is to be at the office of the city clerk, common council chamber, all this week to assist any who may desire in making out his income tax report. If the taxpayer needs this assistance and has his figures in shape so that his report can be made out, he will find little difficulty and no expense if he consults the government's representative. Friday and Saturday, to take care of the expected last minute rush, Deputy E. G. Gates, of New London, will be present to assist Deputy Wilson. The office will be open from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. each day.

Attorney Howard C. Bradford, who has been assistant prosecuting attorney of the city of Putnam for the past two terms, but whom the common council did not re-elect at the biennial meeting in January, was asked, Saturday, whether or not he still considered himself the incumbent of the office, in view of the fact that the common council has elected a layman, City Clerk Thomas P. Ryan, to succeed him, Bradford, in the office of assistant prosecutor.

Attorney Bradford said that he considered himself the assistant prosecuting attorney until his successor is legally elected and has qualified. When the appointment of Mr. Ryan was called to his attention, Attorney Bradford voiced the opinion that Mr. Ryan is not legally qualified, in that he is not a member of the bar and is not an attorney-at-law, legally qualified to practice in the courts of this state which includes the city court of Putnam.

Attorney Bradford called attention to the opinion of the present chief justice, George W. Wheeler, rendered in the superior court of Windham county in 1900, when the chief justice was a judge of the superior court, in which, the opinion sets forth, "one but an attorney-at-law had the right to plead in the courts of this state, except in his own case, and that the election by the common council does not confer upon him this privilege. Also the judge's opinion that "the successful prosecution of cases in our courts require training, experience and learning of the attorney-at-law and that no other is competent to transact such public business, the public safety being of too paramount importance to have crimes go unpunished and criminals escape justice because the prosecutor is ignorant, inexperienced or unskilful."

Attorney Bradford said that he would have no reluctance in stepping aside whenever the common council makes an appointment of an attorney-at-law to succeed him in office, but until such time he does feel that there is no legal appointment and that there is a matter of principle and duty involved. Not only a duty to himself but a paramount duty to the people of Putnam to see, so far as he is able, that the legal rights of the citizens are safeguarded.

"I should worry" was the attitude of City Clerk Thomas P. Ryan, when asked how he viewed the controversy over his appointment as assistant prosecuting attorney. "They've got me into it, let them get me out of it!" was one of his comments.

Mr. Ryan was asked if he had read the substance of the decision of the court in the Gorman case which appeared in this column. When it was shown him and he had read it through he was asked what he was going to do.

"Nothing!" said Mr. Ryan.

"But suppose the first of the week the prosecuting attorney should be out of the city and it became necessary to prosecute someone, then what would you do?" he was asked.

"Nothing!" again came the reply.

"Do you consider that you are assistant prosecuting attorney?" he was asked.

"I shouldn't think so, not from what the court says" said Mr. Ryan.

Mr. Ryan stated that he did not seek the position, but was given to understand that no lawyer wanted it and as someone had to take it, and they wanted him, he took it. Mr. Ryan was asked to suppose that a case came up with the prosecutor out of the city and he was called upon to act and Attorney Bradford was also present in court, what he would do. He replied that it wouldn't occur. He said that he wouldn't be present.

With a twinkle in his eye, Mr. Ryan said that he had planned on buying an automobile with the $50 a year salary that the office carried, but that if Mr. Bradford wanted it he was willing that he should have it.

Mr. Ryan was asked if he would make a contest, if necessary, to retain the position and stated that it was up to the common council, as that body had elected him. He made it understood that he would spend no money to retain the position and that, in fact, he did not care whether he retained the office or not.

Mr. Ryan said that he had never before heard of the Gorman case and left a final impression that it would be time enough to decide the matters on which he had been questioned when an emergency arose.

A Democratic rally, or school of democracy was held in the Westerly town hall with about 125 in attendance Saturday evening. The meeting originally scheduled for 8 o'clock was delayed by the late arrival of Governor of Rhode Island William S. Flynn and his party who were scheduled to speak. The meeting was called by Mrs. Susan Sharp Adams, a member of the democratic state central committee, who presided at the meeting after her introduction by Thomas V. B. Clancy, a member of the Westerly democratic town committee. Seated on the platform there were also Winslow N. York and Frank G. Booth of Westerly, Governor Flynn, State Representative Isabelle Ahearn O'Neil of the Rhode Island legislature, Assistant Attorney General Luigi De Pasquale and Mrs. Halsey W. Wilson, Director of Education for the democratic party. Mrs. Adams in introducing Mrs. Wilson, the first speaker, said that democratic schools had been started at Newport and Mrs. Wilson had held a three day school in Providence for both old and young women, and altogether had held 33 schools for democracy.

Mrs. Wilson said that Rhode Island women had been able to vote but four years while in her state, New York, they had been voting since 1917. Although born in Wisconsin, her parents had come from New England. She said that she had become interested in voting when she had seen foreign born, naturalized citizens vote and knew that women who had always lived in America could not vote. By federal law or constitutional amendment when 36 states had ratified the amendment Rhode Island granted women the vote and by this act 20,000,000 had been brought into the electrate for whom there was need for instruction. The history of the democratic party was traced and its principles of the present day were stated. She ended her talk by a prediction of a glorious future for the party and making a plea for more money to be spent for the children, she said that "it would raise up citizens with more opportunity, more usefulness, which was for life, liberty and pursuits of happiness.

His Excellency Governor William S. Flynn, the second speaker, had for his subject "The Duties of Citizenship and the Problems that Face Us Here in Rhode Island." Noticing Republican Representative S. H. Davis in the audience, Gov. Flynn remarked that he was glad to see some present in the hall "seeking enlightenment from a democratic platform." Gov. Flynn said that new ideals had been spoken of, as he would speak of old ideals. The bronze tablet to Revolutionary heroes in the hall reminded him of ideals for which they fought. The desirability of doing away with the property qualification in Rhode Island was urged by the governor, as well as the taking away fra mthe legislature the control of the judges and sheriffs of the state. He told his hearers that these matters could be read about in their papers. Wilbert A. Clarke interrupted the speaker with the statement "We can't get it in our papers." Gov. Flynn replied, read the Providence papers and naming two said that a third "was at least fair at times and put in the news." Democratic victory was predicted by the governor.

Representative in Rhode Island legislature Mrs. Isabelle Ahearn O'Neil said that Mrs. Wilson had been doing splendid work in her Democratic schools. She asked if Senator Dadson of Westerly had been made postmaster and being given a negative answer said that the people of Rhode Island wanted a 48-hour bill that some of the people could be fooled some of the time but not all the time an dthat Judas and traitors were not wanted in the legislature. She spoke of her various bills in the legislature, especially the Mothers' Aid bill, in which Representative Davis of Westerly had introduced the compromise bill. She then spoke in Italian for ten minutes and closed her remarks by urging early registry.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Luigi DePasquale spoke of the undesirability of the Johnson immigration bill, the value of election of judges as well as other officials by popular vote, saying that when public officials did not know that gambling was going on in Narragansett Pier and Charlestown, it was time for a change. The meeting closed at 10.45.

Peter Piscatello, the 14 year old son of Frank Piscotello, 78 Pleasant St., was seriously injured in Wilcox park at 11.40 Sunday morning. While sliding down one of the hills in the park the Piscatello boy lost control of his sled when another boy got in his way. Crashing into a tree he was thrown from his sled which passed over his left leg tearing the clothing and the skin and flesh from the boy's leg and laying it back until the muscles were exposed next to the bone.

The injured boy was taken by his companions on his sled while he held his torn flesh in place to the office of Dr. Michael H. Scanlon. It was found that the boy who was fat and had an unusually large leg had torn some 30 square inches of flesh away, which would require at least 40 stitches to close. After dressing the wounds and giving the boy medical attention Dr. Scanlon, in the absence of the Westerly Sanitary Corps ambulance, had the boy taken to the Rhode Island hospital in the automobile of Joseph Amantia. The injured boy was accompanied to the hospital by his cousin, Angelo Turo, of the California Frut Co., where the young boy has worked from time to time.

Peter L. Priore of Pierce street is at the Rhode Island hospital in Providence where he was taken the first of last week. Toward the end of the week he underwent an operation and is reported as improving.

Gerna Piscatella, a young girl residing on the West Side, fell on the ice in the back yard on Washington's birthday. Her left arm was broken in three places. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called and gave the girl medical treatment.

THE FORESTRY PROBLEM.

Speaking on the occasion of the dedication of Sage hall of the school of Forestry at Yale, Professor J. W. Toumey, former dean of the Yale forestry school, stressed the importance of extensive and immediate attention to the forestry problems of this country.

It was no new idea that he advanced, but a repetition of one that has for years been urged, though, unfortunately, it has failed to get the response that it deserves. Connecticut, in the opinion of Prof. Toumey, has backslid in forestry to the point where it can be pointed out to others as the terrible example. He doesn't put it in those words but he said: "Without care all the forests of America will be like those of Connecticut today that contain scarcely a log suitable for construction purposes."

He didn't mean that to be taken literally, for there is much timber of value in Connecticut today, and much is yearly being turned into construction though possibly on a small scale. But what he was endeavoring to do was to impress upon his hearers and the country the necessity of not only thinking about the inevitable situation unless something is done on a scale that shows acceleration each year, but of actually doing it. It does no good to talk about such matters and to agree to the need, unless it is translated into action.

Raiding our forest lands each year without making an effort to replace what is taken means that those of the future must look for substitutes. We cannot continue to reduce the supply and expect the supply to be always available, except that the production that will replenish the depleted supply is kept up to the level of the demand.

In Connecticut for a long time the woodman has been noticeably busy. His object, however, is not building material though a small amount is produced as it is found. He, with the forest fires, cleans off the hillsides and for the most part new growth is left entirely to nature. Producing timber requires time, but through the methods that can be applied in reforestation work desirable results are obtainable in producing timber for various uses and for making use of land that might otherwise produce nothing.

NOT A CASE FOR LENIENCY

Whether the old saying that everyone has his price is accepted or not, it is disclosed from time to time that it fits many. Possibly one of the most astonishing disclosures in this direction that has come to light of late is that of the New York man who has admitted that he is a fireburg, that he has been employed to do such work by an official of a laundrymen's association, that he was paid $50 a week for his work and that he set fire to buildings in which were the apartments of many families without giving any thought to the effect that his actions might have upon them.

Some people are satisfied to earn money in any way. There can be no sympathy whatever for the gunman who is ready and willing to take the life of the individual whom he is about to rob, and certainly there can be even less for the person who is ready and willing to apply the firebrand which may mean the loss of many lives in addition to the destruction of much property. And when it comes to classification there isn't any difference between the fellow, who applies the torch and the man who hires him.

Well may the public seek a lasting protection from such individuals. They are engaged in a type of crime that calls for the limit of the law upon conviction. It is inconceivable that the fire setter was not conscious of the peril to which he was subjecting the lives of many families. Rather does it appear that in his greed for gold, and his willingness to earn it in any manner, he was cold blooded enough to give no thought to those who might be in the building, and who might be burned to death by his action, but even more important is it that the man higher up should be similarly dealt with. It may be easy enough to get such tools but it must be clearly evident that they are not going to find employment if there are none seeking their services.

THE REPARATIONS PROBE.

Till the special committee now in Berlin, has something to say for itself, it may be well to withhold judgment on what its recommendations are likely to be. Chairman Dawes can be relied upon to waste no time in getting that into shape as soon as the committee has completed its work, and upon that judgment must be passed by the countries which have been at loggerheads concerning the reparation problem.

There comes from Germany, however, reports to the effect that the committee is about through, that it has found that Germany is able to meet the reparations demanded, but that it should have a three years' moratorium to permit it to get onto its feet, after which it would be able to pay six and a half per cent on the 70 billion gold marks without resorting to taxation that would be any heavier than is now being paid by the allied nations. It is also reported that the committee has found that Germany has sent about $2,000,000,000 worth of securities out of the country.

Committees were selected for the purpose of getting at the facts and to indicate how Germany could meet the situation. There would of course be the need of an international loan, a new understanding in regard to the railroad lines and a new banking arrangement in Germany if guarantees were to amount to anything.

How near the rumored findings will come to those actually contained in the report remains to be seen. It is evident that the report should be considered in its entirety before the efficacy of any part of it can be properly passed upon. And the presentation of a report doesn't necessarily mean that the plan will be put into effect. To accomplish that there must be agreement among all those concerned, and that is not the easiest thing to obtain.

There has been the feeling all along that Germany could pay. France has insisted on it and it is in the Ruhr today because of that attitude. Whether it can be budged from that region under further German promises is a question. Whether Germany can make other guarantees that France will accept is another. The committee's report may be such as to eliminate oppositions of the past.

ALTITUDE RECORDS.

If it is possible for mechanics to produce the machine and adequate equipment there is little question but what Lieutenant Macready will yet gain the honor of attaining the highest altitude. He has the disposition, the necessary skill and the ambition, and he is willing to make such sacrifices as are necessary to get the coveted honor.

High flying has featured the work of this army aviator and he is ready to go again when there is anything to go in. Altitude flights are tests of men as well as machines. Though suffering from cold and frost-bitten, Lieutenant Mcready was willing to have gone higher and probably would have done so but for the fact that something in his supercharger broke, making it necessary to descend. From unofficial figures he probably failed to reach as great a height as did a French aviator last fall. That it was a disappointment can be imagined but failure didn't undermine his ambition any more than it did last November.

That there is an aviator ready to do his part and possessing the skill to direct the machine to unprecedented heights has been demonstrated by the army lieutenant at Dayton. Apparently all that stands in the way of his making a new record is the equipment with which to do it. Constant development and improvement have brought the flying machine to a high degree of perfection. Just as soon as a machine with the necessary equipment for flying in thin air can be perfected to meet the demands for the comparatively short time that is required for breaking the altitude record Lieutenant Macready has made it plain that he stands ready to drive it. And in all probability it will be a long time before the race for altitude records comes to an end.

THE PAIGE BILL.

According to the Paige bill which has been introduced in congress an increase in pay from a maximum of $1800 to $2400 a year is sought for letter carriers, after which there would be a chance to get $2500 a year as special clerks after a service of eight years or after four years at the maximum salary as carrier, and with an increase as special clerk to $2600 a year after one year's service in such a position.

This increase in pay is sought on the ground that the postal employes are required to show a certain degree of efficiency and intelligence, that many years are required before they can obtain the maximum rate and that the value of retaining men of experience and ability in the service is preferable to the constant changes that are made necessary when postal employes are drawn into other lines of employment because better wages are paid.

Under the proposed plan there would be an increase in pay of $200 each year for a period of four years and the belief prevails that it would not only come nearer placing the postal employe on a par with other workers but that it would result in a much more efficient force in the service of this federal department. The postoffice business is showing an increase each year. The more there is to do the greater is the desire for competency. Private business places much dependence upon the tried and trusted employe and aims to develop and retain such. The Paige bill has been presented with a view to removing handicaps which now prevail in the postal service, both as to getting employes and retaining them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The supreme court has held the Arkansas tax on gasoline is valid. It is also a great road mender if rightly applied.

The man on the corner says: How many tons of coal must you add to your patience to see the winter through?

J. M. Cox's determination to try again indicates that he has been impressed by the attitude of William Jennings Bryan.

In the soft coal agreement, like many other things, the consumer is supposed to be satisfied because conditions are no worse.

The good citizen quickly loses his even disposition when he's made the target of the splash from an inconsiderately driven motor vehicle.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A little vinegar in your cake icing will keep it from becoming too sugary.

Use borax water instead of starch for stiffening voiles, dimities, sheer fine collars and cuffs or any fussy neckwear.

If fat gets too hot before you are ready to use it, put in a handful of raw sliced potatoes. That will lower the temperature.

To slice hard-boiled eggs neatly without crumbling use a knife dipped in boiling water and wiped dry. Repeat as often as it cools.

The texture of angel or sponge cakes is improved if you divide them by pulling apart with two forks instead of using a knife.

Grease stains on leather may be removed by applying benzine or pure turpentine. Wash the spots afterward with well-beaten white of an egg or a good leather reviver.

If you have difficulty in driving small tacks into the wall, put them in, then pull off the cardboard.

When serving afternoon tea, if you pour a few drops of hot water into the saucers, enough to just moisten them, you will find the cups will not slip about on the saucers when you are passing them to your guests.

Sago which has been soaked in milk until quite soft makes a good substitute for suet. One teaspoonful or dry sago should be used to four of flour.

You can sharpen scissors or shears by placing the neck of a glass bottle between the blades and closing them several times as if trying to cut off the bottle neck.

The reason most table ferns do not live and prosper is because they are put in too shallow a dish or because ample drainage is not provided by covering the bottom with a layer of broken crockery.

TO LINE CAKE TIN

The correct way to line a round cake tin with paper is to cut out a double thick band about two and one-half to three and one-half inches wider than the depth of the tin itself and somewhat longer than its girth. The paper should be folded over for about one inch and notches should be cut at even distances, so that the band, when laid at the bottom of the tin, will lie flat, the "hem" covering the space between the other band and the circular piece of paper to cover the bottom, which is inserted last of all.

CLEAN GARBAGE CAN

You can buy paper bags just the size of your garbage can to be used as a lining and thus save washing the can so often. If you do not have these, just a newspaper folded and made to line the can is a great labor saver.

ADDRESSES HANDY

Keep a file of names and addresses of the tradesfolk you call frequently, such as the plumber, upholsterer, carpenter and others, so that when you need one's services quickly you will waste no time trying to locate him.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

To rejuvenate the neck, massage well, using a circular motion of the fingers and getting the warm oil well into the skin. Then bind up the neck comfortably with strips of old linen or muslin. This holds in the cream and also saves the clothing.

If you can't eat rich, fancy dishes, be glad of that—for plain foods if well cooked, are usually easier to digest and are as nourishing. Too much nourishment means that something is going to clog up the system, it means extra work in digesting and eliminating foods.

Do not often cleanse your neck with cold cream if it is too plump. Scrub it well with warm soapsuds, then rinse and dry it thoroughly. Finally dampen it with a good astringent such as alcohol and slap it gently until it is quite dry. This massage movement stirs up the circulation and so burns up superfluous fat. But you will have to persevere to get results.

To file down the ridges on your nails you must have a fine quality pumice, otherwise the nails will be too deeply scratched. First of all soak the fingers in warm, soapy water. A few minutes' immersion is quite enough; in fact, you will save time if you use the pumice immediately after a bath, or after washing the hands and face. Then take the pumice and go carefully over each new filing down the ridges until they seem smooth. It is remarkable how little you must take off to do away with what seems like a deep ridge. Wash the nails again and, if you are manicuring, finish this process without paying any attention to the nails' scratched surface.

GIVE ODD CHAIR A COAT OF BRONZE

Odd chairs, jardiniere stands or lamp stands, can be refinished in a two-color bronze effect by any one who has a small degree of skill with the brush and color pot.

The piece of furniture should be dusted, then given a coat of shellac all over. When dry, choose the spots which you wish to high-light in gold. For example, if you are doing a chair, the carved or embossed work on the back and also the turned work on the center of the front rounds should be so treated. First, they should be coated with gold bronze; when this is dry coat in the remainder of the piece with aluminum bronze.

The aluminum bronze should be cut in very carefully around each figure that has been done in gold. If there are any runs or aluminum on the gold these blemishes should be wiped off, then the spots retouched with gold.

The proportion of gold bronze to be used depends upon the style of the piece you are doing, but the use of too much gold will spoil the appearance of almost any piece.

TABLE DECORATIONS

Nothing could be more decorative for the table than a low flat dish of ruby Venetian glass which serves as a base for a slender graceful vase. There are smaller vases for the ends of the table and also beautiful branched candlebras encircled with wreaths of colored glass flowers.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Fur handbags are very smart, particularly when they match the coat and hat.

New crepe de chines for summer have crossbar patterns in embroidery of a contrasting color.

Some of the new black suede hats have white kid trimmings, or gold or silver nailheads studding the crown.

The plaid skirt and the jacket of plain material is one variation of popular tailleur that is particularly youthful and charming.

Modifications of the Venetian tricorn are being developed as the ideal hat to wear with the plain spring tailleur.

Many of the new shoes shown at present have toes decidedly flat and squared. With the odd colors combined with gold and silver brocade, these shoes are very medieval in appearance.

Silk alpaca is a fabric of unequaled popularity for the simple dress or suit. In white and pastel shades it is quite as popular as in the more serviceable shades.

It is noticeable that the spring hosiery takes on two decided casts. It seems to incline toward gray or toward tan and in either case it is careful to have an undertone of warm pink.

Printed taffetas are once more with us today. They are lovelier than ever, with their flowered patterns, either in demure little nosegays or scattered buds.

One style which slender women are sponsoring today is that of a thick fur girdle. This band of fur, very wide, is placed at the hip line on flimsy gowns of chiffon.

The tailored suit for spring wear is bringing out mannish accessories. String ties in all the lovely shades are featured in one of the shops. In orange and powder blue they are particularly lovely.

COLORS AND DESIGNS

A recent show held by foremost American style creators emphasized certain of the prevailing fashion tendencies, established silhouette and lines and pointed to the growing popularity of colors whose vogue is expected to continue throughout the spring and early summer.

As was to be expected, much attention was given to suits of boyish lines and in these there was a noticeable tendency to choose hairline stripe materials and covert mixtures.

The costume suit was not lacking. A coat of three-quarter length was worn over a skirt of the same material, topped by a tunic blouse of silk in a shade that contrasted with the coat and skirt.

A marked preference was revealed for brown in all its color variations. The vogue of brown extends to millinery and to footwear.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

To keep your thread in convenient shape, run a knitting needle across the bottom of your sewing basket and arrange the spools on that.

When stitching thin silk or any goods inclined to pucker, place a strip of paper on the upper side and stitch through. The needle cuts the paper and it is easily pulled away, leaving the seam free of any inclination to pucker.

If you must stitch heavy materials, such as canvas, khaki, duck or ticking, rub the seams and hemlines with hard yellow soap and the needle will penetrate easily.

A FEW SEWING HINTS

A resourceful housewife decided to use some of her spare time in making an attractive luncheon set for her summer cottage. She procured yellow and white checked gingham. Out of this she made two runners to use across each other on the dining room table of the cottage home. She also made a dozen napkins and several doilies. Some of the latter were oval to cover asbestos mats. The edges were buttonholed and scalloped in black and a simple design in cross-stitch in black, pink and blue decorated each piece. The work went surprisingly quickly.

To complete the set she purchased a can of black paint and a small brush. Two old candlesticks from which the paint was worn were painted black and fitted with yellow wax candles. Two small ash trays with advertising on the bottom were painted black and one used for a yellow and white marmalade jar, and the other for a dish for pickles or jelly. An old-fashioned footed white crockery dish which had not been used for years was painted black and used for a fruit compote for the middle of the table. Thus a yellow and black luncheon set was provided at small cost.

An old-time silk beaver hat of rich brown and with a fine nap had been stored away in the attic because of its original expensiveness. It was brought down, carefully examined and cut into an adorable little poke shape. The edge was bound with gold ribbon and gold and crimson flowers were fashioned from the ribbon and some pieces of velvet. The flowers were sewed flat on the hat, so as to give a tailored effect, and the result was a "creation" that would have cost many dollars if it had been purchased at the present time.

THE BAG NOVELTY

The fob envelope bag is a novelty; the fobs are attached to the bag so that they will hang perfectly straight all the time with only the pendant left free to dangle. Some of the bags have a little slit pocket just over the fob where the handkerchief is tucked, and others have the simulated fob made of bright colored beads and plaques all in the type of the Chinese, and hung with a beaded fringe instead of the pendant of the fob.

EACH HAT IN BOX

Every hat should be assigned to a particular box and placed in it directly after it is removed from the head. Brush the hat well, unless it has been submitted to dampness. In that event fill the crown and brim with tissue paper to prevent them losing their curves, and be certain that the hat has thoroughly dried before putting it away.

To remove finger marks on a highly polished piano wipe with a cloth wet in purewood water then wipe dry. This restores the new look at once.

STAINS ON MARBLE

You can remove stains from marble by rubbing the spot with a slice of lemon dipped in salt. Let the juice stand on the spot for about and hour, then wash off. Not only will the stain be removed but the gloss will have returned.

RECIPES

Spanish Potatoes: Peel and press through a ricer enough hot, white potatoes to make one quart. Dissolve in one-half cup of hot milk, one teaspoon of salt and three tablespoons of butter; add to this one cup of canned pimentos, measured after being drained dry, mashed and rubbed through a sieve. Mix the pulp with the riced potatoes and beat thoroughly, adding a little more hot milk if needed. The mixture should be of the consistency of mashed potatoes. Pile into a buttered vegetable dish, set into the oven until there is a suggestion of browning on top, and the whole is heated through-out. Sprinkle with fine chopped parsley just before serving. Serve with roast lamb, veal or chicken.

Commodore Potato Croquettes: To two cups of hot, riced potatoes add three tablespoons of butter, three-fourths teaspoon of salt, one-half tablespoon of fine chopped truffles and the yolks of three eggs slightly beaten. Spread mixture on a plate and when cool enough to handle shape in balls (allowing one rounded tablespoon to each croquette); roll in flour, dip in egg and roll in blanched and finely shredded almonds. See that the croquettes are well coated. Fry in deep fat, drain on soft brown paper and serve with roast jumbo squabs, or braised sweetbreads, at a ladies' luncheon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Civil War Soldiers Fast Fading Away

Mr. Editor: In 1861 drums beat and bugles sounded and the greatest war in history began. Men and boys all volunteered. Over 3,000,000 men were in the Union. Forty-five per cent. gave up their lives for their country. Statistics show a loss of 22 per cent. for the world war, 15 per cent. for Napoleon's army. In December 1923, 2341 died which shows how fast the boys of 1861-5 are passing away now. But a few short years and all will be gone.

They are all old and gray and are over 70. Still at one time they were the pride of the land. Who realizes today of the many hardships they passed through, while half the land was drenched in blood and the other half were in tears?

Comrades, alas, full well we know; Memorial days will come and go
But few before the G. A. R.
Will vanish like a fallen star.
Well all of us have dropped I hope
Each wicked soldiers way.
Have signed the pledge, eschewed cards
And grown honest at the day.
But should the trumpet sound again;
We'll hail the brighter day
Where neath the same flag shall march
The Blue and march the gray.
When bursting from the bloody shrouds
With common cause arrayed,
The victorious shouts of Kearney's men
Will welcome Hill's brigade.
But comrades, let us sweep a while
Those sad day's clouds away,
Let's view the brighter, joyous scenes
That line the soldier's way.
Let's light our camp fires once again
That gleamed from every hill,
Let's sing the song we used to sing
And sing them with a will.

BOUVERT

"The loneliest bit of land in all the lonely seas of the earth perhaps is Bouvert Island, the object of an expedition which recently left this country for the Antarctic," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Two of its nearest inhabited neighbors to the north sea on the longitudinal ridge of the Atlantic ocean, which supports only about 75 people, and Cape Town on the southern tip of Africa, both of which are about 3,200 miles away.

"So far as now is known, no one lives on Bouvert Island; in fact, few noted explorers ever visited it, few whalers or sealers ever sighted its snowy outlines against the cold South Polar skies, and for a long time its very existence was doubted.

"The French explorer, M. des Lozliers Bouvet in 1738, while following the southern ice-pack for a considerable distance and marveling at the great flat-topped Antartic icebergs which swung into his line of vision, first sighted a high land and covered with snow which looked to him like a great headland. He was unable however, to determine whether this new land he had discovered was an island of a part of a continent. But the Captain of the 'Aigle' presented his pilot with a handsome sum of money for directing the vessel toward a hitherto uncharted piece of land and he called the headland which first caught his eye 'Cap de la Circoncision,' in honor of the day of the discovery—a name which it still bears.

"The desire to solve the problem presented in this mysterious bit of land in the ocean tempted the explorer to put his ships at it for twelve days, but the great sheets of ice which bore down upon him, together with the heavy fog, proved as effective as a hostile fleet in making him keep his distance from the shore.

"For many years his discovery of the island was doubted, other mariners arguing that he had sighted only icebergs, but he had found land in latitude 54 degrees 26 minutes S. and longitude 3 degrees 24 minutes E. a fact which was verified 161 years later, within our own memory, when 'Valdivia' confirmed the Frenchman's claims.

"The 'Valdivia' expedition satisfied the world that Thompson Island did not exist and that the previously reported Lindsay and Liverpool Islands were identical with Bouvert Island, which is described as being volcanic and covered with one vast glacier.

"A landing was not made on the island, however, and no trees could be seen through the telescope, though Bouvert and Lindsay, a whaler, had thought they noticed trees or shrubs. Captain Benjamin Morrell reported that during his Antartic voyage of 1822-23 he visited Bouvert Island and caught many seals there.

"Soundings in the immediate vicinity of the island have proved that it is located in a fairly regular and deep depression on the ocean bottom measuring more than 10,000 feet in depth."

Stories That Recall Others

And the Youngster Did

A mother and two children were coming along a city street. One of the children was lagging behind. It annoyed the mother quite a little.

Finally she turned around and commanded: "Mak it de snap! Mak it de snap!" and the youngster responded enthusiastically.

Before and After

They had been married a year and had had a little quarrel before they started out in their flivver. Out on the road they met another man and woman in another car, he driving with one arm and holding her with the other.

"Now," she smiled, prettily at her husband, "he is what I call an efficient driver."

Two million men, according to estimate, are employed in the woods, mines and factories of the United States in producing materials used directly or indirectly by the railroads.

DR. PATRICK CASSIDY, DISTINGUISHED CITIZEN, DIED SUNDAY EVENING

DR. PATRICK CASSIDY

Dr. Patrick Cassidy, who died at 8.50 Sunday evening at his residence, 164 Washington street, closed a life distinguished by professional achievement and public service.

He was born in Annaloughan, County Tyrone, Ireland, Feb. 22, 1839. He was educated in the schools of his native country and later the medical schools of Albany, N. Y., and the medical college of the University of Vermont, taking his degree of doctor of medicine from that institution in June 1865. In this month and year he entered the practice of his profession in this city. He quickly established himself among the leading medical men. He was one of the founders of the medical society of the city of Norwich and later served as its president. He was a member of the state and American Medical associations and of the Military Surgeons of the United States. He contributed papers on subjects of interest to his profession for the leading medical journals of the country. He was a member of the staff of the late Governor Luzon B. Morris in 1892, serving as surgeon general with the rank of brigadier general.

He was always active in municipal affairs. For many years he was a member of the board of education of the city and for a long period a member of the town and city boards of health. He was the purchaser of the site of the Norwich State Hospital. His chief public service was in connection with the W. W. Backus hospital. He was the attending physician of the late W. W. Backus and suggested to him the foundation of the hospital, in which suggestion Mr. Backus acquiesced, with the result that the hospital became a reality. Dr. Cassidy advised in the selection of the site and the erection of the hospital building. He was made one of the original incorporators and served as visiting surgeon from the very day of its opening. He was the accoucher at the first birth at the hospital and the surgeon performing the first laperotomy operation there.

It is hardly necessary to enlarge and eulogize on his many acknowledged abilities, his high professional skill and standing; his kindness of heart, his deep interest in public affairs and unswerving devotion to the practice of his profession. By his death, a remarkable man has been lost to the community and his profession.

On October 13, 1868, he married Margaret McCloud, who departed this life April 17, 1914. Their lives were exceptionally happy. There were born to them eight children, of whom the following survive: Mrs. Rose M. Driscoll, Dr. Louis T. Cassidy and Attorney Charles W. Cassidy of Norwich, Mary C. Cahill of San Francisco, Commander Richard E. Cassidy of U. S. navy, now at the Boston navy yard, and Attorney John H. Cassidy of Waterbury. Eight grandchildren also survive. A son, Dr. Patrick J. Cassidy died at Norwich, Jan. 28, 1918.

Related to Archbishop

Dr. Cassidy was born in the same house and the same room in Annaloughan in which John Hughes, late archbishop of New York, was born. Archbishop Hughes mother, whose maiden name was McKenna, and Dr. Cassidy's grandmother were sisters. Upon his parents coming to the United States in 1852 they settled in Providence and six years later moved to Pawtucket. From there Dr. Cassidy went to Canada to attend school, but shortly returned to Pawtucket where he entered as a student the office of Dr. Sylvanus Clapp, then one of the most celebrated surgeons and physicians in Rhode Island. Here he remained three years, meanwhile attending medical college at Albany, N. Y. In 1864 he entered the medical department of the University of Hermond from which he received his diploma in June 1865.

Opened Norwich Office

He came to this city and on July 1, 1865 opened an office in a building where the Norwich Savings society now stands. He at once became a member of the city, county and state medical societies and has occupied every elective office within their gift. In 1870 he was elected a fellow of the state medical society, being the first Irish Catholic in the state to represent his county society. He has filled the same position on several occasions and represented the county at the Centennial Convention of the state medical society, held at New Haven, in 1892.

In 1878 he was one of the organizers of the Norwich Medical society and was elected president several times. He served as vice president of the state medical society, during 1917-18.

As a Public Speaker

He was a ready and forceful public speaker and his voice was often heard in city and town meetings, while he has delivered addresses upon many different occasions. He spoke in St. Mary's church in protest over the occupation of Rome by King Victor Emanuel, had delivered addresses to graduating classes of Broadway school and the Backus hospital, delivered the address at the dedication of Laurel Hill school and at the breaking of ground for the T. A. B. building.

In 1876 Dr. Cassidy was chief marshal of the parade at the breaking of the ground at St. Patrick's church as well as at the laying of its corner stone and at its dedication.

He has devoted much of his time and means to forward every project for the material prosperity of Norwich. In 1886 he was one of the organizers of the board of trade, now the chamber of commerce, and was its first vice president. He was the organizer of the project of a Norwich industrial building for mechanical purposes and was one of the principal promoters of the erection of the Broadway theatre. He was elected a director of the company and upon its dedication in 1890 he auctioned off the seats for the opening entertainment.

He was for thirty-five years, 1872 to 1907, a member of the central district school board, resigning in 1907.

For His Native Land.

Always loyal to his native land, Dr. Cassidy gave both time and means toward furnishing the sinews of war to the Irish national league. From 1881 to 1892 he either presided or made an impassioned appeal for the necessary funds for the Land league, always leading the list of contributors with a substantial sum. During this time he met and entertained several of the Irish envoys, T. P. O'Connor, M. P., among the number who spoke in Norwich during Parnell's leadership. He was for several years on the executive staff of the American Irish Historical society, attending their meetings and their annual banquets in New York.

Given Civic Welcome.

He had traveled extensively and had made two trips through Europe. The first in 1891 to recuperate after a severe illness brought on by devotion to his work. Upon his return from that trip of ten weeks a monster procession of men, women and children, headed by a brass band and numerous torch bearers, marched to the train upon its arrival at Norwich and escorted him to his residence where addresses of welcome were delivered by prominent men of the town.

JEWETT CITY BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Jewett City, Feb. 24—The hose company was called by a whistle alarm to a fire in the barn owned by Adelbert Young, on South Main street, at 5.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Fred S. Leonard and Mrs. F. D. Ballou claimed the family about the same time, as they saw smoke coming from the building. The barn was a mass of flames on the inside when Lloyd Buckingham, Mr. Young's son-in-law, opened the door. Mr. Buckingham's automobile was in a garage in the barn and he barely had time to get it out.

The firemen laid 1,000 feet of hose, with two streams, and used 150 gallons of chemical, so the smaller barn in the rear was saved, although the large barn with its contents was totally destroyed. Valuable furniture, garden tools, etc., were stored there. There is a small insurance.

The first barn built by "Father Shipman," as he was called, was also burned. The last barn was built over fifty years ago and was most substantially constructed. Two of the firemen were slightly injured, Edmond Bryant being overcome by smoke, and Austin Harris having his hand cut by a falling beam. The firemen did not leave the Young premises until nearly eight o'clock.

CRIPPLED AUTO BLOCKS TROLLEY TRACK 3 HOURS

About 5.30 Sunday afternoon a touring car bearing Connecticut registration 1173 with four or five occupants broke down on the trolley tracks at a location just above Meeting House rocks, Norwich Town, as the result of the right rear wheel coming off. The occupants of the car were residents of Meriden and after having spent the day at New London were on the return trip. The driver said he heard something give way in the rear of the car when driving toward New London early Sunday morning but decided to continue although he knew that the car was partially disabled.

In rounding the curve at Norwich Town it was thought that extra strain was brought to bear on the axle and the shaft on that side came out with the wheel attached letting the automobile down on the track which was blocked for nearly three hours. The Connecticut company sent up an extra trolley car and during the congestion passengers to and from Yantic were obliged to be transferred. When the disabled automobile was finally removed from the track to a local garage for repairs the trolleys were sent back on schedule time again. The Meriden party proceeded on their journey by auto bus.

THE "SOO"

"When the locks at Sault Ste. Marie closed down for the winter a few weeks ago Jack Frost's fingers were getting a firmer and firmer hold on the north country, the world's busiest canal went out of business temporarily," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Through this narrow gateway that joins the greatest of the Great Lakes to its sisters to the east and south," continues the bulletin, "flows for eight months of the year a 'marine parade' of huge vessels that dwarfs traffic streams elsewhere. The 66 million tons of freight sent through in 1922 was something like five times as great as the freight passing through the Panama Canal that year, and more than three times as great as that moved through Suez in its busiest twelvemonth.

"The vast wheat fields of Minnesota, the Dakotas and parts of Canada, and the great iron and copper mines on the shores of Lake Superior are the chief factors that have built up this inland canals tremendous business. Ore furnishes most of the weight in the year's freight total, but the grain handled is of greater value.

"The Ste. Marie river, which connects Lakes Superior and Huron, has on its banks at the rapids town named Sault Ste. Marie both in the United States and in Canada, each with a population of about 12,000. Though the name is spelled Sault it is pronounced Soo, and many Americans both inland and along the coast have learned on spelling it as it is pronounced. Letters addressed to 'The Soo, Ont.,' have never failed to reach their destination. The term 'shooting the rapids' or 'tumble of the St. Marys.'

"The banks of the St. Mary's at the rapids formed the site of a mission and fur trading post in the early days of the French settlement of North America. After the British regime the first lock was built in 1797, a small affair capable of handling only canoes and skiffs. From this was destroyed by American soldiers during the War of 1812.

"Then nearly half a century all traffic was taken past the rapids on the American side by portage, first in carts and later on a horse drawn tramway. The American Sault Ste. Marie's present boom started to-day grew up about the old portage just as Broadway grew about the cow path of the New Amsterdamers.

FIRPO KNOCKS OUT "FARMER" LODGE IN FIFTH ROUND AT BEUNOS AIRES

Buenos Aires, Feb. 24.—(By the A. P.)—Luis Angel Firpo tonight knocked out "Farmer" Lodge in the fifth round of what was to have been a 15 round bout.

The fight was marked by frequent clinches on the part of Lodge who apparently was seeking to protect himself against Firpo's mighty right which the Argentine used almost exclusively.

Frequently Jurado Benigno Rodriques, the referee, was obliged to pull Lodge out of the clinches by sheer force.

It is estimated that 35,000 saw the bout. There was a burst of frantic cheering over the victory of Firpo, who is the boxing idol of Argentina.

In the first round Lodge took the aggressive, forcing Firpo to the ropes. The American, however, throughout the fight landed scarcely a blow which Firpo seemed to feel. Twice during the fight and before the knockout came Lodge was sent to the floor by the heavy punches of Firpo.

In the fourth round it was evident that the American steadily was getting weaker. Just before the gong sounded to end this round Firpo landed a left to the face and Lodge went to his corner in a groggy condition.

Firpo landed at will throughout the fight when the men were not in clinches. He used his right for body blows which punished the American severely.

The Argentine did not appear really to extend himself until the beginning of the fifth round. Then he went after Lodge, who was staggering groggily driving rights and lefts to the ribs and over the heart.

Once the Argentine trying for a knockout, swung wildly and missed the mark. He lurched forward under the force of the swing, fell to his knees, but rose immediately and rushed Lodge again and pounded him mercilessly.

Under the impact of the straight right, which sank deeply into his body, the American crumpled and then fell forward on his face, where he lay as the referee counted him out.

FENGLER BREAKS RECORD IN WINNINUG 250-MILE RACE

Beverly Hills, Calif., Feb. 24.—Harlan Fengler, youthful speed pilot from Kansas City, won the 250 mile national automobile race here today in 3 hours, 9 minutes 14 2-5 seconds driving at an average speed of 116 miles an hour, and smashing all records for the distance.

Jerry Wunderlich finished second, almost two laps behind Fengler, who led the field all the way. Harry Hartz came in third and Bennett Hill, winner of the November 29 race here, last year, took fourth place.

Other drivers who stuck out the 250 mile grind, finished as follows: Tommy Milton, fifth; Eddie Hearne, sixth Jimmie Murphy, seventh; Earl Cooper, eighth; Joe Boyer, ninth; Cliff Durant, tenth, and Phil Shafer, eleventh.

The other six drivers entered did not finish.

Fengler drove the entire 250 miles without a stop, sweeping into the lead in the first lap and never relinquishing his grip on first place. Frequent and furious were the battles for the position just behind the leader but Fengler himself seemed always beyond reach.

In maintaining his average speed of 116 miles an hour for the 250 miles Fengler broke the world's record, established by Jimmy Murphy here in 1924 11565 miles an hour, which until today was the top mark for all classes of cars. The youthful pilot also fractured all records for all intermediate distances up to 250 miles.

Times and average speeds of the drivers finishing second, third and fourth, were as follow:

Hill (fourth), 2.11:19; average speed 114.1.

SPAIN AND RUMANIA FILE CUP CHALLENGES

New York, Feb. 24.—The official list of challenges for the 1924 international tennis contest for the Davis cup emblem of team supremacy, was increased to eleven today, by the entry of two more European countries, Spain and Roumania.

Spains challenge is of particular interest because Manuel Alonso and his brother, Jose intend to return to their native land next summer to compete on the Euorpean zone preliminaries. Both have been residents of the United States for the past year, during which time Manuel Alonso has made a notable court record, gaining rank at No. 11, on the national men's singles list and being among the few players to triumph over the national champion, William T. Tilden. Reinforced by these stars, Spain would be favored to capture the European Zone play and earn the right to meet the American zone winner in this countr to determine the 1924 challenger. Jose Alonso was captain of the 1923 Spanish cup team.

Last year, without the Alonsos, Spain reached the European final, only to lose to France. Roumania was among the 1923 challengers but defaulted to Spain in the first round.

TILDEN IS BEATEN BY SPANISH NET STAR

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 24—William T. Tilden's tennis wizardry was not good enough to cope with Spain's best here today and the American champion was defeted by Manuel Alonso of Spain, in a brilliant five set match in the final round of the Buffalo tennis and squash club's mid-winter invitation indoor tennis tournament, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4.

Tilden was erratic throughout the match, especially at the net, where he frequently netted the ball on seemingly easy chances. His drives had plenty of force but his characteristic accuracy was lacking. Alonso, covering the court in sensational fashion and driving brilliantly with his talented backhand, proved unbeatable. In the second set, Alonso's service failed him and Tilden was able to take a game at love off his opponent's service, bu taside from that temporary lapse, the Spanish player performed splendidly and was able to withstand Tilden's determined attack.

Tilden and his protege, Sandy Weiner, the Philadelphia lad, were beaten in the final round of the doubles by R. Lindley Murray, Niagara Falls, and Arnold Jones, Providence, 6-7, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. Murray gave a spectacular exhibition at the net and in the back court and his work was sufficient to carry the day. Murray and Jones entered the doubles by eliminating Watson M. Washburn New York and James M. Davies, San Francisco.

Chicago, Feb. 24—When the cry of "play ball," is sounded on April 15, by Tommy ("Pep") Connolly, veteran American League umpire, he will turn the quarter century mark as a major league arbiter. Connolly went from the Eastern league to the National in 1898, and in 1901 along with "Pongo" Joe Cantillon, Jack Sheridan and J. Haskell, went over to the then newly formed American league. "Silk" O'Laughlin joined them a yer ltter, but word from him at his home in Natick, Mass., received today at American League headquarters, here, indicates he is as active as ever and awaiting the annual call to the mound.

"GETTING READY TO LEAVE"

CORNELL HAS PRACTICALLY WON COLLEGIATE BASKETBALL TITLE

New York, Feb. 24—(By the A. P.)—Cornell has practically clinched the 1924 championship of the intercollegiate basketball league. With six victories out of seven starts and a margin of two and a half gmes over their nearest opponents, Dartmouth and Columbia, the Ithacans are firmly established at the league pinnacle. Only an upset of the most startling character can avert the first triumph of the big Red quintet since 1914, when the Ithacans were forced to share the top with Columbia.

Cornell has three more games to play and a victory in only one will assure the up-staters of at least a tie, providing either Dartmouth or Columbia wins all of its remaining four contests. Two victories for Cornell will mail the penant to the mast above Cayuga's waters.

Two sensational victories last week on eover Columbia at Ithaca with the league lead at stake, and the other over Pennsylvania, on the Quaker court gave the Ithacans their present formidable lead. To complete the swift change in the league line-up, Columbia met unexpected defeat at the hands of Dartmouth here and these rivals went into a tie for second place with three victories and as many set backs apiece.

Play at the start of the final half of the season last week, showed a marked contrast to that of the first half. In the first 15 games, but two resulted in victories for invading fives, but on Friday, three upsets occurred when Cornell nd Princeton and Dartmouth all won on foreign courts.

Sammy Pite, Yale forward, has a nine-point lead over his nearest rival, Kneass, of Pennsylvania, in the chase for individual scoring honors. The Eli star has bagged 24 field goals and caged nine foul tosses for a total of 57 points in six games. Kneass has tallied 14 field goals and 20 free throws for a total of 48.

The team standings and scoring records:

Team	Won	Lost	Points	Opponent's Points	Percentage
Cornell	6	1	169	133	.857
Columbia	3	3	140	123	.500
Dartmouth	3	3	131	136	.500
Princeton	2	3	127	135	.400
Pennsylvania	2	4	119	139	.333
Yale	2	4	133	153	.333

Games this week:

Tuesday: Columbia vs. Princeton, at Princeton.

Wednesday: Dartmouth vs. Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.

SLIGHT CHANCE FOR FIRPO-WILLS BOUT REMAINS

New York., Feb. 24.—Negotiations by which a New York syndicate headed by Lew Raymond sought to arrange a heavyweight match between Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, nad Harry Wills, negro contender, next July, prboably will be abandoned definitely within a few days.

This was forecast tonight when it was learned that the syndicate, in the face of the present deadlock with Firpo over the place of deposit of a $50,000 forfeit, intended to impose further conditions on the South American in event that he accepted the terms.

The conditions would call for Firpo to place himself under control of the syndicate upon his arrival in this country and until the fight with Wills in order to obviate any steps on the part of the Argentine which would damage his drawing power. Though by such stipulation was held by the syndicate tol be necessary in order to protect its proposed investment, a spokesmon for it admitted tonight that there was litte chance of Firpo accepting such terms even if other diculties were removed.

The syndicate, it was disclosed, intended to deposit the $50,000 in a New York bank some time this week as evidence of its good faith, setting forth its proposition in detail at the same time. Since Firpo has declared he would cancel negotiations unless the money was deposited in a Buenas Aires bank by next Saturday, this step alone, it is believed(will automatically end the plans of the syndicate.

Wills, according to his manager, Paddy Mullins, is ready to accept the conditions which will be asked of Firpo. Both men previously accepted the original terms of the syndicate for a $500,000 purse to be evening divided.

Fish Not Brain Food.

It used to be believed that certain foods, especially fish and other foods containing phosphorus, were especially valuable for the gray matter of the brain. This is not believed any more. Brain cells apparently use the same kinds of food materials as all other living cells do. The best way to feed the brain well is to keep the body in good health.

Lots of Binder Twine.

Approximately 365,000 miles of binder twine, sufficient to stretch around the world nearly nineteen times if it was all tied in one string, were required to bind Alberta's 1923 bumper crop. Alberta's farmers used 85,000,000 pounds of binder twine in one year.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

New York, Feb. 23.—Stock prices displayed a firm tone in today's market with business on a reduced scale because of the absence of many traders who were taking a three-day holiday. Bullish sentiment was created by Washington reports of a strengthening of republican forces on the tax bill the decision of the French chamber of deputies to support the Poincare tax plan and favorable trade and business news.

Strength of the oil shares, which were bid up from the start, indicated that speculative uneasiness over the Washington oil investigation was being allayed. Atlantic Refining moved up 4 1-4 points to 128 1-4 and Tidewater advanced 3 to 141, while net gains of a point or more were recorded by General Asphalt, Jude Oil and Pierce Oil preferred, most of the others improving fractionally.

Steel shares displayed a strong undertone in further reflection of reports that the U. S. Steel Corporation was operating at 94 per cent. of capacity, only three per cent., below the record, and of expanding operations by the independents. U. S. higher at 104 1-2 and moved within Steel Common opened 3-4 higher at 104 1-2 and moved within a narrow range, closing at the opening price. Republic and Bethlehem Steels improved fractionally. Otis Steel preferred moved up 1 1-2 to 71, a new top, on speculative expectation of an early resumption of dividends and reports that 1923 earnings will show operating profits of about $2,100,000 as against a loss of $1,200,000 in 1922.

Passing of the Calumet & Hecla dividend, necessitated by the low price of copper, brought about some selling of the copper shares, Utah dropping 1 1-2 points and Anaconda one.

Some of the strong spots in the industrial group were Baldwin, Dupont, General Electric, U. S. Alcohol, U. S. Rubber, Bosch Magneto and Cuyamel Fruit, up one to two points.

Strength and activity of Southern Railway, which established a record top for all time at 49 3-4 up 1 1-4, was the feature of the trading in railroad shares. Other strong spots in that group were Norfolk & Western, Lackawanna, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico, Erie Second preferred, Western Maryland Second preferred and Western Pacific, all up one to two points.

Active buying of French francs, which rallied about 10 points to around 4.35 cents on news of the adoption of Premier Poincare's taxation program by the chamber of deputies, was the feature of the otherwise quiet trading in the Foreign Exchange market. Demand Sterling held fairly steady around $4.81 and the other European currencies showed only nominal changes. Argentine pesos were strong.

The weekly clearing house statement showed increases of $18,674,000 in loans, discounts and investments; $964,000 in cash in own vaults and $13,951,000 in time deposits. Net demand deposits, dropped $11,760,000 and the reserve of member banks in the Federal Reserve Bank dropped $50,461,000. Aggregate reserve totaled $506,968,000, leaving a deficit in reserve of $5,603,350, a decrease of $49,289,100 below that of a week ago.

Minister Of War In British Cabinet

Stephen Walsh, Laborite, who has been chosen by J. Ramsay MacDonald, Laborite Premier of England, as the new Minister of War. Mr. Walsh is notably fitted for the post, for although not a man of strife, he bears the marks of scars of bitter industrial squabbles. He is a hater of conflict, but will hesitate at nothing if it is necessary to impress on the opposition the British ideals. He claims nations never go to war because their reason says so, they fight because their emotions have been fanned to a white heat, and their reason has jumped out of the window.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

An Afternoon in February

The day is ending,
The night is descending,
The marsh is frozen,
The river dead.

Through clouds like ashes
The red sun flashes
On village windows
That glimmer red.

The snow recommences;
The buried fences
Mark no longer
The road o'er the plain;

While through the meadows,
Like fearful shadows,
Slowly passes
A funeral train.

The bell is pealing,
And every feeling
Within me responds
To the dismal knell;

Shadows are trailing,
My heart is bewailing
And tolling within
Like a funeral bell.

—Longfellow.

Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind

Blow, blow, thou winter wind,
Thou art as unkind
As man's ingratitude;
Thy teeth is not so keen,
Because thou art not seen,
Although they breath be rude.
Heigh-ho! sing heigh-ho! unto the green holly:
Most friendship is feigning, most loving mere folly:
Then heigh-ho! the holly!
This life is most jolly.

Freeze, freeze, thou bitter sky,
Thou dost not bite so nigh
As benefits forgot:
Though thou the waters warp,
Thy sting is not so sharp
As friends remembered not.
Heigh-ho! sing heigh-ho; unto the green holly:
Most friendship is feigning, most loving mere folly:
Then, heigh-ho! the holly!
This life is most jolly.

—Shakespeare.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO WIDE-AWAKES

Do you know that pigeons are very polite to one another especially Mother Pigeon and Father Pigeon? It sounds queer to say that the Pigeon family is a polite family but nevertheless it is true. People who have made a study of the customs of feathered folk have made the discovery that pigeons lead a very exemplary life. Their courtship and domestic life seems like a real old fashioned love story. For instance observing people have found out that when Mother Pigeon is sitting on the eggs to hatch her family of baby pigeons or "squabs" as they are called, Father Pigeon comes promptly at the same hour every morning to take his turn on the eggs.

It is very interesting to watch the pigeons when Father Pigeon arrives to sit on the eggs and keep them warm while Mother Pigeon is away from the nest. First he stands on the landing board, just outside the nest and coos and bows, just exactly three times, and then kisses Mother Pigeon. She then flys down from the nest and takes her daily bath and dresses her feathers. She always grooms herself in this manner before eating her breakfast. After her bath she is then ready to eat and sun herself.

Mother Pigeon flys around here and there enjoying herself until about four in the afternoon when she goes back to the nest, makes 3 bows and bills and coos and takes her place again on the eggs. There is always time for politeness in a pigeon home. After the young pigeons are hatched Father Pigeon helps Mother Pigeon take care of them until they are two weeks old when they are able to look out for themselves. Newly hatched baby pigeons or "squabs" are not very attractive; in fact they are quite ugly. But by the time they are two weeks old they have grown feathers and then they are very pretty.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

WHAT I THINK ABOUT LIFE

Dear Uncle Jed: Yesterday we had a lesson on composition, and our teacher read an article from a paper about an incident in the lives of two men. After the reading we had to write an essay on What Do You Think About Life?

I think it is not really life but an introduction to life. Our stay on this earth is just to see what kinds of people there are, and to make ourselves fit for the main part.

Our time on earth is very short, and in that short time we have to accomplish much. God watches us every minute we are on the earth, and when we leave this earth and go to see God, that is life.

God knows if we deserve to stay with him of to go to the other place. There are many good people who when they left this earth and went to heaven, were made to stay near God. But still they were not there, but their souls were near God.

Out of all these people there is but one who I am going to follow in life, if I can. That is Abraham Lincoln, who from a poor boy rose to president of the United States, after many struggles.

RESCUED HER SMALL BROTHER

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about Ticachee and her baby. Ticachee lived on an island. Often great white winged ships came for tropical fruits. Little Ticachee had for a doll one of the odd shaped yam babies, which grew in that sunny climate. Ticachee can sing. Again I enjoy school because it is so different from home life. I see so many different faces and have so many helpful playmates with whom I enjoy many happy flying hours.

There are so many subjects in school that keep us busy without tiring us out on one lesson. This is due to the foresight and kindness of our teacher.

Why should I not like to go to school when so much time and money is spent to teach me to become a good American citizen.

FAMED FOR HONESTY

Dear Uncle Jed: Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809 in Hardin County, Kentucky. He was a tall, awkward looking boy. He went to school only one year. He studied and read many books at home. He worked on the farm and helped his father. He split rails, chopped wood and planted. He did not have many games. He read Pilgrim's Progress, Robinson Crusoe and the Life of Washington. When he was a young man he first worked in a store. He did not like this so he studied law and became a lawyer. He next ran as candidate for senator, but lost. Later he ran for president and won. He was president for four years.

Just as he was starting on his second term he was shot by a mad man. There never has been a man who could equal Lincoln in honesty.

A MILK PROJECT

Dear Uncle Jed: This month in school we are taking up a milk project and have found it to be very interesting. Milk is one of the best foods, as well as a drink. We should drink at least a pint a day, but a quart is better. There are several classes of foods in milk which are good for the body. Protein builds tissues. Fat and sugar are fuel for the body, minerals build bones and vitamins are for growth and health. Milk should be kept fresh and clean. If we are not sure the milk is clean we should pasteurize it. To pasteurize is to heat it to 145 degrees for a half an hour and then let it cool rapidly. If we are hungry between meals we should drink milk. By pasteurizing the milk, it kills bacteria that might cause different diseases. Milk is also an economical food.

Some of the slogans we have learned are, "Up with milk down with tea and coffee." "Milk for sound teeth." "Milk makes us healthy, wealthy, and wise." "The Goblins will get you if you don't drink milk." "Milk for all the family."

A TRIP TO YONKERS

Dear Uncle Jed: I wish to write a story about my trip to Yonkers, New York. I went on a train as far as New London. There I changed to a train for New York at eleven o'clock. It took me five hours to get there. When I got off the train, I went about four blocks to the subway, on which I went as far as Mount Vernon. Then I took the trolley, and I had to change twice to get to Yonkers. When I got off the trolley, I went to my grandmother's house and was there for a week. I went to visit my cousin and my girl friends and then they would take me to the movies or somewhere else. I started for my home Saturday at eleven o'clock and I had to take the two o'clock train from New York. I didn't get home until eight o'clock in the evening.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter to you. Lincoln, the sixteenth president of the United States, was born Feb. 12, 1809, one hundred and fifteen years ago, under conditions that forced upon him deep, earnest thinking and knowledge of life's struggle even in his childhood. When he was eight years old his father moved to Indiana, floating down the Ohio on a raft. At eleven he met with a severe loss, the death of his mother. Under her care he had learned to read and to her influence is due much that was good in his character.

Every child graduating from a high school has ten times the book learning that Lincoln ever had. It is not the amount of education that counts, but now you use the education you have.

Lincoln walked miles to get a book. He studied, straining his eyes, by the flickering light of the wood fire. He had no neatly arranged pads, or writing paper. A "scratch pad," would have seemed to him the wildest luxury. His books were few, but he digested them. He thought as he went slowly through a book. How fortunate the children of today are with everything for their convenience.

AUSTRALIA

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you as I thought I would tell you about Australia. Australia is an island lying entirely in the southern hemisphere.

The eastern part has abundant rainfalls and is covered with great forests. Beyond the mountains the winds are so dry that no vegetation can live therefore we only find desert land.

THE BLUEBIRD

Dear Uncle Jed: Last spring a pair of bluebirds came in our yard and began to hunt for a place to construct their nest. I went in the woodshed and found a box. Father cut a hole big enough so that the birds could go in it. I fastened the box on a young tree. The newcomers immediately took possession of it. They began to bring grass and twigs. Seven days passed away. One morning as I stood on the fence I peeped into the hole. I discovered a pale blue egg. Later in the week I saw four of these.

One rainy morning, I heard a scratch on the birds box. As I looked out I saw that the cat was putting his paw in the box. I got up but it was too late. The cat had eaten the bird. All that day the father bird flew about the lawn calling. Next morning I saw the bird sitting on the tree with another bluebird. I cleaned the box and the female entered. A few weeks later four bluebirds flew away.

SILVER

Dear Uncle Jed: Silver is one of the principal metals. It is found in many places but never entirely pure. It is usually mixed with mercury, gold, copper and sometimes other metals. Pure silver is white, and it takes a beautiful polish.

Silver does not unite with oxygen easily, therefore never tarnishes in the air whether wet or dry. When it is brought near sulphur, it turns black, forming sulphide of silver. The silver coins of the United States and France are made of 1 part copper and 9 parts silver. The compounds of silver are very valuable. Among them are nitrate of silver, silver nitrate made up of silver and nitric acid.

It is used for taking photographs and in medicine. The most important silver mines are in Colorado, Montana, Utah, Idaho, Arizona and Nevada. Much silver is also mined in Canada, Germany, Spain, Bolivia, Peru, Chile and Columbia. The word silver is from Anglo Saxon "sielfor" silver.

EVERYONE LIKED LINCOLN

Dear Uncle Jed: Lincoln was a tall, thin, awkward boy with a homely face. Still his eyes were so earnest and kind and his smile so friendly that all the people liked him at once. His trousers were tanned deerskin and he wore a shirt of homemade linsey-woolsey. He didn't wear stockings until he was a man. In winter he wore moccasins made of deerskin. His cap was made of coonskin make by his mother. She left a ringed tail of the animal hanging down behind, as an ornament.

MY TRIP TO BLOCK ISLAND

Dear Uncle Jed: It was a glorious day in early August. At seven o'clock we started on our long journey to Block Island. At nine o'clock we started from Norwich down the Thames river in a boat called the Nelseco. We stopped at New London where they took on some passengers. We entered the Atlantic ocean and passed Watch Hill. From Watch Hill we could see Block Island because it was a clear day. On our way we bought candy and other goodies to eat on deck. We saw many warships on our way.

When we got to Block Island my cousin and uncle were there to meet us. Their cottage is on the opposite side from the harbor. We had baked fish for dinner. The second day we got up at eight o'clock and had a good breakfast. At nine o'clock we went in bathing and had a good time until noon. After dinner we went down to the harbor to see the boats come in.

We got on the front of the boat and waved to my cousin who was on the other boat. When we got a little way from shore we drifted about an hour on account of something being out of order. We bought some soda on the boat. Aunt Annie put some sandwiches in a package for us if we got hungry. We got to Norwich at eight o'clock just in time to miss the trolley. We had to wait till ten o'clock. We stopped about a half an hour to wait for a train. It was eleven o'clock when we reached home.

THE UNEXPECTED TRIP

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you about my trip. On the 28th of December, 1923, my father decided to go to New London to get his registration. I was reading Betty Zane, one of Zane Gray's books. As my father was nearly ready to go I said, "I wonder how Aunt Ruth is?" She lived near where father would pass. Father said if mother and I would hurry we could go down to Aunt Ruth's. It did not take us very long and the three of us, father, mother and I were ready to start.

We went over Raymond Hill which was very muddy, down through Oakdale and Palmertown. We then went through Uncasville. From there we went onto the New London and Norwich turnpike through Quaker Hill and arrived at New London about two o'clock.

The scenery was perfect, the air sharp but pure. On our way down we passed many pretty houses among them The Huguenot House, in which they served tea and sandwiches. This is the oldest place in New London. When we arrived at the registration office there were about 180 people there. So father thought that there would be no use in waiting so decided we would enjoy a ride by a different route.

So he took us past the Williams Memorial Institution onto the New London and Hartford state road. We passed by the reservoir. There many farms, barns and houses have been torn down, the land now belonging to the City of New London. We then went through Chesterfield into Salem turned to our right, onto a road three miles long, the worst road we had traveled that day. We arrived home about four o'clock covering about 30 miles.

LINCOLN'S FIRST DOLLAR

Dear Uncle Jed: One day when Lincoln was eighteen years old he earned his first silver dollar. He rowed two men and their baggage from the banks into the middle of the Ohio river to a steamer. For this the men left two silver half dollars in the boat. Lincoln thought it was marvellous to get a dollar in less than a day. From that time on he was more thoughtful and hopeful for others.

MY PET CAT

Uncle Jed: I have a cat. His name is bunny. He is a very good hunter. He used to have a sore but now it is most all gone. When he had it he used to look at us so wistful to come in, but we couldn't let him in. But now Bunny is most well and we let him in, and he goes on the couch and goes to sleep. And he seems to be so happy to come in and be a pet once more.

A QUEER FIND

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I was helping my brother Robert throw wood into the woodshed. I was greatly astonished when a number of wrinkled peas rolled out of a rotten stick into my lap. I showed it to Robert, and he said probably some mouse had put them there for winter. He pulled it in two, but nothing except a few wrinkled peas were left. I think some industrious mouse had stored them away for winter.

MY TRIP TO PUTNAM

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to you to tell you about a trip to Putnam. One night I went to Putnam with my mother, father, sister and brothers. We went down in a car.

When we reached Putnam we stopped at a little girl's house. My uncle took us to the pictures and afterwards he bought us some ice cream and candy.

And then I went back to the little girls house where the car was waiting. So we got in and came home.

LINCOLN'S LIFE

Dear Uncle Jed: Abraham Lincoln's birthday was Feb. 12. He was born in Kentucky, February 12, 1809 in a log cabin. His father was a poor man and had to work very hard. His father moved to Indiana. His father When Abe was eight years old his family moved to Indiana. His father put an axe in his hands and he was told to chop. When he was ten years old he could chop as good as a grown man. His mother taught him how to read and write.

His mother fell ill but before she died she gave Abe and his sister some good advice. She told them to read from the Bible every night before they went to bed. She said they should be honest and true to themselves and everybody. She died and they buried her. Abe got a minister to say some simple words over her grave. When he was eighteen years old he went with a flatboat down the Mississippi river. At the wharf he saw slaves for sale and from that day he hated slavery.

He made many speeches against slavery and he won. He was elected president of the United States. After the civil war he was shot in Fords theatre. So passed one of the greatest men in history. I attend Gurleyville Grammar school. I am in the seventh grade.

HOW TO KEEP HEALTHY

Dear Uncle Jed: The study I like best in school is physiology. It teaches us how to take care of our body. We have that study once a week. If there was a sudden war and you were not in the condition you ought to be, and you wanted to go, you couldn't. Physiology teaches us how to keep healthy. In the olden days they did not have any laws that would help them keep in good health.

If you are not in good health you are apt to catch diseases. Isn't it nicer to see a person tidy and clean than one untidy and dirty? If you follow the health rules you may keep in good health. Long ago, when a child was thirsty he went to a pail with five or six dippers in it, and got a drink. Now we have a sanitary sink. It is better to be healthy than sickly.

Byron Sheldon of Voluntown recently lost a valuable orange and white Llewellyn bird dog the animal being drowned. The bird dog broke through the ice on a pond and could not be rescued. Warren J. Fellow, a hunter friend of Mr. Sheldon's, of Providence, says as that was the dog's first season, he had the making of the most wonderful bird dog, he had ever seen and he has seen some of the best. This dog had the nose and was staunch as a rock, and although Mr. Sheldon has had some good dogs in past years, this dog was unusually fine. While these two men were out hunting last season with this young dog in Deacon Daniel Phillips' swamp, it began to rain. They gave up the job and went to Arba Browning's to get their automobile. When they arrived there, no dog was to be seen and none answered to the calls. So back they went to the swamp and there they found Buddie pointing an old cock pheasant. Mr. Fellows shot this beautiful bird and had him mounted. Lake View kennels will miss this promising young Llwellyn setter.

Forty-one new books have been added to the Congregational Sunday school library; also a birthday missionary bank; and a banner for good attendance which will be assigned on a percentage basis each Sunday.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Helping a Princess

One day as Little Jack Rabbit was hopping through Fairy Land, he came in sight of a stately castle.

"I wonder who lives there," he said to himself, when, all of a sudden, a lovely princess waved a handkerchief from the high stone wall.

"O help me, bunny boy," she begged. "A cruel Lord has locked me in this castle."

"Keep up a brave heart," answered

"Oh help me, bunny boy!" she begged.

the little rabbit. "I will find a way, my beautiful lady."

But, Oh dear me! The walls were too smooth and high to climb, and the big iron gate was locked. Just then a little voice whispered:

"Brave bunny boy, upon the moat
You will find a magic boat,
Underneath the castle walls,
Where the water swiftly falls.
It will safely carry you
To the lovely princess Sue."

At once, the little rabbit hopped into the magic boat. Away it went, over the moat down a waterfall and through an opening under the walls. It was very dark at first but pretty soon a spot of light, oh, so tiny, gleamed ahead, slowly growing brighter, until, the little boat glided into a pretty lake in the centre of a beautiful courtyard, where flowers grew and birds sang, and a crystal fountain played all day long.

As Little Jack Rabbit hopped out, the same little voice whispered: "Wait here," and then, for the first time, the little bunny boy noticed a tiny frog sitting in the magic boat. His eyes were red as rubies and his skin shone like green satin.

"Good luck," he whispered, as he turned the magic boat about and disappeared under the castle walls.

"I wonder what will happen next," thought the little rabbit. But he didn't have long to wonder, for, just then the lovely princess Sue opened a door and walked sorrowfully out upon the marble walk.

"Here I am, dear princess," said the bunny boy softly. At the sound of his voice, the sorrowful princess trembled, but seeing it was a little rabbit who had spoken and not the cruel Lord, she began to smile.

"Now," said the brave little rabbit bunny, after he had entered the courtyard, "we must find a way out."

"That is impossible," answered the princess. "For all the doors are barred and locked."

Just then a little fish laid a golden key on the marble steps, and then disappeared beneath the water.

Without a moment's delay, the bunny boy fitted it to the castle door, and the next moment he and the lovely princess were hurrying away through the forest. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

New York police have advised the New London authorities that they are conducting an investigation into the supposed death by suicide of Patrick Maguire of New York, from the New London line steamer Chester W. Chapin last Wednesday night. Maguire, it is believed, leaped from the steamer between New Haven and this port for he was observed about the deck shortly after 11 o'clock. When the steamer reached port Maguire was not to be found and although his personal effects were in his room, the bed had not been occupied.

Charles J. Wyant, 32 Ashcraft road arrested Friday night charged with reckless driving of his automobile, was presented before Judge S. Victor Prince in the police court Saturday forenoon, but not on the charge levied against him at the time of his arrest for the charge was amended to that of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Wyant pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100. His license was also taken from the accused. Wyant's car with two companions as occupants crashed against the motionless machine of Constable Frederick Dimock of Waterford, on Broad street, corner of Georgiana street. Dimock's car being badly damaged. Wyant admitted that he had taken three drinks, when placed under arrest.

A sailor who was arrested Friday afternoon charged with intoxication when he made a decided nuisance of himself annoying bystanders and pedestrians on State street, was not presented in the police court Saturday morning being turned over to the naval authorities.

It is stated that within a short time the Harris building, one of the city's leading business blocks, will be sold, according to the provisions of the will of the late Johnathan N. Harris. The structure is five stories and of brick, being occupied by the James Hislop & Co., stores and for business and residential purposes. The new purchaser, it is stated will cause alterations to be made to the structure so that it will become thoroughly modernized. The structure was erected 40 years ago.

Charles Mills, 22, a laborer, was taken into custody at the state armory Friday night, when the Masonic club was conducting an in-door circus and where Mills is alleged to have created a disturbance. Mills when arrested sought to give battle to the officer as did some of his friends and a hurry call for assistance was sent to the police station, resulting in four patrolmen being rushed to the armory. When the officers reached there, however, Mills and his companions had disappeared by Patrolman Carlos Seleskitsky. In the police court Saturday morning Mills pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was fined $10, but the execution of the penalty was suspended.

Mrs. Walter Platt of Springfield, Mass., spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Graves.

The funeral of Joseph A. Williams of 13 Warren street, long employed by the Connecticut Power company, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by Rev. Mrs. Hendrik Verkade of Crocker street, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long of Lyme, and Miss Mary Murphy of Ocean avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes Saturday.

It is understood that Miss Lina Beckwith of Broad street, is greatly dissatisfied with the amount allowed her by the city as damages for land owned by Miss Beckwith and taken for the continuation of Colman street. Miss Beckwith, it is reported, will bring the matter of her alleged grievance before the city council at an early session of that body.

An automobile bearing Connecticut registration 1-78, was in collision with a team, driven by Samuel Wallace, of Waterford, Saturday morning at the corner of Colt and Truman streets. Wallace was thrown against the side of the vehicle and sustained bruises about the body of such a painful nature that he sought medical relief.

That the W. R. Perry ice company will obtain its usual supply of ice this winter there appears to be no doubt for the second harvest of the season is under way, although the thickness of the ice already harvested and what will be housed tomorrow is not as great as could be desired. Saturday a force of laborers completed the housing of a second crop from the No. 1 pond in Cohanzie and tomorrow the first crop from the No. 2 pond will be secured. The ice has now attained thickness of about nine inches.

The police were engaged Saturday heeding complaints of pedestrians because of the slippery condition of sidewalks in various parts of the city. In some places where walks have not been cleared of snow, ice has formed and with a failure to sprinkle ashes or sand upon them a dangerous condition exists. Such places were ordered made safe by the occupants or owners of the property.

In order to facilitate traffic conditions at the easterly end of State street, the beacon lights there were moved about five feet west, Saturday. The change in the location of the beacons was advocated several months ago by traffic officers.

Trumbull. Mrs. Murray is a graduate of the Lincoln-Jefferson University, Chicago, Ill., and a registered pharmacist. She is a grandniece of Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals, Rome, Italy, and a grand niece of Baron Kanzler, general in chief of the Pope's army at the Vatican.

If the city council transacts all the business scheduled to come before it Monday evening it will have a strenuous time of it! There is a possibility that the petition which asks for a chance to vote on the matter of erecting a junior high school will come up. There will be no option in that case but for the council to grant the application of the petitioners, provided all the signatures to the petition are in form and those who sign it have the right to ask for the permission sought. There must be 478 names on the petition, but there are said to be many more than that number. It is expected that the planning board will report on the matter of building lines for Bank and State streets; in the latter instance it is anticipated that the permission asked by Philip Hendel to bring his building out to the line established to the westward of his structure will be granted. That line is the one established for all the property on the south side of State street between Bank and Green streets. It means the carrying out of the Hendel front about two feet, but when that is done it will only be to conform to the lines of comparatively new buildings on that side of the street. On Bank street the situation is very different for the line of buildings established there varies very materially. From the corner of Bank and State streets, where the walk is about six feet wide the variation is to ten or twelve feet at the corner of Bank and Golden streets. That building line runs well down the street on the west side until the brick Hollandersky building is reached, where it narrows because that structure has been carried in its front to a new line that has been given by the city engineers and which corresponds with the so-called Myers survey. The line established by the Hollandersky building has been perpetuated south from that building and the old Kaiser building was brought out to a line that conforms to it. That raised a discussion in the council which has not been terminated yet, for the owner of the so-called Kaiser property, also named Hollandersky though not the owner of the aforementioned property, has been unable to get the permission sought from the city council for the line he has established, though he has gone ahead and built his structure on the line of the Myers survey. The matter of granting the permission sought is held up by the council and the owner of the property has threatened mandamus proceedings unless the city yield and grant his petition. He has conformed to every requirement of the charter and has the permission of the inspector of buildings for the work he has carried on, but the council is stubborn about the matter and has withheld the permission sought. The planning board, a new feature of the commission form of government has the case to report on and the report is anticipated, as the council, in referring the matter to the board asked for an immediate report. The same board is to report on a petition for the erection of a sign board or billboards. There is a disposition to refuse all permission to establish billboards in the city inasmuch as the plan is one by which the owner of land can make a little money regardless of aesthetic conditions which the erection of sign or bill boards destroys. The erection of gasoline tanks in the city will also come before the meeting, it is expected for there are petitions before the council which must be acted upon. The proposed building code may cover that matter, but that code has not yet been made the law of the city; that code is also to come up for consideration. The erection of gasoline tanks must be governed by law before long, for it is contemplated to erect several of them on the principal business street, viz: Bank street.

The Masonic club concluded a fair Saturday night after a week's run. An automobile was disposed of, but tonight it was not known to whom the machine would go. The initials are "N. B. F."

As noted, under the will of the late Johnathan N. Harris, the fine building on State street is soon to be sold. The structure represents profits from Percy Davis Fain Kibler, for Mr. Harris was the largest owner of the stock in that corporation and he amassed a fortune from it. Rumor has it that a customer for the property is ready to buy it when the sale time shall come. The building is one of the first of the pretentious buildings erected on State street and in the days of its erection was considered as good as the street would ever have.

This morning was one of the coldest of the month for thermometers registered 8 degrees above zero.

Russ of Waterford was removed to Lawrence hospital this afternoon, suffering from an injury to her ankle sustained Saturday afternoon; it is believed that she has fractured one of the small bones. Patrolman William Manice in making his rounds through Washington street early Saturday morning observed a man loitering about an automobile owned by Patrick J. Clifford, which was parked in front of the Elks' club. As the officer approached the machine the suspicious character retreated and disappeared through a side street. Mr. Clifford was notified of what had occurred and found that the rear door of the automobile had been tampered with and that a blanket that had covered the hood had been partially removed, but nothing had been taken from the machine.

Thomas P. Murphy, 21 Tilley street, was arrested Saturday by State Policeman Swejgert, of the Groton barracks, on a warrant issued by the state department, charging him with evasion of responsibility and reckless driving. Murphy was before Justice Thomas F. Morton in the Groton town court, but was discharged as there was no evidence to substantiate the charges. In discharging Murphy, Justice Morton declared that the complainant, E. M. Frazier, of 111 Broad street, was undoubtedly attempting to use the courts as a collection agency and this scheme could not be practiced in Waterford.

The evidenced introduced tended to show that Dec. 8th, 1923, Murphy was operating an automobile near Quaker Hill, which was towing a disabled car. A machine owned and driven by Frazier approached the other cars from the rear and in attempting to pass them Frazier's car left the highway and struck a stone, causing one of the wheels to be damaged. Frazier alleged that Murphy was "hogging" the highway, but this Murphy denied. Murphy testified that after the accident to Frazier's car, the former offered to tow the disabled machine to the nearest garage, but Frazier declined the offer and wanted the car towed to New London. Murphy did not grant the request, but drove to New London and obtained a substitute wheel for the damaged one. Frazier was also informed by Murphy that the latter would pay the expense of the purchase of a new wheel but Frazier wanted additional recompense. When this was denied Frazier lodged a complaint with the state authorities.

Hartford decreased its total by six and was passed for high position by New Haven. The Hartford total last week was thirty-five and that of New Haven thirty-seven.

Waterbury reported thirteen, a decrease of five, but went into third place because of Bridgeport's great reduction. New Britain reported twelve, equal to Bridgeport, and five greater than for the week ended February 9. Meriden jumped from three to five. Norwich reported seven, an increase of five. New London reported 11 a new high record for one week and four more than the previous high mark. EMPEROR'S COAT-OF-ARMS SUGGESTS PRIEST'S THEME

With every pew in auditory and galleries filled, Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero preached to a congregation of nearly 2,200, at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday. It was Septuagesima Sunday, meaning sixtieth, denoting that this Sunday falls within the sixth decade of the space of sixty days before Easter. The epistle read in all the masses was 2 Corinthians, 11 to 12.9, beginning "Brethren, you gladly suffer the foolish; whereas yourselves are wise." The gospel was Luke 8. 4-15, the parable of the sower and the seed.

Father Guerriero spoke of an emperor of ancient Rome, who had as his coat-of-arms an eagle, holding in one talon a sword, in the other a crown. The motto was "I bestow either." So it is with God. He is cold to the unloving, but bestows His favors upon those who serve Him. In these days, the theory with too many is "No God, no Heaven, no Hell, no reward, no punishment." Men forget their creator, offend Him by the insult of sin; yet in case troubles come upon them, they murmur and wonder that God so afflicts them. The true Christian, on the contrary, if afflicted will be given by Heaven patience and strength to endure any trials which God may send for his spiritual discipline and growth. He will look back upon his past, and will realize that many of the sufferings which come to him are but the just penalization for his failings. "God is loving with the loving," says St. Bernard, "negligent with the negligent, zealous with the zealous."

The lesson deduced was that if we continue faithful and obedient children, we will find God a tender and merciful Father.

Following his sermon, Father Guerriero had the assistance of Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving holy communion.

YANTIC ARREST ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

Peter Nawrocki, 36, of Yantic was arrested at his home there Sunday night on the charge of violation of the liquor law and was brought to police headquarters where he gave bonds of $500 for his appearance in court. It is understood that the arrest was made after evidence of the purchase of a bottle of liquor at his place had been secured.

The arrest was made by Constable Lucius Fenton of Norwich Town, and officers McAvoy and P. Murphy of the local force.

There would be fewer dancers if the piper had to be paid in advance.

DETUCT AUTOMOBILE FEES FROM INCOME TAX

The state motor vehicle department has advised Secretary Donald A. Adams of the Automobile Club of New Haven that it is permissible in making out one's income tax report to the federal internal revenue department to deduct fees for registration of motor vehicles and operator's licenses and property tax paid on account of motor vehicles.

While this is not a new concession in the federal revenue act, comparatively few automobile owners have availed themselves of it, according to Secretary Adams, who wrote Commissioner Stoeckel that he himself was unaware of it until this year. It is not a matter that the motor vehicle department is directly concerned with, but in order correctly to advise automobilists who inquired about it, the department has had its opinion on the subject confirmed by the Connecticut office of the revenue department.

It is estimated that motor vehicles owned in Connecticut were assessed at an aggregate of over $83,000,000 last year in the towns in which the owners lived, while registration and license fees paid to the state exceeded $4,000,000, and so the difference in the federal tax collected in this state as of March 15 probably would be at least one-quarter million dollars if all the owners availed themselves of their right to deduct the town taxes and state fees paid on account of their cars.

According to statistics compiled by the state tax department based on returns from all the towns, the average value at which motor vehicles were assessed in 1922 was $446.

POETRY

I Have Set the Lord

I have set the Lord always before me. (Ps. 16:8.)
I set Thy love between the world and me,
O, Lord—its cruelty, its wrong, its scorn;
They cannot reach me through Thy tenderness.
That once for me their worst has known and borne.

I set Thy cross between my sins and me,
That so their shadows darken not my days;
Nor rob my nights of rest. Thy blood blots out
The long indictment from my shrinking gaze.

I set Thy prayers between my doubts and me,
That so my faith shall fail not, but abide,
Though tired and tested sore; that shield shall serve
All fiery darts to quench or turn aside.

I set Thy strength between my foes and me,
And walk, so guarded, panoplied and girt,
Through dangers seen and unseen, unafraid,
Through flames unscorched and raging waves unhurt.

I set Thy thoughts between my thoughts and me,
The calm pure visions of Thy holy mind,
Till nothing that disturbs me or defiles,
Into my heart or soul can entrance find.

I set Thy self between myself and me,
And losing mine, Thy life abundant gain;
Take Thy sufficiency for my deep need,
And to Thy perfect stature so attain.

—Annie Johnson Flint in Sunday School Times.

The Girl on the Train

The fast express went by just now,
And I yelled "Whoa!" and stopped the plow,
And waved my hat to the engineer
And called "Hellooo!" He couldn't hear,
Of course, but he waved back at me
And blew a blast of courtesy,
Just like he always does; and I Watched the long train of cars rush by
With plate glass windows gleaming clear
And a brass railed platform in the rear
Where pretty girls all dressed in white
Waved as the car swung out of sight
Around the curve And one (I think
Her eyes were brown, her cheeks were pink,
Although I couldn't really say
With her a-dashing by that way),
But anyhow she waved at me,
And by some doggone mystery
Let go her handkerchief, and it
Just sailed around about a bit,
Then floated, easy as you please,
Across the fence under the trees,
And dropped here on the ground somehow
Beside my blamed old bull tongue plow;
I picked it up—so white and small
It isn't any use at all.
But still I sort of see her face
Here on this bit of perfumed lace . . .
I wonder who she was and when
I'll see that little girl again.

The fast exxpress has gone, and now
Gee up, old horse! We've got to plow!
—Garnet Laidlaw Eakew, in New York Sun.

DAUGHERTY WILLING TO SUBMIT FACTS OF DEALINGS IN SINCLAIR OIL STOCK

In an Open Letter to Senator Willis, the Attorney General Acknowledged That He Dealt in the Stock Before and Since He Entered the Cabinet—Avers That He Never Had Misused Official Information in the Transactions—President Coolidge Has Under Consideration Several Proposals Concerning the Attorney General — C. Bascom Slemp, Secretary of President Coolidge, Testified Before the Senate Oil Committee That He Had No Previous Inside Information of the McLean-Fall Incident at Palm Beach.

Washington, Feb. 25. — Attorney-General Daugherty today publicly acknowledged that he had dealt in Sinclair oil stock before and since he entered the cabinet, declared he never had misused official information in these transactions, and renewed his willingness to submit all the facts in any investigation the senate might order.

In an open letter to Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, Mr. Daugherty said he bought some Sinclair stock before he became attorney-general, and finally suffered a loss of $38 a share. Six months after Teapot Dome was leased to Sinclair interests, he sold part of his stock, in an effort to recoup losses. Later he bought back the same amount at a slightly lower price, and finally sold, last fall, his entire Sinclair holdings.

The letter also answered charges of failure to prosecute former Secretary Fall, Edward L. Doheny, Harry F. Sinclair, and Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' bureau. Mr. Daugherty pointed out that at his suggestion action against Fall, Doheny and Sinclair was left to special government counsel, while proceedings against Mr. Forbes had been initiated some time ago before a grand jury at Chicago.

The attorney-general added that he never had given any opinion, oral or written, regarding the legality of the oil leasing policy, and had no knowledge of the negotiations until they were concluded. He urged that the senate inquiry into his department be conducted without delay, but that he be given an opportunity to summon witnesses of his own for questioning by his own counsel.

A copy of the letter was sent to the White House after it had been made public at the department of justice. White House officials said it had not previously been submitted to President Coolidge. Late in the day Mr. Daugherty had a long conference with the chief executive.

The president has under consideration several proposals, one of them contemplating that Mr. Daugherty submit his resignation to become effective after the senate inquiry has been completed. By that method, it has been suggested, the attorney-general might avoid the charge of quitting his office under fire.

Action on the investigation resolution is expected in the senate not later than Wednesday, and it may be adopted tomorrow. Its author, Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, today sought unanimous consent to save a day by bringing it out of committee, but Senator Willis objected, insisting upon "decent, proper and orderly procedure." Mr. Willis said he desired early disposition of the matter but wanted action to be taken in the regular way.

TESTIMONY BY SECRETARY OF PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, Feb. 25.—Turning its attention once more to the McLean-Fall incident at Palm Beach, the senate oil committee today heard on behalf of the White House a positive disclaimer of any previous inside information on the subject and developed a new mystery regarding the now famous $100,000 loan which Albert B. Fall obtained while he was in the cabinet.

C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, testified that he got only had no prior knowledge of the truth regarding the loan, but he discussed the subject at Palm Beach with both Fall and Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, and urged that they dispose of the many rumors in circulation by telling the committee the whole story.

Promising to tell all, Mr. Slemp said that McLean testified before Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, on the same day that he had given Fall two checks aggregating $100,000 late in 1921, but that they had been returned to him uncashed. Today, however, the committee learned from an examination of the records of Washington banks that the publisher did not have an aggregate of $100,000 on deposit at that time in the bank on which he said the checks were drawn.

Having learned that Mr. Slemp had conversations with both McLean and Fall regarding the oil scandal at Palm Beach last month, Senator Walsh will seek tomorrow to ascertain whether any individual members of the committee communicated by telegraph or telephone with either of them at the Florida resort or with Fall at New Orleans.

After hearing Mr. Slemp the committee received from H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, testimony that Fall had told him that the contract with the Doheny interest for oil tank storage at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, had been discussed by the cabinet and that Attorney-General Daugherty had made no objection to it.

The attorney-general, in a letter today to Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, again denied that he had given any oral or written opinion as to the legality of the oil leases and at the same time stated he had purchased stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company after he came into the cabinet but had sold it at a loss.

Chairman Lenroot and others of the oil committee indicated that there was no intention to recall William G. McAdoo, a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, for questioning regarding his statement Saturday that his then New York firm would have received an additional fee of $900,000 if the negotiations in the Doheny companies' Mexican affairs had been successful.

Announcement was made that Sinclair would not be recalled for questioning until after the expert accountants now examining books of brokerage firms in Washington, New York and Cleveland have furnished the committee the results of their work. Likewise, no definite date has been fixed for the appearance on the witness stand of Edward B. McLean who will be asked to clear up the mystery concerning the $100,000 it checks he claims to have given Fall.

Secretary Slemp told the committee today that he did not go to Palm Beach on any mission for the president or for anyone else and that his trip was "purely for health and recreation." He said that on the day Senator Walsh arrived at Palm Beach, McLean had told him he was "going to tell it all today."

The president's secretary said he had several conversations with Fall regarding the $100,000 loan and that these took place at lunch or dinner at the McLean cottage.

He declared that Fall had stated that he was "going to straighten it all out," that he had in fact obtained the money from a friend of long standing.

Asked if his curiosity had not been aroused as to the identity of this friend, Mr. Slemp said he rather suspected it was but that he thought he would "keep out of this investigation." He added that he had advised Fall to tell the whole story "just as a matter of public duty."

The witness declared he was as much surprised as anyone when E. L. Doheny later informed the committee that it was he who really had loaned the $100,000 to Fall.

Mr. Slemp denied he had any communication with the White House about the oil matter while he was in Florida from December 22 to January 16.

SAW SLEMP, FALL AND McLEAN AT PALM BEACH

Philadelphia, Feb. 25—William A. Glasgow, Jr., Philadelphia lawyer, whose name was mentioned in the oil investigation at Washington today, said he saw former Secretary Fall, S. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president and E. B. McLean, Washington, in a hotel dining room at Palm Beach, Fla. He said he also met Lean on the hotel porch and at his home met Mr. Fall. Mr. McLean, he said, told him he was going to testify in the oil case and had asked for advice.

Mr. Glasgow said he told Mr. McLean that he should tell the truth.

"I didn't know anything in particular about the oil inquiry," said Mr. Glasgow. "A few days later I received a telephone call, which the party at the other end of the wire said was from Mr. Fall's room, and I was asked to come up to his room to give him some legal advice.

"I replied 'I practice law in Philadelphia, not in Florida. I am here on a vacation, not on law business. That was the beginning and end of my connection with Teapot Dome."

DANIELS' OPINION OF LEASE OF OIL RESERVES

Philadelphia, Feb. 25—"I am much keener for having the illegal lease of naval oil reserves cancelled than I am of sending Mr. Fall to the penitentiary," Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, declared today in an address at a luncheon of democratic women.

"But I am also strong for both," he added, with emphasis, "every man in American," Mr. Daniels continued, "has upon his conscience to stand and demand that this wrong be righted; and righted it will be, or America has lost its soul."

Mr. Daniels stated that although the government is supposed to have secret service agents in the government departments, "not one of them turned his hand to save the naval oil reserves."

REPARATION EXPERTS TO STUDY AUSTRIAN FINANCES.

Paris, Feb. 25—(By the A. P.)—Before coming to a final conclusion on the plans to stabilize Germany's figures and balance her budget, General Dawes' committee of experts has decided to get some information on how a similar task was accomplished in Austria.

To this end Sir Edgar Salter, a British expert who been identified with Austria's economic rehabilitation, has been asked to appear before the committee some day this week for an extended hearing. While the committee realizes that the case of Germany is not parallel with that of Austria, nevertheless it feels that a study of the Austrian plan will shed valuable light on the task they had in hand.

After hearing the report of the budget sub-committee on the German budgets for 1924 and 25, and the full committee requested a similar report for 1926.

The sub-committee on railways also held a long session today and heard Sir William Acworth and M. Leverve, two railways experts. It is said tonight that the drafting of the general report to the reparations commission has not yet begun.

Senator Reed's View Of Record of McAdoo

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 25.—United States Senator James A. Reed, in formally opening his campaign for the democratic presidential nomination, at a mass meeting here tonight, referring to the oil disclosures, declared that in his opinion "not one-tenth of the corruption and iniquity which has existed is yet laid bare."

He charged William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and opponent for the nomination, expected to receive $1,094,000 in "legal fees" from E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, the Charles W. Morse interests and motion picture concerns, although he "did not appear in a single law suit."

His speech in part follows:

"I am asking the endorsement of the democracy of Missouri and of the nation for the presidential nomination.

"Mr. McAdoo publicly announced he did not intend to enter the list against any home candidate, but, for reasons which are doubtless satisfactory to himself, he has singled me out as an exception to his general rule. He comes into the state of Missouri and is receiving some support. * * *

"Having been invited into the arena, I come and give my reasons why the attorney for Mr. Doheny should not receive the endorsement of the Missouri democracy.

"Mr. Doheny came to Washington. He was in search of influence and to obtain it was willing to expend large sums of money. Although there were tens of thousands of lawyers of distinction and ability in the United States, Mr. Doheny took into his employ five cabinet or ex-cabinet officers. I do not say these lawyers were corrupt. I do say that with one possible exception, Garrison, they were not employed for their legal ability.

"But Doheny was not the only man who bought influence. There was Morse, who hired lawyers and paid them commissions on coal contracts with foreign governments. Morse will be remembered as the gentleman who wrecked a string of banks. He got into the penitentiary by fraud and he got out by fraud.

"After his release from the penitentiary, Morse proclaimed himself a patriot and organized a concern to build ships. For his transactions with the government, he was indicted. On Mr. Morse's trial Mr. McAdoo appeared and testified for the defense. Mr. McAdoo's testimony discloses that either

CORCORAN ARRAIGNED FOR CONSPIRACY TO BLACKMAIL

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 25—Efforts of their counsel to halt proceedings by writ having failed, William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, and four co-defendants were arraigned before Judge Whiting in the superior criminal court today under indictments charging conspiracy to blackmail. They were released in their own recognizance and were allowed until next Thursday for the filing of special pleas.

Joseph P. Walsh, of defense counsel, told the court that pleas could not be filed within the time allotted. Assistant District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, then made a motion for a trial to proceed at once, but it was denied.

The indictments were freshly drawn by the Middlesex county grand jury last week to replace indictments that were quashed by the court as defective. They charge Corcoran with verbal threats to accuse Kenneth Merrill of a statutory crime with intent to extort money from him, and charge Theresa Duggan, Lillian H. Reese, Theodore C. Bearse and J. Warren Kane with being accessories before and after the alleged offense.

Greek Gov't Falls No Dynasty Dispute

London, Feb. 25.—The Greek government headed by Premier Kafandaris has fallen, according to an Athens despatch to The Daily Express, in consequence of its refusal to accede to the demands of the extremists for the establishment of a republic before a plebiscite was taken.

The Fall of the government came as a surprise, as it was thought up to the last hour that the extremists would be defeated.

A measure was introduced in the national assembly January 23 by the republican leader declaring the rights of the Glucksburg dynasty, the reigning house, forfeited. The measure was presented after Premier Venizelos had aroused a storm of applause by asserting that the Greek people had ceased to believe in the necessity of a dynasty, and that there was no foreign obstacle to a republic.

The measure, which forfeited the rights of the king to the throne, abolished the rights of his heirs, prohibited the sojourn in Greece of King George or other members of his family and confiscated all the Glucksburg property, was the subject of a lengthy debate and caused stormy scenes in the assembly.

In the interim Venizelos was stricken with a heart affection and eventually resigned from his post as premier, M. Kafandaris succeeding him.

King George was exiled from Greece about the middle of last December, the government requesting him to quit the country pending decision by the national assembly as to the form of the future government. Accompanied by Queen Elizabeth, the king proceeded to Roumania.

BRITISH DOCK STRIKE HAS BEEN SETTLED

London, Feb. 25 (By the A. P.)—The dock strike, lasting ten days, was settled quickly today when the delegates met in conference. Acceptance of the terms was almost unanimous, only two minor ports having objected.

A feature of the strike, which involved many thousands of men, was complete absence of disorders, although the strike extended over all parts of the kingdom and dockers generally are regarded as a somewhat unruly class of workers.

The government is expected to announce immediately the chairman of the commission to inquire into decasualization, and as the employers have agreed to the principle of maintenance for the men who are idle during part of the week owing to the peculiar exigencies of dock labor it may be supposed that some remedy for this grievance will be speedily found.

It is likely to be several days before conditions are normal in all the ports. It is announced that the Cunard company has been obliged to postpone the sailing of the Berengaria from Wednesday until Thursday, while to avoid inconvenience to the passengers, the Andania, due at Plymouth tonight, has been ordered to omit this call and proceed direct to Cherbourg, thence to London.

GOSSIP ABOUT PROBABLE SUCCESSOR OF DENBY

Washington, Feb. 25.—Initial consideration given by President Coolidge to selection of a successor to Edwin Denby, as secretary of the navy has revolved about Joseph M. Dixon, governor of Montana, and James E. Davidson, republican national committeeman from Michigan.

Inasmuch as Mr. Denby's retirement from the cabinet does not become effective until March 10, and because of more immediate pressing questions, the president, it was said today at the White House, has considered the filling of the navy post only in a preliminary way. It was acknowledged, however, that a number of telegrams and letters had been received endorsing both Governor Dixon and Mr. Davidson.

HOUSE VOTES INCREASE IN THE INHERITANCE TAXES

Amendment Inserted in Revenue Bill by Another Combination of Democratic and Republican Insurgent Forces—Proposal of a Gift Tax Was Before the House at Adjournment — Republican Organization Leaders Remain Hopeful of a Compromise on the Income Rates When Final Vote is Taken on the Bill.

Washington, Feb. 25.—An increase in the estate or inheritance taxes was voted into the revenue bill in the house today by another combination of democratic and republican insurgent forces. Another proposal of the coalition—a gift tax—was before the house when it adjourned.

Both amendments were attacked by organization republicans. The estate tax increase, raising the rates all along the line on the same brackets as now contained in the law to a maximum of 40 per cent. on the amount by which the estate of a decedent exceeds $10,000,000, instead of the present 25 per cent. rate, was adopted, 190 to 110.

Representative Ramseyer, republican, Iowa, submitted the estate tax amendment and Representative Green, republican, Iowa, chairman of the ways and means committee, proposed the gift tax, which will be voted on tomorrow. About six democrats present voted against the estate tax amendment, which was supported by about 30 republicans including Chairman Green, on division vote.

An amendment also was voted to allow credit for estate taxes paid to states up to 25 per cent. of the tax levied by the federal government. This was proposed by Representative Frear, republican, insurgent, Wisconsin, in reply to the argument of Representative Mills, republican, New York, that an increase in this tax would make it a permanent part of the federal taxation system and eventually deprive states, "of a vital source of their revenue."

Republican organization leaders remain hopeful of a compromise on the income rates when a final vote is taken on the bill notwithstanding the continued coalition of democrats and insurgents.

Administration spokesmen let it be known that if their tax program, as carried in the Mellon bill, does not get through at this session it will be brought up again next winter.

Representative Frear, speaking for the republican insurgents, issued a statement today declaring his group was not disturbed over the Longworth compromise for a 25 per cent. reduction in the surtax rates, which would cut the maximum to 37 1-2 per cent instead of the 44 per cent. now in the bill. He called upon Mr. Longworth to make public his plan so that study might be given it.

Mr. Frear also denied any formal coalition with the democrats, declaring the insurgents support the democratic plan because it was the "next best plan to our own." He called attention that democrats had aided in defeating their proposals for taxing present tax-exempt securities.

The entire day was spent on the estate tax contest, but with a vote in sight early tomorrow on the gift tax proposal, Chairman Green said tonight he expected reading of the bill to get well into the excise rates by tomorrow night where another fight impends on proposed reductions in the automobile taxes.

For the most part President Coolidge has kept his own counsel regarding the demand that Mr. Daugherty return to private life. No statement of the president's intentions have been authorized at any time from the White House, nor have those who have conferred with him taken away as clear an idea of his mental reaction as they might have desired.

During the past 24 hours Mr. Coolidge again has had brought home to him both sides of the controversy. Last night he conferred with Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who said in the senate Saturday he was willing to help lay the ground work for impeachment proceedings against the attorney general. Today Chairman Adams of the republican national committee, after a visit to the White House, on another matter reiterated on the doorstep of the executive offices his support of the position taken by Mr. Daugherty. He declared that "blackmail and blackguarding" of other officials might be expected to follow a successful assault upon the attorney general.

Tonight's conference between Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Daugherty lasted more than an hour. The attorney general said afterward that he came to the White House to talk about another subject, but that naturally there was some discussion of he attack on him. He would not discuss details of the subject.

Conferences of senate leaders today related almost entirely to procedure with the Wheeler resolution. Chairman Keyes, of the contingent expenses committee, was ready to report it without change, but administration leaders and friends of Mr. Daugherty were preparing to attack the provision naming Senators Brookhart, republican, Iowa; McLean, republican, Connecticut; Jones, republican, Washington; Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, and Wheeler, on the investigation committee. They want appointment of the committee, in the customary fashion, by President Cummins.

There were negotiations looking to choice of either Senators Norris, or Howell, Nebraska, republicans sometimes aligned with the La Follette insurgent group, as chairman in place of Senator Brookhart. It was generally conceded, however, that with the support of a sufficient number of insurgents, the democrats would have enough votes to force through the committee selected by Senator Wheeler.

Under the parliamentary situation in the senate when it adjourned tonight unanimous consent still will be required tomorrow to take up the resolution.

Senator Elkins, republican, West Virginia, tonight joined the few on the republican side who have publicly protested against the effort to drive Mr. Daugherty out of the cabinet. He issued a statement saying that if the present "mad scramble" continues, and if republican leaders continue to lose their heads when "false charges" are made, "it looks like the democratic party under the leadership of Senator La Follette may succeed in retiring practically all the members of President Coolidge's cabinet."

Mr. Green proposed rates of 1 to 10 per cent. on gifts, starting at amounts exceeding $46,000. He announced tonight, however, that he would amend this tomorrow to make the same rates as carried in the estate tax voted today applicable to the gift tax.

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee, announced from the floor he would oppose the rates suggested by Mr. Greene but would favor a gift tax if carrying the estate tax rates. Both Mr. Greene and Representative Garner argued the gift tax should be written into the law as a supplement to the estate tax to prevent its evasion.

The amendment which Mr. Green said he would present tomorrow would allow the same exemptions as the estate tax and also would exempt all gifts by one person to individuals which did not exceed $500 each in any year. This would permit payments of a bonus by business firms, he said. Charitable gifts also would be exempted. The estate tax starts at one pre cent. on amounts not in excess of $50,000.

Representative Mills and Representative Longworth, republican leader, declared not more than $25,000,000 additional annually could be expected because of the Frear amendment which allows credit on state estate taxes.

Exemption allowed estates of former service men from the estate tax under the present law was eliminated on motion of Representative Fairchild, republican, New York.

An amendment proposed by Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, to place a graduated tax on tax-exempt securities in the estate of a decedent was voted down, 149 to 132.

COOLIDGE ASKS ACTION TO PROBE N. P. LAND GRANTS

Washington, Feb. 25—Expeditious action by congress in investigating the Northern Pacific land grants is urged by President Coolidge in a letter to Chairman Lenroot of the senate public lands committee, made public tonight at the White House.

Such action should be taken to insure "the fullest protection of the interests," the president said, according to the report recently made by Secretaries Wallace, and Work that congress adopt a resolution directing the interior department to withold approval of the adjustment of Northern Pacific land grants until congress shall have made a full and complete inquiry into them. Unless directed specifically by congress the interior department soon will be compelled under the law to turn over to the Northern Pacific railroad approximately 3,-900,000 acres including large areas of national forest lands.

Mr. Coolidge submitted to Chairman Lenroot a letter from Secretary Wallace, which, the executive said, contained statements raising "serious questions as to the extent to which the railroad compny may have obtained benefits from the grant, and also as to the extent of its compliance with the obligations imposed upon it by the legislation which conferred the grant."

"I believe that these questions should be full determined before a final settlement of the matter is effected and before further public lands are patented to the company," the president added. "From the nature of the case, and particularly the broad and varied equities which it involves it would seem that such a determination and settlement can be made only by the congress."

TO RECAPITALIZE RADIO CORPORATION OF AMERICA

New York, Feb. 25—Recapitalization of the Radio Corporation of America, reducing the number of shares of preferred stock from 5,000,000 to 500,000—and the no-par value common stock from 7,500,000 to 1,500,000, has been proposed by the directors, Major General James G. Harbord, president, announced today. Stockholders will vote upon the play in May.

The amount of the capitalization, General Harbord said, would remain the same, but the plan would create a par value of $50 for the preferred stock. Both the new common and preferred shares will be designated as class "A" and will be exchangeable on the basis of one for ten shares of the old preferred and one for five shares of the common.

TEN REINSTATED IN THE BUREAU OF ENGRAVING

Washington, Feb. 25—Ten division chiefs of the bureau of engraving and printing were reinstated in their old jobs today after a two years fight for vindication beginning with their dismissal by President Harding.

Wallace W. Kirby, newly installed acting director, said six more of the twenty nine dismissed would be put back to work next week. The others are not expected to return, some having preferred other employment and some reached retirement age.

WILLIMANTIC

Three local men, Maurice Griffin, Daniel Brennan and Daniel Killoury, were before the local police court Monday morning, to answer to charges of breach of the peace, the complainant in the case being David Tachinsky, a resident of Bricktop road near Windham Center. From the story told by Tachinsky the court was of the opinion that the trio would be involved in more serious charges and the three cases were continued until this (Tuesday) morning when the officers who made the arrests will be present to testify. Bonds of $200 were named.

When the men were arrested Sunday night they had in their possession a two-gallon jug nearly filled with cider, a tin gallon container in which was a quantity of cider and a cardboard carton in which were a dozen and half of hens' and ducks' eggs which Tachinsky identified as his property. The complainant said that he had locked up his house when he left early Sunday evening and when on his way to this city he met the three men who stopped him and asked him for a match. He recognized all of them Monday morning. Griffin had been in his employ and had worked at his place Sunday morning. Tachinsky said that Griffin slept elsewhere, but took his meals with him. He did not have a key to the house. He was suspicious of Griffin and the other two men in connection with raids conducted on his hen coops, several times this winter.

After Tachinsky had met the trio he turned back and followed and saw the men go to his house and heard a noise like the breaking of a lock. He saw one man, and possibly two enter the house but dared not go there himself, so he went to a neighbor's and telephoned to the police. When he came out the men had left and Tachinsky went to his home and found the lock broken and the cider and eggs gone. Officers Arthur and William Hurley and Edward Leahy commandeered an automobile and arrested the men, as they were walking along the road.

Rudolph Benson, charged with intoxication at the session of police court Monday morning, pleaded guilty. Officer Bombria found it necessary to arrest the man after having warned him that he had better go home. A fine of two dollars and costs was imposed by Judge Foss and Benson was placed on probation for a term of three months.

After many years of dissatisfaction, the smaller property owners in the town of Coventry are satisfied that the "big fellers" are going to pay their share of taxes this year under a newly adjusted valuation on property. Coventry has been stirred for some time over this tax question, and the fireworks will be plentiful at the annual meeting of the town to be held Saturday afternoon of this week at 1.30 o'clock. The result of the equalization movement has been to raise the grand list approximately fifty per cent over the one made out by the board of assessors for 1923, which was $1,029,046 on which a tax rate of twenty-seven mills was laid.

It has been the opinion of State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett and the state board of equalization for the past two years that the Coventry town fathers should raise the valuation of property, as the returns made by the assessors in past years had been too low. Last year the Coventry officials were notified by the state board that the assessors be advised to re-assess property. The sum of $1,975,000 was mentioned as a fair valuation by the equalization board and at a special town meeting in March the matter was brought before the Coventry property owners. By a vote the assessors were instructed to re-assess the town property.

Assessors Louis A. Kingsbury, Fred S. White and Jesse R. Lee went to work and their returns showed an increase of a little over twenty per cent., making a grand list figure of a fraction over $1,200,000. It was stated that the grand list was not boosted to a higher figure because the assessors did not have time to complete their work of reassessing. When the work was turned over to the board of relief that body was requested to continue to increase the property valuations and this was done. Some of the Coventry tax payers are now questioning the legality of the board of relief doing the work of revaluation. The board of relief comprises David S. Tillinghast, John E. Wright and Charles A. Schroeder and at their session this month they were charged with having even exceeded the request made of them by the assessors. Their work will not be completed until the day before the special town meeting and it is expected that the figures which they will make known will jar the taxpayers, as the increase thus far is something over $250,000, which is more than that made by the board of assessors and brings the grand list total at the present time to slightly over $1,500,000, or fifty per cent over the 1923 figures.

Most of the town officials estimate that the property valuation is now about 90 per cent of market valuation. Tax Commissioner Blodgett had placed a conservative estimate of the value placed by his department on Coventry's taxable property at 49.34 per cent and he was of the opinion that the property should go in on a one hundred per cent basis. The present assessment of property in the town includes the increase which comes almost wholly from real estate and the discovery of about $100,000 worth of new property.

When the board of relief and the property owners met during the past week there were many heated discussions and the people wanted to know just how they would stand in the tax rate that would be levied on the increased valuations.

When the statement was made that no doubt the tax rate would be reduced from the present rate of 27 mills, they figured out what they would have to pay and found that it did not exceed to a great extent what they paid last year. The minds of most of those who called then began to be less agitated.

The expense budget for the coming year amounts to about $30,000 and if a twenty-mill tax is raised the budget will be taken care of and a good balance will be left to pay up part of the town's temporary debt for building the new state road last summer between the villages of South and North Coventry. The town does not yet know just what its share of this bill will be. The road is not entirely completed and has not yet been accepted by either the state or the town of Coventry. The estimated cost is about $125,000, of which Coventry pays one-eighth or about $15,500. A twenty-mill tax, or a mill or two extra when the town overruns its budget, will pay this debt in five years.

First Selectman Dr. William L. Higgins is proud of his town as he knows of no other community which is as free from financial encumbrances as Coventry, which is now practically out of forced debt. The town closed its business on September 1, 1923, with a balance of $1,253.39. Selectman Higgins points out that the liability of the town on that date amounts to $13,746.77 and that the assets on that date figured $14,999.16 in the matter of taxes due, liens and other town income.

Paul Whiteman's Steamship Band scored a big hit at the concert and dance under the auspices of Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard in the state armory on Pleasant street Saturday night. Nearly 700 people attended the affair. The band was directed by Robert Berne, violinist.

Willimantic has lost a thriving young business in the removal from this city of a branch of the Burns Lace Manufacturing company, of Middletown, from its location at the Chapman street mill of the H. K. & W. A. Washburn company, where it has operated since Aug. 6, 1923. The plant was closed last week and the machinery has been moved to Middletown to the main plant of the Burns company. Positions have been secured for most of the help employed at the local mill and William A. Costello, who has been manager for the Burns company here resumed his duties with the concern Monday at Middletown. He will later go on the road as the New England salesman for the company.

The Burns company, which is a New York concern, manufactures silk draperies and all kinds of silk and artificial silk. It was one of the biggest buyers of the thread manufactured by the H. K. & W. A. Washburn company and when the latter firm's business experienced a slump last summer the Burns company took a lease of the Chapman street plant and operated it as a throwing mill. Mr. Costello, who was at one time manager of the Washburn concern, was retained in that capacity. The Washburn concern disposed of the machinery in the Chapman street mill last January and gradually moved to Middletown. The mill is a one-story wooden structure with a large basement. When business was good about seventy hands were employed there. Some thirty-five people were employed there when the silk company closed its business here. Local people feel the general business stagnation in the textile industry in this section, the acuteness of which was brought home through the closing of the local plant.

The funeral of James Casey was held Monday morning from his home, 75 Park street, with a requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. John H. Clark, the pastor, officiated. The organ music was by Mrs. E. R. Portelance. Many friends and relatives attended the services and there were beautiful floral forms. The body was taken to St. Joseph's cemetery and placed in the receiving vault where Rev. Father Clark conducted a committal service. The bearers were Daniel Grady, Joseph Cotter, James Farrell and Frank Teevans. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Funeral services for Emil Nemes were held at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon from his home in Ashford. Burial was in the Knowlton cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery & VanZandt.

Alfred, the seven months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nascin, of 146 Chapman street, died at the home of his parents Saturday night after a short illness. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

As the result of burns last Friday when he fell into a tub of boiling water placed on the floor by his mother, Stanley, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Koyayaski of 131 Chapman street, died the following day. The child did not respond to medical treatment and Medical Examiner Dr. Lottie I. Mason was summoned to view the body. The funeral was held Monday afternoon with services at St. Joseph's church at 3 o'clock. The body was placed in the receiving vault of St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Ann Russ, widow of John Russ, died Saturday night at the home of her brother, Lee Lyon, of Pheonixville. Mrs. Russ was born in Eastford, a daughter of Nathan B. and Sophie Weeks Lyon. She is survived by two sons, Howard J. and Winthrop N. of this city; a brother, Lee Lyon; and two grandchildren. She was a member of Hampton Congregational church and was a cousin of General Lyon, of Revolutionary war fame.

Rev. David N. Beach, Jr., of Guilford had declined the call recently extended to him to the pastorate of the First Congregational church of this city and the local church committee has been so notified. Rev. Mr. Beach explains that at about the same time that he received the call from Willimantic he received a call to the Park Place church, Pawtucket, R. I., which he has decided to accept. Rev. Charles Stoddard Lane of Hartford Theological seminary will be the speaker at the church here next Sunday. He will be followed the next week by Prof. Howard A. Seckerson of Storrs, who has supplied the pulpit most acceptably for three Sundays past.

There has been a decided impetus in the payment of personal taxes at the office of Collector George J. Timmins. Saturday and Monday were big days but several hundred men and women are still awaiting the last minute call although there are only four more days to go. Those in arrears after March 1st are liable to arrest and a court trial.

Vincenzo Benvenuto, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Benvenuti, 1158 West Main street, left home early Sunday evening after he had rifled a bureau drawer of $25, which had been placed there by his parents. Young Benvenuto, a seventh grade pupil of St. Joseph's school, has always professed a desire to become a motion picture actor. He left a note at his home in which he stated that he was on his way to Hollywood, California, but would return to spend the Christmas season here. Officer Orlando, of the police department, was notified of the boy's runaway and it is expected that he will be returned to this city within a few days. The boy has light curly hair, is a little over five feet tall and when he left he wore a new brown suit and overcoat, light gray hat and brown low shoes.

The hook and ladder truck and the big LaFrance pumper answered to the call for the Nichols fire, Sunday night. The crew on the latter machine met with trouble as they were backing out of the driveway of the Nichols home and the steering rod snapped. The firemen had to wait for some time before the services of a wrecker from a local garage could be secured and the truck was hauled to a repair shop. The pumper will be useless for a few days while necessary repairs are being made.

The bridesmaid was Miss Dora Couture, the bride's sister. She wore cocoa brown brocaded crepe with hat to match and carried carnations. Eugene Couture, was the best man. A reception was held at the bride's home on East Main street, and a turkey breakfast was served to relatives and friends, present from Pawtucket, Providence, Woonsocket, Plainfield, and Jewett City. Mr. and Mrs. Messier will spend their honeymoon in Canada.

The bride's traveling gown was brocaded crepe with hat to match. She received beautiful gifts of cut-glass, linen, silver and money. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Remi Couture of East Main street. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Zephin Messier of Pawtucket.

An interesting match was shot at the Voluntown Rifle range Sunday afternoon, one of those stand-up and do your best matches. The contestants were John Kaufmann, a veteran of many matches, and George Sheldon, an enthusiastic rifleman who has had only a few years at the game. Mr. Sheldon, although handicapped by not having the use of his legs is a very creditable shot and has learned in the short time he has been at the game, the art of holding his shots and putting them where he wants them. Something that many older rifleman have never learned. To try his nerve in a real match Mr. Kaufman suggested that they shoot a match at fifty yards. Mr. Sheldon using the 22 long and Mr. Kaufmann using the 22 short. Many rifleman believe that the long is superior to the short and there is still a doubt in the minds of the two riflemen mentioned above as the following scores will show. Incidentally Mr. Sheldon showed that he had the nerve and stamina that goes to make up the expert rifleman.

On the Voluntown Rifle club range some very fine scores were made in the 50 shot match. Sheldon and Kaufman made the high score for the Edmond Medal, 96 out of a possible 100. The scores: 50 shots on the one inch ring target, John Kaufmann 499, George Sheldon 495, Clarence Gaudette 485, James Herbert 472, Jim Hopkins 462, Arthur Burlingame 460 Mitchel Violette 402.

This is the second time the score of 499 out of a possible 500 was made on the one inch ring target by Mr. Kaufmann. There is a gold medal waiting for the man who puts up the first score of 500, next best score made Palmer 497, Sheldon 496, Ballou 495, Stebbins 492, Dupont 491.

LUDENDORF TRIAL WILL LAST BUT A FEW DAYS

Munich, Feb. 25.—(By The A. P.)—There are predictions from many quarters tonight that the trial of former Field Marshal Von Ludendorff and his associates for their part in the November putsch, which will begin here tomorrow, will last but a few days. Already there are reports that many of the witnesses have been taken ill and "cannot possibly recover in time to give testimony in this particular case." It is even rumored that Dr. Von Kahr, former Bavarian military dictator, and others under subpoena to testify have engaged beds in sanatoriums and are prepared to enter these institutions at a moment's notice should an emergency arise.

The most important and interesting testimony will be heard in camera and it is believed that little will be brought out in the public hearing, which has not already become known and published.

Ludendorff has made up his mind to tell it all according to new versions as to who originally conceived the putsch as published here in the newspapers tonight. In these stories Ludendorff is said to disclaim the charge that he was the prime mover in the plot designed to overthrow the Berlin government.

The billard champion's mother nd his attorney testified they raided a room in Hotel Imperial and found Mrs. Hoppe with Exiner. Mrs. Hoppe and Exiner denied misconduct charges.

Justice O'Malley, who heard the case is expected to sign the divorce decree soon and make known the disposition of the Hoppe children, a boy and a girl.

"Because my husband likes it"—

The answer 9 out of 10 women gave

When you actually ask housewives, one after another, why they serve the bread they do, the surprising answer again and again is "Because my husband likes it."

ANSWER the question yourself. What does your husband like in the bread you serve?

These are the reasons that most housewives gave for their husbands' preference.

He likes a firm and substantial loaf that is not all fluffed up.

He wants a good rich crust and firm close slices that do not crumble.

And above all, he wants bread that is real food—with the full wheaty flavor of the grain and the sugar and shortening and whole milk.

All this you can find in White Rose, the Master Loaf of the Six Bakers who came together to make the ideal bread.

These six men, each one a successful baker, compared recipes and baking secrets so that they might best please New England men and women.

They have combined those qualities which each had found most popular.

Now for the first time White Rose, the Master Loaf of the Six Bakers, is being served in a small section outside of New England. Your grocer has it. Ask for it tomorrow—in the pleasant checked wrapper, like a fresh, clean tea towel.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Every year brings its new civic burdens. Now comes the state department of health, through J. Frederick Jackson, informing the borough of Danielson through Warden W. A. Burrows that something must be done to correct the present unsatisfactory method of disposing of sewage being dumped upon the borough farm, off lower Dyer street, from the borough's sewer system.

The filter beds constructed at the farm a number of years ago are now inadequate in capacity to take care of the sewage, which is overflowing the beds and finding its way into the Quinebaug river. Mr. Jackson points out that this constitutes the pollution of a stream and is a violation of a state law.

In reply officials of the borough have informed the state health department that this matter will have their prompt attention as soon as the weather conditions permit of correcting the matter about which complaint has been made.

It will be recalled that the borough of Danielson purchased the property now known as the borough farm from Richard Whalen for the express purpose of establishing sewer beds and with the idea of preventing stream pollution when the borough first embarked in a large way on the project of sewer system.

As years have come and gone various extensions of the sewer system have been authorized at regular and special borough meetings. Street after street not included in the original building plan has been supplied with sewer serice and the result has been such an outpouring of sewage on beds never intended to take care of so much matter that they have been deluged and have overflower, allowing this waste matter to find its way into the waters of the Quinebaug river, which marks the western boundary of the farm.

This situation has come to the attention of the state board of health, representatives of that department have inspected the filter beds, and their demand for corrective action has followed.

There appeared to be Monday, a wide difference of opinion as to what it is going to cost the borough to remove the state department of health cause of complaint. One estimate ran as high as $10,000, this contemplating the construction of an adequate number of filter beds of adequate size to care for the present amount of sewage from the mains and for such increase in sewage as may be looked forward to with confidence, the normal growth and development of Danielson considered.

Other estimates of the cost of meeting the requirements of the state board of health as to the borough's sewage disposal run down to $2,000 or $3,000. Whatever the cost, there will be no evading it. All that may be done is to exercise judgment and economy.

The borough owns ample acreage on the farm to construct all the filter beds that may be required. The farm was acquired for no other purpose than to furnish a base for sewage disposal, so at least the municipality will not be called upon to buy more land in adjusting the problem that now confronts it. Incidentally, the farm has been rented to tenants for years and the rental has brought some return on the original investment of $6,000.

It is understood that borough officials have in mind correcting the present situation at the earliest possible moment. Probably a borough meeting will be called to pass upon various proposals that may be submitted relative to sewage disposal. Circumstances will determine this.

Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. James' church, Miss Lena Roberge became the bride of John Breayea, Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., performing the marriage ceremony and celebrating the nuptial mass, which was attended by many relatives and friends. Miss Lauretta Lambert was bridesmaid and Charles Breayea, a brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the wedding there was a reception at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Alphonse Frasier of Dyer street. Mr. and Mrs. Breayea left during the day for their wedding trip. They will visit in New York and Boston before going to make their home in Pawtucket, where the groom is employed. The bride, who has been in the employ of G. O. Thomas for a number of years and who has become otherwise well known through participation in amateur theatricals in Danielson and as a member of the choir of St. James' church, received many beautiful gifts of linen, cut glass, silverware and many other things for her home. The groom, whose home has been in Danielson the greater part of his life, is a veteran of the world war.

Unless all forecasts fail, there will be a large assemblage of mothers and their children under six years of age at the town hall this (Tuesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock for the well baby conference. A careful canvass of the borough has been made by representatives of organizations interested in the movement and up to Monday afternoon, when returns were not complete 131 children under six had been listed, and the prospect was that at least 75 per cent. of this number will be at the conference this afternoon.

Dr. S. Elizabeth Ingraham of Hartford, representing the state's child hygiene department, will be in charge at the clinic and will be assisted by an experienced nurse and by a suite of women who have given much time and thought to making the conference a success—and that means of real value to all the children who come under the scrutiny of Dr. Ingraham.

Mrs. Amadee Lussier of Garter St., was taken to St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester Monday for observation and possibly to undergo a surgical operation. Mrs. Lussier has been seriously ill for a number of days.

At a number of points in the borough Monday morning the mercury touched a minimum of 6 degrees below zero. Sunday morning the low readings were 2 to 4 below zero.

John A. Fernan of Southbridge was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Monday

A boxing exhibition Thursday evening, a dance Friday evening and basketball games Wednesday and Saturday evenings will furnish a good amusement program for the week, this being the last full week before the beginning of Lent.

Suggested by the fact that the time for nominating borough officials for another year is right in the forefront Warden W. A. Burrows was asked if he would be a candidate for renomination. Warden Burrows made it clear that he is not seeking the place and will make no effort for the nomination, though willing to serve if the caucus selects him and he is re-elected.

Judge Sabin R. Russell was in Hartford Monday on a business trip.

Several Leap Year parties are planned for Friday evening of this week, February 29. That date incidentally will bring a birthday to a number of Danielson people who do not have birthdays oftener than once in four years and occasionally only once in eight years.

To make the going somewhat less slippery a crew of the state highway department covered Main street with gravel Monday. This street has been icy and rutted for the past three weeks.

On the same day the mails brought two letters to Arthur Duprey from men with whom he served during the world war, one of the letters bearing a postmark in Alaska, the other the postmark for a winter resort in Florida.

Some freight cars recently have gone south through Danielson with nearly two feet of snow on their roof, while cars close to them in the train were bare of snow. The cars with the heavy snow were said to be from Maine points.

PUTNAM

In these closing days of February, attorneys of the county are busy in claiming and preparing cases for trial at the March term of the superior court, opening Tuesday of next week.

One of the cases claimed that is of special interest to Putnam people has to do with the O'Leary property, so-called, on Main street, next to the Congregational church and Court House block. This property was conveyed, several years ago, by Mrs. Margaret O'Leary to Remi Delage, afterwards chief of police.

Attorneys who represent Margaret O'Leary and her conservator, Patrick O'Dwyer of Webster, contend that the transfer of the property was obtained at a figure lower than its real value at the time of the sale and that when she negotiated the sale Mrs. O'Leary was not mentally competent to transact business of such importance. This is denied by the defendants. The sale price of the property is said to have been $11,000, whereas counsel for Mrs. O'Leary attest that its real value at the time of the sale was $16,000.

Many obstacles of a serious nature have intruded themselves to delay the trial of this case. Mrs. O'Leary, now in Ireland and in such a weakened mental state, that she would be unable to appear in court, will have her case presented and built up on depositions that have been obtained by her counsel. Since the institution of the suit Captain Delage has died of injuries received in an automobile accident, on May 1, of last year. His estate and Mrs. Valerie Delage, his widow, will figure in the defense.

In it is understood that the attorneys for Mrs. O'Leary, et al., will seek to recover the rents obtained from the property in question during the past two years as well as to obtain what they contend is the real value of the property, or in lieu thereof, to recover title to the property, as well as the rents.

The defense will be an active one and will endeavor to establish that the purchase of the property by Mr. Delage was a legitimate business transaction, made in good faith and that the claims of the plaintiff are without real foundation.

There is a possibility that this case will be assigned for trial at the short calendar session that will precede the opening of court next Tuesday. Trial of it will be of very general interest to the people of the city, as the case has been in the public mind for a long time.

Official announcement of the impending public sale of the Manhasset mills property, as made in this paper Monday morning, made the people of this city pause and consider. What is to become of the fine property developed during the last decade? Into whose hands will it pass? Will it be sold intact, or will it go piece meal, one building to one interest, another to someone else a lot of machinery here and another lot there? And how long will the time be, under most favorable circumstances, before the plant is again in operation.

These are very important questions to Putnam, which benefited in a splendid way from the prosperity of the more than 700 people who for years earned fine wages in the great plant, where the hum of machinery has given place to brooding silence.

There is a stipulation in the sale announcements on which many pin their hope that the big plant will be taken over intact by some important and manufacturing interest—and that stipulation is that the plant will be offered as a whole before selling by lots, or in parcels, begins.

From time to time since it became known that the plant must be sold there have been rumors of one big fire manufacturing concern or another being interested in taking it over to manufacture fabrics for their own use. None of these rumors have ever been verified beyond that they were founded on "reliable information." The hope is that these rumors are true. If a fabric concern takes over the plant, resumption of operations is bound to come more speedily than would be the case under almost any other condition.

Speed in getting the plant to operating again is all important to Putnam. That it will be atractive as a buy to many prospective purchasers is a foregone conclusion. It is largely a modern plant, finely equipped and certain to be of compelling interest to numbers interested in textile activities.

There can be little but speculation on the matter, however, until the sale dates during March, for, as was pointed out Monday, no interest that hopes to buy is likely to reveal its intention to the public at large. Transactions of the magnitude of this one are usually negotiated under cover up to the last possible moment. This likely will be true in the case of the Manhasset property.

Constantino Margoralos may be mentally unbalanced, but his lack of keenness in some ways evidently does not run to allowing himself to freeze to death. Since Friday of last week neighbors near an unoccupied house known as the Anderson place at South Woodstock have seen smoke pouring out of the chimney at that home and have wondered about it. Between discovery of the chimney smoke and Constantinos' appearance before Justice Charles M. Perrin, holding court at North Woodstock Monday afternoon, there have been interesting developments.

Being convinced that someone had entered the house and was making a home there, observers reported the matter to Constable Bert Johnson, and the officer went there Sunday evening about 6.30, and discovered the occupant, getting along very comfortably beside a roaring fire, and, apparently, being content without lights.

When Officer Johnson entered and flashed a spotlight about, Constantinos may have conceived the idea he was about to be attacked, and reaching behind a door hauled out an old sword that had been left in the house. Officer Johnson said he thought at first that the sword was a gun, a mistake easily to be made in the uncertain light, but he hooked right onto the intruder, disarmed him and brought him to the police station in this city, to be locked up for the night. Constantinos, who appears to be about 34, said at different times after his arrest that he came from Worcester and again that his bailing place was Springfield.

Finally, in court Monday afternoon he stuck to the story that he was from Worcester and that he had been an inmate of a hospital for the insane there. Communication with the institution verified this and arrangements were finally negotiated under which the man was taken over the line into Massachusetts and lodged at the Webster police station, where hospital authorities were to take charge of him and return him to confinement.

Another case disposed of in Justice Perrin's court, Monday afternoon, was that of Arthur Tummel of Woodstock Valley. He was arrested last week and lodged in Brooklyn jail, following a family quarrel and a subsequent episode that seem to threaten danger to the lives of some of his relatives.

A charge of attempted assault with a dangerous weapon was withdrawn when Tummel was brought to court Monday afternoon. On other counts he was given a sentence of two months in jail, but execution of the sentence was ordered suspended during his good behavior. Included in the charges against Tummel were keeping an unregistered dog, and, as an alien, possessing a gun in opposition to the law. He paid the costs amounting to $61.

Jerry Bernard of this city is to meet Johnny Murray of Rockville, in a six-round preliminary bout at Danielson Thursday evening, the bout to be one of a card prepared for the occasion. The Bernard-Murray bout is to be at 128-130 pounds.

Friday this week is the last day on which operators' licenses in present use may be used. New licenses will be required next Saturday morning and thereafter.

Another Monday came and went without a session of the city court being held. But, then everyone is busy with income tax returns.

WESTERLY

The South County Rod and Gun club, of Westerly, through a committee named for the purpose are seeking to increase the presence of game birds in Washington county. The committee consists of George A. Dolan, a member of the Rhode Island Commission of Inland Fisheries and Farquhar Smith, a member of the Westerly town council and chairman of its police committee. Seeds have been sent for from Wisconsin for rice and wild celery which it is planned to scatter about near fresh water bodies and which it is hoped will grow and spread, to furnish food for the wild birds. It has been found that the game birds are fond of this diet and about Lake Champlain the experiment has worked so well that the plan is being imitated elsewhere. The plans of the committee not only include the increasing of the most sought after food supply but the committee members are to secure birds themselves for breeding purposes. Already a pen of pheasants, consisting of one cockerel and five hens has been secured from New York state. The members of the rod and gun club are planning to build coops and construct pens and runs for the propagation of game birds. If their experiments prove successful the plans will be carried out on a larger scale and the sportsmen hereabout will have cause to be grateful for the forethought and industry of the gun club members.

The Westerly Cycle club members are planning for their 28th annual banquet which is to be held this year at the Majestic hall in Pawcatuck Thursday evening, March 13th. A committee consisting of Dr. Ronald C. Dove, chairman; Robert W. Brundrett, John B. Two fast mail trains and a Reo truck figured in an accident at the upper Water street crossing on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, north of Stonington borough about 3 a. m., Monday.

The little Reo truck No. B26692, Massachusetts, owned and driven by H. B. Schmitchell, a furniture and piano mover of Brockton, Mass., and bearing a job wagon license No '29, of that city, with a companion, was crossing the track going north when the locomotive of the fast mail, eastbound, struck the machine on the rear abreast of the wheel and the back portion of the machine was splintered.

Both the rear wheels were demolished and the Reo was thrown over on the southbound rails. The men were not able to work the engine to clear the track and the machine was in such a position that train No. 3, e mail out of Boston, due at Stonington at 3.20 a. m., hit the car again and threw the machine back on the northbound track. In all the mixup the windshield was not broken nor was the engine hood damaged, and both of the men succeeded in getting clear of the wreckage without a scratch.

Help was summoned from a local garage and aided in getting the wrecked Reo out on the south side of the track and away from further damage. The machine is beyond repair. The owner and his companion left on an early train for their home in Brockton.

The gates at this crossing are not in operation between 10 p. m. and 7 a. m., and there is nothing to indicate the approach of trains but the bell at the crossing. Efforts have been made for a night man at this station, but the railroad company has not seen fit to meet the request. It is possible that a new effort will be made to have protection soon between the hours named. The Main street and Elm street crossings have a full 24-hour service.

HANOVER

There was sorrow in Hanover on Thursday when the death of Charles Benson was announced. Mr. Benson was popular among religious, social and working circles.

Rev. Roderick MacLeod gave an interesting sermon Sunday morning, having as his subject, Taking Stock The text was Search me, O God, and know my heart, try me and know my thoughts. Every prosperous store owner needs to "take stock" at least once a year, to determine just what goods he has and just what he needs. We also need to do the same, the preacher said. Once a year, at least, we should look into our lives to discover what we have and what we need—spiritually and materially. After summarizing ways in which the church should check up on its strong and weak points, he closed by elaborating the idea that love is the measure of a successful life.

During February the Christian Endeavor society has been carrying on some active peace work. The public has been invited to all Sunday evening services for which special speakers have been obtained. Adelbort Adams spoke at a memorial service for Wilson when Wilson's plan for eventual world peace was discussed. Rev. William J. Reynolds spoke on The League of Nations and Peace last Sunday evening Rev. Roderick MacLeod gave an inspiring talk on Peace in Poetry.

Miss Annan of Connecticut Agricultural college will instruct an all-day millinery class Friday. This is open to all the women of the parish.

At the missionary meeting Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. William Zumbro of Norwich, a returned missionary from India, is to speak.

IMMIGRATION LEGISLATION.

Immigration legislation is sought for the purpose of giving protection to this country, to correct weaknesses in existing laws and to meet changed conditions. Restrictive immigration was adopted in order to shut out that great army that could be expected to flood the country following the war, and at a time when this country neither needed such a horde nor desired the type that would be most anxious to come.

The restrictions have worked well, even though there have been some bothersome features. We have gotten to the point where the protective measures must be continued. The existing law has its limits, and it becomes a question as to whether it will be extended with such changes as will overcome the defects, or whether an entirely new law will be adopted with increased restrictions based upon the number of nationals in this country in 1890 instead of 1910. The effect of such a plan is to reduce the numbers from certain countries, because the number of people from those countries in the United States at the former date was much smaller than at the latter. There has been much chading at the restrictions that have been in effect, and now the increased protest causes no surprise.

The aim to get material from abroad that can best be assimilated is a worthy one. The undesirables are not solely those who cannot pass the ordinary immigration tests. There is opposition to discrimination, and even though it is to be realized that the United States has a right to properly protect itself the effect of the increased restrictions upon other countries must of necessity get considerate attention.

Resentment of course comes not only from other countries, but from those citizens who were once immigrants. For this reason much pressure is being brought to bear upon congress to avoid the discrimination that is discernible in the new bill now before congress. The effort is not to end the restrictions but to prevent the increase which has been planned from going into effect.

POINCARE'S TROUBLES.

Faced with the necessity of doing something that would stabilize the falling franc Premier Poincare put forth his tax reform plan. It was a desperate remedy for a desperate situation. Something had to be done and it was the belief of the premier that that something was the levying of a tax to meet the financial situation. That it should meet with opposition was to be expected. It was possible even that it might be turned down, and with such action would go the present French ministry.

Thus far, however, Premier Poincare has obtained the necessary support. To hasten the action on the tax plan he made it a question of confidence in the government. It was a move that was certain to test the strength of the opposition, and it did. The premier was sustained in the chamber of deputies and the tax matter now goes to the senate.

France is of course much interested in the coming report of the Dawes committee. There is a desire that that report should be heard before any further action is taken on the tax measure. Sentiment exists in the senate for that delay, but such opposition to the premier's plan is no different than the opposition that is known to exist to the premier when he clings to the policy of retaining the railroads in the Ruhr and Rhineland, even though the return of such to Germany is said to be part of the Dawes programme.

Having won in the chamber of deputies it is quite evident that the French premier still has no small struggle before him in getting the senate to take the same view that he does. He has the added leverage that comes from the rise in the value of the franc, a rise that has come as the result of his stand and the support that has thus been given him.

There are those who are trimming their sails in anticipation of being chosen to guide the French ship of state. They are figuring that Poincare is due for a fall, but he has displayed remarkably successful generalship and it remains to be seen whether new developments are going to increase opposition to his plan, or to bring about a change in policy. The Dawes report is bound to have an important bearing on present problems.

THE NAVAL PARLEY.

Much was expected from the parley of nations at Rome where an endeavor is being made to reach an understanding regarding naval limitations that would correspond with that now existing among the five leading nations. For the purpose of determining the attitude of the smaller nations and to let each know the views of the others the conference was called, but even before that time it was appreciated that an unusual attitude on the part of all would be necessary to accomplish the desired results.

The struggle to outdo the other has always been due to suspicions, and it is being found that that same suspicion bobs up when it comes to entering upon an agreement restricting naval equipment. Each nation views the naval strength of certain others with alarm. The difficulty of getting each at a standard of strength that will satisfy was anticipated. It was disclosed in the last Pan-American conference and it is displayed now at Rome. Certain nations are disposed to place a decidedly different value upon its navy than others. Those who cannot have what they think they ought to have, rather than what the conference believes they are justified in having, are seldom open to argument.

Spain's delegates to the conference at Rome have already withdrawn as delegates and remain only as observers. Chile was not satisfied with its allotment and wanted more, though it hasn't as yet withdrawn.

The reluctance to give up any advantages for fear that the neighbor will be more powerful navywise is not a surprising attitude in view of the fact that no restrictive agreement has been in existence before. The naval treaty among the leaders has made possible the conference now in session, but apparently there are those nations which are unwilling to accept the judgment of others in such matters. It is possible to anticipate what the action of those countries will be when they are called upon to ratify any proposal which the present conference may bring forth.

DR. PATRICK CASSIDY.

By the death of Dr. Patrick Cassidy there has been removed a citizen and professional man of unusual prominence. Probably there was none that had a wider acquaintance. Selecting Norwich in which to practice his profession he devoted his best efforts to its upbuilding as well as to the duties of a busy physician and surgeon. He was always a hale fellow well met. His practice and genial good nature brought him into touch with practically everyone and he always had some cheery word of greeting to extend. Always frank and open he displayed traits of character that were unmistakably sincere.

He built up an enviable and far reaching reputation in his profession and was frequently called for long distances for consultation.

Norwich owes much to the fact that he decided to locate in this city after leaving college. He was an alert and active democrat, but he stood above partisanship when it came to matters of general public welfare. How deeply he was interested in the growth of the community is displayed by his services as a member of civic organizations, his efforts in behalf of our hospitals and his clear and straightforward opinions as expressed in city or town meetings. Much of his time was given to the betterment of our educational institutions in spite of the many demands upon him and he was much in demand as a speaker.

He was permitted to go far beyond the proverbial three score and ten and he made the most of a long and active career. Norwich experiences a decided loss in his passing. A man and a physician of the old school has gone.

STRIKE LOSSES.

What will mean a great relief to England and transportation lines doing business with British ports will be the resumption of work by the dockmen who have been out on a strike for the past ten days.

As the result of the agreement that has been reached the workers have obtained, or will by June, practically what they sought. They have gained their end in spite of the vast amount of unemployment in England today and were even more successful than the railroad men in their recent labor trouble.

Within a short time strikes have been called that served to interfere more or less seriously with transportation in the British Isles. Fortunately neither one was of long duration, but the British as well as those doing business with them must wonder why it might not all have been prevented through a sane consideration of the facts without any interruption of employment.

Not only has there been a large loss sustained through the period of stagnation, but there has been an interruption in the movement of mails and foodstuffs that might well have been prevented, while an adjustment without the use of the strike would also have prevented any resort to unjust price collecting on the part of profiteers. Whether justified or not the profiteer doesn't overlook those opportunities which they consider to be created for their benefit. They work quickly because they know not how soon their chances may be removed though the full effect of calling off the strike is not likely to be experienced for several days.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—Some one remarked today "Congress is suffering from a fit of nervous investigation" and that tells the story to a tee. More than fifty special investigations have been demanded and are before the senate or its committees; more than twenty-five have been called for by the house and now before that body or before some of its committees. These are official figures. Some have been merely asked for and some have been demanded by resolution. In the senate oil is attracting the most widespread attention, and the democrats are hammering right and left, trying to drag into it men of prominence in the opposite party. Besides oil the senate has been called on to investigate Russia, the bureau of engraving, causes of the world war propaganda, activities of various kinds, political and otherwise, and some that run into the criminal code and those that do not. In the house the investigations demanded include bootlegging, the recent financial transactions of young Mr. Wood, son of the general; a long line of prohibition enactment subjects, including the shooting of Senator Greene; ticket scalping, the high price fixed for Washington house rents; why the Negro vote in the south is hampered and hindered; and a jump up into Alaskan matters. In fact the hackneyed term "too numerous to mention" would apply as well to congressional investigations as to the three ring circus and its side shows.

The week just closed has shown continued onslaught on political reputation, continued hot shot fired from the democratic side of the senate at public officials elected or appointed under republican power. Heflin of Alabama, whose "gift of gab" as they say down east, is unlimited had spent hours arraigning the republican party in general and the Harding and Coolidge cabinet officers in particular, and when he stepped for breath Floor Leader Robinson took up the song and shouted and chanted the same story till Heflin, Caraway, Wheeler or some other democratic senator was ready to lead the attack that seems to be spreading like the measles or the whooping cough.

There is a strong rumor here that the democratic continuent that is leading the "presidential campaign year" attack on republican policies and persons has framed a program that will include every member of the Harding cabinet. It is rumored that Secretary Wallace will be the next in line but that the end will not be reached until the entire cabinet is brought before the public and investigations called for. Offsetting this rumor is one to the effect that the investigation business as aimed against republicans only is being overdone and that in some states and sections of the country even now a reaction is setting in. The suggestion has been made that, after the painful showing made by Mr. Vanderlip, and the utter lack of proof he could offer to back up his charges, it would be wise to call before the committee the spreaders of accusations and learn whether or not their clamor was based on wild cat rumors, like those of Mr. Vanderlip. Whether or not that will be done cannot be forecasted, but to those who are in daily attendance at the hearings or at the senate some such plan would seem advisable, instead of besmirching with mud every republican head that lifts itself above the fence. A democratic senator who is not in sympathy with the present party methods along that line, said today, "The senate is getting to be as bad as the public that crowds the gallery daily; it wants some ill-smelling topic—it sniffs the air and if it smells anything less strong than an old Stilton cheese, it calls the day a failure." That is the record of the week just closed. What the next week will bring forth is too vague to even hint at.

When Attorney General Daugherty walked into the senate just before it convened on Washington's birthday, and took his seat on the side lines, to hear Senator Willis of Ohio read Washington's farewell address, the senators and the galleries sat up and took notice. Mr. Daugherty seemed to be the only person who was not excited. Sometime ago, he promised Senator Willis he would be on hand when the Ohio senator read the address, and he didn't let a little thing like the opinions of the democrats, or even some of the senators on the republican side of the chamber to the effect that he ought to resign, interfere with his previous plans. When Mr. Daugherty came in several republican senators at once joined him and made him welcome, but neither Senator Lodge or Senator Pepper joined the little group.

The shooting of Senator Frank Greene of Vermont, in the battle between the enforcement officers and men supposed to be bootleggers, still holds the attention of the city. Mr. Greene is paralyzed and speechless as an effect of the bone splinters that penetrated his brain, and his recovery is very doubtful; the officer supposed to have fired the bullet that struck Greene is suspended from duty and out on bail; congress and the White House are asking for a full investigation of the circumstances, the senators and members of congress from New England taking the lead in demanding a future "safety first" regulation that will prevent another accident of the same distressing nature.

Except for the part played by Congressman Tilson as a member of the ways and means committee in urging the Mellon bill, there has been but little interest developed among the Connecticut delegation. In fact newsgatherers who delve deep for "something local" are finding the present conditions a barrier. Investigations and the tax measure take up practically all legislative attention. The Connecticut house delegation is on hand and is supporting the Mellon bill in its original form; over in the senate both Senators Brandegee and McLean are in close attendance at every session and looking after their committee work, but except a few postmaster appointments there has been nothing of specific Connecticut interest during the past week.

It is amusing to watch the two floor leaders on the house side of the capitol. No greater contrast can be found than exists between Longworth of Ohio, on the republican side and John Garner and Garrett, who share honors on the democratic side. Garrett is quiet, and lets Garner do a lot of the talking, especially now the tax bill is up, but all the same Garrett is the titular leader and able and amiable.

Longworth is suave, polished, rich in this world's goods and with social standing and prestige of his own as well as the fact that Mrs. Longworth is the daughter of the late President Roosevelt.

Longworth is solid in flesh and dressed as his tailor approves. Garner is a peppery southerner from Texas, short, light of build, well off financially, but lacking in the polish of his adversary across the aisle. Garner wears a light grey suit that often shows needs of pressing; he is "sandy" in complexion, while Longworth is dark, and what hair he has is nearly black. The two men scrap vigorously when in debate, but are the best of personal friends when off partisan leadership duty.

And the difference between Mrs. Longworth and Mrs. Garner is still more notable. Mrs. Longworth is unquestionably the leader of Washington's official society that spells itself with a very large S. She is a generous and lavish hostess and is said to be the only woman here who maintains a salon where everybody worth while politically drops in to sup and talk things over. Like her distinguished father Mrs. Longworth is a law unto herself, and her friends show her the same devotion as did those of the colonel. The Longworth home here is one of great beauty, filled with rare furnishings; Mrs. Garner is often seen at her husband's office "helping out" and takes but little interest in social affairs, but she has many home friends. The congressional directory which gives a brief biography of senators and representatives makes no mention of the wife or family of Mr. Garner, but Longworth refers to Mrs. Longworth as the daughter of the late president. In fact the two floor leaders of the house, with their families, represent two very distinct and different types, but both are types that have many admirers.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Owen J. Roberts, appointed by President Coolidge as a prosecutor in the oil lease cases, is regarded as one of the most able and versatile lawyers Philadelphia has produced in the last generation. He is a native of the Quaker City and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. Mayor Moore, in 1918, appointed Mr. Roberts as his special counsel to attack the mandamus evil and he went to Harrisburg in that capacity. He was one of the attorneys in the North Penn Bank failure and at various times has represented some of the great corporations of Philadelphia in civil suits. He also has had much experience as special counsel and investigator for Government, state and municipal bodies. Mr. Roberts is said to have declined appointment by Governor Pinchot as State attorney general and he also is known to have discouraged proffers of both county and federal judgeships.

PRESENT BUSINESS

"Tell me," the romantic young thing began, as she cornered her heartless brother, who had been evading her after the fashion brothers have, "tell me what to give my most particular young man for Christmas! I want it to be something he will like awfully well!"

"No matter what it is, he won't," the heartless brother informed her "And if you want him to dislike it least do not give him a tie, silk socks, stickpins, cufflinks, books, cigarettes, magazine subscriptions or a fountain pen!"

"Good!" the heartless brother said, heartily. "The world would be a far happier place if young women did not insist on sending helpless young men something tied up in holly ribbon. Most always the young man can't make out what it is. If it is something embroidered. He realizes that doubtless it is to hold either his handkerchiefs, which he much prefers to keep loose in a bureau drawer, or his ties which he'd rather throw on the floor and let his mother do as she will with them, or his gloves, only he has just one pair at a time and wears those.

"Just as he is giving up the problem in despair his sister, who reads the women's magazines and knows a gift when she sees it, tells him that if he were not so terribly stupid he would the thingamadoo was a case to carry sandwiches in when he goes motoring in the country on a Saturday afternoon.

"Neckties have set a period to more romances than ever will be known. Woman do not realize what a necktie is to a man. To him it is the one article of apparel in which he may express himself, so to speak. He can be just as riotous or just as subdued, just as frivolous and care free, in that tie as he chooses. He dares the world to judge him by his tie. Therefore, let a sweet, trusting young thing with a Christmas necktie on a young man and she might just as well lay her head across a railway track and fold her hands peacefully, because if she listens hard she can hear 'em caroling 'Goodby, forever' outside her window that very minute. No matter how carefully she may select the tie or how many clerks she has driven to distraction while making up her mind, it invariably is exactly the precise sort of tie that the young man would rather be shot than wear. Only he knows he has to wear it if he is to keep the girl, and, unless a man is very extra sentimental, after holding the tie in one hand and her picture in the other for agonizing minutes, it's the tie that clinches the situation. Both tie and picture go into the waste basket.

"I often have wondered who invents the neckties that women buy for men, because when a man goes to buy himself ties they never show him that kind. One always can tell whether a man is engaged or married when he comes out in a tie that is a cross between a murder and a torpedoed battleship in action. If he looks happy though bewildered he is engaged and so dazed he doesn't much notice what kind of tie he has to wear. If he looks grim, hopeless and infuriated he is married and his wife makes him wear it.

"Socks aren't so bad, because he can keep them hidden most of the time. When she sends him books either he has already read them or they are the kind with gilt curlycues and blue angels down the margins, uncut edges that he'll never bother to cut and such an expensive cover that he has to go right out and send her ten pounds of candy before he can breathe. Nine women out of ten pick out opal scarfpins and their idea of cufflinks is something real dainty. Magazine subscriptions scare him because they remind him of the ads with the happy family gathered around a reading lamp, and altogether there isn't much of anything a girl can give a man which will tend to cement the bonds of friendship further, so to say! Just say thank you prettily, when he presents you with the $20 imported work basket you'll never use filled with $15 worth of glace fruits and candies that'll give you the tummy ache and change the subject. He'll be relieved and delighted!"

"I think you are perfectly horrid!" the romantic young thing snapped. 'I know Egbert will just love the two ties I have almost decided on for him! They are not a bit like any ties you ever saw!"—Exchange.

Stories That Recall Others

As Leap Year Was Ushered In

The story is just being told of a bachelor who attended a watch night meeting. He was with a married man.

He seemed to be calm enough until the hour grew near midnight. Then he nudged his friend.

"Change places," he whispered, "I have discovered the lady next me is a widow and leap year will be here in 15 minutes."

The Rooster Banned

POETRY

Human Frailty

Weak and irresolute is man,
The purpose of today,
Woven with pains into his plan,
Tomorrow rends away.

The bow will bent, and smart the spring,
Vice seems already slain;
But Passion rudely snaps the string,
And it revives again.

Some foe to his upright intent
Finds out his weaker part;
Virtue engages his assent,
But Pleasure wins his heart.

'Tis here the folly of the wise
Through all his art we view;
And while his tongue the charge denies
His conscience owns it true.

Sound on a voyage of awful length
And dangers little known,
A stranger to superior strength,
Man vainly trusts his own.

But oars alone can ne'er prevail
To reach the distant coast:
The breath of Heaven must swell the sail,
Or all the toil is lost.

—William Cowper.

The Useful Plow

A country life is sweet!
In moderate cold and heat.
To walk in the air, how pleasant and fair!
In every field of wheat,
The fairest of flowers adorning the bowers,
And every meadow's brow:
So that I say, no courier may
Compare with them who clothe in gray,
And follow the useful plow.

They rise with the morning lark,
And labor till almost dark.
Then folding their sheep, they hasten to sleep
While every pleasant park
Next morning is ringing with birds that are singing
As each green, tender bough.
With what content and merriment
Their days are spent, whose minds are bent
To follow the useful plow.

Four portraits of Shakespeare are sufficiently diverse to add piquancy to the question, "What did Shakespeare really look like?" The painting called the Felton portrait, first discovered in a broker's shop in the Minories in 1758, by "a gentleman of fashion," shows him beardless except for a slight tuft of hair under the lower lip and a small fair mustache. The Lumley portrait, which was originally in possession of Lord Lumley, a contemporary of the poet, is more in keeping with the generally accepted fancy of Shakespeare's appearance. He is shown with a florid complexion, a close cropped beard and small mustache.

INDUSTRIAL SITUATION DEBATED IN THE SENATE

Washington, Feb. 25—The senate oil debate branched off today into a brief exchange of opinions regarding the industrial situation.

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, started the discussion by attacking E. L. Doheny's statement that the country is enjoying great prosperity.

"It may look like that to him—sitting and clipping his oil coupons," said Senator Heflin, "but I can show him vast sections in the west and south where people lack the necessities of life."

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, said he had just received a telegram from the mayor of Fall River, asking a senate inquiry into conditions of unemployment there, and Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, declared the list of bank failures in the northwest has grown so large that the "comptroller of the currency doesn't want it published for fear of injuring the credit of the remaining banks."

New York, Feb. 25—Heads of the American Federation of Labor's building trades department, in session here today with Chicago and Cleveland representatives, prepared an ultimatum ordering unions which bolted the building trades council of Chicago because of the Landis award to reinstate themselves not later than March 18.

Federation officials declared the building trade was in Chicago and Cleveland were analagous to the situation that prevailed in New York city a year ago. They indicated they were prepared to take the same drastic action they took here, to disbar the defiant unions from the A. F. of L., and set up a new buildings trades council.

What's Best for a Bad Stomach?

Nine-tenths of all stomach trouble—indigestion, sourness, gas, pain, heartburn, etc., are caused by an excess of acid in the stomach.

Artificial digestents, such as pepsin, are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids, and instead neutralize the acid that has upset your stomach with a spoonful or two tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia, taken with a little water. This instantly sweetens the stomach and stops the pain and discomfort and your food digests as nature intended. For quick positive relief from Acid Stomach

Mrs. Edwin C. Gay

The community was saddened upon learning of the death of Jennie Burdick, 54, beloved wife of Edwin C. Gay, Monday morning, at 8:15, at her home on Julian Terrace, following a serious illness of about two months, during which she received the most devoted care, members of the family having the assistance of a personal friend.

Mrs. Gay, who was born February 3rd, 1870, in the town of Norwich, was the daughter of the late John N. and Emma Bassett Burdick. Her mother died when she was a young girl and for some time she resided with relatives in Providence.

Prior to her marriage, for about seven years, she was a loved member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan Williams, of Washington street, and the friendship cultivated at that time has been cherished throughout succeeding years.

Thirty-one years ago last November, in Norwich Town, she was united in marriage with Edwin C. Gay, a former resident of Montville. The ceremony was performed in their newly furnished home, at 431 Washington street, by Rev. Charles A. Northrop, then pastor of the First Congregational church, of which she had been a valued member since a young woman. She was also a member of the Home Missionary society connected with the church, and for many years one of its faithful workers.

For many years the Gay family resided on Town street, and for about four years at 366 Washington street. In the spring of 1922, the family moved to Julian Terrace, where a house of the bungalow type had been erected to Mrs. Gay's liking. Here in this beautiful modern home her life was most happy. Especially did she enjoy the attractive scenery about her and it was ever her pleasure to be among shrubbery and flowers, of which she was most fond.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, L. Stanley Gay, draughtsman for the Sea Sled Co., of West Mystic, and Edwin Maurice Gay, identified with the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., residing at North Waterford. There is a sister, Mrs. James H. Albertson, of New York, an uncle Stephen Burdick of Seekonk, R. I., and there are relatives in Providence.

The sympathy for the family is widespread, as a vacancy has been left in the home which never can be filled, in the loss of an ideal wife and mother, whose first and last thought, was for each member of her family.

ASKING CITIZENS FOR MORE MONEY TO FINISH OUT CITY'S FISCAL YEAR

In a call that has been issued by Mayor Milo R. Waters for a special city meeting next Monday evening the citizens will be asked to vote appropriations that total $20,000. According to the call of the meeting, the contingent fund needs $5,000 more, the street department needs $10,000 more and there are two other items in the call that ask for $2,500 each.

Explaining the call for the meeting, Mayor Waters said Monday night that the $5,000 more needed for the contingent fund is because the way this fund has been cut into by the settlement of a number of damage suits against the city in the last few months. The annual city meeting last June appropriated $15,000 for the contingent fund, but there was only a balance of $1,935.22 left on Jan. 15, according to the report made then by the city treasurer.

Another item in the call for $2,500 for the flashing beacon lights, eight of them, which it is desired to use here as traffic signals. Five of them have been installed upon approval and the public works committee is recommending that the appropriation be made to equip the city streets with these modern traffic signals.

As to the street department, Mayor Waters said that they have run short of money, one of the reasons being that their estimate of what would be needed was cut $5,000 when the appropriations were voted at the city meeting. The department is asking to have this amount made up and for $5,000 more besides.

One of the reports that was current Monday was that the reason why so much more money was needed by the street department was that the men were all to be put on a $40 a week basis of pay. Mayor Waters said he had no knowledge of this but that he understood foremen in the street department were now getting $40 a week, while the men ranged from $27 to $35 or $36. Some stone masons had been getting $40 a week while employed for the city.

Another clause in the call for the meeting would give the common council authority to use unexpended balances of any specific appropriation for any other legitimate purposes and expenses of the city.

The meeting will also be called upon to vote upon the ratification of a deed from Rowland D. Hill to the city of about 20 to 30 acres of land on the further side of the lake at Mohegan park. This is considered desirable as it would enable the park commissioners to have a road built completely around the lake. The cost of the land to the city would be $3,500 and it is planned to have it paid for in five years, at $500 per year, out of the regular appropriation made for the park commissioners.

The last clause in the warning calls for a vote on whether the city will give consent to the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. to sell electricity in Occum. The intent is to enable the residents of Occum to emerge from the kerosene age into the age of electric light. The wires of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. pass through Occum, but that company has no right to sell electricity there unless it is granted by the city of Norwich as the right to sell electricity in any part of the town of Norwich is vested in the city, except that the Ponemah Co. has a special right to furnish electricity to the village of Taftville. It would be an unprofitable undertaking, it is argued, for the city to attempt to supply electricity for Occum and if the residents there are to have modern lights, the logical way to get them is from the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. lines.

NORWICH TRAINING SCHOOL FOR RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Under the auspices of the New London County Sunday School association, the Norwich Training school of religious education is to be held in the Central Baptist church for five successive Thursday evenings, March 6 to April 3, inclusive.

The officers of the association are President, Rev. Roderick MacLeod, Hanover; secretary, Miss Susan Penhallow, Norwich; treasurer, Charles I. Smith, Norwich; superintendent education, Rev. Chester H. Howe, New London

This school is designed to assist teachers and officers in the church school in obtaining the special training which their task demands. The courses offered are brief—introductory courses in Bible and Pedagogy—but they are of a high order.

These courses of study have a two fold purpose, first, to stimulate study, and second, to direct the student in further study of the subjects treated.

The school is financed by the state and county Sunday School associations. It is one of the activities of the county association. There will be no registration fee, and all who are interested in Bible study or religious education are cordially invited to attend. That the opportunity which these lectures offer may be available for all who wish to attend, the churches of Norwich are giving up their regular mid-week prayer service during the five weeks of the school.

The programme for each evening follows:

7.30—Constructive Bible Study.
8.20—Conference on methods.
8.40—Lecture on religious pedagogy.
9.30—Adjournment.

The lectures will be given by M. A. Honline, Litt. D., Pasadena, California. Dr. Honline is a specialist in religious education, giving his whole time to this type of work. He was associated with Prof. Walter S. Athearn in the International Sunday School Association for years, going to that work from Benebrake Theological seminary, Dayton, O., where he was professor of religious education. Dr. Honline is a born teacher and is in love with his work. The ready wit and sly humor which he characteristically introduces into his lectures add spice and charm to his teaching.

While there is no registration fee, it is desirable that all those who attend should enroll. Blank cards for this purpose will be distributed

A meeting of the committee of arrangements, Messrs Edwin Hill, Walter M. Cowan and Ernest L. Latimer will be held this week and preparations for sending sufficient enrollment cards to each church school before the next Sunday will then be made.

Over the picture was a silk flag and below appeared the motto, First in Peace, First in War, First in the Hearts of His Countrymen. There was a cherry tree, four feet high, standing a little to one side and a hatchet was seen near it. Roy Nagel attended the curtain and announced the various numbers.

THINGS THAT MAKE FOR REAL LIFE

The things that make for real life was the theme which Rev. C. H. Ricketts presented at the Richmond Radiator plant at the noon meeting, Monday under auspices of the Y. M. C. A. He said in part:

Long ago in speaking of a certain church a certain man said: "I know thy works, thou hast a name that thou art alive, and art dead." A fuller meaning would be this: I know just what you are doing. You are trading on your reputation for being a real live institution, but for the real purposes that a church ought to stand for you are in reality dead.

The idea here expressed applies to any organization, whether it be a church, a business concern, a literary institution, a political party or an individual. And this leads to the two lines of thought I wish to set forth in this talk. 1. Certain things that do not make for the highest type of living.

Mere numbers never yet made a real church or any other institution. There must be something back of real numbers to give them validity. We do not measure a real society by numbers any more than we do a real man by his physical weight.

Institutions of all kinds must have something more than wealth to make them real, or to give them value. Wealth in itself considered is neutral. It is the use that is made of it that is its true measure.

Not being guilty of wrong on the part of men and institutions does not make them good. We do not applaud men for keeping out of the police court; nor give medals to those who have never served prison sentences. Both human and divine law expects men to behave themselves without praise or reward.

3. Real life is tested by its fruitage. We are tested by what we think and do; these constitute what we are. We must base faith in the living God, in our fellowmen, and in the integrity of our moral purposes. The men who have done big things in the world are the men who have had big faith. Real fruitage is seen when men go out with their faith and life humanity up, just as Peter did at the Beautiful Gate when he put a lame man on his feet saying: "In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk."

POWER CO. EMPLOYES AT GET-TOGETHER BANQUET

Service and courtesy were the watchwords of a get-together banuet held Monday evening at the Community House by 230 employees and guests of the Eastern Connecticut Power company. The supper was served at 6 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Joseph A. French and a committee of the members of the Sodalitas of the United Congregational church. E. A. Harris acted as toastmaster in a very capable manner The programme opened with vocal selections by members of the Eastern Connecticut Power Minstrel Troupe as follows:

The Old Gang of Mine, Fred J. Ortmann; Maggie, Joseph A. French; If Winter Comes, Miss Mary Gray; Dare You, William Anderson; Annabelle, William Mitchell, The Valley of Laughter, Miss Eleanor Donovan.

Then followed demonstrations of proper and improper methods of dealing with customers as follows:

Improper way to handle customers over the telephone and in the office by Miss Donovan, Miss Field and Jonathan Johnson, representing the company and William Anderson, Gerald Brassil and Miss Olive McKelvy representing the customer.

The proper method by R. E. Anderson, manager of the Putnam company, representing the company and Miss Ruth Hatfield, representing the customer, and J. Le Barry, representing the Danielson Co., and Miss Mary Walsh, representing the customer.

A very interesting talk, emphasising the value of service and courtesy was given by H. D. Larrabee, general manager of the E. C. Power Co., and an equally interesting talk on Capital and Labor was given by Robert W. Perkins, president of the company. The gathering broke up about 9.30 o'clock.

Those present at the meeting included 50 from the Putnam plant, 35 from the Danielson and Plainfield division and 14 from the Lyme plant, the remainder coming from the Montville plant. The dining tables were very prettily decorated with baskets of flowers. A number of Camp Fire Girls of the United Church assisted in serving the banquet.

RICKARD MAY MATCH DEMPSEY AND FIRPO FOR ANOTHER BOUT NEXT FALL

New York, Feb. 25 (By the A. P.)—Jack Dempsey may be called on to defend his heavyweight championship against a new South American menace next fall, if present plans of Tex Rickard materialize.

The promoter announced today that he had guaranteed Quintin Romero-Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, a purse of $100,000 for a title fight with Jack Dempsey, possibly in September, if he succeeds in disposing of three preliminary opponents. Rickard has come to a definite agreement with the Chilean and cabled the boxer today to fix the earliest possible date on which he can reach his country.

Romero-Rojas has been offered the same opportunity to gain ring fame and financial reward that fell to Luis Angel Firpo last year, Rickard said, adding that reports reaching him justified the prediction that the Chilean might prove an even greater sensation than the Argentine, who gained a match with Dempsey after cutting a wide scath through heavyweight ranks.

At the same time, Rickard revealed that he has no definite agreement with Firpo for a return match with Dempsey and that he may abandon plans for such a contest if Romero-Rojas demonstrates that he is a fit challenger for the champion. The promoter made it plain that he is dissatisfied with Firpo's failure to respond to recent overtures for matches here this year and was ready to cancel the Argentine's proposed part in his heavyweight program unless the "Wild Bull" assumes a different attitude.

Rickard has received the assurance of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, that the champion would be ready to meet Romero-Rojas if the latter come up to expectations. According to present plans, the Chilean's first bout will be staged at Madison Square Garden, with Fred Fulton or Floyd Johnson as an opponent. Should he emerge victorious in his first test, a match with Jack Renault, hard-hitting Canadian, next would be sought, Rickard asserted. The promoter said he would not consider an elimination fight between Romero-Rojas and Firpo.

With practical abandonment by a New York syndicate of efforts to match Firpo and Harry Wills in July because of a deadlock over preliminary guarantees and conditions, Rickard declared he stood ready to renew his recent offer for such a contest.

Rickard's proposition of $100,000 to Wills and $200,000 to Firpo was rejected by both fighters but the promoter said he would not alter this bid. He said he is ready to stage such a fight in Boyle's Thirty Acres, his Jersey City arena, in July, if his terms are accepted. The syndicate's offer was for a purse of $500,000, to be evenly divided by the principals.

Meanwhile, Firpo's American representative, William McCarney, said the Argentine planned to return to the United States about the middle of April and go on an extensive fighting tour. According to McCarney, offers for fights include one with Jack Renault at Windsor, Can., May 24, and another with Floyd Johnson in Cleveland. Others are from Memphis, St. Louis, Chicago, New Orleans, St. Paul, Toronto, Philadelphia, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Louisville.

FREAK DECISION IN BASKETBALL GAME

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 25.—Referee Glenn Craze has raised a fine point in basketball circles in the upper peninsula, and the Iron Range today is re-echoing with the arguments of pros and cons.

Baraga and Champion, two high school teams, were playing Saturday night. It was very close. With Champion leading, a Baraga forward dropped a free throw through the hoop. Champion protested. The Baraga player, according to the Champion objection, stood two inches over the foul line when he made the throw. Referee Craze agreed with the protest, but declared the basket should count. The Baraga players, he said, were wearing shoes two inches too large for their feet, and therefore the basket shooter did not actually stand over the foul line in making the throw.

The Baraga player removed his shoes and his feet were measured. The referee's contention was proved to be correct—the player's shoes were two inches too large for him.

STRIBLING LOSES FIGHT TO JIMMY SLATTERY

Slattery's confidence grew as the fight progressed and the half expected knockout punch failed to materialize. He traded blows with less caution and forced Stribling to split the honors in the third and fourth rounds.

At the opening of the sixth the two nineteen year olds rained blows on each other's guard, and Slattery slipped two over to the jaw. They clinched. Stribling shot a hard right to the body and Slattery landed two hooks to the head.

The decision was a popular one. Both boys were given ovations as they entered and left the ring.

RICKARD TO APPEAR BEFORE STATE COMMISSION

New York, Feb. 25.—Tex Rickard, accused of collusion with ticket speculators in connection with the Dempsey-Firpo match last September, will appear before the state athletic commission tomorrow to demand an immediate investigation of the charges made by Tom O'Rourke, veteran promoter, in Albany, last week.

Rickard has not been officially summoned by the commission, which has announced it will probe the charges, but the promoter declared he wants a thorough sifting to establish their truth or falsity. He has collected considerable data designed to refute O'Rourke's charges and will lay this before the commissioners.

It was said at the commission's offices that O'Rourke had not been summoned.

TIGERS NOT TO MIX GOLF WITH BASEBALL

Detroit, Feb. 25.—Golf has been banned on the Detroit American League Baseball club, reports from the Tiger training camp at Augusta, say. Manager Cobb confiscated several sets of mashies, mid-irons, drivers and spoons today from the baggage of the players and issued an edict against the Scotch pastime.

Twenty players have reported out of the 33 ordered to camp. Most of the others are on the way or will be in camp March 1, Cobb said. Three pitchers—Johnson, Whitehill and Holloway—are among the absentees, and it is understood that they are having difficulties in reaching terms with the management. None of the trio, however, is regarded as a holdout.

ALEX PASNIK GIVES BLEACHERS FOR ACADEMY ATHLETIC FIELD

For many years the Athletic Association of the Norwich Free Academy has felt the need of bleachers at the athletic field, but have not been able to build them. However, a public spirited citizen of Norwich, who while not a graduate of the school but who has educated his daughter there, has come forward with the announcement that he will erect the bleachers and give them to the school. This public spirited citizen is Alexander M. Pasnik who has always taken a great interest in the athletic welfare of the Academy since he came to Norwich a number of years ago. Mr. Pasnik has scarcely missed an Academy baseball or football game for several seasons and has always been an ardent supporter of the school teams no matter what kind of a showing they made.

During some of the games which were played under conditions that made it unpleasant to stand on the cold damp ground Mr. Pasnik realized that bleachers would be a decided comfort and resolved that some time he would make such a gift to the school. A short time ago he made the proposal to the Academy authorities but it was not until recently that the gift was accepted. Mr. Pasnik makes the gift in the name of his daughter, Miss Dorothy Pasnik, who is to graduate from the Academy this year. He says that he makes the gift in appreciation of the excellent education that his daughter has recieved at the school, and also to supply a long felt want of the athletic association.

The bleachers which Mr. Pasnik intends to have erected will be 36 feet long and will have five tiers of seats. This will give an approximate seating capacity of 175 with comfort and with a little crowding would easily seat 200 persons.

The bleachers will be erected on concrete piers and will be of the best lumber that Mr. Pasnik can secure. As to the location of the bleachers it has not been definitely decided but Principal Henry A. Tirrell said that in all probably would be located on the south side of the campus and would run parallel to the football field. This location will give an excellent view of the football games and also of the baseball games, as the bleachers will be close to first base on the baseball field.

The work on the bleachers will be done by Joseph Barry, builder, who will start work as soon as the weather permits. The cost of the bleachers is not known but it will amount to several hundreds of dollars.

DENY SANITY TEST FOR REV. ADELARD DELORME

Montreal, Feb. 25—Application for a sanity test for the Rev. Adelard Delorme, former priest, charged with the murder of his half brother, Raoul Delorme, two years ago, was refused today by Justice Martineau at the outset of the third trial. The court ordered the case to proceed.

The prosecution said it would produce witnesses who would say they saw the defendant on the night of the murder near the spot in a Montreal suburb where the body was offered previously.

R. E. Calder, representing the crown, reiterated his belief that the crime was committed by the former priest in order that he might get Raoul's insurance and property, and also that the defendant might cover defalcations in his administration of the Delorme estate.

NUMBER FIVE

er before or shortly after he resigned as director-general of the railroads, he became a member of the firm of McAdoo, Cotton and Franklin and that he resumed the practice of law June 1, 1919.

"About ninety days after McAdoo left the employ of of the government he entered the employment of Morse's companies. It should be noted that McAdoo's partner Cotton, had been the attorney for the emergency fleet corporation, and therefore for the shipping board.

"Shortly after entering Morse's employment, Mr. McAdoo appeared before the shipping board on behalf of Morse's company and read a brief prepared by a lawyer named Gordon.

"He (McAdoo) applied to John Barton Payne, chairman of the shipping board to advance to the Morse company $100,000, representing that it was necessary to have this money in order to prevent a receivership for the company.

"Have arranged to pay over $100,000 to the Virginia company.'

The money thus paid over was government money. It was paid over on the claim that it was necessary to prevent bankruptcy. Nevertheless, McAdoo charged and received for securing the $100,000 to prevent bankruptcy a fee of $50,000.

"The Groton Iron works is another Morse company. It was in the hands of a receiver. In September, 1919, the same month Mr. McAdoo had earned the $50,000 fee I have just mentioned, he took up with the shipping board the question of lifting the receivership of the Groton iron works. As a result a contract was made between the shipping board and the United States Transport company, (a Morse company) for the purchase of the vessels constructed at the Groton Iron Works under prior contracts with the Emergency Fleet Corporation. For this service McAdoo's firm charged the Groton Iron Works, $50,000. It was claimed, however, that this sum actually was not paid."

"On December 30, 1919, Morse, his sons, and William Guggenheim, constituting the board of directors of the United States Transport company, approved a contract to pay McAdoo's law firm $1 a ton on 444,000 tons of coal contracted to be shipped to France; Morse stating that the fee in connection with negotiations of the French coal contracts.

"On December 31, 1919, the transport company made a contract to pay McAdoo's firm 75 cents a ton on approximately 400,000 tons of coal to be shipped to the Italian government.

"The aggregate total expected to be shipped was 844,000 tons.

"The amount expected to be collected by McAdoo was $744,000.

As a matter of fact the coal actually shipped realized an indebtedness to the McAdoo firm of $165,712.64.

"But the Morse firm, of course, was crooked and the lawyers only got $33,-964.45 in cash and some bad notes for the balance.

"Going along with these lucrative engagements was the employment by the moving picture people at an annual fee of $100,000.

"The total fees thus far discovered which McAdoo expected to realize was $344,000.

"To this must be added the Doheny fees of $150,000.

"Total $1,094,000.

"For all this McAdoo did not appear in a single law suit.

* * * He was dealing for the most part in his domestic transactions with men who had been part of the administration when he was a member of the cabinet.

"In his dealings with the French and Italian governments he was transacting busines with governments to which he had shelled out American dollars during the war.

"But McAdoo called his cohorts together in solemn conclave at Chicago. He submitted to them, to their decision, the question: "Am I an asset or a liability?" He admitted substantially all that Doheny had said except that he insisted he only got $150,000 from Doheny instead of $250,000 as Doheny had said. And thereupon, for no other apparent reason than the amount had been reduced, these distinguished gentlemen set up a Paean of praise for McAdoo. With them it was the size of the fee, not its character."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wonderful Vaudeville Show at the . . Broadway Theatre

The unanimous opinion of the capacity audience both afternoon and night at the Broadway theatre yesterday was "great, the best yet."

Who could be a better criterion than the public themselves.

The world's Famous Copps Family even exceeded all advance reports. The family consisting of Pa, Ma, and eight children offered their original idea of a novel entertainment and presented a complete show in themselves. The way they were greeted by the audience speak louder than words.

Fulton and Ray in Springtime proved a big hit with the most novel acrobatic routine that has been seen here in a long time.

Jim and Jack, A Streak of Lightning in Class and Steps are two colored boys who just danced their way into the peoples' hearts.

Bobby 'Uke" Henshaw, the merry mimic is assisted by Vera Van Etta, who enters the act as a surprise. You must see him to appreciate a good act.

Eddie McCarthy and Lilian Sterard assisted by George Henry in Scenes From Life, ran away with the comedy part of this great collection of acts.

War—the Apache dens of Paris became the hiding places of slackers. Patriotism rises in the heart of Toinette, better known as the "Humming Bird." She shames the gang of Wolves, of which she is the head, into the defense of Paris. In boy's clothing she herself tries to go to the front but is turned back—that's the spirit that saved France for the French—the "they shall not pass."

What's it all about?

Goldwyn has made the screen version of what is probably the most popular work of America's most noted author, Joseph Hergesheimer wrote the story of a disillusioned man, carrying most of the intense action of the plot to the wild swamp lands of the Georgia coast, amid the groves of wild oranges that border the seashore.

Wild Oranges has been made into a photoplay by King Vidor, youthful Goldwyn director, whose screen version of Three Wise Fools was one of the hits of the years.

Wild Oranges, which comes to the Strand theatre on Thursday, for three days, has in its cast Virginia Valli, Frank Mayo, Ford Sterling, Nigel de Brullier and Charles A. Post.

At the Palace.

A capacity house greeted the return of vaudeville to the Palace theatre on Monday afternoon and another large house on Monday evening. The bill was well worth seeing, especially the last three acts which were exceptionally good. The feature picture, The Yankee Consul, starring Douglas McLean in the leading role, was worth the price of admission in itself.

The program of vaudeville opened with a novelty acrobatic act by The Three Alberts.

Brennon and Hale have a neat little singing and dancing number with a sprinkling of humor.

The Cora Youngblood Corson Sextette, a brass instrument offering, is a real high class act given by six pretty young women who are all accomplished musicians. Every number is well rendered and the act is one that will please music lovers.

"Peggy" Jones, monopedic comedian, presents a real big time act which goes big. His humorous stories are clever and his acrobatic dancing is exceptional considering that he is handicapped by having only one leg, the other being a peg-leg. He presents an act that is a distinct novelty and one that is exceptionally good.

The closing act is Delmore and Lee, a truly big time revolving ladder novelty. This act is far ahead of any act of its kind ever shown in Norwich and is recognized as one of the best ladder acts in vaudeville.

The trial of Theodore Lusta, alias Theodore Basta, charged with theft and burglary at New Haven, will take place in that city Monday, March 3rd. The New London police who caused a warrant to be sent to the New Haven police charging Lusta with the theft of clothing and jewelry from lodging houses here several weeks ago, have been informed that the warrant will be served upon Lusta as soon as his case is disposed of in the New Haven court. Lusta, it is alleged, obtained lodging accommodations in rooming houses on Bank and Tilley streets and after robbing the occupants of several of the rooms during their absence, left the city.

He was arrested in New Haven about two weeks after he left New London and among his effects was found a quantity of jewelry that still remains unclaimed. It is possible that some of the jewelry is the plunder that Lusta stole while in New London. An effort will be made to identify it.

He has obtained food for a long time through the charitableness of others. For a number of nights he has been absent from his usual haunts and it is believed that the continual cold weather, together with the man not receiving proper nourishment caused him to become so weakened that he collapsed as he walked the streets today.

The continued case of James F. Murphy, 22 Walden avenue, charged with breach of the peace and resisting an officer, which was to have been tried in the police court Saturday morning was continued a week because Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin was absent from the city. Murphy was arrested several nights ago at O'Leary's restaurant, by Patrolman Augustus Ray, following Murphy causing a disturbance there. When Ray proceeded to place Murphy under arrest the latter struck the officer a blow on the face which resulted in Ray subduing his prisoner with a blow on the head with a night stick. The court room was crowded with young men, all friends of Murphy, who desired to hear the testimony and ascertain the disposition of the court in the matter.

Judge Prince, in the police court today, did a positive kindness for James Sinclair when he committed him to the workhouse to stay three months. Sinclair was found in an unused barn on Pequot avenue Sunday night, by Policeman Harry Hick. He called Officer George Perkins and they escorted Sinclair to shelter in the police station. Sinclair needed no urging to go with the officers. He had not had steady employment for about four months so that his existence depended upon what he could get without money and without price largely. He was wandering from place to place seeking employment, but that is said not to be abundant now and not to have been for several months.

Arthur J. Page made his second appearance in the police court today to answer for a violation of the automobile laws of the state. He was charged with having passed in his automobile a trolley car that was receiving and discharging passengers.

He said he was guilty when put to plea and had no reasonable excuse to make for his offense. He was fined $25, but the court remitted the fine and allowed the costs to attach, Page thus escaping easily. He had before been fined for disregard of the automobile laws so he is apt to lose his license to operate for a while.

The Perry Ice Company has been favored with good weather today in the cutting and harvesting of ice from pond No. 3, the largest of two sheets of water whence it obtains ice. James Fell, a soldier attached to the U. S. S. Mine Planter Baird and residing with his wife and baby at 13 1-2 Tilley street, was arrested tonight by Sergeant Charles Hammond charged by his wife, with breach of the peace.

Fell went to his home early this evening and in an ugly mood from over-indulgence in liquor. He quarreled with his wife and then started to demolish the furnishings of the home and in this he partially succeeded besides striking his wife. When Fell was taken to the police station Mrs. Fell declared she would appear against him tomorrow.

The police this evening received a telephone message from a resident of Ocean avenue stating that a gang of youths were amusing themselves by smashing electric lights used for illuminating the highways between Thames and Pacific streets, on Ocean avenue. Patrolmen William Babcock and Frank Philopena toured the vicinity in the police automobile. A quartette of youths was finally located near Willetts avenue. They were questioned by the officers and as their statements did not connect, they were taken into custody.

Miss Lina Beckwith, as The Bulletin has intimated, does not propose to allow the city to take land for the extension of Colman street unless the city shall compensate her adequately for the land it takes. She appeared before the council this evening and presented her case. She stated that she had been before the compensation board, P. Hall Shurtis, Max Boyer and Sidney H. Miner and by them was denied any information as to the number of square feet of her property taken. She declared that she has made the rounds of the offices in the city hall and that at each and everyone she had been denied the information she sought. She said the city's engineer denied her the information and that she sought to be enlightened by every one who was in authority. She declared that she bought for $202 from Mahan and Bodenwein land that the city is now proposing to pay her $200 for and she declared that should never take that amount. She also said that the grade of her land had been changed and as a result water flowed into her cellar and rendered necessary the wearing of rubbers when ever she sought to get coal. Miss Beckwith declared that her reception from city officials was anything but courteous, and said that one of them told her "to go to hell" when she sought enlightenment. She argued her case, with the result that the council appointed a committee consisting of the mayor, the city manager and the director of law to visit the premises and to give Miss Beckwith the information she sought as to the land taken and how they arrived at the value of it.

The council gave Philip J. Handel the privilege of building out on State street the structure he proposes to erect to a line conforming to the line of the Marsh building next west of his property and allows him to have cornices overhanging from the building he is to erect. The council directed the building examiner to examine and report on the building at 153 to 159 Bank street, recently damaged by fire to determine whether it was damaged to the extent of half its value to determine whether to grant permission to the owner, Meyer H. Hollandersky, to rebuild. This is the property over which there has been dispute as to building out to the street line.

C. F. Willard, former manager of the ferry, presented a bill of insurance for $495, which the city was asked to settle. The council balked at that, when it was intimated that more bills might be presented from the same source. The bill was referred to the city manager and the director of law, to report to the council a week hence.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS BEARISH

New York, Feb. 25.—Resumption of the Washington oil investigation provided professional bear traders with another excuse for an attack on today's stock market, operators on the long side showing little disposition to extend their commitments, apparently through fear of further unfavorable disclosures at the oil inquiry. Sales were again relatively small.

Heavy selling of the copper shares in further reflection of the passing of the Calumet and Hecla dividend was one of the day's features. Anaconda was the principal target of selling pressure due to the fear in some quarters that the regular dividend, to be acted on tomorrow, was in danger. The stock closed 2 points lower at 37 1-2 after selling slightly below that figure while net losses of a point or so were recorded by Utah, Calumet and Arizona, St. Joseph Lead and Cerro De Pasco.

Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can all registered net losses of a point or more, total transactions in each stock, however, being relatively light.

Steel shares offered fairly good resistance to selling pressure, Bethlehem closing unchanged and U. S. Steel common, Republic, Crucible and Gulf States holding their losses to a point or less. Sloss-Sheffield closed fractionally higher, buying of that stock being based on speculative expectation that it would be placed on a $6 annual dividend basis at tomorrow's meeting of the board of directors.

Renewal of selling pressure against the Central Leather issues, which dropped more than a point each, was based on publication of the 1923 earnings report showing a net loss, after charges and taxes of $7,372,263 as compared with a surplus of $1,628,309 in 1922. Sympathetic weakness took place in American Hide and Leather common preferred, the latter dropping two points.

Trading in the railroad shares was rather sluggish, heavy profit-taking in Southern railway sending that stock down 1 1-4 points to 48 1-2. Shipping improved on the settlement of the British dock workers' strike.

Extensive short selling again took place in the oil shares but with the exception of Houston, which closed 2 3-8 lower at 71, most of the active issues made good recovery from their low prices of the day, which ranged 1 to 2 points below Saturday's final figures.

Call money opened at 4 per cent, but advanced to 4 1-2 in the late afternoon, closing at that figure. The time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged the bulk of the business in each being transacted at 4 3-4 per cent.

Settlement of the dock workers' strike and publication of favorable cable despatches concerning the work of the reparation experts had a stimulating effect on the European exchanges. Demand sterling was run up to $4.31 3-4 and French francs to 4.45 cents but considerable profit-taking took place when the high levels were reached, sterling falling back to $4.30 off 1 cent, and francs to 4.36 1-2 cents, or 1 1-2 points above Saturday's final quotation.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Feb. 25. — Strength of foreign bonds, which advanced under the leadership of French government and municipal issues, was the outstanding feature of today's market in which prices generally held firm.

Influenced by favorable news from abroad, indicating Germany's ability to pay satisfactory reparations, French republic obligations rallied to new high levels for the year. French municipal bonds gained in sympathy, Lyons 6s, Marseilles 6s and Seine 6s were fractionally higher. Renewed activity in the new Japanese 6 1-2s sent the price of this issue to a new high level at 93.

On reports that a recapitulation of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company was near, bonds of the company encountered heavy selling, the 7 per cent. liens losing 2 points and the 7 1-2s with warrants dipping to a new low price at 68. Despite favorable trade reports, liquidation of other fertiliser company issues developed, causing a decline of 1 point in American Agricultural Chemical 7 1-2s.

Mixed price movements occurred in the railroad list. Substantial gains in the seaboard adjustment and refunding issues and the Frisco income 6s were offset by losses in Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio Mortgages, profit-taking was responsible for several weak spots in the industrial list, including Punta Alegre Sugar 7s, Pierce Oil 8s and Eastern Cuba Sugar 7 1-2s.

Prices of U. S. government issues held firm. Strength of the second and fourth 4 1-4s, which led the list in activity, was attributed to reports of a resumption of British buying.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Corn was active and higher today, with wheat exactly the reverse. Receipts of corn were smaller than had been expected, and it was stated the country had stopped selling. Corn closed firm at 1-8c @ 1-4c to 5-8c. Net advance, May 80 3-4 to 80 7-8c. In wheat, the finish was unsettled, 1-2c to 5-8c @ 3-4c down, the outcome for oats was a shade to 1-4c decline, and for provisions 2c to 13c gain.

Important commission houses were aggressive buyers of corn at the start, and there was gossip current that stocks of corn in the east were extremely light. In this connection, the fact that was especially noted that export call was good, and that the supply of corn on ocean passage was much under the amount a year ago. Buying was further encouraged through predictions that only a diminishing movement of corn would be witnessed during the remainder of the season. Meanwhile, an increase of 2,355,000 bushels in the visible supply total announced today was about what had been looked forward to, and had little effect on the market. However, profit-taking sales enlarged after a moderate bulge in prices, and for at least the time being, this circumstance frustrated any additional gain.

Wheat bulls were discouraged by absence of crop developments. Besides, a decrease of 335,000 bushels in the domestic visible total was regarded as too slight to serve as a stimulus to buyers confronted with despatches saying that the greatest quantity of wheat ever concentrated at one port in the world's history was at present in store and afloat at Fort Arthur, Ont. Oats sagged with wheat.

Higher quotations on hogs gave strength to provisions.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Feb. 25.—Stock prices displayed a firm tone at the opening of today's curb market but the subsequent selling of high-priced oil issues imparted an irregular trend to the general list which continued throughout the remainder of the session.

Net losses of 2 to 7 points were recorded by such issues as Swan & Finch, Prairie Oil & Gas, Magnolia Petroleum, Solar Refining and Cheesebrough Manufacturing, while Cities Service, Gulf of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Imperial of Canada and Standard Oil of Indiana dropped a point or so.

Considerable outside reading of worth-while books is encouraged by the school officials and the State Library commission by giving certificates when a certain amount of reading has been accomplished by the pupil and carefully checked by the teacher. For example, when a child in the fourth grade has read five books, he is given a library certificate; when he has five library certificates, representing twenty-five books, he is given an honor certificate; a gold star is added to the honor certificate for each additional twenty-five books read. Following are the results of the library reading for 1922-23. Figures represent the number of library certificates. Pupils of the eighth grade, borough, are eligible to an honor certificate for every five library certificates held and these will be granted by the State Library Commission later:

By DAVID CORY

Led By an Old Crow

"Dear Little Jack Rabbit," sighed the pretty princess, whom the brave bunny boy had rescued from the castle prison in the last story, "I would lay my head on a cushion of moss, for I am aweary with the long journey and my eyes are heavy with sleep."

Indeed, it was lucky that she had been able to travel on so long a time and as it was fast growing dusk, the

Opening his knapsack, he laid before her lollypops and angel cake and a bottle of raspberry juice.

"Lady Love, my pretty mother filled my knapsack before I left the dear Old Brambie Patch," he explained, and, brushing a tear from his eye, he tried to smile.

"Safe in the wood is Princess Sue,
With the bunny boy at her side.
The fairies who dwell in the forest dell
Will see that no danger betide.
I'll keep watch from my leafy nest,
With my little friendly eyes—
Go fast asleep—I'll watch and peep
Until the sun shines in the skies."

"Thank you, little bird," said the bunny boy, looking at the pretty tired princess who was already asleep dreaming that she was safe at home with her father, the king.

By and by, startled by the snapping of a twig, the little rabbit looked up and saw a tiny dwarf, dressed in green.

"S—s—sh!" whispered the little man. "Do not wake the princess. Fear not, for I mean no harm. Here is food and drink," and he carefully laid on the ground, a jug and basket.

"In the morning, you and the princess shall breakfast on fairy food," and the next minute, he was gone.

When the little rabbit next opened his eyes, in the morning, and the lovely princess was combing her hair with a gold comb. In a few minutes, she was ready to resume the journey. But, Oh, dear me! she couldn't remember in what direction lay her father's castle and had not a friendly old crow led them through the forest, I doubt whether they would have found it at all.

As they neared the castle, the bunny boy stopped and bid the Princess goodbye. And although she begged him to stay and almost wept as he hopped away, he kept on, clipperty clip, lipperty lip, until he could no longer see her pretty handkerchief waving to him. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

At least three new dwelling houses will be started as soon as weather conditions become favorable, according to permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during the past week. A total of nine permits were issued during the past seven days calling for new construction amounting to a total valuation as placed by the owners of $32,000, practically two-thirds of this amount being taken up by the three dwelling houses.

With the issuing of the nine permits this week the number of permits issued during February is pretty close to the normal average for the month and a record will be set if applications that are out are returned and filed during the present week. Weather conditions during the past week have not been of the best for local building operations although considerable work has been accomplished on projects which have reached a stage where the cold weather has not hampered them. Contractors are figuring plans for new buildings in the city and vicinity and as soon as the warm weather sets in they predict an exceptional boom in the building activities.

To P. F. Sweeney, to erect a garage on Goldberg avenue for Samuel Goldberg. The garage will be of frame construction with stone and cement foundation with the exterior finished in asphalt shingles. The garage will be 10x18 feet.

To P. F. Sweeney to alter and add to the present frame house owned by Joseph DePaolo at 139 Chestnut street. The addition will be one story on the present ell which is 14x24 feet. The exterior finish will be in shingles and the roof will be covered in asphalt roofing paper.

To Arthur Grodotzke, to erect a veranda on the present house at 302 Boswell avenue. The veranda will be of frame construction, 6x28 feet.

To James Ibbison, to erect a two story frame house on Whittington avenue. The house will be 24x28 feet with seven rooms and bath. The foundation will be of stone and cement. The exterior finish will be half shingled and half clapboards. The roof will be covered with composition shingles. The interior finish will be in hard wood and plaster.

To Wesley T. Calkins to erect a frame barn on Hammond avenue. The barn will be 30x40 feet with a stone foundation. The roof will be shingled.

To B. Brogno to add four rooms and porch to the present frame house at 171 North Main street. The addition will be built on a concrete foundation and the exterior finish will be in clapboards. The addition will be 12x24 feet.

To Andrew H. Jacobson to erect addition to present frame house on Daniel street. The addition will be 7x13 feet and one story high. There will be a cement foundation and the exterior finish will be in shingles and clapboards.

To Frank E. Waters to alter the barn on Alice street into a frame dwelling house. The house will be 40x26 feet and will be finished in clapboards and shingles. The interior finish will be in plaster and hardwood. Mr. Waters also plans to erect a frame garage in the rear of the house. The garage will be 20x20 feet.

To George E. Boucher to erect a two-tenement house on Harriet street for J. Kohanski. The house will be 28x31 feet and will have five rooms on each floor. The exterior finish will be in cedar clapboards and the roof will be shingled with composition shingles. The interior will be finished in plaster and hardwood.

NEW LONDON

The contract for the erection of a business building at 74-76 State street, to replace the structure destroyed by fire, has been awarded by the owner, Mrs. H. Paterson, 36 Tilley street. The building will be of frame construction, three stories high, with basement. The ground floor will be 22x100 feet, and will be arranged for one store, which will also include the use of the basement. The upper floors will be 22x60 feet, and will provide for eight offices. The building will have an ornamental front, with cast stone trim, plate glass and copper show windows. There will be marbleoid floors, linoleum floor coverings, ventilator system and other improvements.

The frame dwelling of Katie Santamillo at 632 Bank street will be raised and a one story brick store will be built underneath. The new construction will be 25x55 feet, and will be carried out to the street line. It will have a modern store front. The cost will be about $4,000.

The house which H. R. Griswold, 181 Connecticut avenue, is building for himself on Lincoln avenue is ready to be plastered. The house is 26x42 feet, and contains 13 rooms, arranged for two tenements.

Applications for Building Permits

Sharaf Furniture Co., garage, Sharaf street $400.

Knudt Bjorge, garage, Sherman street $300.

Number of permits issued for the week, 3; estimated cost of buildings, $4,700.

CENTERBROOK

Architects have been commissioned to prepare plans for a school building for the town of Mechanicsville, Conn. The plans will call for a building, 36x60 feet, one story and basement, arranged for two classrooms, providing for 40 pupils each, a teachers' room and library. It will be of brick construction, with face front and flat asphalt roof.

MECHANICSVILLE

The plans for a school building to be erected in Centerbrook, Conn., are nearing completion and will be ready to be given out for figures about March 1. The proposed school has been described before in these columns. It will be two stories high, with basement, of tapestry brick, with granite trim. There will be four classrooms, a library and teachers' room.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND BUILDING LOANS

There were 12 sales of real estate in Norwich during the past week as compared to 12 sales for the same loans for the respective weeks were $19,800 and $22,800.

In New London there were 8 sales of real estate as compared to 4 sales for the corresponding week in 1923 the mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $85,950 and $11,540.

THE STATE SITUATION

Building permits issued this week in the cities of the state reported in The Commercial Record numbered 152, nearly twice the number issued during the same week of last year. This record doubtless is caused by an open winter. It has been noticed in almost all the cities reported that construction work now in process is anywhere from a month or two months ahead of last year. The cost of the new construction work started this past week amounts to $788,799, as against $790,903 in the like week of last year.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. Irving Dawley came home from Backus hospital, Saturday, bringing her new daughter, Ruth Arline Dawley.

Mrs. William Hassler is still at the Day Kimball Hospital in Putnam, gaining slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Payne, of Jewett City, motored upon Saturday afternoon to spend Sunday with Mrs. Payne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Tillinghast.

After the two splendid High school games played at the Community House Tuesday last, much interest centers in the game this (Tuesday) evening when on the home floor Plainfield will meet the Putnam team fully intent on adding another victory to the already long list.

Miss Millicent Disco of Norwich was a guest of Miss Louise Jerome over the week end.

During Sunday evening while listening in on his radio, J. L. Chapman recognized the voice of President Faunce of Brown University, who was giving an address at the Sunday evening club in Orchestra Hall, Chicago.

Teachers and students of the High school are busy this week moving into the new high school building. After anticipating this notable event for some time, there is a real stir of excitement on the part of the student body about to take possession of the fine, new structure soon to be dedicated to educational purposes. In its appointments and euipment, it will be one of the very best in the state for its size. It is a modern, fire-proof structure, up to date in every way, and is beautifully located.

The dedication of the new high school building will take place Saturday of this week at 3 o'clock in the evening, the building being open for inspection afternoon and evening.

One of the future athletic events of the winter at the Community House is a swimming meet which will come in April and for which Harold Green has offered six prize cups. The swimming classes will be crowded from now on with boys and girls anxious to line up for the cups.

The next musical Sunday evening service in the Congregational Church is less than two weeks off. Preparations are being made by the choir for a splendid program.

Druggists everywhere have it, but be sure you get the original Begy's Mustarine in the yellow box—30 and 60 cents.

THIEF HAD CORNER ON TICKETS FOR K. OF C. MINSTREL SHOW

The chance to make off with the entire box of tickets for the mammoth minstrels of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Ladies of Columbus proved too great a temptation for some thief who stole the box at the express office about a week ago and for several days the whole lot of reserved seat tickets for the performances at the Broadway theatre were among the missing.

The box of tickets reached the express office all right, but disappeared from there before it had been given to a driver for delivery at the theatre. In some way the tickets found their way into the hands of two small boys of the juvenile court age and it was learned that they were distributing the tickets among their friends.

The boys were brought in for questioning by Capt. D. J. Twomey and Probation officer Edwin Hill to whom they finally admitted that they found the box of tickets behind a building on Main street near the railroad depot and express office. Later they made another explanation, but they returned the box of tickets, all complete for about 100, which were gone. Most of the tickets that were not returned are for the upper gallery, but there is one orchestra row that has not been recovered. By a complete check-up of the house the management of the minstrel has knowledge of just which tickets are missing.

The theft of the box of tickets has obliged the minstrel management to secure an entire new lot of tickets which are in a different color from the first lot so that it will be easy to detect any of the stolen tickets if they are offered at the door of the theatre. If there are any persons who already have in their possession the regular numbered reserved seat tickets for the minstrels, however they secured them, they can be sure they are some of the stolen tickets which will not be honored at the theatre. As the regular exchange for reserved seats does not take place until Friday, no seat tickets are now in the hands of anyone and the only tickets that will be accepted at the door are those that are exchanged at the theatre on Friday.

GREENEVILLE

A play entitled "Exhibition Day at Podunk School" given by the ladies' class of the Greeneville Congregational church Thursday evening furnished amusement for the fair sized audience who braved the icy walking. Much of the success of the play was due Miss Nellie Hayes, Mrs. C. Hicks and Mrs. William Gordon for the style in which they carried their parts; also Mr. Ricketts as committee man, who explained to the "children" the absolute necessity of paying strict attention to their teacher Mrs. M. McNeely.

Home made candy was sold during the evening. The ladies taking part were: Mrs. M. McNeely, Mrs. L. Whiting, Mrs. A. Spencer, Mrs. L. Gorton, Mrs. Allyn Gordon, Mrs. C. Hicks, Miss Nellie Hayes, Mrs. William Gordon, Mrs. E. Levitsky, Mrs. H. Hutchinson and Mrs. Janet Young.

JEROME AND SADIE P. MAYER SHARE IN HARTFORD ESTATE

Numerous bequests to relatives and friends, and to two nurses who attended him, are provided in the will of Henry M. Mayer, late of Hartford, who was vice-principal emeritus of the Brown school, Hartford. The document, which was admitted to probate at the week end, stipulates that after various bequests are made the residue of the estate is to be divided equally among ten nieces and nephews, as follows:

Jerome Mayer, Sadie Plaut Mayer, Mrs. Belle Bartholomew, Mrs. Amie Cohen, William Mayer, Mrs. Clotilda Lewy, Dr. Charles Stern, Mrs. Ethel Pelkus, Nathan Stern and Wilfred Stern.

Among the specific bequests, in which in some cases the will calls attention to kindness shown by the beneficiaries, are the following:

To Jerome Mayer, nephew, "Encyclopedia Brittanica," thirty-five volumes, and a Century dictionary of proper names; to Sadie Plaut Mayer, rings, chair, table, silver spoons and vase.

Jerome Mayer of Hartford married Miss Sadie Plaut, of Norwich, consequently there is local interest in the provisions of the will.

NORTH DAKOTA HORSES AUCTIONED IN NORWICH

Thirty North Dakota horses were disposed of here at auction Saturday afternoon at Pierson's barn on West Main street, under arrangements made by the county farm bureau for this consignment of horses to be sent to Norwich.

Frank Hyland, lieutenant governor of North Dakota, was the auctioneer. He handled the work well and the entire consignment was sold at what was said to average about $138. The high price was about $192. Most of the horses stayed in the county and most of them to farms, six being bought by one Lebanon man.

FOUND TRIALING ARBUTUS BLOOMING IN BALTIC

A Providence young woman, who was one of a party of three taking a stroll out of Baltic Monday afternoon, made a find that she has sent home to Providence to prove that nature plays some queer pranks.

As they stopped at the cold spring in the easterly section of Baltic one of them was poking around with a stick under a high ledge when she uncovered five branches containing eight buds. On closer examination they found 12 blooms of trailing arbutus, which the mild season had induced to appear so far ahead of the usual time for these blossoms.

Collins went to the station in the custody of the policeman, and as they entered the station Policeman McQueency told Collins to sit down on the waiting bench while he went over and bought the tickets.

WHEN THE LIVERMORE FAMILY RESIDED IN GOSHEN, CONN.

The Bulletin's Goshen correspondent writes:

Five years from Feb. 22, 1922 in 1929 the Goshen church will reach its two hundredth anniversary. A record of its two centuries of uplift and usefulness could fill volumes. The Goshen church, daughter of the first church of Lebanon, organized in 1729, was built on Goshen Hill in 1730. It was rebuilt on its present location, Boles Hill, in 1802, was remodeled in 1853 and was burned by fire in May 1893 and rebuilt in 1899.

In the church's early history it was considered a sacrilege to have music in church worship, or even a stove for warming the edifice. It was an actual fact when one of the early residents here owned the first wooden axle tree wagon, he was taken to task because the wheels made so much noise going over the hills to church on the Lord's day.

Goshen church has had many talented pastors.

In its nearly two centuries of activities the Goshen church has experienced wonderful revivals. One was when 40 members were added to the church roll, when the Rev. Daniel B. Lord was the minister. From the church have gone out several missionaries to the foreign field, notably the Gulic sisters and Harry C. York. From early history to the present day it has been an ardent supporter of missions.

So much interest of late has been manifested in regard to Dr. Charles H. Levermore, the winner of the Bok peace prize, The Bulletin correspondent has been able to collect the following data through a diary kept by William G. Thomas of Goshen.

Rev. Aaron Russell Livermore moved here from Mansfield in 1660 and was the settled pastor of the parish for eight years. His family consisted of his wife and three sons and a daughter. Henry Livermore the eldest son volunteered in the war of '61 and paid the supreme sacrifice in the army. While living here the second son, Russell Livermore and George H. Thomas were classmates in Amherst college. Russell Livermore afterwards married a young woman of Toledo, O., and went to live in their new home in North Carolina. Several years ago Mr. and Mrs. William H. Geer and family and Deacon James Y. Thomas called on them while on their way home from Florida. Russell Livermore and William H. Geer have since entered into eternal rest.

Mary Livermore and Mary A. Stark were close friends, and as classmates attended the seminary together. Miss Livermore afterwards taught a select high school in the Academy school building on Goshen Hill. She is now living with the Russell family in North Carolina. Among her pupils now living in Goshen are Mrs. Emma Williams, William G. Thomas and Laura McCall.

Rev. Aaron R. Livermore lived in the Nelson Stark house, on Goshen Hill. Owing to ill health he gave up his pastorate here and moved to what is now Sunnyside farm. Regaining his health he afterwards preached in Bozrahville. It was through his generous effort that the present convenient Goshen parsonage was built. He sent his youngest son Charles H. Livermore to Yale college.

Like the friendship of David and Jonathan, William G. Thomas and Charles H. Livermore have been close friends and have corresponded and visited each other through the intervening years. One letter dated October 25th, 1920 begins thus: "Dear Bill: Have not heard from you for two years. How are all the folks?" His next letter was one of tender sympathy in Mr. Thomas' bereavement; this was signed "Charlie." Sept. 16, 1921, Mr. Thomas received a letter from him while in Maine asking if it would be convenient to receive a visit while the writer was on his way home to New York. Mr. Thomas replied inviting him and he came, stayed three days, attending church service Sunday. The last letter received was postmarked Sept. 24, 1922.

A leaf from Mr. Thomas' diary, May 6, 1873 reads: Mr. Livermore's household goods were moved and put in the car at South Windham station today."

May 7th, W. G. Thomas and C. H. Livermore (then 17 years of age) drove the two cows and team, crossed the Connecticut river at East Haddam and stayed all night at the home of William Tyler.

May 8th started at 7 a. m., reaching North Haven, their new home, at 3 p. m. Stayed all night at Mr. Gilbert's as the goods had not been unloaded. May 9th helped them unload their goods in their new home.

It was while living in Goshen that Charles H. Levermore attended Yale college.

Dr. Charles H. Levermore has five children all married and has eight grandchildren.

To Men—To Women

Who want whiter, safer, cleaner teeth

This free test

This is a test which millions now have made. You see the results in whiter teeth in every circle now.

We urge you to make it. Every person in your home needs this new way of teeth cleaning.

It combats film

The great object is to fight film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. Under old methods, much of that film remains. It clings and stays. It becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. The result is teeth ever clouded and unclean.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Most of you know that these film-caused troubles are not escaped by old ways of teeth brushing.

Now dental science, after long research, offers ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have approved these methods, after many careful tests. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists the world over began to advocate its use. As a result, careful people of some 50 nations are using Pepsodent today.

You'll see at once

You will see the new effects at once. Pepsodent does more than fight film. It increases the alkalinity of the saliva, increases the starch digestant. So Nature's tooth-protecting factors are given multiplied effect. The whole result is a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will be amazed and delighted. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

COOLIDGE AND DAUGHERTY HAD TWO HOUR CONFERENCE

When He Left the White House the Attorney General Declined to Discuss What Had Occurred — Definite Announcement Whether Daugherty Will Remain in or Retire From the Cabinet is Expected Soon—It is Reported That the Coalition Forces Have Another Cabinet Officer Singled Out For Attack.

Washington, Feb. 26—Attorney General Daugherty's position in the cabinet continues to remain in the balance.

After President Coolidge had conferred with him for two hours at the white house tonight, Mr. Daugherty's enemies were predicting that his resignation would not be long forthcoming.

The attorney general's friends at the same time were reiterating that he stood by his determination not to resign under fire and claimed that the president had no intention of asking him to do so.

Under the surface of this open pronouncement for and against the attorney general were very general indications that either a definite announcement that he will remain or retire will be made soon. The day's developments were interpreted by many, including some of those friendly to Mr. Daugherty, to mean that the time of his retirement and the manner in which it shall be made, were more to the forefront in the negotiations between the capitol and the White House than the attorney general's actual retirement itself.

Meanwhile from under the fight being waged to force the resignation of the attorney general, came another development.

It became known that the coalition of democrats and republican progressives which forced the resignation of Secretary Denby and is now pressing Mr. Daugherty, has another cabinet officer singled out for the last attack. President Coolidge knows the nature of the charges which are being held ready for launching and those who are urging him to retain Mr. Daugherty until he has had a hearing, are advising the president that to permit the attorney general to leave the cabinet under fire, will be the signal for an attack on this other cabinet officer, with probably more to follow on others.

Throughout a day in which conference followed conference, all of which centered about the question of retention of Mr. Daugherty in the cabinet, the president sustained silence. After the cabinet meeting it was announced he had no statement to make and inquiries at the white house after tonight's conference with the attorney general brought the reply that there was nothing to be said at this time.

Mr. Daugherty also was uncommunicative, and after his visit to the White House tonight his only answer to a direct question as to whether he would continue in office, was the declaration that "there is no statement I can make." The attorney general left the white house plainly agitated. His customary joviality was noticeably absent.

The whole day's developments pointed to a climax in the near future in the controversy which has raged and gathered daily momentum about the head of the attorney general. There were those in official life in Washington tonight who believe an announcement of some kind may come tomorrow either from the white house or the department of justice, but on the other hand there were those who feel the present trend of events will not run its course for several days.

The day's developments started with an hour's conference between the president and Paul Howland of Cleveland, a close personal friend of Mr. Daugherty and his counsel in the house impeachment proceedings of a year ago. The conference took place at the white house before Mr. Coolidge went to the executive offices

Mr. Daugherty on arriving at the executive offices for the Tuesday cabinet meeting half an hour after the visit of Mr. Howland warded off all inquiries as to the nature of the conference between his former attorney and the president.

The cabinet session lasted only an hour but Mr. Daugherty, Secretary Weeks, Postmaster General New, and Secretary Davis remained half an hour longer in conference with the president. The statement later was made at the white house that Mr. Daugherty's case had not come up for discussion during the cabinet meeting.

The situation with respect to Mr. Daugherty was further discussed at another White House conference late tonight, participated in by President Coolidge, Frank W. Stearns, close personal and political friend of the executive, William M. Butler, manager of the campaign to bring about the nomination of Mr. Coolidge as the republican presidential candidate, and C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president.

This conference was understood to have considered the possible retirement of Mr. Daugherty from a political viewpoint and also the advisability of retaining the attorney general on the list of Coolidge delegates-at-large from Ohio to the republican national convention next June.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SENATE OIL COMMITTEE

Washington, Feb. 26.—The senate oil committee began a still hunt today for more sensations in the oil scandal, but no startling information was unearthed.

The quest will be continued tomorrow at another secret session with the inspection of additional records of the Western Union Telegraph Co. and those of the Postal Telegraph Co.

Upwards of a hundred telegrams exchanged between Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, and his employes in Washington, many of them having to do with developments in the oil inquiry, were examined today and senators said "interesting" but not sensational information had been obtained.

The committee is seeking to establish whether administration officials or individual members of the committee had communication with McLean or Albert B. Fall, after they had misled the investigators as to the source of the $100,000 loan Fall obtained while secretary of the interior.

No evidence of such communication was brought to light in the telegrams examined. Chairman Lenroot told the committee he had sent a format and official telegram to McLean at Palm Beach on last January 9, informing him that Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, had been authorized to take his testimony. He made the telegram public.

While the telegrams examined today and found pertinent to the oil investigation will not be read into the record until all of those subpoenaed have been examined, senators said they showed that McLean was kept constantly advised as to the progress of the inquiry and as to whether he was likely to be summoned to testify.

There was rather frequent mention, senators said, of a Francis McAdoo, a New York lawyer, as consultant of the publisher in matters which were not made quite clear in the messages. Committeemen want to know whether this is Francis H. McAdoo, son of William G. McAdoo, a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, who is a member of the New York law firm of Miller and Otis.

Fall was variously referred to in the messages as the "man at Wardman Park," "the secretary," and finally as "Fall." Senators asserted that McLean made inquiry in one message as to whether the former secretary was coming to Palme Beach and appeared not over enthusiastic about such a visit.

The name of A. Mitchell Palmer, Palmer, former attorney general, and counsel for McLean, also appeared frequently in the messages, committeemen said, adding that his advice apparently was sought on many occasions.

Chairman Lenroot, and former Chairman Smoot of the oil committee also were mentioned, it was stated, some of their statements at the public hearing being quoted in messages sent to McLean.

The name of J. W. Zevely, person at present to Harry F. Sinclair, also appeared, senators said. Zevely afterwards went to New Orleans to confer with Fall and upon returning here disclosed to the committee that Sinclair had loaned the former secretary $25,000 three months after he retired from the cabinet.

The committee has called upon the telegraph companies for all messages that were sent fro mWashington to Zevely, Fall and E. L. Doheny, while they were at New Orleans prior to the arrival here of Doheny to disclose that he had made the now famous $100,000 unpaid loan to Fall."

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE GIVEN THE GREEK GOVT

Athens, Feb. 26 (By the A. P.)—The national assembly today voted confidence in the Kafandaris government. The vote was 233 to 106.

Both Premier Kafandaris and ex-Premier Venizelos declared this morning that the government's position was stable, and yesterday's happenings were due to misunderstandings. Before the ballot was taken however, the belief was expressed in well-informed quarters that a ministerial crisis would not be averted even if the Kafandaris ministry obtained a substantial vote of confidence.

M. Venizelos voted in favor of the government after finding the premier was unwilling to yield to his proposals. Interpreting the result of the vote as being against the prospects of a republic, General Gonylis and Admiral Hadjikyaikos, but militant republicans, submitted their resignations as deputies.

BEVERLY D. HARRIS SEEKS ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGE

New York, Feb. 26.—Trial of the suit brought by Beverly D. Harris, elderly prominent banker, to annul his marriage to Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, to whom his counsellors referred as "a woman of the underworld who palmed herself off as a member of one of the most aristocratic families of the southland" was begun today in supreme court.

The opening addresses to the jury developed an unusual situation, in which the defense attorneys admitted and attempted to prove that their client was the illegitimate daughter of Eli Rayner, with whom Mr. Harris charged she had improper relations. It was chiefly upon this charge that the suit was based.

The plaintiff's counsellors on the other hand attempted to prove her legitimacy. In the latter argument Mrs. Harris' birth date was placed in 1887, while her attorneys declared she was eight or nine years younger.

Harris met Eleanor Elaine Lee in Memphis, Tenn., his attorneys said and she told him she was the daughter of Stacker Lee, one of the Lees that operated the famous Lee line of Mississippi river packets. He became enamoured of her. At a later date, she caused a wire to be sent him from Kansas City, informing him that she was ill and he joined her and married her the next day. Time came when the incompatability of their temperaments caused them to separate.

"I'm truly sorry that we have separated," Mr. Harris was said to have told a friend, "for she is a daughter of Stacker Lee and a fine woman."

The friend then informed Mr. Harris that Stacker Lee never had a daughter, and upon this information Mr. Harris started an investigation in Memphis that led to his efforts to annul his marriage. He declared he learned that she had been supported by Eli Rayner, who "never had done a lick of work in 25 years, save playing cards and engaging in other games of chance."

Rayner had been represented to him, the banker asserted, as his wife's uncle and a man of wealth and social standing.

Denying the contention of the plaintiff that his wife had been a woman of the underworld, Mrs. Harris' attorneys said she was born in 1895 or '96 and that soon after her mother died she was placed in an orphanage so that at the time she was said to have been in the underworld of Memphis she was only 14 or 15 years old. Rayner, the defense said, had befriended the girl's mother and promised to take care of her and she had known him as her uncle. They charged Harris had conspired against his wife in order to be rid of her. His information about her earlier life was furnished, they declared, by a corrupt policeman in Memphis who had been discharged from the formce.

GRAND LARCENY CASE OF SUNSHINE HOMES CO.

New York, Feb. 26—Simon Lake, inventor and submarine manufacturer of Milford, Conn., invested some of his own money in the Sunshine Homes Company of Bridgeport, Conn. he testified today at the trial of three officers of the company on grand larceny charges. The defendants are alleged to have kept funds obtained from persons who made contracts with the concern for the construction of portable concrete homes.

Mr. Lake who was treasurer of the company, is not included in the indictment. He said he invested $156,000 in the company but under questioning by Judge Gibbs in Bronx county court could account for only $57,000. The amount of an equity in the Housantic Ship Building company.

When Judge Gibbs asked whether he was so wealthy that a difference of $99,000 could escape his memory, Mr. Lake shrugged his shoulders, but did not explain the discrepancy in the figures.

Mr. Lake told of his discovery of "insulated concrete" with which the homes were to be made and produced some of the plans for furthering of the project.

Dissensions are also known to exist on the claims of Russia and the South American countries.

The official communique, referring to the proposals advanced, declared: "The report prepared by the committee was unanimously approved."

Why Farmers are Going Out of Business

Because They Sell and Buy in Organized Markets, While Conducting Business Individually, Senator Capper Says.

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 26—The reason so many of the 24,000,000 farmers in this country are going out of business is because they cling to the American tradition of individuality and refuse to organize, Senator Capper of Kansas declared tonight in addressing the annual banquet in the Eastern States Farmers' Cooperative exchange.

"When the farmer sells," he said, "he sells to an organized market—a market organized to take speculative profits. When he goes into the market to buy, he buys from an organized market.

"The farmer is the only unorganized group in a highly organized business and industrial community. Because he lacks organization; because he lacks determining voice in the sale of his commodity, the farmer gets but 7 1-2 billion dollars for products for which the consumer pays 22 1-2 billions. For speculators, middlemen and transportation to collect a toll of 15 billion dollars on that for which the farmer gets but 7 1-2 billions is a tragic absurdity."

Senator Capper declared that although congress "will go just as far as it possibly can along sound and practical lines," only a fraction of the farmers' problem could be solved by legislation. The big remedy, he said, lay in the extension of cooperative marketing and buying exchanges and the gradual development of farmer-leaders.

"A most favorable augury for a restored farm prosperity is the sympathetic interest of President Coolidge as shown by his recent Lincoln Day address," he continued. "He correctly appraises the situation. He is fully aware of the economic handicaps that hedge the agricultural industry about. He is fully advised of the factors that postpone the restoration of the farmer to a status of equality with other industrial and productive groups."

So, he said, when Mr. Coolidge urged that the nation foster "an organized agriculture to cope with an organized industry" his words graphically portrayed the farmers' need for cooperation among themselves.

Senator Capper cited how Michigan farmers got 36 cents a bushel for potatoes that sold for $1.60 in Chicago; how a Kansas farmer bought a binder in 1901 for 120 bushels of 90-cent wheat, and last year had to pay 358 bushels of 90-cent wheat for another such binder; how another Kansas farmer sold a calf sale for 50 cents and paid $1 for two leather washers for his farm pump.

"It is this spread between their low-priced products and the high-priced things they buy that is putting so many farmers out of business," Senator declared. "Everything he buys is up; everything he sells is down. Taxes are higher. The farmer must receive more or pay less."

TRIAL OF LUDENDORF SAVORS OF TRAVESTY

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 26.—Former Field Marshall Ludendorf, Adolph Hitler, leader of the Bavarian fascisti, and seven other defendants were placed on trial today for their connection with the "putsch" of last November. All of the defendants except one are charged with high treason.

The friendly atmosphere in which the trial began was noticeable. Hitler and Ludendorf chatted animatedly together, while the other accused men seemed not to take the trial seriously.

At the morning session the indictment against the accused was read. The president of the court also read a statement of the career of Hitler, who stood and replied to questions put to him. The president laid particular stress on Hitler's war career saying he had voluntarily joined the Bavarian army and had been wounded twice and gassed once. Hitler corrected the president by declaring that he received only one wound.

The afternoon session was taken up by Hitler's statement to the court, in which he related his share in the "putsch". He declared he was not guilty of treason.

During his statement Hitler denounced the conduct of Dr. Von Kahr, the Bavarian dictator at the time, and of Generl Von Lossow, commander of the Bavarian reichswehr.

The shooting of Senator Greene during a gun battle between revenue agents and suspected bootleggers ten days ago was the subject of another resolution introduced in the senate today. Senator Dale, his republican colleague, proposed that the judiciary committee be authorized to investigate the circumstances of the shooting and recommend measures to prevent such occurrences in the future.

Senator Edwards, democrat, New Jersey, has announced that he intends to discuss in the senate tomorrow or Thursday his pending resolution proposing an investigation by the same committee of prohibition enforcement practices generally.

ROWIN HOUSE OVER PROPOSED REDUCTION OF AUTO TAXES

Final Action on the Proposals Was Deferred Until Thursday, An Amendment Was Passed Raising the Tax on Cigarettes From $3 to $4 Per Thousand — Amendments Proposed Brought Threats From Republican Organization Leaders to Vote Against the Entire Bill.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Two major amendments were incorporated in the revenue bill today by the house amid storms of debate involving a series of personal exchanges, threats of republican organization leaders to vote against passage of the entire bill, and a warning from Representative Mills, republican, New York, of the possibility of a presidential veto.

The session ended in a row over reduction of the automobile taxes, final action on these proposals going over until Thursday. The house will devote its session tomorrow exclusively to the Harding memorial service.

A gift tax imposing levies beginning at one per cent. on total amounts of gifts in one year in excess of $50,000, and running up to 40 per cent, was voted, 191 to 65.

The tax on cigarettes was raised from $3 to $4 per thousand, by a vote of 117 to 85.

A provision of the bill granting exemption from the ten per cent. theatre admission tax on all tickets of fifty cents and under, withstood several assaults to lower or raise this exemption.

When adjournment was forced an amendment was before the house on which both Representative Longworth, the republican leader, and Representative Garner of Texas, in charge of the democratic forces, said they understood general agreement had been reached. This would provide for repeal of the three per cent. tax on automobile trucks and wagons, the chassis of which sold for less than $1,000, and for a cut in half of the five per cent. tax on automobile tires and accessories. The second extended row of the day broke out at this juncture, Representative Clancy, democrat, Michigan, rushing to leaders on his side with that cry that he had been double-crossed, in not obtaining time to speak. Representative Garner took the declaration as directed at him and rushed toward Mr. Clancy when Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the democratic floor leader, intervened.

An agreement had been reached to end debate on the automobile tax subject at 6 o'clock. Representative Clancy had not obtained time to speak when that hour was reached, and efforts of both sides to prolong the session, resulted in a parliamentary tangle providing both noise and confusion, and adjournment was decided upon as the only way out. All speakers, however, had declared in favor of some reduction in these taxes.

Earlier in the day republican ranks were split by a sharp exchange between Chairman Green of the ways and means committee, during which Mr. Green charged the New York representative with "usurping the powers of the chairman," and Mr. Mills characterized Mr. Green as the nominal chairman of the committee pointing to Representative Garner as "the actual leader."

Mr. Mills declared he would not not vote for the bill as it has been amended, opposing the gift tax, and warned that "it may never become law." Representative Garner immediately dared other republicans to follow Mr. Mills in opposing the entire bill and Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, said he would accept the dare as the bill now stood.

BRITISH LABOR GOVT WINS VOTE IN COMMONS

London, Feb. 26.—(By the A. P.)—The labor government in the house of commons today faced a test of its strength, and emerged successfully.

The question which gave rise to the discussion in the house had to do with Health Minister Wheatley's recent action in giving the poplar guardians what practically amounted to a free hand in extending relief to the unemployed. This had threatened to call down the wrath of both conservatives and liberals on the labor administration, but when the house divided at 11 o'clock tonight on closure moved by a conservative, the motion was defeated 295 to 228.

Many liberals voted with the laborites, and thus the government was saved from a delicate situation by the aid of the liberals, much as it was a few days ago with the conservatives gave Premier MacDonald their support on his proposal to lay down new warships.

The liberal motion, fathered by Frank Briant, and the conservative amendment, of which Sir William Joynson-Hicks was sponsor, were talked out, and the popular question for the present is hardly likely to disturb the labor government.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE SPREADING IN CALIFORNIA

Washington, Feb. 26—Secretary Wallace today issued orders quarantining Napa, Sonoma, Marin, San Mateo, Santa Clara and San Joaquin counties, California, because of the spread of the foot and mouth disease among cattle.

The quarantine was first declared last Saturday on Alameda, Central Costa and Solando counties because of the outbreak which was confined largely to Alameda county. Reports to the department of agriculture, however, indicate that in the past three days the disease has spread. Farms now known to be infested number 23 with a total of 2,530 cattle and 6,204 hogs.

The disease exists in four of the nine counties now under quarantine, but restrictions have been placed on adjoining counties to provide buffer areas of protection. The state of California has placed restrictions on live stock shipments from a number of counties in addition to the nine quarantined by the department of agriculture.

OBITUARY

George Randolph Chester.

New York, Feb. 26.—George Randolph Chester, author, playwright and creator of a number of popular fictional characters, among them "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," died suddenly of a heart attack at his home early today. He was born in Cincinnati in 1869.

Apparently in the best of health, Mr. Chester worked over a story until late last night, coughing occasionally and mentioning chest pains several times to his wife and sometime collaborator, Mrs. William Chester.

During the night, a pain near the heart awoke him and, after Mrs. Chester had applied liniment, he dropped off to fitful sleep only to awaken in the morning, call his wife, say abruptly "I love you, dear," and then fall back lifeless to his pillow.

Starting as a poor Ohio boy, Chester tried his hand at various things, then became a newspaper reporter, climbing from a lowly post to popular fictional success. For his first story he was paid $2.50.

He had but recently returned to the field of fiction after two years of motion picture scenario editing. Always a prolific writer, he passed most of his time at his desk, aided frequently by Mrs. Chester whom he had married in 1911 after his first wife, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Chester had divorced him. He was first married in Davenport, Iowa, in 1895. There were two children by the first marriage.

In 1908 the first Wallingford story appeared. Wallingford, a financial rogue who lived by his wit, and his companions in the pages of Chester's story became popular and scores of other tales followed. In 1914, he wrote 24 short stories and [illegible] complete novels.

SECEDING KLANSMEN FORM KNIGHTS OF MYSTIC KLAN

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 26.—The klan congress called by Edward Young Clarke, former imperial giant "to revive the original principles on which the Ku Klux Klan was founded but which have been perverted" at a meeting here today voted to establish a new order called the "Knights of the Mystic Clan."

Upward of 150 klansmen opposed to the present administration attended the meeting and those in charge said that klans in Maryland, Ohio, New Jersey, Connecticut, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina and Colorado were represented.

The resolution calling for the withdrawal from the knights of the Ku Klux Klan and formation of a new order was adopted 160 to 4 after a warm debate.

Under the resolution, secrecy and masking are banned. Headquarters are to be temporarily located at Kansas City, Missouri, and the resolution instructs that "the world be given notice that the order is not connected in any manner with the Ku Klux Klan, Hiram Wesley Evans and William Joseph Simmons."

The young woman was taken in custody by a squad of detectives as she stepped from a taxicab at a downtown corner where she had made an engagement to meet a young man. When captured, detectives found a bunch of keys to the prison belonging to the slain matron and also other property to Miss Richards. Miss Ellis was brought to police headquarters in a hysterical condition and officials at an early hour were unable to obtain any information from her regarding the slaying.

FOUND GUILTY OF POSSESSING STOLEN BONDS

Buffalo N. Y. Feb. 26.—William McGirr, proprietor of a soft drinkery here was found guilty today by a supreme court jury on a charge of illegally possesing $17,000 worth of the $1,000,000 in bonds and securities that were stolen from Warner Brothers storage company, Chicago, by safe crackesmen on October 13, 1923. His conviction is the first in the country in connection with the theft and the disposal of the stolen goods.

Justice Hinkley denied the plea of McGirr's attorney that he be continued on the $25,000 bail upon which he has been free since his arrest last November. McGirr was remanded to the county jail to await sentence on Friday. The maximum penalty is two years and six months to five years imprisonment in Auburn prison and $1,000 fine.

WILLIMANTIC

The next year period of Willimantic Rotary Club, will be marked by a furtherance of the boys' work movement in this city, according to plans outlined by the committee, which was in charge of the regular meeting on Tuesday. Richard E. Dodge, of Storrs, acted as chairman of the program. Guests included Dr. Stanley Osborn of Hartford, Rev. Charles M. Kelly, supervisor of St. Joseph's school, Lester Gellnas and Dudley G. Burr, representing the student and athletic bodies of the high school. Messrs. Burr, Gellnas, Harroun, Noble, Brooks and Rev. Father Kelley made brief remarks in relation to the possibilities of a broader boys' work movement.

Professor Dodge inaugurated the week making known some of the recommendations of the committee for the furtherance of boys' work. One of the suggestions made has been one which has been under consideration for some time and pertains to distributing the work and funds of the committee so as to give Big Brothers' assistance to a large number of boys, instead of a chosen few. It has been suggested that boys be assigned to the men whose respective interests are alike. A proposed Boys' Week has been announced by Professor Dodge from April 27 to May 3 with a program as follows: Sunday, Church Day, Monday, School day; Tuesday, Industrial and Citizenship day; Wednesday, entertainment and Athletic day; Thursday, loyalty day; Friday, Boys at home day and Saturday, open house of doors program. It is also planned to stage a monster street parade on loyalty day.

The sum of ten dollars will be given toward the present to be given to District Governor George Cooper, at the New Britain spring conference, to be held in April. Community songs were enjoyed during the luncheon, with John T. Quinlan at the piano. The session adjourned, following the singing of one stanza of The Star Spangled Banner. President James P. Mustard was in charge.

Information received here late Tuesday afternoon was to the effect that the civil service department at Washington, D. C., had certified Frank M. Smith, Walter R. King and William S. Congdon as being eligible for the position of postmaster of the local postoffice. These three names were selected from about a dozen applicants for the position now held by John O'Rourke, democrat. Mr. Smith is at present with the Wilson Pharmacy which also controls the Wilson Windham Pharmacy. He has been in the drug business for many years and has represented this town in the state legislature. Walter R. King is head clerk of the state treasury department and was formerly employed in the postal savings and money order department at the local postoffice. He has been a member of the town school committee for a number of terms. William S. Congdon was employed at the local plant of the American Thread Company and shortly after the advent of prohibition was appointed a Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer chief of the eastern Connecticut division. All three are capable men and well qualified for the appointment and there is a great of speculation as to which will be the next postmaster.

Testimony given Monday morning in the police court by David Tachinsky of Bricktop Hill, in Windham, against Maurice Griffin, Danell Brennan and Daniel Killourey led the court to believe that there was room for a more serious charge against each of the men than that breach of the peace, on which they were arraigned in court. The case was continued until Tuesday morning, when Tachinsky repeated his testimony before a large gallery of spectators. Officers Willard and Arthur Hurley, who with Officer Leahy made the arrests, were called upon to testify. They told of answering to a complaint and motoring to the Tachinsky home. The three men were arrested while walking away from the place and they were carrying a gallon jug and a tin container partly filled with cider and a quantity of hen and ducks' eggs.

Maurice Griffin was the spokesman for the three men. He had been working at the Tachinsky home and late in the afternoon Tachinsky told him to go down cellar and draw off a gallon of cider which he would take to the city in his wagon; also to fill up the tin container for himself. Tachinsky also wanted the eggs. When Griffin came upstairs again Tachinsky had gone away on foot. After waiting for some time Griffin said that he took the two cider containers and the eggs and carried them to the side of the road where he intended to leave them for Tachinsky to take with him. At this spot he met Brennan and Killourey who were out taking a walk. The three then joined forces and started up the back road with the cider and eggs.

Daniel Brennan pleaded his case, stating that neither he nor Killourey had at any time left the state road and that they had met Griffin by accident. They knew that the jug and cans were filled with cider, but they had not taken any of it, when the officers came in an automobile and arrested them.

Tachinsky again testified that he had seen three men go into his house before he ran to a neighbor's house to telephone and he attempted to describe the manner in which the lock on the kitchen door had been broken; but Prosecuter Harvey could not seem to have quite a clear view of the broken condition of the lock. The lock and how and where it had been broken, was under fire of questioning when it was suggested that Alvin Pearl, whose telephone Tachinsky had used to call the police, would be able to furnish the testimony which would clear up all difficulties. A machine was sent for Pearl and he was found working in the back woods. When he arrived here he was rushed to the witness stand where he told his story which was to the effect that when Tachinsky came to his house to call for the police, he (Pearl) followed him back to the place and was just in time to see three men coming out of the house. He stood about 300 feet away but was able to identify the trio in the police court Tuesday morning. He said that they carried something but he could not determine just what it might have been. When the men walked away he followed them for a distance and returned in time to meet the officers and lead them to where the men had gone. He was present when the arrests were made. He explained the manner in which the lock was broken with such clearness that the explanation was accepted by Attorney Harvey.

Judge Foss found that the charges of breach of the peace had developed into the more serious charges of breaking and entering and theft and on these counts he bound the trio over to the superior court, under bonds of $500 each. The latter charge covers the theft of one stoneware jug to the value of dollar and contents and eggs valued at two dollars.

After binding the men over to the higher court, Judge Foss reminded Daniel Brennan that he had been before the local court on a charge of theft and had a suspended sentence hanging over him which would now have to go into effect. Brennan apparently does not care to be listed as a visitor at the Brooklyn jail, as he jumped up and pleaded with some intensity that he be given another chance. Judge Foss told Brennan that he would allow the sentence to continue suspended while awaiting the action of the superior court.

The Story Your Hands Reveal

FINGERPRINT experts know how much the hands can reveal about a person. But it doesn't take an expert to read the story so many hands tell—those of a housewife, for instance. If they are red, rough and coarse looking, an average person can tell that she thoughtlessly uses some common household soap which irritates and roughens the skin.

Intelligent housewives nowadays choose the kind of household soap they use as carefully as they do their toilet soap. And to get a soap for every household and laundry purpose as harmless to their hands as is the most exquisite toilet soap, the modern housewife insists upon Kirkman's.

* * * *

THE reason is that Kirkman's Soap, being free from irritating lye, will not harm the skin or injure the most delicate fabrics. It is made of the purest and finest materials. It contains absolutely no adulterants such as starch, talc or water-glass, which have no cleansing value.

Kirkman's Soap users know, too, that it is a most thorough cleanser.

For the sake of your hands insist upon Kirkman's Soap.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

North High school, of Worcester, will have its team at the town hall to demonstrate against the team of Killingly High school that some mighty interesting basketball is played by school teams in "the heart of the commonwealth." If the North High team is as good as other teams that have come from that school to Danielson, an honest-to-goodness basketball contest is due. Those who know both teams, say that the prospect is for one of the very best games listed in Killingly High's schedule. In addition there will be a preliminary game that holds promise of furnishing some good sport.

Prospects of Danielson's stores adopting a general program of close Thursday afternoons throughout the year, excepting during the Christmas season, appear to be negligible. There is no official confirmation of this, but private inquiry tends to indicate this to be a fact. On the other hand, there appears to be a widespread disposition among the business men to recognize the trend of the times and to allow clerks employed here a half-holiday without closing the stores. This proposal also appears to hold more appeal to the public at large—and is held to be for the best business interests of the borough as a whole. And, again, there are clerks who signed the petition for a half-holiday who are not so insistent that the stores be closed as that the principal of allowing a half-holiday be recognized and granted. The present viewpoint seems to be one of mutual interest—that the proprietors are entitled to the last word as to whether they should close their places of business half a day each week, but that the clerks' claims should get very generous consideration when they ask for that much time away from their business each week. This, they represent is asking for no more than is allowed textile workers, men in the building trades and other organized artisans as well as what has become a very general practice in scores of independent or diverse lines of endeavor.

The main objective of the clerks is a weekly half-holiday. It is not in evidence that many of them would insist that the borough's stores be closed in connection with granting that privilege to them.

Out of Sterling Tuesday there came excited injuries as to whether a state police officer from the Danielson barracks had been shot, in what is said to have been a battle between bootleggers and holdup men. It may be definitely stated that no state officer from the Danielson or other barracks was shot, or in any way involved in any event such as has been mentioned.

If anything approximating a shooting row or holdup occurred between bootleggers and holdup men, the event transpired across the border in Rhode Island territory, and there was no knowledge of the matter at the barracks here as late as Tuesday afternoon. The affair that started so much talk in Sterling during Tuesday is said to have occurred late Monday night or during the early hours of Tuesday morning, and word of it is said to have been circulated by drivers of light trucks that make daily runs out of Providence to bring commodities into Sterling, Plainfield, Killingly and other towns hereabouts.

As closely as could be ascertained from information available Tuesday afternoon the story is based on the alleged fact that a group of rumrunners was held up near Chepachet by gunmen who intended to relieve them of their contraband. A gun battle between the rum runners and the holdup men is said to have taken place and that in the racing about of the cars involved in the affair the scene of the fighting shifted onto the Fairbanks hill road, so-called, this new state highway running through country from a point near North Scituate to a point in Rhode Island a mile or two east of the Connecticut border at Sterling.

Persons familiar with the Rhode Island territory covered in this narrative will at once wonder how a fight, starting near Chepachet, would end up just over the Rhode Island border from Sterling. Covering the territory would involve a run of about six miles from Chepachet to Chop Mist hill on the Danielson road, another dash back toward Providence for about four miles, then a cut-off and a race over 13 miles of highway to Fairbanks hill and two more to the Rhode Island-Connecticut border at Sterling. Maybe something happened, but such information as stirred excitement in towns hereabouts Tuesday appeared to be too fishy to pin much faith on. It is certainly true that no Connecticut state police officer had anything to do with the affair, for if anything happened the entire transaction was on Rhode Island territory. And besides, Connecticut is a moral state and figures very little in such unseemly affairs.

Theatre patrons who watched the showing of the film, "The Silent Command", at the Orpheum theatre, at Monday and Tuesday's shows might have picked out Commander Walter F. Jacobs, U. S. N., son of F. A. Jacobs of Broad street, on the bridge of the destroyer Sharkey if they were keen-eyed, for Commander Jacobs was standing on the bridge of the vessel of which he is in command, when the film was being made. Unfortunately, however, many who knew of this in advance and tried to locate him among the group of officers were unable to do so, in the brief time that the particular part of the picture was flashing across the screen. Others said they identified the officer, of whom Danielson is proud, particularly for his fine record of service with the country's naval forces during the world war and in the extra hazardous work of clearing the North sea of mines with the mine sweeping fleet after the armistice.

Mothers of children who were at the well baby conference at the town hall Tuesday afternoon garnered much information about the care of small children that will be especially valuable to them and untold benefit to their offspring. There was manifestly very great interest in the visit of Dr. Elizabeth Ingraham of the state department of child hygiene and in what she is doing to make health and life itself more certain for the babies. This was the first of such conferences to be held in Danielson and in creating interest in it Dr. Ingraham has the assistance of able workers representing a number of the borough's women's organizations.

Business interests of the borough have plans in the works for one of the general semi-annual Dollar Day events.

A committee of the Danielson Rod and Gun club will meet this week to discuss the formation of a rifle team among members of the club.

The big motor pumper at the central fire station has been equipped with tire chains against the possibility of being unable to negotiate some of the icy streets of the borough.

Miss Migonne Morin, who is teaching at Northampton, Mass., is at her home here spending a week during which her school is in recess.

Miss Blanche Lacas has been a visitor with Putnam friends.

Do not blame local or state officers if they ask to see your 1924 motor vehicle operators' licenses after Friday and you are driving without one, is the advice. That risk will be entirely up to you. The present licenses expire Friday next at midnight.

Attorney Louis A. Wolsard is busy with the collection of personal tax assessments in Danielson and other parts of Killingly.

PUTNAM

When the meeting of the Ladies' Social Circle of the Congregational church was held Tuesday afternoon with an unusually large attendance, Attorney Eric H. Johnson gave the first in a series of three talks on current events which was appreciated by the members. Following the talk tea was served. Mrs. Mary Bishop was chairman of the hostesses. The program book of the Woman's Association was distributed.

By order of the court, George E. Hinman, judge, the short calendar session and assignment of cases has been postponed from this week Friday to next week Friday. Attorneys are to claim cases to be heard at the March term on or before next Tuesday. The March session will be held in Putnam and will be for civil business only.

Stockholders hereabouts in the Connecticut Mill Corp, Danielson, are interested in the announcement that Connecticut Mills Co. preferred stockholders' protective committee have declared a dividend of one voting trust certificate representing common Class A stock to holders of each preferred share deposited with the preferred shareholders' protective committee payable March 1st to stock of record Feb. 25th. About 12,000 class A common shares are to be so distributed. Stock to be disbursed represents that purchased from Tracy Lewis' estate a fortnight ago.

After having given the necessary five days' notice, William J. Oliver, 22, and Miss Margaret C. Daly, 21, both of Worcester, motored to Putnam, Monday evening and were united in marriage by Attorney A. S. Macconald, acting justice of the peace. Mr. Oliver gave his occupation as dyer. After they had been married the couple got into their automobile and left the city without saying what their destination was.

Judge George E. Hinman has added to his judgment in the divorce case of Laura Broder Corcoran vs Thomas J. Corcoran, Jr., by granting Mrs. Corcoran the right to assume her maiden name, Laua Broder. This was asked for in her petition, but was not granted in the original judgment handed down by Judge Hinman granting the divorce and alimony.

The past week has been a hard one on the birds. The county game wardens and his deputies have been spreading grain throughout the rurals parts of the county in order that game birds might not perish. The snow, rain and freeze formed a crust so that the birds could not get through to the ground for feeding. The conditions have driven the hungry game birds to the farm yards and in many places pheasants have been seen mingling with the chickens at feeding times. Many thoughtful people have thrown out crumbs or affixed pieces of suet to trees that the birds might not perish. It is the formation of snow crust that is the worst enemy of the birds and of their propagation by the department of fisheries and game.

There was a large turnout of Putnam lodge of Elks Tuesday evening, to welcome District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Thomas Tracy of New London, on his annual visitation. Following the balloting on 46 applications for membership and the initiation of a class the visiting official made an address on the good of the order, during which he complimented the local lodge on its progress. Luncheon was served by the grill committee at the close.

State's Attorney and Mrs. Charles E. Searls, who have been spending the month at the Court Inn, N. C., will leave this week and are expected to arrive in Putnam, Saturday. G. Harold Gilpatric, cashier of the First National Bank, who is in Bermuda, is also expected home this week and is due to arrive Friday.

Either Putnam is becoming a model town or it is the lull before the storm. If it were not for the physical exercises taken during their daily dozen by members of the police department they would suffer from ennui. There have been but few arrests during the past fortnight and the only thing of any importance that has happened in police circles is the break at the Jarvis store, a couple of weeks ago, and the theft of $150 which still remains a mystery. While it is to be hoped that Putnam really is getting to be a hundred per cent. law abiding city the police remain suspicious that it is merely a weather breeder indicating an activity that may break at any time. It is a maxim of the department that "truble comes in bunches" and that then there is a let up until there is another outbreak. However, the prosecuting attorney and the police activity of the past has apparently borne fruit, as it certainly is not easy to get liquor in this city. With so many men, both local and transient, out of employment, it is surprising there are not petty crimes. The situation speaks well for the inhabitants of Putnam.

While the police department has been leading the life of Reilly the street department has had a hard week of it. The sidewalks have become coated with ice and this means spading from one end of the city to the other. The street superintendent has been complimented for the way he has taken care of the subway stairs. Last year there were several accidents through falls on the dangerous steps at the east end of the subway. This year the steps have been sanded every morning and whenever necessary again in th evening after it has thawed during the day and froze in the early evening. The gutters are full of ice which floods the sidewalks in the middle of the day when it thaws and walking is unpleasant and hazardous in many places in spite of all the street department can do.

Constantino Mastrogusgeorge, arrested Sunday night by Constable Bert Johnson, of Woodstock, when the officer found the man occupying a vacant house in South Woodstock, and who turned out to be an escaped inmate of the Worcester State Hospital for the Insane, became violent while being taken back to Worcester, Monday night, and put up a hard fought battle for freedom.

The man was taken from Woodstock to Webster, where he was lodged in the police station. In the evening Supervisor Andrew Adams of the Worcester hospital went to Webster and started back with Constantino. The fugitive had given Woodstock officers no trouble and while locked in the Putnam police station Sunday night and Monday morning had shown no tendency to violence. The only evidence of violence was when he made a weak attempt to assault the Woodstock constable with an old sword, when the officers first tried to arrest him.

When the supervisor and his prisoner reached Harrington's corner, in Worcester, on the return trip, Constantino suddenly became belligerent and struggled desperately for freedom, as he realized that he was approaching the place of confinement. The officer and Constantino were waiting on the corner for a trolley car to the hospital when Constantino began his attack on the officer. The battle occurred at nine o'clock and a large crowd watched the struggle. A police officer went to Adams' assistance and the struggling man was finally subdued and taken to the hospital in one of the institution's ambulances which was summoned.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Whittemore of Webster, formerly of Putnam and Eastford, celebrated their golden wedding at their home on School street, Monday, with pleasant remembrances consisting of gifts of fruit, flowers and more substantial tokens, as well as a shower of post cards and congratulation. While Mr. Whittemore is not in the best of health, he enjoyed the day surrounded by relatives and friends, aided by his wife, who assisted greatly in brightening the day for her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore were married in Providence, February 25, 1874. At that time Mr. Whittemore lived in Fall River but worked in Providence. It was here that he met Lydia Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Baker, of Appanaug, who became his wife.

After living for a time in Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore removed to Millbury and later to Putnam. From Putnam they moved to Eastford and for a number of years Mr. Whittemore, known at the time as "Deadwood Dick" Whittemore, drove the stage from Eastford to Putnam. Eight years ago they moved to Webster.

Mr. Whittemore is a veteran of the Civil war, was one of the youngest boys in the service and had the distinction of serving his country side by side with his father, and this peculiar fact makes him eligible both to the G. A. R. and the Sons of Veterans. He has held the office of commander of both of these organizations in Putnam and many times acted as marshal on Memorial day.

Mr. Whittemore has a remarkable memory and relates clearly incidents of the war and tells a story of a tintype which he treasures and which he removed from the blouse of a wounded soldier boy; of the terrible experience of a soldier who came near being burned alive at Cold Harbor, and the story of a boy who went into battle by the side of his father with a premonition that he would be shot, whom a rebel bullet struck, was removed forward to a field hospital only to be dropped on the ground in a ravine when the fire in the ravine was so heavy that the Pioneer Corps could not get through and remained there three days without food or water.

Two daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore, Mrs. Charles Madison of Putnam and Mrs. George Tracy of Mitteneague.

Sunday there was a pre-celebration for the couple, given by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Whittemore, their daughter and two grandchildren, Miss Josephine Warren of Putnam, Press C. Whittemore of Putnam, Mrs. Charles Madison of Putnam, Sidney Madison of Newport, and Mrs. Harriet I. Moulton. The dinner ended with a wedding cake brought by Mrs. Madison of Putnam, which was cut by Mrs. Whittemore. A poem written by Daniel Whittemore was dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore.

Mrs. Dorothy Hoxie will close her school here this week. She will be greatly missed by the pupils as she has taught a very successful school here the past two years. Mr. and Mrs. Hoxie and daughter will move to Lebanon. It is understood that Mrs. Shippee will continue the school for the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corey have been entertaining Rev. George Watts of Providence, R. I.

Howard Wood has installed a new radio in his home.

There has been a number of chimney fires the past month while burning green wood. It is well to look well to the condition of chimneys.

Leo Hall of Sterling shot a gray fox here recently. There are plenty more left and poultrymen hope the hunting of foxes will continue.

Quite a number here are suffering with severe colds and grip. George C. Spooner is among those on the list.

Mr. Hart has recovered from his recent illness and delivers the mail as promptly now as usual.

Although there has been a good coating of ice and snow on the ground the past two weeks not a sleigh has been seen, as in ye olden times.

The birds are still coming near the houses for food. While the ice is on the ground a little care will save the birds.

Michael O'Connell, with his ten children, who were living here recently and were in very destitute circumstances, have moved to Chepachet, R. I.

Neighbors and friends gave Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis a surprise party Saturday evening. All had a good time.

During the mild weather in January when it was thought there would be no ice to cut, many filled their houses with ten-inch ice.

James M. Whittlesey, commissioner on domestic animals, announced that, until further notice, no more permits for the importation of horses, cattle, swine or sheep from any point west of the Mississippi river will be issued on account of the outbreak of the dreaded foot-and-mouth disease in California.

Give the children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

A prominent physician says:

"It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but the reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S aids digestion too, and acts as an antiseptic wash for the mouth and throat. Several flavors-all of WRIGLEY quality.

CHANGING INAUGURATION

Usually the demands ... in inauguration date ... lowing the taking ... ident, but they can ... any time. They are ... now. At the present ... just been reported ... resolution amending ... tion whereby the new ... ident may be inaugurated ... third Monday of January ... new congress would assemble in January following the November election.

When changes in the inauguration date have been suggested before the idea has invariably been to escape the severe weather that is likely to be encountered on the fourth of March. Should the inauguration be in January that feature would not be overcome. In fact the third Monday in January could be expected to be quite as cold and uncomfortable for an inauguration crowd as the fourth of March.

The object of the change is to put the will of the people into operation sooner than is now the case. Instead of congress being of a different political complexion than that desired as shown by the votes in November, it would be under the proposed plan just what was ordered at the polls. It means a quicker response to the public will. Such a change could of course be accomplished by amending the Constitution so that the election date could be changed, but perhaps it would be no more agreeable to have a national election day in February than it is to have an inauguration day in March.

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution that will upset the existing order of things doesn't necessarily mean that it will be adopted. If the time ever comes when the change is seriously demanded careful thought needs to be given to the manner in which it can best be accomplished. It is possible to shift both the election date or the date of the assemblage of the new congress and the inauguration. It is not a matter for snap judgment but one that needs to be viewed from all angles and given careful study as to the various effects that can be anticipated.

THE FRENCH IN THE RUHR.

Possibly Charles G. Dawes and his committee were not sent into Germany for the purpose of passing upon the course adopted by France when it went into the Ruhr, but the committee has been engaged in taking stock of conditions, and among the revelations is that which shows that Germany did not intend to pay, and that it would not have been brought to its present attitude but for the invasion of the Ruhr.

France has received much criticism because it acted in the way it did. It was pointed out that it should have shown a more lenient attitude toward Germany and that it should have stayed in closer sympathy with the British instead of resorting to the course that it adopted.

What France did was only what it was justified in doing under the terms of the Versailles treaty. When it struck at the Ruhr it hit a vital part of Germany and while it has not been able to get the equivalent of the reparation payments out of the occupation it has succeeded in showing Germany that it is folly to cling to the view that it can escape the penalties of the war.

General Dawes gives endorsement of the French plan. It met ... tion so far as bringing Ger... recognition of its respon... Now the problem is to get ... tions from Germany without a ... tinuance of that occupation. ... didn't go into the Ruhr with the ... of staying there any longer than necessary to get results. It has always been ready to meet the situation fairly and that is the situation now. It would be quite as unreasonable for it to insist upon hide-bound control there as it was for Germany to maintain that it couldn't pay. France seeks to get the reparation payments and it will unquestionably decide that reasonable terms of settlement are advisable.

The special committee has disclosed various things regarding Germany. It is to be expected that it will have some suggestions concerning France, and while France has been justified in its occupation of the Ruhr it does not necessarily mean that it will not consider well the committee's report when made, including such action as it is called upon to take.

REMOVING SECRECY ON INCOMES.

That there are limits to which the Democrats will not go under the leadership of the radical element in congress is disclosed by the refusal to open to public examination all the income tax returns, as proposed by Representative Frear of Wisconsin. It was a matter that wasn't decided on partisan lines, of course, but even the modification of the proposal which obtained a majority in the house must be looked upon as open to serious objection.

Under the plan as approved it would be possible for any committee of the senate or the house to call for the returns of any individual or corporation, while it would be possible for any state to get information concerning any corporation.

This would seem to indicate that the only way to secure honesty in making income tax returns is to resort to publicity of this kind. It would subject individual and corporation to a broadcasting of their affairs whether honesty or dishonesty should be disclosed, and from the manner in which some investigations are made, and in the manner in which many stories are told with a view to starting or pursuing investigations, with the Vanderlip incident fresh in mind, serious doubt is raised as to the wisdom displayed in the house in supporting any such proposition.

The secrecy of the income tax returns has kept matters which are entirely personal from becoming public property. There are those who would throw such protection to the winds, who would have each one spying on the other fellow and raising all kinds of imaginary questions concerning his income. Opening the income tax books would serve as a stimulant to suspicion.

There might be some protection through limiting such publicity to ... congressional committees but it is doubted. The government is able to check up on returns which it has any question about. What the senate will do with such a proposal when it ... uncertain but it is serious... contemplated whether it will find ... for approval.

PERSONAL PROTECTION AND CROSSINGS.

... the governor of New York ... message to the legislature of ... urging the elimination of ... grade crossings in that com... seems he isn't overlooking the ... there are something like ... num of them and that it will require the expenditure of a whopping big sum of money to accomplish the job. He is conscious of that for he tempers his recommendation with the provisions that it should be done as fast as funds are available to state and railroads to do the work. In other words he realizes that it is going to be a long time before the end of such danger points is even in sight.

In connection with his recommendation he might well have taken the opportunity to urge upon the state and the railroads the establishment of adequate warning signals at these crossings, as it is not improbable that there are many which are still unguarded, but still more emphasis might have been placed upon increasing the degree of care which the users of grade crossings exercise at such points.

When the grade crossings are eliminated such fatalities as are caused by the collision of trains and vehicles will be overcome, but sight should not be lost of the fact that it is possible to bring about a big reduction in the number of fatalities at such points by the exercise of proper care on the part of the highway users. There is a constantly growing habit these days to rush into all kinds of big expenses, for which the little fellow has to pay in the end, when, as in this matter, good results are still obtainable by the use of good judgment and proper care.

The demand for grade crossing eliminations will not cease. No one need expect to see the day when there will be none, but it should not be forgotten that it lies within the power of those menaced to protect themselves. Personal protection cannot be cast to the winds as unnecessary in New York or any other state.

TIME NOT RIPE.

In opposing the granting of independence to the Philippines, Secretary Weeks of the war department considers the dangers facing such a government are sufficient to warrant any such action, and he points to "external aggression, internal dissension, the lack of Filipinos participation in the commerce and industries of the islands and the financial condition of the government" as those dangers.

No one rejoices in such progress as the Filipinos have made more than the United States. It is gratifying that this advancement should be discovered while the islands have been under the guidance of this country. It reflects favorably upon the attitude that has been maintained toward them, the efforts undertaken in their behalf and the protection that has been provided.

There is no disposition on the part of Uncle Sam to see the islands go backward. When the time comes for them to be set off to rely upon their own guidance the United States is bound to insist that they must be in a condition to not only take care of themselves but to guard against the dangers that are certain to confront ... republic. Once out of the Philippines the United States has no ... to go back, and unless the islands are able to meet dangers which ... anticipated it is inevitable ... difficulties would force us to return and to go over the same ground again. All this can be avoided by staying independence, though that need have no detrimental effect upon the continued progress of the islands. Rather should they be eager to make the most of the protective influence and guidance, as not a few in the islands are desirous of doing.

PASSING IT ALONG

"I suppose it's all right," said Warren, when his wife stood arrayed for his approval in her new afternoon frock. "But you see, I don't admire black velvet nightgowns."

"Why, Tom, this is the very latest mode, and I think these long simple lines extremely becoming."

"Of course you do, Edith," Warren conceded. "I don't in the least blame you, my dear, but the truth is you, like most every other woman, really have no permanent sense of beauty in dress. You adjust your ideas to every whim of fashion. If hoop-skirts would come in tomorrow you would have a pair or set, or whatever they call them, day after tomorrow, and you would declare that the flare of the full skirt spread over hoops the most graceful line imaginable."

"Perhaps you're right, Tom. I do like to be in fashion, but I think those last century styles were frightfully ugly. There was nothing natural or simple about them."

"No untutored savage maiden could ask for anything more simple or natural than that sleeveless shift you're wearing. Why, it hasn't even a belt."

"Belts aren't so good this season but if you would like it better with a sash or girdle I can have one added."

"What's the use? If you're going to be stylish, be stylish! Besides, I'm not sure that a belt would make that costume look much more like something to wear in company. Speaking of old styles, I remember how wonderful mother used to look in her black watered silk. There was a dress that had some making. It fitted her figure, and it was trimmed. When she put it on we boys thought she looked like a queen. It was her best dress for years. In those days women didn't have to buy something new for every little social event."

The next morning after her husband had left for his office she went across town to sit by the wheelchair of a dear little old lady in a soft gray wrapper with lace at the throat and wrists, who said the elder woman how Tom cherished the memory of his mother in a black watered silk as a queenly vision, and as a fashion model for all time.

"You can never know how sick I was of that dress," said the little old lady between her tears and laughter, "but money was scarce and the boys had to be educated, so I wore it long after it was out of style. It's in the spareroom, in the cedar chest. Get it, dear."

That evening when Warren came home he found his dinner clothes laid out, and his wife already dressed and cloaked ready to start for the party for which they were engaged.

"What's the grand rush?" he inquired.

"Oh, I just thought that for once, Tom, I wouldn't keep you waiting."

"That suits me," sang out Warren genially, as he hastened to dress, and in a short time they were driving off for the little dinner party in the best of gay spirits. Strangely enough Tom's gayety deserted him when he met his wife and their hostess and the other guests in the drawing room after they had removed their wraps. He gave Edith a horrified glance, and forgot what he was saying to the person to whom he was being introduced. But Mrs. Warren was calm and lovely and was really the life of the party the whole evening.

"Well, I don't know what you mean by it, but you certainly made a spectacle of yourself tonight," he said as they drove homeward. "Honestly, Edith, you looked like a freak in that dress, pleats and puffings, and with those—those spit curls! Everybody must have thought you were crazy."

"Oh, no, dear, not at all. I told our hostess that I was dressing to please you—that your mother had kindly lent me a costume that you manage the Mumcogee Western association team, born at Huntsville, Ala., 41 years ago today.

think far excels for style and beauty the present-day fashions. She thought it most interesting of you, and she explained to the others."

"You think you're smart, don't you?"

"No, not so very. You see, Tom, your mother suggested it."

For a moment there was silence between them. Then Tom took one hand off the steering wheel for an instant and gave Edith's hand a squeeze. "Mother, bless her, always did know how to mange me and now—and now she's teaching you."—Chicago News.

The Proper Name

"My daddy always calls mother 'Dear'" said one youngster.

Another piped up: "I guess my mother's name is 'Honey.' That's what father always calls her."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

PALATINATES

Answering the question "Why is a palatinate?" would be a much easier task for the schoolboy of Shakespeare's day than a pupil of today. One principality of Europe, smaller than the State of Delaware, has now laid special claim to this once common term by spelling it with a capital "P," but three hundred years ago palatinates were as common as Main streets, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The Palatinate of Bavaria, which has climbed the columns of American newspapers to the top headlines recently, by virtue of news that its citizens have erected a separate independent government, is a near cousin to Alsace-Lorraine on the French bank of the Rhine.

"Due to the object lesson of turbulent Alsace-Lorraine, possibly the Palatinate has been the intractable child of Bavaria, to whose direction this over-the-Rhine German district is entrusted. Though this direction comes by the name Palatinate because of long usage, there were palatinates in America before the Revolution.

"Maryland was the palatinate of the Calvert family, and Maine originally was not a colony, but the palatinate of Ferdinado Gorges. The term is a survivor of feudal times. In the days when a man's house was actually his castle which he had to defend by force of arms, kings were not anxious to assume responsibility. Therefore they found it convenient to assign one of their adherents to a district, giving him the power to be master, collect taxes and administer justice as he saw fit.

"The term 'palatinate' was appropriately applied to such a holding as it comes from the same Latin root word as 'palace' and 'castle.'

"This glorified governor held the territory in fief to the king. Many English counties have been palatinates and this form of governorship was common on the continent. The Bavarian Palatinate is, however, the only territory of any importance which has retained the term, but in its case the word has lost it original meaning.

The Palatinate in its post-war boundaries is approximately a disk described by a thirty-mile radius using Kaiserslautern, its principal town, as a center. A pencil outline of this circle on any map will show immediately that it lies between two important centers, the famous Saar coal basin on the east, and Frankfort on the west. Though these two centers alone are sufficient to make it vital, strategically the Palatinate is of added interest because it is one of the chief routes between southern and northern Europe.

"Kaiserslautern lies in the gap down which the American army was charging after the battle of the Argonne. It is on the main railroad route from Metz through Saarbruck to Frankfort-on-the-Rhine. To the south of the Palatinate lies Alsace, new French territory. Strasbourg, leading city of this district, is 60 miles over the border.

"Part of the famous Saar coal region used to be within the Palatinate's territory, but the Versailles treaty changed that.

"Landau, a small town of the Palatinate, is said to have been a stronger in a trade which, though old in the east, is relatively new in the western world. This town was an early center of the papier mache trade which now is widely distributed in many cities. Few people actually recognize papier-mache when they see it because it is apt to pop up in the most unusual places. It may be a doll's head, a coach door, the cornice of a building or a doctor's model of an arm. When it was first introduced into Europe it was used principally for making snuffboxes. European craftsmen followed the Persian and Japanese practice of making ornamental art (more or less) objects from paper pulp soaked in glue or some such binder. At the beginning of the nineteenth century the Palatinate supplied snuffboxes for the beaus of Paris, Vienna and Munich. It now takes old rags and paper boxwork them into knife handles, toys, trays, statuettes and a thousand other articles.

"In the Metz iron district, just over the border from the Palatinate, Bismark's aide made a great mistake. After the defeat of France, in 1870, a treaty transferred the Provinces of Alsace and Lorraine to Germany. Bismark sent his experts to discover the iron resources in the Vosges, then only partially developed. They reported, and the border line was drawn to give Germany the iron. A few years after the treaty was concluded more iron was discovered on the French side of the line. Before the war the French mines produced 11 per cent of the world's iron and the German mines 21 per cent. The mines now belong entirely to France."

DODGE BROTHERS TYPE-B SEDAN

A woman will usually admire one thing about a car and a man another, but there is one feature of the new Type-B Sedan which both admire equally and emphatically—its exceptional driving ease.

This is due to a combination of several important improvements—a roomier front compartment; a readier clutch response; a new steering wheel that offers a trim, firm grip; and control levers that are ideally accessible, yet conveniently out of the way of robes and luggage.

Experience As Nurse Causes Mrs. Fleming To Endorse Tanlac

Practical Nurse For 16 Years Tells of Recovery, Thanks to Tanlac—Recommends It to Patients.

"I would never have believed any medicine on earth could help me like Tanlac did," is the precise statement of Mrs. Celia Fleming, 1915 Addison St., Berkeley, Calif., a practical nurse of sixteen years' experience.

"In 1904 a serious operation weakened my system so I never saw a real well day until I took Tanlac three years ago. I never seemed to be hungry, my stomach was so disordered I could scarcely retain a thing I ate, and I lost weight till I was almost a shadow. I was very anemic, and shattered nerves and sleepless nights contributed even more to my already miserable state.

"Tanlac built up my appetite and digestion wonderfully, and every single ailment went away. Then, with returning strength came a 35-pound increase in weight, and from that day three years ago my health has been splendid. I recommend Tanlac to many of my patients, for it is indeed a remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

POETRY

AUTOLYCUS

Of this round earth whereon I stand
(I do get own one inch of land)
I shall not lose upon the day
When Gaffer Death dirges me away.

So now I think, as I am here,
I'll pitch a bit and nothing fear,
Here is a larkspur, a red rose;
I'll snip them off while no one knows.

And here's a sprig of columbine,
'Twas made by God and must be mine.
And there's a branch of fadeless bay;
I'll take it, too, I die today.

My pew brave nosegay in my cap,
I'll forth, to fare without mishap
If so God wills; but when I've run
My happy course, and so am done.

I shall grieve a moonlier shade
For all the petty thefts I've made:
My columbine and rose, my green
To set them off and lie between.
—By Alice Brown, in the Yale Review.

Love's Values

A pencil dull, a broken toy,
A little worn-out shoe,
Remnants recalling vanished joy
In days when they were new,
A faded rose with broken stem
—They have no quoted worth.
I wouldn't take the earth.

A picture drawn with childish hands,
A little note to say
That love's little heart commands
And shall command alway—
More dear than gold or diadem.
On all a Blanc's girth.
I wouldn't take the earth.
—Clarence E. Flynn in Farm Life.

A scorched corpse picked up on an oily, wreck-strewn sea was evidence of the fate of the tanker Swift Star. It is believed that lightning struck the tanker amidships, disabling the wireless immediately and exploding one or two oil tanks which tore the ship apart, each half going down with all on board. Splintered wood and rudderless lifeboats with the letters "Swiftstar" on each one were picked up between Cuba and Jamaica together with the body of the dead man.

In Columbia, Peru, Ecuador, and Brazil ivory grows on trees. Chess men, ornaments, buttons, drawer knobs, and other articles are made from this vegetable ivory which, when dried and cut, looks like the real ivory obtained from elephant tusks. It is gathered in the form of hard, white, fine-grained, oval nuts about the size of a small potato, which drop from the wild tagua or ivory-nut palm. The average young female tree produces from six to nine of these nuts a season.

William H. Gleason

After an illness of about one week, due to a shock, William H. Gleason, 86 years of age, died Tuesday morning at 11.30 o'clock at his home in Fitchville. He was born in Thompson, this state, and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gleason. For 30 years he had resided in Fitchville where he was employed as a skilled mechanic at Palmer Bros., mill as long as his health permitted. He had led a retired life for the past ten years.

A nephew, Frank A. Barstow of Centerville, R. I., is his only surviving relatives. Mr. Gleason's wife died in Fitchville about 14 years ago.

Mrs. Harry Manley Beebe

Susan Packard Miner, the daughter of Addie Stark and the late Charles Packard Miner, was born in Millington, April 6, 1892. Her father died when Susan was quite young and her mother married Arlington D. Smith, who has proven a devoted father to her. On Oct. 21, 1914, she married Harry Manley Beebe. After a few months spent at the Beebe homestead they moved to Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Beebe were an exceptionally congenial couple, but their romance was terminated by the death of Mr. Beebe just fifteen months after they were married. Mrs. Beebe then returned to East Haddam, where she was a valued employe of the National Net & Twine Company until ill health compelled her to give up work.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 12.30. After a prayer service at house, conducted by Rev. George A. Alcott, the body was taken to the St. Stephen's church where services, in accordance with Mrs. Beebe's wishes, were held. On account of the severe storm the committment service was read at the church. Mrs. Beebe was buried beside her husband in the Millington cemetery. The many beautiful floral pieces were a token of the great love and high esteem in which Mrs. Beebe was held.

A correspondent in a state paper writes:

Month after month she has awaited the summons, knowing the end every hour, yet always bright and cheerful; never depressed nor bitter. More wonderful does her uncomplaining submission appear when one realizes her keen interest and her active participation in the social life of the village prior to her illness. Her thoughts were for others even in the midst of her pain, never demanding attention, always trying to spare her loved ones.

She even looked ahead to the day when she would be laid to rest and last August carefully wrote out full directions for her funeral service. She asked that the burial be from St. Stephen's church; that "Lead, Kindly Light" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" be sung during the service, that the following young men act as pallbearers: Leslie Swan, Heber Ely, Reed Bartman, Clarence Day, Raymond Vantres and Joseph Shea. As long ago as 1918 she had written a request that she be buried beside her husband and that Mr. Gager of Norwich be the undertaker. It was a great comfort to her family to be able to carry out her wishes.

Mrs. F. Clarence Bissell

Mrs. S. Gertrude (Storrs) Bissell, wife of F. Clarence Bissell, died at her home, No. 1009 West Boulevard, Hartford, Monday, after a long illness. She was born in Mansfield, a daughter of Dan P. Storrs and Lucinda (Gilbert) Storrs. She was educated in the Mansfield schools and in the Natchaug school in Willimantic. Mrs. Bissell was a charter member of Anna Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R. of Willimantic, and its first registrar a position she held several years. Later she became a member of Ruth Wyllys chapter of Hartford. She was a member of Trinity church, Hartford, and had been a member first of the church in Mansfield, later a member of St. Peters church, Hebron, and still later, St. Paul's church, Willimantic. Besides her husband, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. William J. Carroll, and three grandchildren, John Bissell Carroll, Helen Margaret Carroll and Alice Storrs Carroll.

There was a profusion of floral forms which testified to the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends.

FLORIDA FOR TOURISTS NOT WORKERS, SAYS LUCAS

Bert Lucas of this city, who is touring through Florida this winter, in an interesting letter to The Bulletin, says that the winter has been quite cool in that far southern state. Mr. Lucas who is now temporarily in Miami states that he expects to be in Cuba in March. He also intends to visit St. Augustine, Jacksonville, Orlando and Daytona before he returns north in the late spring.

In part his letter follows:

It has been cool down here this last week. Recently I went over to Hialeah with the New York society by boat up the Miami river where we were entertained at the dog races. Last Sunday Mr. Allen and I walked from Little River to Tropical City and then across the valley to Hialeah. On our way we killed a large rattlesnake. We crossed the new $2,000,000 racetrack being built at Hialeah by J. S. Cosden Sinclair and A. Belmont.

One day we took a 115-mile ride to Del Ray, seven miles this side of Palm Beach. It's a fine scene every evening to watch the great trainloads of fruit going north. Strawberries are now selling for 35 cents a big basket. On Feb. 6 there was held a very suitable memorial service for our late President Wilson in the park.

Lincoln's birthday here is not celebrated by the natives at all but the New England society, which we belong to, and the other state societies held a most wonderful memorial service. Dr. E. E. Vriolet of Kansas City gave a remarkable address on Lincoln. The people here have different societies and we belong to the New England society. Next Thursday we are to take a moonlight sail to Florida cape. The natives here are still rather sour at the northerners but in time the people from the north will rule here the way they are coming down. As to politics you would be surprised to see the democrats who have a lot of faith in Coolidge.

All the papers printed here are democratic. The evening paper is owned by Governor Cox who ran against President Harding. There are two very strong things down here, the Ku Klux Klan and the democrats, believe me. Today being Sunday, the New England society attended church in a body, 500 being there. The church was filled, there being 1500 people in all.

We expect to be in Cuba in March and will spend a few days in St. Augustine, Jacksonville, Orlando, and Daytona. A new Spanish game called Jai-Alai (Hi Li) has just started. It's the famous Spanish ball game. It's the first time it was ever played in this country.

It has been a cool winter here. For the last month it has been quite cool, but very warm today. I went to an auction of lots yesterday and they gave a Ford sedan away. It was out 50 miles. Some ride—all free. No place here for anyone looking for work. It is a tourist center, pure and simple.

WILL HOLD SCHOOL FOR STATE POLICEMEN

A school of instruction for Connecticut state policemen will be inaugurated by Superintendent Hurley on Thursday and Friday of this week when the entire department will assemble at the capitol in the first of a regular series of meetings. One-half of the men at each barracks and sub-station in the state will go to Hartford Thursday and the remainder of the department Friday.

The work that will be taken up at the school will include an accurate and minute knowledge of the jurisdictions, powers and limitations of each type of court in the state; the powers granted to the police by state law; and the limitations placed upon them by these grants.

Superintendent Hurley plans to hold regular session as frequently as possible. The varied and numerous duties of the members of the department will make sessions difficult, but they will be held every other week if it is possible to draw in half of the men at one time so frequently.

Experts in all lines that are of value to a state policeman will be called in to lecture to the men on various subjects, and all such experts will be Connecticut men, the superintendent said. In its advanced sessions the school will take up criminal cases, will study the psychology of crime and of criminals; and will analyze typical crimes so that each member of the department may learn experienced methods of detection.

In addition, the men will be given technical information that might bear on some case to which they are assigned. Superintendents Hurley is widely known for his scientific methods of solving crimes. His success as a detective is acknowledged by everybody who knows the history of the Connecticut state police. With the inauguration of this school every member of the department will receive information the superintendent has learned from his long experience, that he is gaining every day by research, and that other experts will be able to give.

TESTIMONY IN SUIT FOR $7,500 FOR FIRE DAMAGE

Before Judge Christopher L. Avery and a jury the case of Jacob Bohun against the New Haven road, which was continued from Thursday, occupied the entire session of the superior court at New London Tuesday. The plaintiff is asking damages of $7,500 claiming that a spark from a locomotive on April 25, 1922, set fire to his timber property at Great Neck.

Bohun was recalled to the witness stand and gave further testimony relative to the fire and explained how he had arrived at an estimate of the damage that the fire had caused, describing in detail the damage caused to fences and timber.

Thomas C. Dillon, United States weather observer, gave testimony as to the direction of the wind on the day the fire started.

Angelo Filosi, fire warden of the town of East Lyme, was called by counsel for the plaintiff as an expert on timber matters and testified as to the number of telegraph poles, railroad ties, and amount of cordwood that could be secured from an acre of timber land. He told of inspecting the property after the fire, with Mr. Bohun and Judge Bush of East Lyme.

Frederick Clark, a resident of East Lyme, testified that he had often seen sparks from locomotives as they passed through the vicinity of the fire go as high as 50 feet in the air.

Herman Quandt, who at the time of the fire was a neighbor of Mr. Bohun, described his discovery of the fire, his efforts to subdue it, and the course which it took.

FOR STATUTORY BURGLARY AT NIANTIC CLUB HOUSE

Charged with statutory burglary, Frank Antoniac, aged 20, and Henry Grabovsky, 16 of East Lyme, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace M. R. Davis Monday evening and the former went to jail in default of $300 bond when the pair were bound over to the superior court after pleading guilty.

The arrests of the two followed a break in the clubhouse of the Niantic Manufacturing company Sunday night, when Proprietor Bitcliff reported the loss of $9 in cash besides a quantity of cigars, cigarettes and candy.

State Policeman Schweikert and Caron, the former having made the arrests, appeared at the hearing Monday evening. Both the defendants pleaded guilty to the charge and the case was bound over to the higher tribunal due to the lack of jurisdiction of the lower court to impose sentence. Bonds were fixed at $300 in each case. George Weino became bondsmon for Grabovsky, the younger of the two, but Antonnias went to jail in default of bond.

PREDICTS JAIL FOR DRIVERS WHO KILL

Sentence of one year in jail was imposed by Judge Allyn L. Brown, in superior court in Bridgeport Tuesday on John Doran, a truck driver of Bridgeport, who was arraigned on the charge of manslaughter, after his truck ran over and killed four year old Charles Clark on November 2, 1923. Doran had been found criminally responsible by Coroner John J. Phelan.

In passing sentence Judge Brown said the time was coming when all responsible for death through bad driving would be sentenced to state's prison. "In this case," he said, "the accused will not be sent to state's prison as slowness to act on his part was the cause of the death of the child."

CONNECTICUT ARCHITECTS ARE ASKING EXPLANATION

Connecticut architects, it is understood, intend to ask State Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon for an explanation of the awarding of the contract to draw up plans for the remodeling of the state capitol at Hartford to the Frank Irving Cooper corporation, a Boston firm. While the Cooper company was incorporated a year ago under the Connecticut laws, and maintains an office in Hartford, it is considered, for all practical purposes, a Massachusetts firm.

The Connecticut architects feel, it is understood, that they were not given a fair deal, inasmuch as the work was given to the Cooper corporation without the usual month's notice of the work and opportunity for competition called for in the public acts of 1916, which state that "whenever any building is to be erected by the state in the designing or construction of which the services of an architect shall be required, the comptroller shall give public notice, for not less than one month, through the public press, that such building is to be erected." While the remodeling of the capitol is provided for in a resolution passed by the last general assembly which reads that "the comptroller is authorized and directed take under consideration the advisability" of the remodeling and report back his findings to the next general assembly, making no provision for any public notice of the work. Connecticut architects feel, nevertheless, that they have not been given a fair deal, according to A. Raymond Ellis, Hartford architect. Major Ellis is president of the Connecticut chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and plans, in that capacity, to write Mr. Salmon asking for a complete explanation of the situation, and how the work was awarded to the Cooper corporation.

Philip Mason, vice president of the Connecticut Cooper corporation, emphasized the fact that the corporations in Connecticut and Massachusetts are two distinct firms. Most of the stock in the Connecticut corporation is owned in this state, he said, and although Mr. Cooper, who is head of the Massachusetts company, is also president of the Connecticut corporation, he acts largely in a merely advisory capacity. Mr. Mason declared that he does not believe there is another firm of architects in Hartford which spends more money in Hartford than his firm.

"One of the greatest difficulties I have had to overcome," said Mr. Mason, "is what I feel to be the deliberate efforts of some people to confuse the Frank Irving Cooper corporations of Connecticut and Massachusetts."

Mr. Mason said he could give no statement of the "ins and outs" of the transaction by which his company was awarded the state capitol work, and knows only that he was summoned by Mr. Salmon and asked to take the job.

Mr. Salmon said that although the Cooper company has been asked to prepare plans for the work, the contract has not "definitely" been awarded. He said he would have to give the matter more study before he could make a statement as to exact legal status of the situation.

RETURN FROM VISIT TO THE OLD WORLD

Bartholemew Wojtasiak, of 178 Cliff street and his twelve year old son, Frank, have recently returned from a five months trip to Europe, which was of special interest to the father because it was the first time he had revisited his native town of Oberniki in Poland since he left it twenty-four years ago at the age of 18 and of unusual interest to the twelve year old boy because it was the first time he had seen his paternal and maternal grandmothers.

The trip across on the steamship Mauretania took them to Cherborg and Southampton, whence they went to London and stayed overnight. From there another steamer took them through the Kiel canal on their way to Danzig, and an all-night ride by train brought them to Posen, near Oberniki, where they stayed for four months, visiting the boy's grandmother. He also went to Cracow to see his mother's mother, now 85, but with cheeks as rosy as a young girl's.

On the homeward trip, one part of the journey was by train from Oberniki to Warsaw, an all-night ride for which the fare for the man and boy was a million and a half marks, amounting to about $1.25 in American money. From Warsaw they came through Germany, Holland and Belgium, with a dinner and supper in Berlin, into France. In Paris they had dinner at a hotel and then came on to Cherbourg, where they were obliged to wait eight days to comply with the various regulations before they could go aboard the boat that was to bring them home.

The music was by the Harmony Sextette and refreshments were served at intermission.

Among the dancers were guests from New London, Willimantic, Westerly and Hartford. The patrona and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Levin, Mr. and Mrs. B. Mandel and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Blumenthal.

PRIVATE TICKET INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE BY N. Y. ATHLETIC COMMISSION

New York, Feb. 26.—The New York state athletic commission will conduct a private investigation of the charges of ticket speculation on the Dempsey-Firpo fight, preferred against Tex Rickard, promoter, by Tom O'Rourke, it was announced today at its regular meeting. Rickard, visiting the commission to demand a hearing and, full investigation, was asked to appear before the body at a special meeting to be called when the private investigation is completed.

Taking up other business, the commission brought two titles out of cold storage. Eddy Curry and George Colgan, deputy commissioners, were sworn in and an investigation into the capabilities of Young Fisher of Syracuse as a fitting opponent for Paul Berlenbach was started. In his last contest, Berlenbach knocked out Pat Walsh of Cincinnati in the first round of a scheduled 12-round bout.

Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, and his manager, Eddie Mead, and Mickey Walker's manager, Jack Bulger, appeared before the commission, following a summons, and it was agreed that both boxers would defend their titles in bouts suggested by the board.

Lynch was signed to meet Abe Goldstein on March 31 while Bulger, acting for Walker, agreed to meet any leading welterweights suggested by the commission on or before May 1.

The commission did not select Walker's opponent but preferred to look over the field of contenders and select the most logical candidate.

A deputy commission will be sent to Syracuse tomorrow to see Young Fisher, who has been matched with Berlenbach for 12 rounds in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

When told of a public investigation concerning O'Rourke's charges against Rickard to be held before the ways and means committee of the state assembly, next Tuesday, Chairman Brower said that he welcomed such legislative action but that the investigation at Albany would not stop the private investigation.

In the event the commission found anyone guilty of violating the laws of the commission, Mr. Brower added, they would be promptly disciplined and in the event of a criminal violation, the facts would be turned over to District Attorney Banton.

AMERICAN-BRITISH MEET TO COVER SEVERAL SPORTS

New York, Feb. 26.—Dual athletic competition between the United States and the British Empire in England after the Olympic games will cover several branches of sport, according to present plans.

The Amateur Athletic Union announced today that it had tentatively accepted an invitation for American Olympic swimmers to meet British rivals in a tank meet at London, July 26, while arrangements also are under way for opposing wrestling teams to stage a dual contest.

The A. A. U. some time ago accepted an invitation to have the American track and field meet a British Empire team in a meet at Wembley stadium, London, July 19.

SYNDICATE MAKES FINAL BID FOR WILLS-FIRPO BOUT

New York, Feb. 26.—A final bid for a heavyweight battle on July 19 between Luis Firpo and Harry Wills was contained today in a statement issued by the New York syndicate which has for several weeks been dangling a half million dollar purse in an effort to attract the principals into the match.

Reiterating conditions imposed several days ago and subsequently rejected by Firpo, according to cable dispatches, the syndicate's statement asserts these terms will not be modified and that unless the Argentinian changes his attitude all negotiations will be cancelled.

Lew Raymond, who is associated with Simon Flaherty, of the Queens Borough A. C., in the syndicate, admitted today that he entertained small hope that Firpo would accept his terms but declared that since he had received no direct word from the South American he desired to make his final position clear.

Terms set forth by the syndicate which resulted in apparent break-up of negotiations included refusal to post a $50,000 forfeit in Buenos Aires, instead of New York, and a demand that the South American forego all barnstorming and exhibitions and put himself under the syndicate's control until the Wills fight.

"We continue to stand by our original offer," the statement said, "and will deposit the first installment of $50,000 of Firpo's $250,000 purse, as a guarantee, within twelve hours of his cabled acceptance of our terms. We then would stand ready to post an additional $100,000 to his credit with the same depository thirty days before the match and the remaining $100,000 forty-eight hours before he enters the ring."

This increases the total entry list to thirteen, in addition to which Canada already has indicated it will file a challenge.

Both of latest challengers will compete in the American Zone preliminary play, in which Australia was the only previous entry.

Japan has picked a team of four players, with Zenzo Shimizu, captain and star of the 1923 team; again selected as leader. In addition to Shimizu, Japan will send Sanao Okamoto, now a resident of India; Takio Harada, national singles champion who will depart shortly for this country to take a post-graduate course at Harvard; and Massamosuke Fukuda, 1922 singles champion and a member of the 1923 Davis cup team.

The match, which will mark Hoppe's third defense of his crown this year, was arranged at a conference today when Horemans accepted the champions terms.

Horemans finished fourth in the International title tournament last november and was next in line to challenge the champion, who previously had defeated Welker Cochran and Jake Schaefar in challenge matches.

The players will split the gate receipts on a basis of 60 per cent. to the winner and 40 to the loser, in addition to side bets of $500 each.

Kearns intimated that Dempsey may remain in the east doing exhibition work before settling down to a training siege in preparation for prospective matches against Tom Gibbons, Harry Wills, Luis Firpo, Quintin Romero-Rojas, the Chilean, or other heavyweights.

HARVARD HAS 30 CANDIDATES OUT FOR BASEBALL TEAM

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 26.—Thirty candidates for infield and outfield berths on the Harvard baseball team today joined the dozen battery men who have been working out since January in the baseball cage.

Included in this group are three pitchers, Grosvenor Bemis, who pitched the one game Harvard won from Yale last year, Ed Herman and John Toulmin, all of whom are definitely lost to the squad.

Only three regular varsity men, Captain Percy Jenkins, shortstop; John Hammond, second base, and Louis Gordon, an outfielder, are back this spring. Joe McGlone, flashy freshman shortstop last year, reported today and will probably play second base, it was said with Hammond shifted to first.

Kenneth Hill, a former pitcher and two-letter man, who was expected to win a regular outfield berth on account of his heavy hitting, has been shifted back to the pitching squad on account of the shortage of hurlers. A large group of promising catchers reported.

BARBER WILLING TO MEET MORIN ANY TIME

Danielson, February 26. — Frank Barber of the Casino Bowling alleys is not given to hesitation. "Tell The Bulletin's readers I'll roll Mike Morin, Taftville's bowling star, a match game, and that I am ready to talk over the arrangements."

Mr. Barber also stipulates something about agreements, as did Morin's spokesmen in Tuesday's Bulletin. Mr. Barber's proposition is that he and Morin roll ten games of "10 nine" the big pins—on the Casino alleys in Danielson. Morin to have his pick of candle pins or any other old kind of pins in Taftville, Florence or Chint. Mr. Barber says.

And there you are. Morin and Barber appear to be ready. There need be little more newspaper talk about the matter. Conferences between the principals or their representatives appear to be next in order. If the two meet, the match should be of real interest to every bowling fan in Eastern Connecticut.

A number of major leaguers, including Pratt, of Detroit, and Zahniser, of Washington, won their matches in the first and second flights, while Steve O'Neill, Red Sox catcher, joined Ruth in defeat.

MANY FAST HORSES ENTERED IN BROOKLYN EVENT

New York, Feb. 26.—Zev, In Memoriam, Sarazen, My Own, King Soloman's Seal and Cherry Pie are included in an all-star field entered in the Brooklyn handicap, outstanding event of the 22 stakes to be decided at the Aqueduct race track this summer. Entries closed today.

Zev, My Own, and In Memoriam were turf stars in the exciting three year old races last year. Sarazen, undefeated two year old of 1923, was considered by many as the best horse of the year. Cherry Pie holds the American mile record of 1:35 2-5.

Sarazen will be out of the Dwyer stakes, which will draw every other three year old of prominence, because of a rule passed last year by the jockey club barring geldings from the event.

LUX AND DE SALVO READY FOR BOUT AT DANIELSON THURSDAY EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Feb. 26.—The 10-round feature bout scheduled to be held here at the Casino arena Thursday evening of this week between Freddy Lux of Providence and Paul DeSalvo of Boston, looms up prospectively as one of the very best fistic events ever arranged for this section.

Lux is within striking distance of the junior welterweight title and Jack Doherty, his manager, says that it only remains that he get Pinkey Mitchell of Milwaukee, into the ring to prove Lux's right to hold the title in a recent article the Providence Journal said that Lux is the finest bit of fighting machinery that has shown in that city in a decade.

Since joining the professional ranks in 1920, Lux has participated in 83 contests. He has had but two decisions rendered against him during his entire ring career. He had been knocked off his feet but three times and never has taken the count. This is all the more remarkable since he is the type of boxer who is always forcing his opponent and is willing to stand toe to toe and swap punches at any time.

Lux has met such men as Charlie Pitts, Willie (Young) Gradwell, Eddie Shannon, Frankie Callahan, Chick Simler, Young Brown, Young Erne John Donley, Ernie Rice, Sid Marks Kid Lee, Ever Hammer, Andy Thomas and a score of others.

When Lux steps into the ring here Thursday night he will have a worthy opponent in DeSalvo, who has been going great guns the past year. He is a prime favorite in Boston, where he has won many battles. He is tough and rugged and seemingly is immune to punishment. He is an exceptionally heavy hitter. He is just the sort of battler to force Lux to the limit, so a corking contest should result from the meeting of this pair on Thursday night.

DeSalvo has fought and defeated such boys as Joe Pangraze, Spike Hennessey, Tom Jordan, Billy Brewster, Tommy Corbley, Billy Shine, Joe Brennan, Jack Dillon and Wild Man Gould. DeSalvo is known up Boston way as the Quincy Cave Man. DeSalvo never has been knocked off his feet in the ring, let alone being knocked out, and he has fought some of the toughest boxers in the business.

A snappy semi-final is also forecasted for the fans in the meeting of Young Pelky of Worcester, and Frank Busch of Norwich. They will meet for 8 rounds at 165-170 pounds. Busch made a fine showing when he appeared here last fall and in Pelky he will meet a man who should make him extend himself.

The preliminaries will bring together Young Coulon of Taftville, and Harry Doyle of Bridgeport, in a 6 round go at 112 pounds, and Johnny Murray of Rockville and Jerry Bernard of Putnam in another 6 round event at 128-130 pounds.

This card is one of the most attractive that has been arranged for Danielson since boxing became such a favorite sport here.

"Wild Oranges" at the Strand Thursday

One of the "best sellers" of the past few years is Joseph Hergesheimer's short and popular novel, "Wild Oranges." The Goldwyn company has made a screen version of this widely read book. King Vidor, one of the youngest directors in motion pictures, personally adapted and directed the story.

"Wild Oranges," which comes to the Strand theatre on Thursday, for three days, is a story of a disillusioned, restless, heartbroken man, John Woolfolk, who after the tragic death of his wife, seeks seclusion from society aboard his yacht. He cruises about the various oceans for twelve years, keeping as far away, from humanity as possible. Accompanying him is his Scandinavian sailor, Halvard. It is on the wild coast of Georgia that Woolfolk finds renewed interest in life, when he meets Millie, granddaughter of Litchfield Stope, a man who is governed by his imaginary fears.

Stope is an outcast of society, being forced to find refuge in the Georgia swamps because of a certain incident during the Civil war. Nicholas, a man of towering strength, but with the mind of an imbecile, performs the menial duties about the Stope household. It is Woolfolk's ambition to free Millie from her surroundings which provides plenty of real action for the story. There is a terrific fight between the half-crazed Nicholas and Woolfolk over possession of the girl. The whole picture breathes an atmosphere of tenseness as one unexpected event follows another.

Double Feature Bill at the Breed

One is privileged to witness intimate New York court proceedings and proximate views of the seraglios of Tangiers, Africa. There is variety in setting and story events.

Lavish and fast, the scenes move amid situations marked by good performing. John Gilbert steps into Richard Harding Davis' chief character with aplomb, delineating each phase of that complex personality with much evidence of technique.

Fred Warren, Margaret Fielding, Betty Boulton and John Webb Dillon are the supporting cast, each doing his individual bit stand out piquously as a notable piece of cog.

For the second feature Jane Novak will be seen in Colleen of the Pines, a drama that moves with the refreshing sweep of a strong wind through tall timbers.

The delicate blonde beauty of the star, her superb handling of the dramatic scenes and the excellent support of the cast, all contributed toward the success of the production.

The nobility of self-sacrifice is the theme. As the elder sister, Miss Novak takes upon her own slender shoulders the burden of a mistake committed by her younger sister. The father is a religious bigot whose family has been brought up under the most rigid regulations. They form an interesting group of characters, however, out of whose lives a strong drama has been woven. It's a Cheste Bennett production.

The fox news and a scenic make up the remainder of this big double bill.

At the Palace

The bill for the last three days of the week at the Palace theatre is one that has been carefully arranged for its entertaining qualities, and can easily be styled all star vaudeville. The Hori Japs are Oriental wonders and offer an act of daredevil feats of agility. Most all Jap acts are great, but these boys are really in a class by themselves. Goelet & Hall contribute as their share of the entertainment a variety revue of songs as you love to hear them, dances and melodies. White and Frank are a clever pair of singing comedians, their style being all their own. Chester & De Vere, whirlwind dance wonders and Margot and Francis with a highly entertaining novelty offering complete the vaudeville program. The feature picture has Elaine Hammerstein the delightful and dainty star of a score of screen romances has at last entered the ranks of the independent movie makers and will be seen in her newest production "Broadway Gold."

"Broadway Gold" is as its name signifies, a romance dealing with life and vicissitudes of the Great White Way, as the Main Street of New York is popularly termed.

The picture was produced and directed by Edward Dillon, who was also responsible for "Women Men Marry" as well as many other successes.

Last Day for The Humming Bird at Broadway Theatre

To the hundreds that were turned away the past two days at the Broadway theatre due to capacity crowds, they can avail themselves of their last opportunity to see this great show of vaudeville and pictures by coming early today.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the management has arranged another perfect program of vaudeville and pictures.

Paul Whiteman's Steamship Band

What is positively the very best dance attraction on the road this season will be the attraction at State armory, Norwich when Paul Whiteman's "Steamship" Orchestra will play a concert and dance.

The Band which has been making the trip across the Atlantic every three weeks this summer and fall since July 4th on the giant steamship Leviathan the pride of the United States Shipping Board Fleet, are slightly fed up with ocean travel and are taking a furlough which is the only reason such an attraction is available at the present time.

The band is led by Kieth Pitman of Bass Saxaphone fame who has been in charge of the Leviathan orchestra since it was formed early in June, and appears at every performance in the natty uniforms such as they wore on shipboard. It is a novelty in dressing which quite attracts the eye and is a relief from the eternal tuxedo worn by most orchestras.

Novelty in uniform is but one of the new wrinkles which this versatile organization springs on the public. Kieth Pitman, besides being a wonderful musician is a born clown and has with him men of his own choosing who can double in any number of instruments and can sing and do refined vaudeville stunts which adds material to an evening's entertainment. This organization is not just a dance band it is an institution of entertainment which is the reason so many people who are possibly just past the dancing age love to sit and see and listen to this wonderful Whiteman's unit with months of training behind it.

Leviathan Orchestra is also a recording orchestra for the Victor people having produced Louisville Lou, Tell Me a Story, Tut-Ankh-Amen and Down By the River, which have been recently released.

Patrons of this entertainment at the armory will agree in calling this the best dance evening they have ever enjoyed and Norwich is indeed fortunate in securing this sterling attraction from the Whiteman office.

OVER $1,900 FOUND AT NEW LONDON IN SUIT CASE OF MISSING PASSENGER

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 26—It is stated that eighteen cadets stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy at Fort Trumbull, have been disciplined for flunking in their studies. The cause of the delinquency in the studies of the students is attributed to the attendance of the navy men to too many night functions.

No trace having been obtained of Patrick Maguire, formerly of New York, who it is believed, committed suicide, by jumping from the New London line steamer Chester W. Chapin while en route from New York to this port on the morning of the 19th inst., Sergeant Smith this morning took charge of one of the suit cases found in Room 41, to which Maguire was assigned the night he disappeared. The suit case was taken to a locksmith and opened and it was then revealed that among the effects of the missing man was $109.11 and a bank book issued by the Immigrants' Industrial Savings Bank of New York, showing deposits aggregating $1849.16. The money and bank book were taken to the police station and deposited in the safe.

This morning Michael H. Crowley, superintendent of the Boston police department informed the local authorities that Maguire formerly resided at 272 Lemartine street, that city, with his brother, but that the latter had not seen nor heard from the missing man since October, 1922. Maguire's parents are living and reside in County Caven, Ireland.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stockel has caused the operators' licenses of O. E. Neff of 3 Lincoln court and Tony Granato of 120 Shaw street to be suspended. Quilty, chief of police at Springfield, Mass., has informed the New London police, who held a warrant for the arrest of John James Ryan, a deserter from the United States Coast Guard here, that Ryan [illegible] he will be arrested [illegible] wanted here [illegible] watch and chain [illegible] J. Middleton and a [illegible] overcoat from Joseph E. Shiven, lodgers at the home of Mrs. John C. When presented in the Portland city court he was placed on probation.

John Garrison and Godfrey Gendreau rolled into New London yesterday—they did roll in, for they came in an automobile of which they took possession at Hartford and which is the property of the Model Bakery Co. The autoists ran into trouble in the operation of the car and then it was discovered that they did not have authority to run the automobile. They were held for that offense against the law. Soon thereafter came information to the police that the car these young men had when they reached here was stolen in Hartford. They were charged with the theft of the automobile when the police court convened this morning, but as the owners of the car were not in court, the hearing was adjourned until Saturday next. In the event that the Hartford police seek to take the men accused to the Capitol City for trial they will be surrendered.

Sergeant Sutherland came here this evening from Hartford and with a chauffeur, Sam Rosen, drove the car back to Hartford. He also took Harrison and Gendreau, the men who stole the car back with him.

A couple of young men were detected selling spark plugs on the street yesterday at a price that indicated that the plugs had been stolen. They could not have been sold at three for a half dollar under any other conditions. The fellows who had the plugs are Ernest Coe and Edward Belland, the former a resident of this city and the latter a stroller here. The latter claimed he had been at work for Barney Kosakow and that Kosakow owed him 50 cents which he could not get. So he stole the spark plugs and then had the best of Kosakow by a few dollars for the plugs retail at 75 cents each. Sergeant Howard worked on the case and had only the story that was to him to give him a firm conviction that the youths had stolen the goods they were endeavoring to dispose of. They came through with the facts when trapped. They declared they were trying to get to Bridgeport where they expected to secure employment at the winter headquarters of the Barnum circus and then to go with the company on the road when warm weather arrives.

A case against James Murphy for a breach of the peace, consisting of an attack upon a police officer when Murphy was ejected from a restaurant, was assigned for a hearing in the police court, but the officer Augustus Ray, was under subpoena to appear in the United States district court at New Haven today, so the case went over till Saturday.

James Feil made a mistake when he bought liquor on the street yesterday and then drank it, for it seems to have made him a wild man. Feil went to his home and smashed things up to a degree that Mrs. Feil asked the police to arrest her husband. His case was adjourned till Saturday, when he was brought to the court today.

JEWETT CITY

A man was in town Tuesday, trying to see if he could locate the lonely pond, away down in the south part of Griswold, where in the early spring of another year, two Plainfield fishermen caught three strange fishes. The White House lunch car was in operation at that time, with Chef G. A. Barber in charge. Along toward night, the two fishermen having put in a strenuous day, walking many miles, and being on their way back to Plainfield, stopped into the lunch car to get a cup of coffee and a bite to eat. Their supper being over, they asked the chef if he cared to see a few strange fish. Mr. Barber is an old fisherman, and previous to that time, no piscatorial problem had been too intricate for him to fathom. It is a matter to be deplored that the fish were dead for, there they were among the others, three fishes partly trout and partly bullhead. They varied not a little in their makeup, while one had the slim scaleless body of a horn-pout and the head of a trout, yet another possessed the horizontal wide mouth of a bull-head, with the handsome "speckled beauty" body of the native trout. A recent copy of the magazine published by the New York Zoological Society, contained photographs and a story, about an albino bull-head, but never any mention of such freaks as these. Several people saw them here, and wondered. Now the pond may be located again and others taken, if so, they will surely be preserved alive. E. A. Button, a Griswold fisherman of reputation as a skilful line handler, was told the story Tuesday. He says the facts that he has been able to gather about the ways of the fishes suggest a probable doubt.

Mr. Button has caught during his years of fishing experience, both the rainbow and steelhead trout in local waters. These facts are explained by a chance mixture in the fry at the big hatcheries, where, when the eggs supplies are received, a chance fellow slipped into the wrong pan, thus changing the location of his future planting by many miles.

The Pachaug Community club is to hold its meeting Thursday evening.

The official weather forecaster gets off, once in a while, like other sub-local prophets. Instead of the promised snow and sleet, Tuesday was like a spring day, with the mercury held a little below 50 by the snow.

Orville LaFlamme Post, American Legion invited the members of the auxiliary to meet with the post at the regular meeting Monday night. After business was concluded, Commander William Maynard presented Dr. G. H. Jennings, a past commander's badge, saying that the post took this way of expressing appreciation of his faithful service as its commander, and his untiring interest in its welfare. Dr. Jennings was very much pleased with the gift. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by Adjutant Gilbert Miner, who has the welfare of the post truly at heart, and spares no pains to try and keep up the interest. He was assisted by Irving Thornton, H. George Wilcox and John Smith, three other faithful and efficient members.

Mrs. Harry T. Boyle (not Henry P. Doyle as the paper had it today) of Meriden was a caller on friends here Sunday.

Under the auspices of the Farm and Extension Bureau, Miss Annan of Storrs College is to conduct an all day millinery class in Pachaug town hall Thursday. The class begins at 10 and is open to any woman who wishes to attend.

MOHEGAN

Services were held here Sunday morning as usual, with evening services at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Burrows, who has been ill, is somewhat better.

James Strickland was in Norwich Monday evening.

The funeral of Oakley C. Curtis, former Governor of Maine and former mayor of Portland, was held at his residence at Falmouth Foreside.

There is Nothing Like Fresh Air Play to Build Sturdy Bodies. If Colds Come Treat Externally.

Children should play outdoors daily in winter as well as in summer. To keep them indoors so much is a mistake. For healthy growth they need and must have lots of outdoor exercise. Of course, some colds will come as a result of exposure. But constant internal dosing must not be thought of.

Vicks answers the need. It is externally applied and can be used frequently without upsetting the digestion.

When rubbed on over throat and chest Vicks acts externally like a liniment or plaster. At the same time the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled directly into the affected parts.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS WEAK.

New York, Feb. 26.—Unexpected passage of the Anaconda Copper dividend today brought a flood of selling orders into the copper shares, weakness of which eventually communicated itself to the general list. Copper shares broke one to four points, several of them to their lowest prices of the year, while a number of other active industrial stocks closed 1 to 2 points below yesterday's final figures.

Anaconda, approximately 100,000 shares of which changed hands during the day, dropped to 33 1-2 as compared with the year's high of 41, closing slightly above its low price for a net loss of 3 3-4 points. American Smelting dropped two points to 59 1-4; Inspiration 1 5-8 to 22 7-8; Magma 1 5-8 to 31; Cerro De Pasco 1 to 45 3-4; Utah 1 to 46 1-8; Chile 1 1-8 to 28 5-8 and Chino 7-8 to 17 1-2, closing prices, in most cases being slightly above the day's lows.

Omission of the Anaconda dividend was attributed to the inability of North American Producers to operate at a satisfactory profit with copper metal selling around 13 cents a pound. It was pointed out that while copper consumption has been unusually heavy, the price has been kept down by the heavy imports of the red metal from Africa and South America, where production costs are low.

Not all of today's dividend news was unfavorable however. Directors of the Sloss Sheffield Steel company resumed dividends on a $6 annual basis, after having suspended payments since the spring of 1921, and the stock immediately climbed 2 3-8 points to 65 5-8. The stock market reaction to the increase in the annual dividend rate on International Business Machines, formerly Computing Tabulating and Recording from a $5 to an $8 basis was just the opposite, the stock dropping from 97 1-4 to 91 1-2 and then rallying to 92 5-8, a net loss of 2 1-4 on the day.

Professional operators on the short side took advantage of the break in Anaconda to increase their offerings in other parts of the list, some of the late selling also being influenced by intimations of further sensational developments at the Washington oil inquiry. Opening prices had been fairly steady.

Among the so-called pivotal stocks, U. S. Steel common closed slightly lower at 104 1-4. Baldwin dropped 1-3 to 121 1-2; Studebaker advanced 1-8 to 100 5-8 and American Can dropped 2 1-4 to 111 5-8.

Coco Cola broke more than three points to 68 5-8, a new 1924 low but it rallied later to 70 1-2. Dupont broke two points to 127 and then rallied slightly. Heaviness also cropped out in the leather shares, Tidewater Oil, National Lead, Cuyamel, Fruit, American Snuff, Railway Steel Spring and a few others.

Strength of Norfolk and Western, based on speculative expectation of an extra payment this spring, was the feature of the railroad group, the stock touching a new high at 110 1-2 and then dropping to 109 1-4, up 1 1-8. Erie issues were in supply, the common and first preferred dropping 1 and 1 1-2 points respectively.

Call money held at 4 1-4 per cent all day. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with the bulk of the business being done at 4 per cent.

Business in the foreign exchange market was on a moderate scale with rates irregular. Demand sterling dropped nearly half a cent to 4.39 5-8 but French francs held fairly steady around 4.27 cents. Passing of the grain export season sent Canadian dollars down 1-8 of a cent to 96 3-4 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Feb. 26.—Pronounced weakness of copper company issues, which developed on the omission of the Anaconda dividend, and strength of Norfolk & Western and Seaboard Air Line mortgages, which moved counter to the general railroad list, featured today's irregular bond market.

Heavy selling of Anaconda bonds followed announcement that the dividend had been passed, forcing the 6s down more than a point and the 7s more than 2 points. Chile Copper 6s also were weak and fractional losses were recorded in the liens of other copper companies.

Partial explanation for the recent strength of Seaboard issues and of Norfolk & Western convertible 6s was found in the publication of earnings figures. Net income of the Seaboard Line in January set a new high record and preliminary figures on Norfolk & Western's 1923 earnings showed a gain of $5,000,000 in revenue. Prices of several Seaboard issues reached new high levels for the year today, while Norfolk & Western convertible 6s also moved up more than 2 points to a new high mark. Fractional losses were general throughout the rest of the railroad list.

After an early rally the Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7 1-2s with warrants encountered fresh selling and dropped almost 6 points to a new low prisce at 56. Rumors of a recapitalization of the company remained unconfirmed.

Prospects of early new financing by the government helped to depress the prices of Liberty bonds, with the exception of the third 4 1-4s which gained a point and closed at par.

Bankers announced the private sale of $5,000,000 Central of Georgia railway 5 1-2s, due in 1959, at 97 to yield 5.70 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Corn rose briskly today to above the highest price which July and September deliveries had previously touched this season. The upturn was largely based on reports that farmers were spreading an organized movement to hold corn back for a dollar a bushel. Corn closed firm, 1-8@1-4c to 1-2c net higher, May $1 1-8 to $1 1-4. Wheat finished 5-8 to 7-8c down. May 1.09 1-4 to 1.09 3-4@7-8, and July 1.09 7-8 to 1.10, with oats unchanged to 5-8c up and provisions varying from 5c off to a gain of 2c.

Corn trading broadened noticeably in volume, and the May delivery as well as the later months displayed strength. May ascending to within a fraction of the best prices reached so far. Profit taking sales, however, led subsequently to something of a setback from the day's top figures. The corn growers' movement which appears to have stimulated much of the buying was said to be branching out into Illinois and Indiana after extending into forty counties of Iowa. Whether or not because of the workings of the organization, it was noticeable that receipts today showed a falling off in practically all directions. Demand for July delivery of corn was especially active and it was asserted that some big new speculative lines were being built up. Gossip also was current that some corn was being worked for export.

Wheat values were adversely affected by a decline in Liverpool quotations and by word that eastern interests were believed to be hedging cash wheat. Increasing reports of damage to the domestic winter crop failed to have more than a temporary bullish influence. Oats mainly took their cue from corn.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Feb. 26.—Another sharp break in the oil stocks on selling apparently inspired by the break on the "big board" was the feature of today's curb market. Industrial issues offered more stubborn resistance to pressure, a number of the active favorites showing slight gains on the day.

A break of 9 points in Prairie Oil & Gas to 229 was the outstanding development in that group. Solar Refining broke 7 points and Borne & Scrymser 5, the latter failing to respond to the declaration of an extra dividend. Vacuum, which was strong yesterday, fell back 3 3-8 to 63 and losses of a point or more were recorded by a number of other issues including Standard Oils of Indiana, New York, Kentucky and Nebraska, Penn-Mex Fuel, Ohio, Imperial of Canada and Humble.

Chief interest in the industrial group centered on the radio shares on the announcement that the radio corporation would start the payments of dividends on the preferred in July. Radio Corporation common and preferred touched 4 5-8 and 4 3-16, respectively, while Dubilier touched 21 5-8 and closed 3-4 higher at 21. Gillette Safety Razor broke nearly 4 points on odd lot sales. New Mexico Land duplicated its year's high at 8 1-4 on the confirmation of reports that the Frisco railroad, which owns a controlling intreest, was engaged in oil exploration work on these properties.

WESTERLY

Endeavoring to sell silverware to people residing along the Post road out of Westerly Monday morning, Thomas Caswell, of no known address, and Albert Cookum, who gave his home as Nova Scotia, aroused the suspicions of prospective customers who telephoned the Westerly police. Sergeant Donald Ferguson notified Sheriff John R. Wilcox who knew that a cottage owned by Nathaniel Smith, of Providence, had been entered and a number of articles taken. Among the missing articles was silverware, bone-handled table knives, clothing which had Mr. Smith's name on it, a carving set, opera glasses and neckties. Sergeant Ferguson Monday afternoon heard from Attorney Nathaniel Smith of Providence that his son's cottage near Matanuck on the Post road had been entered, articles stolen and the place occupied all night, a fire having been built in the fireplace. The Westerly officer, after learning of the suspicious actions of the strangers, was successful in finding them on Granite street. While the men were held, the bag carried by one of the men was searched and articles were found which fitted the description of those stolen from the Smith house. Monday night, Sheriff John R. Wilcox and Deputy Sheriff George S. Phillips came to Westerly and after the men were questioned they are said to have admitted the theft.

Both Caswell and Cookum were taken to West Kingston Monday night, by Sheriff Wilcox and Deputy Sheriff Phillips. At the April session of the superior court for Washington county Caswell was given a deferred sentence for breaking and entering. He was also paroled from Providence county jail last June on another charge. Cookum had no court record here. Tuesday afternoon the men were presented before Judge James O. Watts, at a special session of the Second district court at West Kingston on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny.

Benjamin, Wein, son Daniel and family have left Westerly to make their home in New London.

Mrs. Loren G. McLaren, who has been visiting in New York for several days, has been joined by her husband. In a few days they plan to return to their home here.

Mrs. Frank G. Ahern left Monday for several days' visit in New York.

James Howard has entered the employ of a local automobile service company.

John T. Johnson, who has been confined to his home for several days by illness was able to be out Monday.

Robert E. Steere, superintendent of the Lorraine Manufacturing company in Pawcatuck, was in Providence Tuesday.

Mrs. Harry L. Bolles was a visitor in New London Tuesday.

Sergeant Francis N. Spry was the winner in the competitive drill for the members of Battery E, 143rd F. A., in the state armory Tuesday night. For the benefit of the Hiker memorial fund campaign being conducted by Robert Brucker camp, U. S. W. V., a band concert, drill and dance was conducted by the Battery boys on their regular drill night. There were present on the floor 46 of the total membership of 56, the company being marched in under command of Capt. Christie McConnell. After a half hour concert by the Westerly band, the colors were brought into line and a short company drill was held. The elimination competitive drill in the manual of arms and school of the soldier was in charge of First Lieutenant John F. Datson and began with 31 men on the floor. The judges were Col. Arthur N. Nash, Col. Charles H. Ledward, and Col. Everett Whipple. The first elimination left 22 men on the floor, the second 13, and the final left Sergt. Spry, Corp. George Shackner, Corp. Edward R. Potter and Priv. Edward Smith at the conclusion of a well executed drill, Col. Nash presented Sergt. Spry a gold badge representing the Cross medal which has been competed for in Westerly military companies for many years. Five dollars in gold was awarded Sergt. Spry also. More than 600 visitors at the armory indicated the interest in Westerly military affairs. Many stayed after the drill to enjoy the dancing programme with a ten-piece orchestra.

Next Saturday night the Battery boys will meet for the second time this season the Silent Five basketball team from the Connecticut deaf and dumb institution at Hartford. A most satisfactory game was the opinion of those who saw the other game here this season.

Before Federal Judge Arthur Brown in the federal court, Providence, Monday afternoon, Benjamin Fain, a former jitney operator in Westerly pleaded guilty on two counts of violation of federal prohibition laws. He was fined a total of $101, being given a $100 fine for transporting intoxicating liquors and a $1 fine for possession. At 9 o'clock Sunday morning, Aug. 12, 1923, Fain's automobile was searched on Atlantic avenue, Pleasant View, by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Special Officers George Matison and William Hamilton, who reported finding three cases of liquor in Fain's possession. Before Michael J. Turano Sept. 7, 1923, in the Third district court, Fain pleaded nolo to violation of the liquor law Aug. 9 and 12 but was fined $50 and costs on each charge. Fain's Cadillac automobile was seized by the federal authorities and taken to Providence.

NOANK

The death of Samuel Brown Patterson, 47, occurred at Home Memorial hospital in New London early Sunday morning following a surgical operation. Mr. Patterson was born in St. Martins, N. B., the son of George and Lavina Patterson, and came to the village when a small boy.

The news of Mr. Patterson's death came as a shock to the community as his illness was brief.

Mr. Patterson is survived by his widow, who was Miss Virginia Davis, one son George and the following brothers and sisters, John H. of Philadelphia, Mrs. Chester Frigk of Stonington, Mrs. Charles Cox and William Patterson of the village.

He was a member of Stonington lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 26, and the Noank Fire company, No. 1, in which he was an officer for several years.

TAFTVILLE

The marriage of Miss Edna Lerigne, daughter of Mrs. Alexandrina Lavigne of South B street and the late Frederick Lavigne, and Octave Bousquet, was solemnized Monday morning at a nuptial high mass celebrated by Rev. Henri F. Chagnon at Sacred Heart church. The bride was charmingly gowned in white canton crepe, with veil of tulle and carried a bouquet of roses. The young couple were unattended. After the ceremony there was a reception and breakfast at the home of the bride's mother on South B street and during the day the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Woonsocket, R. I., and upon their return will reside with the mother of the bride. The groom is popular locally and is employed in the No. 1 carding department of the Ponemah Mills. The bride was employed in the silk department of the same company

Word was received in the village Monday of the death of John J. Farrell, eldest son of James Farrell, who was a former resident of the village. Mr. Farrell was a frequent visitor here where he had relatives. His death occurred in Kingston, R. I. He was a nephew of Mrs. Marion Dougherty and Mrs. Agnes Hanlon of Merchants avenue. Mrs. Dougherty, Miss Mary Hanlon, James Hanlon and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader left Monday for New Bedford, Mass., where the funeral will take place. The deceased is survived by his parents and wife, and two small children, William, aged 3, and Grace, 6 months, also five brothers and three sisters.

One of the prettiest weddings of the pre-Lenten season took place Tuesday morning when Rev. Henri F. Chagnon united in marriage Miss Diana Melvina Labarre and John Ledoux, at a nuptial high mass, in the presence of many relatives and friends. The bride was attended by her younger sister, Miss Agnes Labarre, and the best man was Ernest M. Ledoux, brother of the groom. The bride wore a gown of cocoa canton crepe, with hat to match and carried a bouquet of white roses with shower of lilies of the valley. Her maid wore a taupe charmeuse gown with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by the organist as the wedding party entered the edifice, and during the ceremony Omer Tellier sang. Immediately after the ceremony, there was a reception at the Franco-American Naturalization club, and a breakfast was served by the bride's mother, Mrs. Albert Labarre, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Labarre of Jewett City, Mrs. Joseph Labarre of Quebec, Canada, and Mrs. Ernestine Christien of Baltic Music throughout the day was furnished by Lucier's orchestra, and vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. O. G. Charron of Plainfield, Joseph Labarre and Mrs. Matthias Lavigne. Dancing followed the breakfast. The bridal couple left in the evening for a wedding trip which will take them to New York, Springfield, Mass., and Boston, and upon their return will reside in a newly furnished home at 198 North Cliff street, Norwich.

Mrs. Ledoux is one of the popular young ladies of the village, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Labarre of Hunters avenue. She is the proprietress of a hairdressing parlor in Norwich. Mr. Ledoux is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ledoux of Springfield, Mass., and is employed by the Plaut-Cadden company of Norwich. The groom's gift to his bride was an Oriental beaded bag. The gifts were numerous and included several purses of gold, silver, cut glass and household furniture and linen.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Alexander Ledoux, Mrs. Yvonne Gagnon and Miss Delina Ledoux of Springfield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Lavigne, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Charron and Edward Charron of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Labarre and Miss Menise Labarre of Jewett City; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lamoreux and Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Auclair of Jewett City, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Labarre of Goodyear, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benoit and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Godere of Norwich. The young couple's numerous friends wish them the best of luck and prosperity throughout their married life.

CHEMICAL TEST MADE EVIDENCE IN THAMESVILLE LIQUOR CASE

Laboratory tests made at Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs of the contents of bottles seized Sunday afternoon at the McGuinness store on West Thames street near the city line, Thamesville, were produced as evidence in the police court here Tuesday morning against William H. McGuinness and John McGuinness, charged with violation of the liquor law.

The tests showed that the home-brew beer analyzed 4.78 per cent. alcohol, the Scotch brew 1.73 and the near-beer 2.04. The two accused men were defended by Attorney T. J. Kelly. After hearing the evidence in the case, Judge A. F. Libby fined William H. McGuinness $200 and costs, amounting to $241.53, and gave him a jail sentence of 15 days which is suspended for a year. The fine and costs were paid. John McGuinness was given a jail sentence of 10 days.

Peter Nawrocki of Yantic, who was arrested Sunday night on a liquor violation charge, was found guilty and was fined $200 and costs with a 10 day jail sentence. As Nawrocki has a number of cows which will have to be cared for while he is in jail the court gave him Tuesday to make the necessary arrangements and he will begin serving his jail sentence today. (Wednesday.)

Mrs. Walka Nawrocki, his wife, was also before the court on a liquor violation charge on which she was found guilty and fined $200 without costs.

Harry Ward, presented on the charge of non-support of his wife, was ordered by the court to pay her $15 a week for the next six months.

One Norwich man went to jail to work out a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $14.75, on the charge of intoxication, and another Norwich man paid $5 flat on a breach of the peace charge.

REV. E. C. DUNBAR SPEAKS AT BELT PLANT MEETING

Rev. E. C. Dunbar held the close attention of his audience at the noon shop meeting Tuesday at the Norwich Belt plant. Mr. Dunbar spoke in part as follows:

"An old writer, writing under the inspiration of God, used these words, "My son give me thy heart". The question is what did he mean? The heart of man is in reality the center of life. We have often seen men with a magnificent physique, yet they were unable to use their strength because of a weak heart. When evil desires make inroads into the center of our lives sooner or later our moral life will collapse. In achieving success one puts his whole being into his job. Success cannot be gained in any other manner, a musician may dream a great symphony. Before it is of any use to the world it must be written in such a form to be read by others. This means hours of study and hours of hard work on details. An artist's mind may contain a masterpiece. Before it can hang with the other great pictures of the world, the artist must spend hours before his easel. A man's failures are brought about through discouragement. Discouragement comes from fitting details into the prosaic of life, those things that have to be done day by day. It is the man with his whole heart in his work that can overcome discouragement. So many of us dream of success, but are not willing to spend sufficient time and energy on the detail of life which are necessary for success.

"We reap as we sow. The man who sows seeds of laziness reaps a lazy man's reward. The man who sows seeds of discontent reaps a harvest of failures. Seeds of evil bring a harvest of personal or social sins. Seeds of courage make the hero. Seeds of good-deeds grow a great harvest of friends. The seeds we sow come from the desires we have within ourselves.

"If our life is to bring a harvest of success we must sow the seeds that will bring success.

"In as much as desires spring from within us, we must be certain of what is within. The heart of man is never held by himself alone, either evil or God is to reign there. Perhaps this is what the old writer meant when he was speaking. God asks for our hearts. The Turks at Acre withstood Napoleon and his soldiers because they gave over the command of the city to the British Army. If we are to withstand the evil desire within us we must give over the ruling of our lives to Him who is able to withstand forces which we cannot withstand alone."

PHILLIPS BROOKS STATUS IS TO BE REMOVED

The statue of Phillips Brooks, sculptored by the late Bella Lyon Pratt of Boston, a native of Norwich, is to be removed from the Boston Art Museum to the center common at North Andover, Mass., the former home of the Brooks family. Chairman Peter Holt of the North Andover board of selectmen announced this week that he had officially accepted the Brooks statue from the citizens committee of Boston which purchased it and which vainly endeavored to have it given a place on the Trinity church grounds in Boston.

Mr. Pratt was the sculptor of the Governor Winthrop statue on Bulkeley Square, and of the Nathan Hale statue opposite Connecticut hall at Yale university. He died in 1917, shortly after completing the mammoth statute of Alexander Hamilton for the city of Chicago.

NORWICH WATER SUPPLY IN EXCELLENT CONDITION

The recent rain and snow have resulted in reinforcement of the two Norwich reservoirs, bringing Fairview to the full pond mark, while Stony Brook is 8 inches below full pond, according to the latest measurements made by the water department.

As there is still much snow on the ground on the reservoir watersheds which will be converted into water which will find its way into the reservoirs, the Norwich water supply is in excellent condition for this time of year.

By DAVID CORY

An Old Man With a Sack

Now, let me remember where we left Little Jack Rabbit in the last story. Dear me! This bunny boy hops so fast that sometimes I can hardly keep up with him. "Yes indeedy," as an old colored mammy used to say to me when I was a boy,

The brave little rabbit undid the string.

By and by, after a while, as he went lipperty lip, clipperty clip over the leaves and over the stones, over the moss and the pinetree cones, he met an old man carrying a great sack on his back.

"Dear me," thought the little bunny, "Maybe he's a robber." But being a brave bunny boy, and a curious little fellow, he hopped right up to the old man, just like that, and asked what was inside the sack.

"Should I untie this bag of mine.
There'd be a dreadful storm.
For it is full of angry winds
And the yellow lightening's form," shouted the old man.

"Dear me," cried the bunny boy, "be sure you keep it tied. But, who are you, to carry so much danger inside an old sack?"

"I was once a rag picker in the Wind Country," answered the old man. "One day, I found a ruby on the street, but when I picked it up, it burnt my fingers, so I dropped it into my sack. Had I not quickly tied it up, the rags would have caught fire and destroyed all wind country. Now, I dare not open it for fear the winds and the fire lightening will come out.

Just then, all of a sudden, a great crashing sounded through the forest, and, the next minute, a wild boar, with eyes of flashing flames and breath like steam, came rushing toward them.

"We are lost," cried the old man, dropping, in his fright, the bag of winds.

Quick as a wink and maybe quicker, the brave little rabbit undid the string. Out sprang the winds and the lightening tearing up the trees and hurling them down the mountainside. And before the wild boar could come a step nearer, he was lifted high up into the air, and carried far, far away.

"You shall have the fiery ruby," said the old man gratefully. "You have made better use of it than I."

"Thank you," answered the bunny boy placing the ruby in his pocket, and setting out once more upon his journey. As for the little old man, he threw his empty sack over his shoulder and turned back to the Wind Country. Maybe he thought this time he'd fill his sack with quiet little breezes.

"This fiery ruby may prove useful," thought Little Jack Rabbit, as he hurried along, for it was now getting late in the day. Suddenly it grew dark and had it not been for the ruby's fiery sparkle, he might not have been able to follow the path into the next story.

DAUGHERTY TO REMAIN IN CABINET FOR THE PRESENT

Attorney General Has Determined Not to Resign Without a Hearing on the Charges Against Him—Has Refused to Promise That He Would Retire Upon Termination of the Senate Inquiry—Mr. Daugherty Has Been Called to Chicago to Attend to Important Government Business Which Demands His Personal Attention — Telegrams Show That Persistent Efforts Have Been Made to Keep Publisher McLean Off the Stand in the Oil Inquiry.

Washington, Feb. 27—Attorney General Daugherty will remain for the present a member of President Coolidge's cabinet, but he will be expected to retire to private life as soon as the senate has completed its inquiry into his administration of the department of justice.

His determination not to resign without a hearing on the charges against him was re-affirmed today in the face of growing pressure for his removal. He even refused to promise that he would vacate his post upon termination of the senate inquiry, but it was apparent in other quarters that any plan for his retention beyond that time had been abandoned.

This conclusion in one of the most difficult problems with which Mr. Coolidge has had to deal since he entered the white house followed an almost continuous succession of conferences in the midst of which the attorney general himself suddenly left Washington. It was announced after his departure that he had been called to Florida where Mrs. Daugherty is ill, and would go by way of Chicago to attend public business there.

Tonight his determination to remain attorney general pending the senate inquiry was announced to the country in this terse statement, prepared before his departure and issued from the department of justice:

"It is not my purpose to even consider tendering my resignation as attorney general until after a fair hearing on charges preferred against me." Previously he had made the same declaration to President Coolidge after the president had laid before him in a conference of more than an hour the conclusions reached by the administration after a re-examination of the whole case. The white house refrained from any public statement, but it was evident that until Mr. Daugherty had announced definitely his refusal to retire under fire the belief in some administration quarters had been that his resignation was imminent.

A second and shorter conference with Mr. Coolidge preceded Mr. Daugherty's departure this afternoon from Washington. He drove directly from the white house to the union station, where a train to Chicago was held for several minutes to take him aboard. Some of his best friends had not known of his intention to leave the city, and his secretary at first refused to confirm or deny the story of his departure. Later this statement, also prepared by the attorney general before he left, was made public at the justice department:

"I have been called to Florida on a personal matter but I am compelled first to go to Chicago to attend to important government business which demands my personal attention.

"I will return from Florida as soon as I can. In the meantime proper attention will be given to all government matters. The department of justice is functioning 100 per cent. Though temporarily absent I shall nevertheless be in constant touch with the department. Several important cases and other pressing matters which require my personal attention will be taken along with me in order to facilitate action thereon."

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN SENATE OIL INQUIRY

As a result new fields for exploration were discovered and the list of committee witnesses was appreciably augmented.

A chief development was the reading into the record of a sheaf of telegrams sent to Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, at Palm Beach last December and January by his agents and others in Washington.

These disclosed that persistent efforts were made on behalf of McLean to keep him off the witness stand in the oil inquiry and that in this connection attempts were made to bring pressure on Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, chief prosecutor in the investigation.

There also was evidence that McLean was kept constantly advised as to developments in the inquiry and as to the movements and opinions respecting the investigation of Albert B. Fall to whom the publisher at one time said he had loaned $100,000.

From the telegrams the committee learned also that E. W. Smithers, chief communications officer at the White House, had been employed to man the Washington end of a private telegraph wire which was installed between this city and McLean's Palm Beach cottage.

One of the arguments advanced to the publisher in favor of the private wire was "easy and quick access to the White House" and another was the "congressional situation."

In this same message, sent by John Major, one of McLean's secretaries under date of Dec. 23, the publisher was advised that C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, was leaving that night for Palm Beach.

Mr. Slemp has testified that he talked about the oil matter with McLean at Palm Beach and advised him to get it all out."

Additional telegrams to McLean will be read into the record tomorrow. Senators said that one would show that an agent reported to the publisher that A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson administration, and acting for McLean, would try to have "Underwood" use his influence with Senator Walsh in McLean's behalf.

Senator Walsh declared that Senator Underwood of Alabama, who is a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, never had interceded with him in McLean's behalf.

Another telegram sent to McLean will disclose, senators said, that those reporting to the publisher had given up hope of keeping him off the witness stand, explaining that Senator Walsh was determined to call him.

A telegram to be read tomorrow and signed by the publisher, says, according to committeemen, that Francis McAdoo, a New York lawyer, or his father, William G. McAdoo, another candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, had been his attorney for seven years.

Before the committee went into session, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, former chairman of the committee, disclosed publicly that he was advised in advance by J. W. Zevely, personal counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, that E. L. Doheny was coming to Washington to clear up the matter of the $100,000 loan.

At the same time Senator Smoot told of a visit he and Chairman Lenroot made to Fall's apartment at a hotel here during the Christmas holidays for the purpose, they said, of urging him to tell the committee where he got the funds to improve and enlarge his New Mexico ranch holdings. Both declared there was nothing secret about their visit and that they told some other members of the committee about it.

WHEELER TO PUSH FOR PROBE OF DAUGHERTY

Washington, Feb. 27.—"I intend to push the hearing," Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, said tonight when informed that Attorney General Daugherty had announced that he was not even contemplating tendering his resignation until after fair hearing on the charges against him.

"I will try to get my resolution through tomorrow," Senator Wheeler added, referring to his resolution proposing a full investigation of Mr. Daugherty's administration.

ASKS $1,000,000 TO COMBAT FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Washington, Feb. 27.—Secretary Wallace has taken steps to obtain from congress an appropriation of $1,000,000 to eradicate the foot and mouth disease in California and in any other place in the country where it may appear.

The money would be used in cooperation with the states in the fight against the disease. A large portion would be used for actual work of eradication and some of it for partial indemnity to owners whose cattle must be killed.

Steps for placing the urgency of the situation before congress have already bene taken through departmental channels. At the same time the department of agriculture is proceeding vigorously toward eradicating the disease and has assigned forty veterinarians to that special work.

Officers of the bureau of animal industry are watching all sources of infection abroad and all importations of cattle and other material from these sources which might bring the disease to this country. The disease exists in England and in European countries, and also in South and Central American countries.

The outbreak in California made its appearance in Oakland last week after the country had been free from it since 1915. Prompt steps were taken by the California authorities and by the federal department of agriculture, which has quarantined nine counties of the state.

PRESS MEN FIND BRITISH AMBASSADOR DEMOCRATIC

New York, Feb. 27.—Sir Esme Howard arrived on the Olympic today, en route to Washington to assume the British ambassadorship vacated two months ago by the retirement of Sir Auckland Geddes.

He traveled alone, expecting to be joined when he became established at Washington by Lady Howard who now is in Italy. Later, he said, three of his five sons probably would come here to enter school, one of them being particularly desirous—with his father's enthusiastic approval—of a year's business training in the United States. Two other sons of the ambassador are at Cambridge.

Newspaper men agreed Sir Esme was the most democratic diplomat the British Isles ever had sent to America. He chatted freely—within the limit prescribed by the diplomats' manual—and was liberal with cigars. But he hadn't much to say about mutual problems confronting the United States and Great Britain because, as he said, "My predecessors have wiped the slate so clean that nothing of importance remains for me to do."

MRS. ROWLAND ENGAGED TO EDWARD F. BYRNES

Methuen, Mass., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Mary Allen Rowland, who with her three young sons inherited a large part of the estate of Edward F. Searles, the eccentric Methuen millionaire recluse who died in 1920, today announced her engagement to Edward Francis Byrnes, of Lawrence. Mr. Byrnes was a member of the class of 1906 at Harvard and for some years has been salesmanager of an automobile distributing concern.

Mrs. Rowland, the widow of a hat salesman, was living in poor circumstances when Searles died. He was a cousin of her father. There was a prolonged contest before Searles' will was finally upheld by the courts. Albert Victor Searles, a nephew of the millionaire who received only a small bequest, was reported to have received about a million dollars in a settlement out of court.

The Searles estate, known as Pine Lodge, from which the public had been rigidly excluded during Searles' life, has been transformed into a place of hospitality since Mrs. Rowland and her children took up their residence here.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Priest Challenged to Duel.

Sondrio, Italy, Feb. 27.—Father Giovanni Vannineti, priest and editor of the local newspaper, has been challenged to a duel by Bellsario Cantagalli, a fascist secretary, because the editor treated humorously the war decorations of the fascist candidate for the house of deputies from this district.

D'Annunzio Heads Seamen's Union.

Genoa, Feb. 27.—The 30 members of the seamen's union who have been chosen by Gabriele D'Annunzio as the head of that order to form his cabinet, sent the poet a message today, acknowledging him as their only chief. They subscribed to an oath reading: "I swear fidelity and sacrifice to the seamen's organization and to Commander D'Annunzio, its only one and effective leader, against one, against all."

PROGRESS IN THE HARRIS MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

New York, Feb. 27.—Counsel for Beverly D. Harris, banker, who is suing for annulment of his marriage to Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris introduced a number of witnesses and depositions at the trial today in support of their charge that Mrs. Harris and Samuella or Susie Lee, born in 1886 or '87, sent to an orphanage for incorrigibility in 1895 and whose later career is under question are one and the same person.

The supreme court room was crowded and many curious persons stood in corridors outside craning their necks for a glimpse of the gray-haired plaintiff and his attractive wife.

Mrs. Harris became angered at some of the testimony. She beat nervously upon the table with her hands and on one occasion rose to her feet to contradict a witness.

The principal witnesses of the day were Daniel P. McCoy, of Memphis, who identified himself as the owner of a farm in Stewart county, Mississippi. He declared Mrs. Harris and Susie Lee were one and the same and did not hesitate in identifying the defendant. It was his testimony that angered Mrs. Harris.

Another witness was Mrs. Mary C. King, of Battle Creek, Michigan, formerly of Clarksville, Tenn., who testified she was present when Miss Lee's mother died in 1895 and that she took Susie to live with her but sent her to an orphanage because she was incorrigible. On cross-examination she admitted that Mrs. Lee's sixth child, Carrie Lee, was illegitimate, saying the girl's mother had told her Joseph Johnson, a Clarksville saw-miller owner, was the father. She insisted, however, that Mrs. Harris was Susie Lee.

Richard A. Miller, proprietor of a rooming house at 215 Madison avenue, Memphis, and former manager of the Clarendon hotel there, where Eli Raynor, affectionately called "uncle" by the now Mrs. Harris, lived, was the last witness. Miller testified that Raynor and "Ella" Lee as he knew her, lived together in an apartment on the second floor of the Clarendon Annex in 1907 and 1908 and that Raynor operated a gambling house on the third floor.

One of the depositions was by Mrs. Hosea C. Harris, an elderly woman with whom Miss Lee traveled through the south. Mrs. Hosea C. Harris is not related to Beverly D. Harris, but it was through her that Miss Lee and the banker met. Mrs. Hosea Harris told of her love for Miss Lee, recited the trips they made and the people they met and told of loving letters Miss Lee wrote her when they were apart.

She said when the time approached for the wedding, Miss Lee asked her to get $6,000 from Beverly Harris so that she could purchase a trousseau. She finally consented to help the girl she said but asked for and got only $750.

PORTUGAL AND RUMANIA PETITION LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 27—(By the A. P.)—Portugal and Rumania have petitioned the league of nations for a seat on the naval committee, which is directed by the council of the league and with the help of the South American countries they are expected to continue the efforts begun in Rome to extend the principles of the Washington treaty.

Russia's demand at the Rome conference for 400,000 tons of naval weight has not surprised league circles which learn that Moscow is disgruntled over the fact that Russia was not invited to participate in the Washington conference. Further evidence of Russia's sudden burst of interest in the league of nations is given by the receipt of a polite note from foreign minister Tchitcherin acknowledging an official copy of the pact of mutual guarantees among the membership states which was elaborated at the last assembly and which M. Tchitcherin said Moscow would be glad to study closely.

LEVIATHAN FLOATED INTO DRYDOCK AT SOUTH BOSTON

Boston, Feb. 27.—The mammoth steamer Leviathan, which arrived here this morning from New York to undergo repairs, was successfully floated into the drydock at South Boston this afternoon. Ten tugs assisted in the work.

It is expected that examination of the ship's bottom will be begun tomorrow in order to determine the extent of the damage she sustained when she grounded on Robbins Reef, off New York, last December. Several hundred men have been engaged to work day and night on the repairs in the hope that the vessel may resume trans-Atlantic service on April 12.

BURIED SIX HOURS UNDER EIGHT FEET OF EARTH

New York, Feb. 27—Michael Chevenue, buried for six hours under eight feet of earth which caved into a well he was digging, survived the experience and rested without a broken bone at Southampton hospital tonight.

When he did not come home last night his wife led a searching party to a farm at Eastport, L. I. He was found unconscious and bent double under the weight of the falled dirt. Neighbors dug for four hours to reach him.

DUPLICATE AUTO LICENSE PLATES MADE IN PRISON

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 27.—Prisoners in the Ohio state penitentiary have been secretly manufacturing duplicate automobile license plates and smuggling them out through confederates and paroled prisoners, Warden P. E. Thomas admitted today. All of the state's auto tags are manufactured at the institution.

Framing Compromise On the Revenue Bill

Washington, Feb. 27—Approach of final action on the revenue bill in the house brought forth a whirl of conferences among republicans today in a feverish attempt to unite their forces for a stand against the democratic income rates. A compromise advanced by the organization leaders was the subject of the conferences held after the house had adjourned following the Harding memorial services without consideration of the bill on the floor.

Representative Longworth, republican leader, after presenting his compromise to insurgent leaders at a meeting with the steering committee said the situation was unchanged, with the prospects of republicans gaining sufficient strength to defeat the Garner rates a "toss up."

Meanwhile, Secretary Mellon met with republican leaders of both the senate and house to discuss the future of the bill. He was advised not to expect the senate to reduce any income surtax rates voted into the bill by the house. Plans were made, however, to facilitate consideration of the measure when it reaches the senate.

Those present at the meeting included Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee; Senators Curtis, Kansas, and Reed of Pennsylvania, members of the committee. Speaker Gillett of the house, Representative Longworth, and members of the house republican steering committee.

The compromise presented by Mr. Longworth called for a flat 25 per cent. reduction in the surtax rates in the existing law, with the same brackets retained. This would make the maximum rate 37 1-2 per cent. on incomes in excess of $200,000, instead of the 25 per cent. maximum on incomes in excess of $100,000 as proposed in the Mellon plan. The democratic maximum surtax is 44 per cent. on incomes in excess of $94,000.

The compromise further provides for a two per cent minimum normal rate, applying to incomes below $4,000 and six per cent. above that amount. The mellon rates were three and six per cent. The democratic rates in the bill are two per cent. on incomes below $5,000; four per cent. on incomes between $5,000 and $:.000 and six per cent. on incomes above that amount.

Mr. Longworth said he had been assured by the treasury the compromise would raise sufficient revenue for government needs.

Indications were given by some of the insurgents after their meeting that they might vote for a compromise if it approached their original proposition of a forty per cent. maximum surtax rate, on the grounds it would raise more revenue than the democratic rates and aid thereby in financing a soldier's bonus.

Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee, made public an estimate received from the treasury department today showing that in 1925, the first year of operation, the Garner income tax reductions, would cost $463,000,000 in revenue and the Mellon plan $350,000,000. This included the reductions on normal and surtaxes and earned income. It did not consider reductions in the miscellaneous taxes or expected gains in revenue as a result of tightening of other sections.

COALITION CAUSES FALL OF BELGIAN CABINET

Brussels, Feb. 27.—Through a coalition of the socialist and the extreme Flemish Catholics, the government of Premier Theunis met defeat in the chamber of deputies today on the question of ratification of the Franco-Belgian economic convention. The vote was 95 to 79 against ratification. This placed the government, which had staked its tenure of office on the result, in the minority by 16 votes. Defeat of the government had been forecast by political observers for several days past.

Shortly after the vote was taken Premier Theunis tendered his resignation and the resignation of his ministers. It is anticipated that King Albert will refuse to accept the resignations on hte ground that the general policy of the cabinet was not involved in the vote on the Franco-Belgian pact. M. Theunis, however, has said that he would be unwilling to resume power in any circumstances.

It is thought that dissolution of parliament and new elections are likely to precede the formation of a new cabinet, especially if the socialist-Flemish combination attempts to create one.

Stirring Scenes in Greek Parliament

Republican Deputies Protest Government's Opposition to Abolishing the Dynasty —Left Chamber in a Body.

Athens, Feb. 27 (By the A. P.)—Stirring scenes were witnessed in parliament today when the republican deputies withdrew in a body in protest against the government's refusal to pass the resolution abolishing the dynasty.

The premier addressed the chamber regretting the withdrawal of the deputies, which he hoped was only temporary and declared that the government would carry on.

VIOLENCE IN STRIKE OF CHICAGO DRESSMAKERS

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Sluggings, stabbing, rioting, and storming of shops attempting to operate today marked the opening of the long heralded strike of the dressmakers' section of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union.

Union employes walked out this morning to try to enforce their demands for higher wages, shorter hours and unemployment assurance and tied the clothing district around Adams and Market streets into knots which the police and riot squads spent most of the day trying to straighten out.

Strike sympathizers shortly after the walkout raided five establishments and the resultant brisk encounter, two employers were stabbed, two employes slugged, and a score of girl workers chased to fire escapes from which they were finally rescued by the police with drawn pistols. Fourteen rioters were arrested in this encounter.

The police responding to fifteen riot calls found that the non-union workmen had been driven to the street and in many instances fierce struggles between the strike sympathizers and those who remained at work were in progress.

A number of women strike sympathizers were arrested but were later released, the police confining their efforts to trying to arrest the instigators of the trouble. One manufacturer attempting to leave his place of business was attacked and knocked down by a woman. Strikers said that five thousand workers were out, but manufacturers said only a few hundred had left.

GIRL'S PSYCHO-ANALYSIS ASTONISHES N. Y. POLICE

New York, Feb. 27.—Demurely facing a group of high police officials and detectives who have spent most of their lives in tracking down crime Eugene Dennis, 18-year-old girl of Atchison, Kas., for two hours at police headquarters today described secret police records and suggest clues in unsolved crime mysteries.

To test the girl, Deputy Commissioner Faurot took from the record room the papers in a loft robbery case and asked Miss Dennis to describe them. She described with almost faultless accuracy the scene of the crime, arrival of the police, a long wait, a fight, shots fired and the capture.

Touching upon unsolved cases, Faurot asked whether Miss Dennis could describe the circumstances of the shooting some time ago of two policemen. She did so and then asserted that one of the two murderers, as yet unfound, was named Murphy. The right side of his mouth turned up and his left shoulder sagged, she added.

If the police could find a blonde automobile mechanic who lived at No. 102 of a street in New York city, she said, they would be able to solve the mystery.

CONGRESSIONAL MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR W. G. HARDING

Eulogy of Martyr President Delivered by Secretary of State Hughes—President Coolidge, His Cabinet, Supreme Court Justice and Foreign Diplomats Were in Attendance—Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Coolidge Were Among Those in Galleries Who Joined in the Simple, Impressive Ceremony.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Congress laid aside legislative business today to pay tribute to the memory of Warren G. Harding.

The house and senate joined in a memorial service, held in the house chamber, with Secretary Hughes as the only speaker and President Coolidge, his cabinet, supreme court justices and foreign diplomats in attendance.

In a gallery opposite the speaker's rostrum, with a small group of friends sat Mr. Harding's widow. Elsewhere in the crowded galleries were men and women of prominence, among them Mrs. Coolidge, joining in the simple impressive ceremony.

The memorial service, beginning shortly after noon, lasted a little more than an hour. After a prayer by the Rev. J. Shera Montgomery, the house chaplain, Mr. Hughes read an address in which he sketched Mr. Harding's career and referred to his accomplishments in public life.

Seated in a semi-circle in front of the rostrum was the president and his cabinet and the supreme court justices. One section of the floor, to the extreme left, was set aside for foreign diplomats who filed into the chamber led by their dean, Ambassador Jusserand of France. Senators occupied the front rows with members of the house seated behind them.

As the galleries filled and distinguished officials took their seats the Marine band, in the speaker's lobby, played hymns that were favorites of the late president. After the secretary of state had delivered his eulogy and the benediction had been pronounced by the Rev. J. J. Muir, chaplain of the senate, the band played one more religious air, "Lead Kindly Light."

Secretary Hughes concluded his tribute to Mr. Harding with the observation that he "gave his life to his country."

"No one can do more than that," he continued. "He exhausted himself in service, a martyr in fidelity to the interests of the people for whom he labored with a passionate devotion. He was a man of the people, indulging no consciousness of superiority incapable of arrogance, separated from them neither by experience, nor by pride, nor by eccentricity. He was brother to all whose strivings in countless communities, whose eagerness, adaptability, energy, venturesomeness and common sense gave him to stamp of the American character."

At one juncture in his address Mr Hughes referred to Mr. Coolidge and his accession to the presidency. Recalling the death of Mr. Harding, the speaker said that "without a moment's uncertainty or confusion a new and skilful helmsman took his place at the wheel and the ship of state, responding to his sure guidance, held on her course."

After the conclusion of the service the house and senate resumed separate sessions but only for a moment. Both adjourned for the day out of respect to Mr. Harding's memory.

MAN KILLED WHILE STORMING ANGELINA (TEX.) COUNTY JAIL

Lufkin, Tex., Feb. 27.—One man was killed and a 17-year-old boy seriously wounded when officers fired into a mob which stormed the Angelina county jail here tonight in an effort to get Booker T. Williams, negro, held in connection with the murder of Andy Sulser at a sawmill commissary five miles south of Lufkin Tuesday night.

The mob assaulted the jail with a length of railroad rail and after warnings the posse of special deputies fired from behind the bars.

B. F. McLeroy was killed instantly when a bullet passed through his head. Willie Watts, 17, was seriously injured.

There is talk of dynamiting the jail and officers have requested that state troops be sent here from Nacogdoches. Sheriff R. B. Watts has also telephoned to Governor Neff, requesting him to send rangers here.

A report was current that the officers would offer only passive resistance if an attempt was made to get the negro and it is said that the effort was made after this report had gained evidence. The mob is composed of Lufkin people with a number of farmers and lumbermen from the immediate surrounding territory.

TWO SPINSTERS CHARGED WITH CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Chatham, Ont. Feb. 27—Grotesquely clad in ragged burlap which was fastened to their bodies by haywire, two elderly spinsters, were educated and reported wealthy, were arraigned in police court today, charged with cruelty to animals.

They were Luella and Mary Ann Radmore, whom authorities last night lured away from their valuable 200-acre farm in Romeny township, after having had to fire their guns into the air a score of times to frighten away the "evil spirits" the spinsters vowed lurked in the neighborhood.

The arresting officers told the court the prisoners had on the same kind of clothes they wore when taken in custody seven years ago on another charge of cruelty to animals. Milton Shaw, the jailer, later reported the prisoners refused to doff the garb for the feminine garments of civilization he obtained for them.

The cruelty charges were based upon evidence found on the farm that many of the sheep, hogs and cattle whose carcasses were found, had died of starvation.

The sisters were sent to jail for a week to be examined for insanity while the charges could be investigated further. Their 82 year old mother, who lived on the farm with them was brought into court later and placed in case of welfare authorities.

NO CONFUSION WITH FALL OF THE BELGIAN CABINET

Paris, Feb. 27—(By the A. P.)—The fall of the Belgian cabinet is not expected to interrupt the work of the reparations experts as it is pointed out that the two British members of the commission who were appointed by the late Baldwin government discussions since the laborite government came into power.

The sub-committee on currency continued its sessions late this evening long after the news from Brussels was received and there was no suggestion from the Belgian members that they had to await instructions from a new government.

The mass of figures and statistic through which the committee is now wading was illustrated by M. Franqui, one of the Belgian members, who asked this conundrum: "I have a ship that goes to sea. She has two masts, one short and the other long. How old is the captain?" Answer: 2,422 ft." Mr. Franqui used this to show how illusory are the figures with which the experts have to deal largely on account of the constantly changing value of German money over the period covered by the investigation.

INCREASE IN PRODUCTION OF BASIC COMMODITIES

Washington, Feb. 27.—The usual post holiday slump in general business was narrower in scope in January and early February this year than usual and sharp increases over preceding months were noted in the production of basic commodities, the federal reserve board reported today in its periodical business review.

Coupled with the increased output in basic commodities, was a heavier demand for credit for commercial purposes, indicating continuation of a healthy business development, the review said.

Production increases were most marked in steel ingots, lumber and bituminous coal and in the mill consumption of cotton. Contract awards for new buildings were slightly higher in value in January than in December and were 26 per cent. greater than in January 1923.

OILER KILLED WHEN STEAM VALVE EXPLODED

Boston, Feb. 27—The bursting of a steam valve caused the explosion of a boiler on the British freight steamer Trelyon today. Oscar Helstrom, of Hull, England, an oiler, was killed and three other men were severely injured in attempting his rescue.

Helstrom was at work on top of the boiler when the casting broke releasing steam under 175 pounds pressure. He was struck by a fragment of the valve and was dead when second engineer Fred Hanson, and two helpers succeeded, at the cost of burns and scalding, in pulling his body from the boiler room.

The Trelyon was to have sailed for New York today.

JEWETT CITY

The term "God-forsaken" is generally considered to be used properly, when applied to a specific section of some wild and deserted part of the country.

It was moving day last Sunday in one of these sections, according to well authenticated reports. The dreary reaches of woods, and more woods, with a generous supply of rocks and mountain brooks mixed in, where this unusual Sabbath activity is said to have taken place, is none other than the wild country off east of Voluntown and Beach Pond. A number of officers of high and low degree visited that section, looking up a reported case. The chase led off through the by-paths and old logging roads, where one may travel for miles without seeing a human being. It seems a country given over to the deer and the squirrel, with such other wild creatures as find comfort in the lonely woods.

Sunday, it was different. In some mysterious way the proximity of the strong arm of the law had been sounded from the house tops, and presto! It was moving day, with no time to spare.

Tinware, copper kettles, long coils of pipe, stoves and like merchandise, were transported across the border into Rhode Island, without delay, and in any old conveyance. The order of vehicles didn't stand; everything from a push cart to a Ford was pressed into immediate service. One chap had worse luck than the rest, for his automobile, loaded to the guards with a Class A equipment, and a six-hole stove, went bad right in the road, when only a short distance from the line of safety. He, however, in his sore distress, found a friend in need, for a pair of staid old oxen were coupled onto the machine and to the tune of "Come here, Haw Buck" the whole outfit was drawn over the border.

It is of timely interest to hear reminiscences concerning, Dr. Patrick Cassidy, as touching the visits he used to make, in years gone by, to the village of Jewett City.

Dr. Cassidy was always considered to be the last resort here 40 years ago; when all local skill failed, there was always hope that Dr. Cassidy could almost cause the dead to come to life. He didn't have the X-ray and all that to tell him what was the matter. He was a diagnostician unto himself, and if a man was to be snatched from the grave; it was believed here that Dr. Cassidy could do it. And he did, too, times without number! He once told a man, who tells the story today, "You people up here wait until a man is in his coffin, then send for me." Another man, a boy then, remembers when the occasional visits of Dr. Cassidy from Norwich, were so much an extra thing, and altogether out of the ordinary, that the townspeople peered from the windows or stood on the corners, to see the great man go by. Some there were here, among the smaller fry, that were afraid of the doctor, yet, they lived to know that hidden beneath his sometimes brusque exterior there dwelt a genial nature unsurpassed.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Samuel Everett Wilkins, Jr., class of '24, was the winner of the Gaston prize medal for excellence in oratory in competition with two other Brown men, at Manning hall in Providence. Wilkins, whose subject was Conservative Radicalism, is described as having been nearly faultless in his technique and spoke with deliberation. His highly polished essay was marked by nicety of phrasing.

Mr. Wilkins is a cousin of Earl Winslow, assistant postmaster at Danielson, and is well remembered in Elmville, where his prents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Wilkins formerly were residents. The family now lives in Providence.

Mr. Wilkins emphasized the mission of truth in the world today, and pointed out exemplifications of a search for the truth, or freedom of expression, in the drama, verse and art in general, as well as in thought.

Mr. Wilkins by winning has his choice of a gold or a bronze medal, and will also receive $150, the income of a fund of $3,000 established in 1894 as a memorial to William Gaston, LL. D., of the class of 1840. By winning the award Mr. Wilkins also is entitled to deliver an oration at the commencement exercises at the university, next June.

Six weeks before the public competition in which Mr. Wilkins has been so successful the contestants with other seniors submitted essays, and a committee appointed by the president selected three for delivery. Mr. Wilkins' essay was one of these.

The current issue of the Killonian, edited and published by the students of Killingly High school, has appeared to the interest of all who have received a copy of the school paper. Short stories, discussion of school athletics, past and coming events, the editorials and all of the other feature contribute to making the publication well worthy of the effort expended upon it. The Killonian is being issued monthly.

Once more the subject of tree removal in Reynolds street is claiming attention. The fact that curbing is already distributed along the Davis park side of the street between Main and Reynolds streets is taken as indicating that the trees that have been talked about so much are likely to come down when the spring opens. Removal of the trees would be in line with a request made in a vote of the town forwarded to the state highway commissioner.

Wednesday morning, boarding that has covered the front of the Berris building while remodeling operations have been under way was removed and the public was allowed its first look on the fine new art metal and plate glass front that has been installed—the only front of the kind in the borough and one after the style in favor in the cities of the country. The interior of the stores in the building also have been remodeled, the floors dropped down level with the street and the sides and ceilings sheathed with metal in art design.

A whist given by the Eastern Star Tuesday evening brought out a large attendance. There were 29 tables in play and numbers sufficient to fill places at several more tables were on hand. First honors for the ladies went to Miss Elizabeth Woodworth, second to Miss Evelyn Bitgood. Thomas Beckett won first honors for the gentlemen and Edward Olson second honors. The consolation award went to A. E. Meech, Mrs. L. S. Ingalls was chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements, the other member of the committee being Mrs. F. E. Cunneen. Mrs. Charles W. Hutchins and Mrs. Mabel Jennings. Refreshments were served.

New poles have been set during the winter by the Western Union Telegraph company along its right of way, following the line of the railroad, between Danielson and Putnam. In connection with the work that has been under way limbs of trees overhanging the line have been cleared away.

Bouts scheduled to be held this evening will bring several hundred fans here from many points in eastern Connecticut. Tonight's card of bouts is the second arranged since the fine new Casino arena was opened here earlier in the month.

There may be value for someone in printing the suggestion that the stock buying proposals coming by hundreds through the mail to people here and in this vicinity may best be submitted to some banker in which one has confidence before buying any. The losses incurred by inexperienced investors in stocks here in Danielson are said to run into thousands of dollars each year.

Following its game with the North High school of Worcester, Wednesday evening, Killingly High school team will have the Chapman Technical school team of New Union here for a game Saturday evening. This game is included in the list expected to prove to be the best in this season's series.

The dimming of lights in the borough, late Tuesday night, is believed to have been due to a break in a high tension line near the Massachusetts line in Thompson. The broken wire dropped on some telephone circuit, but no serious damage from this was reported hereabouts.

Mrs. Philias Jodoin and daughter have been visitors with friends in Providence.

Only a little more than two weeks remain in which to file income tax returns.

The number of prisoners at Brooklyn jail has remained close to 70 during February the largest number held at the institution at any one time in the past five years.

An inquiry was made here Wednesday relative to available Main St., property that might be purchased, that it might be razed and replaced with a modern building to contain five stores.

Reports Wednesday that there has been some improvement shown in the woolen manufacturing business during the past week or ten days will be of interest to many workers in this territory who find employment in this line.

Henry C. Claus of Springfield visited friends in Danielson Wednesday.

Under the milder temperature of the past two days state highways have buckled in places in this vicinity. Excavators who have been at work during the present week say that there is about 30 inches of frost in the ground.

More attention than ever will be placed.

At Dayville, ice was being harvested Wednesday from the ponds above the carhouse of the Connecticut company. Heavy ice of good quality is being housed.

Officers from the Danielson barracks will be in Hartford today (Thursday) attending the school of instruction for state policemen. Half the local officers will go to Hartford today and the remainder of the force here will be in the state capital tomorrow.

Sessions in the new Plainfield High school will begin next Monday morning. There is to be a public reception Saturday evening and an opportunity will be given to inspect this fine new high school building, which is at Central Village, close by the state highway leading to Wauregan.

The first successful raid for intoxicants made recently resulted Wednesday in the seizure of a quantity at a farm near Wauregan. This case will be before a justice's court in Central Village today.

A sunset of gorgeous coloring Wednesday evening seemed to be a marvelous mockery of the weather man's efforts to foretell a storm for the post few days. The sunset was as exquisitely beautiful as those that often mark a summer night.

PUTNAM

Putnam's grand list as compiled by the assessors has been reduced $110,942 by the board of relief, which has just completed its deliberations. Sharp reductions on mill and water power properties account for the greater part of the decrease, these reductions made on representations of mill interests that the properties in question were over-assessed as compared with other similar mill properties in New England, in which territory the textile business is now struggling against the severe handicap of southern competition with a consequent lessening of the value of cotton mills in this part of the country. A reduction of $69,582 has been allowed by the board of relief on the property of hte Putnam Manufacturing company and a reduction of $45,000 on the remaining holdings of the Nightingale-Morse corporation, which formerly operated three mills here. The Nightingale-Morse company has sold its mills, retaining a water power privilege only, and the value of this has been established by the board of relief through estimating its selling value.

A reduction of $5,000 has been granted Kaminsky & Wolfe, another of $3,600 to the George A. Keach estate, one of $3,300 to Remie Aprin and one of $800 to Lewis F. Battey. There are some other minor reductions.

As revised by the board of relief the grand list now totals $6,694,048, an increase of $117,000 over the figures for last year.

The board of relief is made up of Joseph Plessis, F. W. Seward and F. H. Smith.

Of general interest throughout this section of the state is the nomination of Mrs. Mary B. Bishop of this city to be consulting registrar of the state organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The election of officers of the state organization is to be held at Center church, New Haven, in March.

Mrs. Bishop is a former regent of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter of this city. Mrs. Bishop is particularly well fitted for the office for which she has been nominated, having been interested in historical and genealogical records for many years. Her most recent work along these lines has been the preparation of the lineage papers in connection with the Children of the American Revolution, which she organized the past fall, with 15 charter members.

Her first public interest in these matters appeared in 1897, when she was organizing regent of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter of this city, and her interest has since been maintained.

Mrs. Bishop is a life member of the New England Historic and Genealogical society, a member of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants and a member of the Society of Founders and Patriots of America.

Silence reigned Wednesday in the publicity division of the Putnam Taxi Drivers' association. There was no one to give out the obituary, if it may be considered such, of the organization's bowling team, which went down to a crushing defeat before the onslaught of Hazen's Pets in another series of games rolled Tuesday evening. After playing brilliantly throughout the season, the Taxi rollers have met their masters in the Hazen five. The taxi men were sad Wednesday. Their hopes of further fame appeared to have been shattered.

Mrs. Mary G. Sherman, 70, is dead at her home here after an illness of about two years. Mrs. Sherman who passed away Tuesday afternoon, was born in Woodstock, and lived there for years. In 1877, she married Lewis W. Sherman, who died in 1899. Mrs. Sherman leaves two daughters, Miss Ernestine, supervisor at the Putnam central office of the Southern New England Telephone company and Mrs. Joseph Munroe, of Warren, R. I., and a son, Dr. Byron G. Sherman, who is practicing in New Jersey. All the children are graduates of Putnam High school.

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. James Day of Pomfet of the marriage February 14 of their daughter, Mrs. Etta G. Hall and Nelson V. Willett of Hartford, the marriage taking place on the 80th anniversary of the bride's father.

Owing to illness in the family the wedding was made a very quiet affair. The marriage ceremony was performed at the home by Rev. George A. Barker of the Pomfet Congregational church. The bride's daughter, Mrs. Emma Smith and her husband, Leonard Smith, married December 3 of last year, were the witnesses of the marriage.

County Agent Frank L. Davis of this city and George E. Deane, Woodstock, secretary of the Quinebaug Fruit Growers' association, were at South Windham Tuesday attending a Dairymen's institute. Mr. Deane was one of the speakers, his talk being on the subject The Farm Flock as a Side Line to Dairying. The Dairymen's institute is an annual event conducted by the Windham County Farmers' association and the State Dairymen's association.

Lucien Barker, 28, is progressing so favorably following an operation at the Day Kimball hospital that his recovery is now hopefully looked forward to. Mr. Barker recently was kicked in the pit of the stomach by a horse so severely injured that an operation was necessary to relieve his condition. Mr. Barker is a resident of Pomfret.

At the Baptist parsonage last Saturday, a return at the office of the town clerk shows, Miss Florence R. Rhodes and Burt Webster were united in marriage. The attendants were Mrs. Mabel Rhodes, of Oxford, mother of the bride, and Horace Rhodes, of Putnam.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer has collected practically all the money due the state for taxes by certain individuals and firms in this city. Sheriff Ayer was given papers a few days since with orders to collect the unpaid taxes or to committ those who owed them to jail until such time as the taxes were paid.

State Attorney Charles E. Searls who has been in the south since January is expected to return here Friday.

Clergymen are to come here next Monday for a Citizens' Alliance institute to be conducted under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon league. There are to be afternoon and evening sessions. Samuel Small is to be one of the speakers.

Thomas Tracy of Bristol, district deputy exalted ruler, made an official visitation to the Putnam lodge of Elks Tuesday evening.

Wednesday, he Salvation army began remodeling operations on the brick block it acquired some months ago in Union street. The first work to be done is the moving of one of the stairways.

How Shall We Think of the Kingdom of God? will be Rev. S. E. Gozad's topic at tonight's prayer meeting at the Congregational church.

WOMAN AILING FOR A YEAR

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa.—"I was all run-down and everybody thought I was going into a decline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my right side so that I could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was failing. I was not able to do any work and had a nurse most of the time. She spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some women think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better and am able ever since to do my own housework. There was a time, when I would complain of not feeling well, that my husband would say, 'Go to the doctor.' But now he will tell me to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's, and it has always helped me. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now, for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who cares to call or write, I will be glad to tell her how it helped me."—Mrs. MABEL LIST SHERRARD, 516 Newell Ave., Newcastle, Pa.

Are We Extravagant?

Here are some costs on Studebaker cars—

Would you have us cut them down?

WE are lavish on Studebaker cars. For some features we pay three and four times what they need cost.

Here are some of those costs which affect you. Tell us—would you want any one reduced?

Our prices on high-grade Sixes run from $1025 to $2685. They stand at bottom in the fine-car field, despite these extra costs. All because the demand requires 150,000 cars per year.

But they could be lower if we cut these costs. Would you have us do it?

Engineering—$500,000

Our engineering departments cost us $500,000 yearly.

Our Department of Research and Experiment employs 125 skilled men. It spends vast sums in analyses and tests.

Our Bureau of Methods and Standards fixes every formula, every requirement. It makes 500,000 tests per year to maintain our high standards.

We make 30,000 inspections on every Studebaker car during manufacture before it goes out of the factory. We employ 1,200 men to do that.

Those are heavy costs. But remember how they are divided — by 150,000 cars per year. They form but a trifle per car.

$50,000,000 in plants

We have invested $50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment. $8,000,000 in drop forge plants. $10,000,000 in body plants — as the only way to do Studebaker coach work.

These plants are equipped with 12,500 up-to-date machines, many of them very expensive.

But consider the alternative. Profits to other makers. We save up to $300 for you by building Studebaker bodies in our own body-plants.

15% extra on steel

On some steels we pay a bonus of 15% to the maker. Just to get our formulas exact. We could save that extra on "commercial runs."

We are one of the very few builders, either in Europe or America, using crankshafts machined on all surfaces. It costs us $600,000 a year to give you this. But it results in that smoothness of operation, that lack of vibration which characterizes only the most expensive cars.

Every Studebaker car is Timken-equipped. The Special-Six and the Big-Six have more Timken bearings than any car selling under $5,600 in America. The Light-Six more than any competitive car within $1,500 of its price.

Don't Buy a Fine Car
until you see the leaders

Last year, 145,167 people chose them against all rivals. They paid $201,000,000 for them.

For 72 years the Studebaker name has stood for the utmost in quality. It will never stand for less.

Today there are assets of $90,000,000 staked on the Studebaker cars.

Don't pay $1,000 or more for a car without knowing what Studebaker offers. You will find here some scores of advantages. Learn what they mean to you.

Other costly extras

Our bodies are finished with 18 operations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

We use real leather upholstery. We could cut the price of our open models $25.00 were we willing to use imitation instead of genuine leather.

We upholster our closed models in the finest Chase Mohair. Cotton or ordinary wool, or a combination of both, would enable us to reduce our price from $100 to $150 per car. But we would thus sacrifice Studebaker quality and reputation.

The many extras on our large closed cars would cost much if you bought them. The nickel-plated bumpers, the extra disc wheels and cord tires, the steel trunk, the courtesy light, motometer, etc.

Extras to our men

We pay the highest labor scale. Then we add extras to it.

Men who are with us five years or over get 10% of their year's wages in an anniversary check. Those anniversary checks last year cost us $1,300,000.

After two years all employes get a week of vacation with pay. That cost us last year $225,000.

Old employes who retire get pensions.

All this to keep men with us while they grow more and more efficient. To make them happy, so they do their best.

This is all paid by people who buy Studebaker cars. But we figure that each such dollar saves us five dollars. Don't you agree with us?

The utmost in car value

The object is to give you the utmost in car value. You will find we do that if you make comparisons. In any Studebaker model, you will find scores of ways in which it excels any rival car.

That is why, in the fine-car field, the Studebaker leads. The demand has almost trebled in the past three years. These cars have become the sensation of Motordom. On some of these models we have never yet been able to meet the demand.

We spend money lavishly. We build without regard to cost. But, in our quantity production, we still bring costs to bottom.

AGAINST "PORK BARREL" BILLS.

Word comes from Washington to the effect that the president is firmly opposed to all "pork barrel" legislation. The administration is going to stand back of the budget figures and from the amount of legislation that is being asked involving huge appropriations over and above the budget, it can be appreciated that the chief executive feels it is time that his attitude was made known.

One demand for large appropriations outside of the budget simply stimulates others to put in a demand for other raids upon the treasury. There is a peculiar impression that the amount of funds which the government has at command is limitless. The idea exists that all that is necessary is to make the demands in order to have wishes fulfilled. Little or no thought is given as to where the money is going to be obtained. And this same view exists in spite of the demand for and the efforts that are underway for a reduction in taxation.

Certainly it cannot be expected that the government can cut down the taxes and yet run into a wild orgy of spending. That is the very condition which the budget system was intended to overcome. It doesn't matter with good business administration, whether it happens to be a private corporation, an individual or the government of city, state or nation.

It is folly to talk about tax reduction if there is going to be so much "pork barrel" legislation that subsequent taxes must be made higher, and perhaps new ones levied in order to make up for the certain deficit. And it is to be remembered that there is already a huge debt which the country desires to see reduced instead of increased.

Hardly consistent is the position of President Coolidge in not only indicating that treasury raids would not be countenanced but in indicating that attitude now. That the country will give endorsement to it, quite the same as it has to the tax cutting plan, is unquestioned.

PROTECTING THE SCHOOL-HOUSES.

Cranston, R. I., has not experienced a serious loss of life and property as the result of fire in a schoolhouse, but its residents are nevertheless determined to avoid that very thing, and the demands that are being made are based upon the important work of prevention.

Attention is being called to the fact that not a schoolhouse in that town is fireproof. For the purpose of getting action conditions in certain of the schools are referred to as "an absolute menace" and "certainly high time something was done." The demand is for the betterment of existing conditions and the placing of fire escapes on wooden buildings. It is realized that the abandonment of the present buildings would be unreasonable but there is an insistence that whenever any more schoolhouses are constructed that they be of fireproof material.

This must be regarded as taking time by the forelock. Schoolhouses that are firetraps are unjustified. Most states have laws which require schoolhouses to be fully equipped with fire escapes, with doors opening outward and with provisions for the prevention of fires, to say nothing of the school regulations calling for the drilling of the children so that they will make orderly exits should any fire break out.

But how many localities are there which are in a similar position to this Rhode Island city! They come to light all too often. Schoolhouses are being burned every day and there is no such thing as providing too much safety for the children in crowded schools.

Clearly the time for action is before anything happens. The desirable thing is the school building that is fireproof, and Cranston is not alone in having no such building, but that doesn't stand in the way of devoting the proper amount of attention to the placing of needed safeguards about the existing buildings as long as they are serviceable. The Cranston demands may well cause other communities to give consideration to the same preventive and protective measures.

HENRY FORD ON TAXES.

In connection with the tax reduction measure now before congress there is food for thought in the interview which Henry Ford gave last week upon the need of eliminating politics from the question of taxation.

There has been a disposition shown thus far to fight the reduction of the surtaxes, and to indicate thereby that the burden of meeting the taxation was to be kept on the shoulders of the rich. That may have its appeal for a certain number who imagine much more is being paid in the way of taxes by the rich than is actually the case. There is none too much thought given to the fact that the high taxes means that the little fellow as well as the big fellow pays. If he doesn't do it in the way of direct taxes he does it indirectly by the effect which those high taxes have upon his living costs.

Declaring that it is high time that we got to thinking straight on taxes, that taxation should be as unpolitical as our daily bread and that it should be regarded from the standpoint of the cost of living, Mr. Ford made the statement that had high taxes been in effect when he started into the business of making autos he could not have produced cars for less than $1500 apiece and then only under very low wages. He laid stress upon the fact that he would never have been able to have put back into the business what was required to develop it and lower prices.

He directed attention to the bearing which high taxes have upon production costs, and the production costs upon the price which the little fellow has to pay for his manufactured products.

Mr. Ford is an advocate of the Mellon plan, and argues that it is important to the little fellow, even the one who doesn't pay taxes, and is necessary for the country if there are to be the proper benefits from tax reduction. Mr. Ford is one of those captains of industry who may stand in a little different position than some of the others. He puts forth wholesome and timely advice on taxation.

THE BOY SCOUT BUDGET

Doing something for the future citizens is an effort in which everyone should not only be interested but in which all should be active participants. It means better citizenship and such an endeavor is enough to inspire generous support.

Norwich has had an opportunity for a number of years to note the good effects of the Boy Scout movement. It has seen the many troop activities, come to understand the excellent points of the work recognized, the valuable instructions and training and realized that a real advantage was being conferred upon the boys who align themselves with such an organization.

Recognition of the merits of the work have been general. The organization is engaged in real constructive and protective work. It is of great advantage to any community that there should be such an organization at work within its midst.

In the direction of the Scout work Norwich and some of the surrounding towns have had the benefit of a scout executive for the past few years. The benefits of this evidence of growth and development have been freely manifested. At the present time the raising of the budget for the continuance of this work is underway. Contributions already made make it evident that there is a recognition of the need of maintaining the efforts in behalf of the citizens of tomorrow. The budget has not been raised, but with the general support of those who know the value of such work for a community there should be no question about the ultimate success.

Such a worthy cause is deserving of generous encouragement. It is far preferable to do something for the boys through Scouting principles than to deplore the lack of such an organization and the influence it exercises upon those being prepared for manhood. It is a grand method of insuring better citizenship.

A DAILY COMIC SECTION.

Changes take place in newspapers quite the same as they do in other lines of business activity. New methods are constantly being employed, new features added and there are many experiments as to size, makeup and general contents. There is no reason to expect that all newspapers would be alike in appearance. For a long time there has been a marked contrast between the features of the weekday and Sunday editions. Many papers have turned strongly to putting forth features which have to undergo tremendous stretching in order to be regarded as news. They unquestionably see a demand for such matter, though news is missing, and hasten to cater to it.

This week the Waterbury American, an evening newspaper of high standing, has introduced a feature which is at least new to the Nutmeg state. Many papers have included half and three-quarter pages of cartoons and funny strips for the entertainment of their readers. The Waterbury American has adopted the Sunday paper plan, but now issued a four-page comic section in colors daily from its own press.

It is a development that attracts more attention because it is so in contrast to the American of the past. It is of the same excellent grade of work that has characterized its presswork of the past. The American has reason to be pleased with the output of its new equipment. Whether it is leading the procession by this venture into new fields for a daily newspaper remains to be seen. Does it mean that the comic is demanded daily? The experiment will show.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If Greece and Turkey should agree to curtail naval construction, both would probably make mental reservations.

France has come to the realization that it must pay taxes of such an amount as to make it hard to believe the war is over.

The man on the corner says: There's not much satisfaction in scoffing at the weather; we usually get it sooner or later.

After being thrown from his horse think what a lot of worrying the British would be in for should the prince of Wales go in for airplaning.

The ruler of Egypt seems to think there are others who have confidence enough to enter into another contract with him over King Tut's tomb.

It has been decided Germany must pay about a million as reparations for sinking the Lusitania. That "must pay" probably has a familiar ring to Germany.

It will probably make no difference but Great Britain will be interested in knowing that Samuel Gompers strongly opposes the recognition of soviet Russia by the British labor government.

After getting the trimming that he did four years ago one might expect that J. M. Cox would consider himself as down and out as far as a democratic nomination for the presidency was concerned.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

I often wonder why mother is so very fond of Betty, my Uncle Bob's wife, for I myself, do not find her particularly agreeable notwithstanding the fact that before her marriage we were great friends. I fancy that because she captured my bachelor uncle she thinks her position in the family a notch or so above mine.

Futhermore, I consider the extravagant attention she pays to both mother and Aunt Rachel simply amounts to toadyism.

For instance, today mother asked me whether I could help her tie a comfort that she was making for the church guild bazaar.

"Why doesn't Cousin Fannie help you, dearie?" I asked.

"She has something of her own to finish for the bazaar," said mother in an injured tone. "If you don't wish to help, I can get along."

"I should love to help, but I have to go to a luncheon."

I was glad that she did not inquire about the luncheon for it was rather a tentative date that I had.

George Requier had asked me to call him up any day that I was downtown and go to lunch with him, and I suddenly felt that he would be hurt if I put him off any longer. As it turned out he was all day in court, and I had to buy my own lobster sandwiches and chocolate parfait.

When I got home I found mother and Betty gayly tying the comfort. They seemed happy.

"I am so glad that I happened to phone your mother this morning, Lucile, and find out what she was doing," said Betty. "You know I adore tying comforts, so I came right down, and we have had the best kind of visit together, haven't we?"

"Yes, indeed," agreed mother, patting Betty's hand.

"You darling!" said Betty, leaning across the narrowing comfort, which had been almost all rolled on the frames and giving mother a kiss.

"Oh, Lucile," asked mother, "you returned that black net evening dress of Betty's, didn't you?"

"What evening dress?" I inquired. "I don't know what you mean."

"Why Betty was just telling me that she has searched high and low for her black net evening dress which she wishes to have brought up to date, and she can't find it. I remembered that you wore it to the Harnett's dance last spring."

"Oh, do you mean that old black one with the lace flounce? Why, that was hopelessly out of style and I wore it because the dance was a hard times party. I was a scream in it. It was so absurdly ancient."

"Yes," said Betty, "I remember now, I was away when you borrowed it. Molly told me that you came out and helped yourself to it, and I thought you had returned it in the same way, some time when I was absent."

"You don't mean Betty, that you actually thought of having that gown made over? Why, my dear, it was positively hopeless!"

"Lucile!" exclaimed mother, reprovingly. "Get the gown, and let Betty take it home, if she will be so kind, and no doubt she and Miss Barker will concoct something lovely out of it."

"Haven't the gown, mother."

"Haven't it!" exclaimed mother and Betty in chorus.

"No, I never imagined that Betty would want it again, so I contributed it to the White Dragon rummage sale, when I was asked for something. You know the proceeds all go to such good causes, Betty dear."

"I know that that dress was entirely too good to be sold for almost nothing at a rummage sale and I thought Aunt Rachel, who gave it to me, would be awfully pleased to have me use it again this season, and I——"

"Lucille, I don't see how you could do such a thing," broke in mother, and she and Betty looked at each other in such a way that I went to my own room and left the two sympathetic souls together.

There are times when it really seems as if mother liked Betty better than she does me, her only daughter. —Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dr. C. H. Livermore.

Mr. Editor: The Eastern Connecticut friends of Dr. Charles H. Levermore, the winner of the Bok peace prize read with much interest the article about the family in The Bulletin of Tuesday, Feb. 26. Some of us know how deep and loyal has been his friendship for his friends in Goshen all of these years. Just as a matter of exactness, it may be an added item of interest to know that Mr. Levermore prepared for Yale at the Hopkins grammar school in New Haven, after the removal of the family to North Haven. He entered Yale in 1875, graduating in 1879—being a classmate, and intimate friend of S. P. Willard, of Colchester, in whose home he was always a welcome visitor.

In the Yale Alumni Weekly, Feb. 22, we find this paragraph as a part of the article on "A Rejuvenated Hopkins," which is of interest, also, to Norwich people:

"In the present day there are many brilliant men who once were Hopkins boys. Among them are John Hays Hammond, a member of the world court congress in 1914-15, and chairman of the United States coal commission, an internationally known mining engineer; Colonel Edward M. House, the distinguished diplomatist and aide of President Wilson in all difficult international negotiations; Dr. Richard E. Strong of Harvard, authority on tropical diseases; Dr. Charles H. Levermore, the winner of the Bok peace prize; Judge Simeon E. Baldwin, authority on international law; and the Rev. Benjamin Bacon, a theologian and New Testament scholar of world-wide distinction."

Very sincerely yours,

(MISS) ABBY G. WILLARD.

NEEDING MORE WOMEN IN INSPECTION WORK

That State Labor Commissioner Harry MacKenzie has found by experience that the claims of the Consumers' league in pressing for action during the last legislature looking to the doubling of the number of woman deputy factory inspectors were well founded, that he has actually been compelled by the volume of the work to assign extra women for the service, utilizing a contingent fund, and is planning to have a bill introduced in the next general assembly calling for the appointment of four deputies is contained in a statement just issued by the league. Commissioner MacKenzie Monday confirmed the truth of this statement and said "It is obviously impossible for two women to do the amount of work demanded in the inspection of stores, restaurants and bakeries.

The statement issued by the Consumers' league follows:

"The women of the state who are conversant with affairs and interested in the enforcement of the laws to protect woman and child laborers in Connecticut were greatly disappointed at the treatment given the Consumers' league bill to double the number of women deputy factory inspectors by the labor committee of the last legislature. This committee reported a substitute bill, to add one more deputy to the force, who might be a man, appointed by the labor commissioner. This was done, nothwithstanding the fact, that according to the last report of the labor department, the women deputies had averaged about three times as many inspections as the men, had issued on the average about three times as many orders, had brought all the prosecutions, compiled the entire report of the labor commissioner, and done their own card and filing work, whereas the men had turned theirs over to the stenographer. The men, moreover, had made no report of the enforcement of the law in restaurants which had been assigned them.

"The women were more than disappointed, felt aggrieved in fact, when the labor commissioner gave the new appointment to a man, making the force of deputies consist of eight men and two women. Commissioner MacKenzie has discovered, however, after six months' experience with the administrative work of the department of labor that he has an insufficient force of worker sto enforce the labor laws in so many thousands of factories, stores, restaurants, bakeries, etc. Connectiect, it may be said, is the most industrial state in the union, if we estimate on the basis of the number of plants to the acreage.

"Commissioner MacKenzie permits the following statement to be made public as to the organization of the office of factory inspection and his plans for the future: "Eight men and two women deputies have been appointed. The two women are Miss Lou Meehan and Miss Sarah Apter. The two women are assigned the enforcement of all the laws relating to women and children employed in the factories; such as the eight-hour law for children and the fifty-five hour week for women, the toilet law, etc. Each has her own district to cover. They do their own card and filing work. The stores, restaurants and bakeries, however, were not taken care of by this arrangement. Therefore, in order to meet the shortage of women deputies required for a proper inspection of the stores, the commissioner has drawn upon the contingent fund of the department of labor to employ two special women investigators, who belong in the bureau of labor statistics, not in the office of factory inspection. They are, however, actually enforcing the law in stores, restaurants, bakeries, etc., by reporting violations to the factory inspector, who himself signs the orders sent out to employers on the basis of their reports.

"It is clear that a contingent fund cannot long be used in this way. Therefore, Commissioner MacKenzie gives out the following statement for publication: He expects to introduce a bill at the next legislature calling for the appointment of eight male deputies for the inspection of boilers and for general inspection, as at present, two extra male deputies for the inspection of elevators, one extra male deputy for follow-up inspection to see whether orders have been complied with or not; four female deputies, two to inspect factories and two to inspect stores, restaurants, bakeries, etc.

"This will double the number of female deputies employed today and is the number that the Consumers' league bill asked for in 1923. This plan is naturally subject to change.

"The labor commissioner is showing a friendly disposition toward the protection of the women and children employed in industry in Connecticut. The Consumers league has received two good reports of the thorough work being done by the two women deputies, and believes that the women of the state may congratulate themselves on the prospect of good enforcement of the law by our department of labor. Commissioner MacKenzie is taking the first step toward proper enforcement by securing a sufficient force of workers. The next step, that their work be thorough and courageous, will depend upon the requirements that he makes of them and the backing he gives them. There appears every reason to believe that our commissioner is alive to this fact and will see to it that the state is well served."

UNDERSTANDING.

By Elisa M. Carroll, in Southern Literary Magazine.

I let your grave grow blossoming with sweet wild things,
You loved your freedom so!
I could not rake it neatly into little vales and hills,
I could not plant it in a careful row
Of prim, sedate, white hyacinths or upright yellow daffodils,
I could not even buy a bunch of violets set in a stiff ruff of leaves
And put it in a china vase above your head—

Oh, no! Your joyous spirit like a glad, free bird, dear dead,
Would love the clover blooms, the daisies, all the young green grass;
Would laugh with the soft tender winds that stir them as they pass.
I know, and I will leave it so, your grave.

I made them dig it close to a gay, singing stream,
Where on soft summer nights little prattling children play
And wandering underneath the stars to dream.
Young lovers stray.
Your soul's rare gladness for less happy ones I did so crave
That they dance over you, and laugh and sing—
Not knowing that from out your blossoming wild grave
Their sweetest joys spring.

WEALTH.

There's wealth that is silver and gold;
There's wealth that is houses and lands;
There's wealth that can never be told
In terms that the world understands.

The best wealth—remember this truth,
Though mystical always it seems—
Is nothing substantial; in sooth,
Is nothing but visions and dreams.

O, cherish it, Youth! 'tis a part
Of life at its brightest and best;
Make room for it, Age, in your heart,
And be of its blessings possest!
Ralph H. Shaw, in Boston Transcript.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The population of the world is increasing about 20,000,000 a year.

In the salt mine at Tordo, Roumania, there is a gallery known as the Joseph gallery, where one may hear his voice echoed and re-echoed sixteen times.

It is estimated that if half the acreage which is now occupied by hedge rows in England and Wales were sown in wheat there would be a yield sufficient to supply bread for more than 1,000,0000 people for a whole year.

Probably no other woman in the world knows so much about coins and coinage as Miss Mary O'Reilly, assistant director of the United States mint. Miss O'Reilly has been employed in the office of the director of the mint for nearly twenty years and on numerous occasions has been in supreme charge.

Porpoises live on fish, and recent examinations of the stomachs of the porpoises show that it takes many fish to keep them from having that hollow feeling. A clew to the number of fish on the dietary list of an active porpoise may be had from the number of otoliths or earbones of fish found in the stomach of sea mammal. One porpoise has yielded enough of these to account for the consumption of 7,596 fish, and since these otoliths are thought to be dissolved in the stomach in a period of no great length, the fish eating proclivities of the porpoise may be estimated.

LIVELY BLAZE STARTS AT OTIS ST. GAUZE FACTORY

Fire, probably igniting from a spark from one of the machines, considerably damaged the lower floor of the American Gauze and Cotton company's two-story plant at No. 63 Otis street, late Wednesday afternoon. The fire department was called out by telephone and several pieces of apparatus were rushed to the scene. When the firemen arrived practically the whole interior of the ground floor of the plant was blazing up as the flames spread like lightning through the piles of cotton. Dense smoke was pouring from the building.

Two lines of hose were quickly laid and well directed streams of water soon squelched the flames. However, it was necessary to tear apart a number of bales of cotton in which the fire was smouldering and soak them down with water. Some of the burning cotton was thrown out into the alley.

About 7 o'clock some of the cotton again blazed up and people living in the neighborhood called out the department by phone. The second story of the building suffered little damage, practically all the damage being confined to the lower floor.

Mrs. Frank S. Wilson of Otis street furnished the firemen coffee which they greatly appreciated.

FORECLOSURE SUIT FOR $40,000 BALANCE ON WATER ST. MORTGAGE

Alleging that there has been default in payment of principal and interest on a $43,000 mortgage on the so-called Olympic hall property on Water street, which was a part of the estate of the late J. B. Shannon, suit has been brought by his widow, Katherine C. Shannon, and his daughter, Valerie S. Foran, both of New London, to foreclose the $40,000 balance on the mortgage.

Paper in the suit which were drawn by J. J. Desmond were filed Wednesday in the office of Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court, directing the action against Max Silberman of Fleischmans, New York, and the trustee of his bankrupt estate, Henry B. Sewell of Sidney, N. Y., as principal defendants, with Harry U. Rosenthal and Max Rosenthal of Manhattan, New York city, and Abner Schwartz of this city, as party defendants.

It is the claim made in the suit that the defendant, Silberman, owed the plaintiffs $43,000 on March 11, 1922, for which the mortgage was given as security. The mortgage was to be paid as follows: $3,000 six months after the date of the note; $1,000 at the end of each six months period thereafter for 10 successive years; and the balance of $20,000 at the end of six months after the close of the 10 year period; together with interest on the principal sum and on the respective unpaid balances thereof, at 6 per cent, payable semi-annually, in advance from the date of the note.

The first installment of $3,000, due Sept. 11, 1923, has been paid, but no other installment payment on the principal has been made and interest from Mch. 11, 1922, to Sept. 11, 1922 and from Sept. 11, 1922, to Mch. 11, 1923, has been paid, and in May, 1923, the sum of $350 was paid on account of the interest for the half year ending Sept. 11, 1923, but no more has been paid on account of the interest on the note. There is an unpaid balance of $40,000 on the note and mortgage, together with the accrued and unpaid interest, which now becomes due under the terms of the mortgage providing that default in any payment the entire amount should become due and payable.

Two of the party defendants named, Harry U. and Max Rosenthal claim a $22,500 mortgage on the premises and Abner Schwartz claims a $15,000 mortgage both accruing after the plaintiffs' mortgage.

The first count is on a note for $1,000 dated Nov. 14, 1922, and the second count alleges that on April 1, 1923, the plaintiff was elected secretary and treasurer by the defendant and it was agreed that he was to draw no pay until the plant in Groton began operations. But he should be reimbursed for such expenses as he went to an officer of the company. These amounted to $237.48, it is claimed, and O'Connor has not been reimbursed.

ROTARY CLUB TO STAGE MASS. TECH PLAY HERE

It was definitely decided at the monthly business meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel to put on the annual play of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the Palace theatre on Friday evening, March 14 This action was taken after the club had thoroughly discussed the matter and the club voted to leave the matter to the board of directors. At a meeting of the directors following the regular business session it was voted to put on the show at the Palace theatre on the evening of March 14th.

The "Tech Show" as it is known is an annual event with the student body of Massachusetts Tech, the author of the show, the players, scenic effects and everything, in fact, connected with the performance is by the students of the school. The play is usually given in but five cities Boston, New York, Providence, Hartford and Northampton, Mass., and it comes to Norwich this year because the author of the play is a Norwich boy, who is a student at the school.

Witter Tingley Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Cook of this city, is the author of this year's play, which is entitled The Hidden Idol. It is a musical comedy with the plot laid in picturesque Turkestan. The characters of the play and chorus are all M. I. T. students, who have been rehearsing since last November. E. P. Dunleavy is business manager of the production and R. P. Price is the stage manager. The cast has been coached by R. L. Harlowe. The scenic and lighting effects are on even a larger scale than many of the metropolitan productions.

Mr. Cook, the author of the play, is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy and will be graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in June. His play, The Hidden Idol, is his first work along this line, although he has written several shorter stories that have appeared in the Voo Doo, the Tech paper, on which he is an associate editor. Mr. Cook was in Norwich last week and spoke very highly of the Palace theatre where the production is to be put on.

The proceeds from this production will be turned over to the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Work Fund and it is expected that the fund will be materially increased as already there have been many requests for tickets.

Among other matters discussed at the meeting was the annual Ladies' night of the club and it was decided to hold it on Wednesday evening, April 23rd. William G. Park, who is chairman of the special committee, has already started plans to make this the best event of its kind yet held by the club.

Chairman Russell A. Clapp of the programme committee announced that the song leaders for next month would be Eben Learned, Joseph C. Worth, Louis A. Wheeler and William G. Park.

President Saxton called attention to the Knights of Columbus minstrels on March 3 and 4, also to the Lions club charter meeting, which will be held at the Wauregan on Friday evening.

Lewis M. Carpenter, chairman of the local spring conclave committee, made a report in which he said that a good delegation of Norwich members had signified their intention of attending the conclave, which will be held in New Britain.

The musical part of the meeting on Wednesday was in charge of Nathan A. Gibbs and John A. Ferguson, who acted as song leaders. These two boys kept the club members exercising their vocal talents to the limit. One of the special features introduced by the leaders was a delightful duet by Bert Gager and Georgie Ingalls and another of equal pleasure by Lew Young and Adelard Morin. Another entertaining feature of the luncheon program was the solo by Lucius Briggs, who has given up elocution and taken up singing as a diversion, both of which he executes with equal ability and charm.

There was a large attendance at the meeting, there being only four absentees. The local club is leading the Meriden club in the attendance contest by a small margin. The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

The body of an unidentified man was found on the New Haven tracks about a quarter of a mile north of the Windsor Locks station.

GAVE FAMILY ALBUM AND TWELVE OLD MAIDS

The Family Album and Twelve Old Maids, presented Wednesday evening under the auspices of the ways and means committee of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church, scored decisive hits with an audience of 400 at the Community house on Church street and gave two hours of delightful fun for the participants and those whom their programme entertained.

Mrs. H. W. Gallup as Elmina Peers, who turned over the pages of the family album, told the family secrets and the merits or shortcomings of each individual in droll phraseology did this in a very effective manner and the pictures were finely posed as follows:

Mother, Margaret Campbell
Father, Henry G. Peck
Me As a Little Girl, Alice C. Higgins
Alexander, my husband,
Rev. A. H. Abbott
Me As a Bride, Gertrude Gallup
The Twins,
Elizabeth and Katherine Zumbro

Sister Jane's Husband,
Alfred Bliven
Sister Jane's Oldest daughter,
Mabel Crowe
Sister Jane's youngest daughter,
Emma J. Thompson

After a brief intermission during which organ selections were rendered by Frederick W. Lester, the second part of the entertainment was given in the presentation of Twelve Old Maids, a highly amusing representation of a meeting of the Old Maids Union, Local No. 28, in which the discussion centered about how to get a husband. The scene was laid at Dew Drop Inn, a summer hotel, where the proprietress, Mrs. Beamers (Mrs. C. T. Bard) has the Twelve Old Maids as boarders, waited upon by the hired girl, Liza Pearl (Mrs. W. H. Oat). The advent of a fortune teller (Marion Bishop) created a furore of expectation among the old maids as they were telling their experiences in trying to snare eligible males, among whom even the woolen man belonging to the fortune teller is counted. The characters were portrayed with admirable spirit by the following cast whose costuming and acting appropriately fitted the personality of each character:

Mrs. Beamer, a schemer,
Mrs. C. T. Bard
Liza Pearl, hired girl, Mrs. W. H. Oat
Madam Zikiller, fortune teller,
Marion Bishop
Miss Lizzie Lidy, awfully tidy,
Mrs. F. P. Shenk
Selina Zook, an Al cook,
Mrs. Harry Ford
Matilda Finn, who's rather thin,
Mrs. J. A. French
Jemima Routt, a little stout,
Mrs. C. A. Spear
Ethel McWade, a poetical maid,
Elizabeth Lens
Mary Ann Fites, who wants her rights,
Ann Brown
Mandy Menter, from Pumpkin Center,
Mrs. P. O. Roberts
Miss Kate O'Foss, who loves to boss,
Mrs. H. M. Briggs
Loretta McCann, who wants a man,
Ruth Kinney
Cerinthy Fling, does nothing but sing,
Marion Beebe
Lucindy Toots, who elocutes,
Mrs. W. M. Buckingham
Eliza Neff, just slightly deaf,
Mrs. Archibald MacDougall
The Mystic Orann, a wooden man,
Lewis M. Young
Sadie Morgan, at the organ,
Mrs. Archibald Mitchell Jr.

The audience broke into laughter and applause as the names of over a score of irrevocable hardshell Norwich bachelors were brought into the lines and at one point the Desperate Dozen on the platform chorused "If we've made a hit with you just raise your hand," but without visible effect.

The excellent entertainment was under the general management of Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson, who directed the Old Maids, while Mrs. F. W. Lester had charge of the Family Album. The Camp Fire Girls, Miss Elizabeth Smith, guardian, sold home made candy during the evening.

As it was not convenient for the members to note the anniversary on the exac tdate, the 19th, the celebration was held on the 27th. There was an attendance Wednesday of nineteen members and three guests.

The leader, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown presided. During a brief business meeting the sum of $10 was voted to the Margaret Bottome Memorial Home, New York, $5 to the New York Travelers' Aid Society and $5 to the Norwich Boy Scouts.

Guessing and patriotic games afforded much amusement, as did also the contents of a grab bag. Later there was a lunch, served on small tables daintily decorated with pink carnations and sweet peas. There were salads, rolls, olives, pickles, cake, coffee and ice cream. A feature of the feast was a birthday cake, decorated in the color of the King's Daughters, purple, and made by Mrs. Henry F. Cole. This was cut by the leader, Mrs. Brown.

As a result of the grab bag and other enterprises of the afternoon $41.44 was cleared, for the Circle's treasury.

WILL REACH ARGUMENTS IN $7,500 FIRE SUIT

Railroad witnesses occupied the attention of Judge Christopher L. Avery and the jury Wednesday in the superior court at New London in the trial of which the damage suit brought by Jacob Bolton of East Lyme against the New Haven railroad for $7,500 alleging that sparks from a locomotive ignited the timber lands owned by him in East Lyme in April 1923. Counsel for the plaintiff concluded introduction of evidence on Tuesday.

Tony Bunco, trackwalker in the employ of the New Haven railroad was the first witness to testify Wednesday. He told of seeing the fire on the day in question, and described it at some length.

Edward A. Chittenden, a farmer, residing near Stamford, Conn., and J. H. Smith, a farmer, of Waterford were called to the stand by railroad counsel to give their estimates of the damage caused Bohun's property by the blaze. The former placed it at about $250 and the latter at about $200.

Ralph C. Hawley, professor of forestry at Yale university for the past 15 years, testified as an expert on forestry matters. He was examined in detail as to the position of forest fires along railroad tracks.

It is expected that the arguments will be started (Thursday). The case is attracting considerable attention due to the fact that it can be considered in the light of a test case. There are several other claims pending against the railroad as a result of the fire which caused the damage to Mr. Bohun's timberlands and the outcome of this case will, no doubt have a large bearing on the action to be taken on the pending claims. Therefore the case is being fought bitterly, by counsel for both the plaintiff and the railroad.

Feels Made Over

McLoud says friends now remark about his fine health since he took Tanlac. Was physical wreck.

"When I compare my present perfect health with the physical wreck I was a few years ago, I can say Tanlac has accomplished something bordering on the miraculous," is the precise statement of Harry McLoud prominent fraternal order man and veteran employee of the Bethlehem Ship Building Corporation, Sparrows Point, Md.

"Everywhere I go my friends ask me what has given me back such robust health, and I answer with one word—Tanlac.

"At forty-five I was almost a complete physical and nervous wreck, and had to spend fourteen weeks in hospital. About a year and a half ago I took my first Tanlac, and three bottles made a marked improvement in my appetite and general condition. Last March I resumed the treatment and half a bottle a week has run my weight up thirty-five pounds, leaving me just like a man made over Tanlac is simply great."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 4 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

KILLINGLY FIVE LOSES FIRST HOME GAME TO NORTH HIGH OF WORCESTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Feb. 27.—Killingly High basketball team lost its first game on the home floor this season here tonight when the North High five, champion high school basketball team of Worcester, won a fast, clean game, 50 to 32. This makes the fifth defeat that Killingly has suffered this season out of 17 games played. With this record Killingly will probably enter the state championship games which will be played some time next month.

The game tonight was one of the best games played on the local floor this season, being fast and clean from start to finish. North High took the lead early in the game and did not relinquish during the contest. The Worcester boys showed a beautful and bewildering passing game and their defense work was exceptional. The Danielson team played a good game but their floor work was not fast enough to compete with the more developed North High team. Vadas starred for the home team, while Daly, Hartley and Gallant featured for North High.

In the preliminary game the Putnam A. C. five was defeated by the Jolly Five of Danielson. The summary:

"ON THE WATCH FOR WHIRLWINDS."

AT THE BREED THEATRE TODAY

ANNOUNCEMENTS

STRAND THEATRE

A story abounding in thrills and suspense, and carrying through it a study of fear and its control of the human mind, has been made into a photoplay in "Wild Oranges," with King Vidor filmed for the Goldwyn studios. It is the current attraction at the Strand theatre.

"Wild Oranges" is one of the most popular works from the pen of America's most celebrated novelist, Joseph Hergesheimer. It was written and published several years ago, before the author had become so internationally recognized.

Frank Mayo plays admirably the role of John Woolfolk, the man who seeks Virginia Vail as the beautiful girl who has lived her life in the Georgia swamps, seclusion from the world on his yacht. Nigel de Brulier as the aged grandfather who has brought his grand-daughter to the swamps because of his unexplainable fear of humanity, Charles A. Post as the giant Nicholas, the half-wit who lives with the other two in the swamps, and Ford Sterling as Halvard, Woolfolk's sailor, make up the cast. Only five persons appear in the entire picture.

Short subjects include a comedy and new Kinogram.

VAUDEVILLE AT BROADWAY

Another great program of B. F. Keith Vaudeville is being presented at the Broadway theatre for the last half of this week.

The famous theatrical families The Barrys and The Wolfords are featured in the past, present and future generation of vaudeville. They offer a peculiar combination of singing, comedy and dancing as it is, was and will be.

The musical hunters offer "A Morning in the Woods". It is one of vaudeville's keenest novelties. They are sure to register a hit as was scored recently in New York.

Hall & Dexter in "Her First Lesson" offer an eccentric comedy consisting of mirth provoking comedy talk and an impersonation of Charles Chaplin.

Harry Miller and Peggy Fears in "An Episode of Modern Youth", a comedy skit.

AT THE PALACE

The vaudeville bill for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will rank just as highly in entertainment value as the show the last three days of the week. To all of those who saw the show, this announcement means a good deal. Heading the program will be seen the Hori Bros., sons of the East, in feats of agility that are marvelous, every theatregoer knows that in this particular line of entertainment the Jap excels. White and Frank a clever pair of singers who are sure to please with their comedy bits come next on the bill. Goelet and Hall will offer an entertaining variety of songs and melodies mingled with exceptionally clever dancing. Chester and De-Vere, are whirlwind dancers, and the speed they attain beggars description. Margot and Francois in an original eccentric novelty complete a variety of entertainment, which will be hard to improve upon.

Broadway Gold, with Elaine Hammerstein in the role of a young show girl, and with Elliot Dexter and Kathlyn Williams in other important roles will have its premiere at the Palace today.

This picture which was produced under the supervision of Edward Dillon is a screen adaptation of W. Wonderley Carey's story which was a feature in the recent issues of Young's Magazine. It deals with the typical Broadway crowd, of hard working chorus girls, and of the types known as gold diggers.

Mr. Dillon has skillfully used the glittering and frothy background of New York's night life as the setting for the unfolding of his tale, and if we may believe the critics he has successfully carried out his intention of making a picture, unusual for its dramatic elements, and at the same time kept it from overstepping the bounds of probability or possibility.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

State Armory Danielson Friday Eve. Feb. 29.

Paul Whiteman's Steamship orchestra, which is just off the S. S. Leviathan on furlough for a few weeks, and is to play a concert and dance at the State Armory, Danielson, Friday evening, opened their tour in Worcester Tuesday evening and must have been a wonderful and instantaneous success for what The Worcester Telegram under date of Wednesday under the caption Steamship orchestra pleases audience of 1,500 in Mechanics hall, going on to say the following.

More than 1,500 lovers of music crowded Mechanics hall last night to hear Paul Whiteman's Steamship orchestra. The crowd seemed almost equally divided between the devotees by ear and the devotees by foot, the large gallery being filled almost to capacity.

A concert lasting from 8 to 9 o'clock opened the entertainment. Some of the selections were Little Kellie a Kelly Sitting in the Corner, First, Last and Always, I Love You, and Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses. The orchestra came to Worcester under the direction of Keith Pitman, a former Worcester boy.

The members of the orchestra are dressed in regulation deck uniform of white flannel with light blue effects at the collar and cuffs. The management wish it announced that the uniform worn is the dress uniform which the boys wore while playing on the decks and in the various ball rooms of the giant ship Leviathan.

This is the best equipped dance attraction which ever came to show its wares and the prices charged have been set at the lowest figure this orchestra has ever worked for and should be within the means of all lovers of the best in refined music.

Paul Whiteman's Steamship Orchestra at Armory

Paul Whiteman's greatest road attraction, his Steamship orchestra which is enjoying a furlough off Uncle Sam's monster ship the Leviathan since the pride of our merchant marine hit a reef in New York harbor, will be the remarkable attraction which Battery B is fortunate enough in securing for the armory Saturday night.

The concert program will consist of three of Whiteman's latest record fox trots, Linger Awhile, Shanghai Lullaby and Someone Loves you After All, the selection from Mademoiselle Modiste, violin solo, At the Dawning, by Mr. Berne and three screamingly funny comedy numbers by Mr. Pitman.

The orchestra is remarkable by reason of its versatility having on hand ready to play 300 of the latest dance numbers. In addition the band carries scenery which will help the looks of the armory wonderfully.

BREED THEATRE

We see greed and ambition and jealousy and lust chase each other across the silver sheet in multicolored scenes. The work of John Gilbert, we believe, in the delivering of his difficult role, was very satisfactory. The work of conveying to an audience the passions of a man whose character changes in a new climate is admittedly, not easy.

Jane Novak's delicate blonde beauty is superbly set forth against a background of sturdy characters in her first R-C starring vehicle Colleen of the North, which is the second feature on the bill. Miss Novak is a type of strong personal appeal and numbers her admirers by thousands. Her skillful interpretations of outdoor girl characters have established her as an artist of high standing in the realm of the cinema and, according to critics, she is at her best in Colleen of the Pines. The story is full of big situations.

Twists of the Law—Rene Theme

There are six times as many divorces in the United States as in France and Germany and one hundred times as many as in England.

Thousands of couples are legally married in one state, bigamists in another and not married at all in the third. South Carolina grants no divorces. New York, divorces are obtained on two grounds. New Hampshire on fourteen grounds. There are five states in which children can be married at twelve years of age. Virginia is one of them.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given By One Who Had It.

In the year of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Subacute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and subacute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent, simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

So far as the New London police were able to ascertain Johnson leaves no survivors in New London. The New York police stated that among the effects of Johnson was found a bank book issued by the Savings Bank of New London, showing deposits in that institution.

Meyer Hollandersky seems to have forestalled the city in an estimate of the loss by fire at his property near the corner of Pearl street. The city has instructed the inspector of buildings to provide a report on the estimated damage occasioned by the fire with the idea, if the loss is 50 per cent. of the value of the property or more, to decline to issue a permit for the repair of the structure. The building code provides for such action as the council has taken. The insurance company has adjusted the fire loss, Mr. Hollandersky is reported as having said, and that settlement was on a basis of less than 50 per cent. damage. Now the council will await the report from its building inspector. It strikes an observer of the property from the street that the insurance company made a wise decision and that the property is not damaged one-half its value.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

The plaintiffs seek to recover damages for alleged breach of a written contract between them and the town council of Westerly in connection with compensation for land taken in the widening and the straightening of the Shore road in Westerly.

The case was tried before Judge Barrows and a jury in the superior court and the plaintiffs were non-suited on the ground that the committee which assumed to act for the town council in making the contract exceeded their authority, and further that if the town council had authorized or had ratified the contract the same was ultra vires of the town council. The plaintiffs took exceptions to their being non-suited and also to certain rulings of the court in the course of the trial.

The supreme court sustained exceptions to the ruling in the superior court, excluding evidence as to the cost of completing the work provided for in the contract, and also the exceptions to the granting of the nonsuit. The other exceptions of the plaintiffs were overruled. The case is remitted to the superior court for a new trial.

THE PORTEOUS & MITCHELL COMPANY

MARKET WAS DULL.

New York, Feb. 27.—Stock prices displayed a better tone in today's dull market, bear traders inaugurating an extensive covering movement in the late afternoon after an early campaign of short selling had failed to make much headway. The relatively light volume of trading was attributed in some quarters to the fact that several large traders, wintering in Florida, temporarily had switched their speculative operations from the stock to the cotton market.

Extreme weakness of Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues, was one of the features of the day's trading. The common stock established a new low record at 3 1-4 and then rallied to 4 1-4 where it was off nearly 2 points on the day. The preferred sank to 12 1-4, also a new low, and then rallied to 13 5-8, off 3 3-8, as compared with the year's high of 34 3-4.

Late buying of the steel shares was influenced by the weekly trade reviews which indicated that February bookings would equal those of January, the falling off in the east being offset by the sustained activity in the west. U. S. Steel common, selling ex-dividend, closed at 102 1-4. Bethlehem, Crucible, Republic and Gulf States Steels closed fractionally higher. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe common broke nearly 4 1-2 points to 64 as a result of the New Jersey supreme court decision holding that no dividends could be paid on the common stock until after back dividends of approximately $700,000 on the preferred should be cleaned up. The stock rallied to sixty-six at the close. The preferred closed 2 points higher at 87 3-4 after having sold as high as 89.

Copper shares, which turned weak yesterday following the omission of the Anaconda dividend and continued reactionary in today's early dealings, steadied later on publication of London cables announcing higher copper metal prices in Great Britain. Directors of the Kennecott and Inspiration Copper companies meet tomorrow for dividend action.

Baldwin and American Can closed at 122 1-2 and 112 1-2, respectively, each up about a point, after having sold about 2 points below their final quotation. The late rally was started by heavy short covering in these issues. Studebaker, another so-called pivotal stock, also closed about a point higher at 101 3-4.

Oil shares failed to make any appreciable response to reports of further improvement in the statistical position of the industry. The restricted trading in these issues was again attributed to the fear of further unfavorable developments at the Washington oil inquiry and reports that Senator La Follette shortly would introduce a measure regulating the industry.

Trading in the railroad shares was rather sluggish, chief interests centering in the demand for Norfolk and Western, which closed nearly a point higher at 110 1-8, on expectation of another extra dividend this spring. The recent increase in Pennsylvania railroad stockholders was interpreted in some quarters as an indication of increasing public interest in investment stocks.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent, and then advanced to 4 1-2, where it closed. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

Extreme weakness of French and Belgian francs, apparently based on selling influenced by the resignation of the Belgian cabinet on a vote over the economic past with France, was the feature of the foreign exchange market.

BOND MARKET

New York, Feb. 27.—A collapse in the prices of Virginia-Carolina Chemical bond issues, which broke sharply from 3 1-2 to 15 points developed today and exerted a depressing influence on the entire bond list. With the exception of high grade railroad issues, prices generally moved lower.

As a result of heavy liquidation all the Virginia-Carolina issues declined to new low levels. The initial transactions in the 7 1-2s was made at a loss of more than 15 points and the same issue with warrants was also about 15 points lower at the outset of trading, closing with a net loss of 9 1-2 points on the day. The company's 7 per cent bonds, which represent a first mortgage on the property, offered better resistance to selling pressure but were driven down more than three points. Despite an attack on the company's stocks as well, C. G. Wilson, president, declined to comment on its affairs.

Heavy selling of the Anaconda copper issues continued as a result of the omission of the dividend on the stock. Prices declined further in the early dealings but recovered toward the close, with little net change for the day.

Speculative railroad issues generally lost ground, although recessions were confined to fractions. For the first time in recent trading sessions, weakness also developed in public utility bonds. Public service of New Jersey fives were an exception, continuing to gain on reports of impending new financing.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Corn advanced today to a new high price record for the season although the previous top level was reached only 24 hours before. Persistent commission house buying based to a great extent on the decreasing movement from rural holders appeared to be chiefly responsible. Closing quotations were firm, 3-8@1-2 to 7-8c net higher, with May as 32c. Wheat finished 3-8 to 4-8c up, May 110 1-4@3-8 to 110 3-8 and July 110 3-8 to 110 1-2, with oats showing 1-4 to 5-8c gain, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 2c.

Activity characterized the corn market during the entire day, general demand being broader as well as commission house buying whereas offerings except to realize profits were of a scattered character. Rural dissatisfaction with current prices continued to receive much attention as a bullish factor, but the breaking up of country roads appeared also to have more or less to do with curtailing receipts. Besides, bull leaders were inclined to emphasize the nearness of the time when farm deliveries usually halt until after planting. Gossip, too, was dwelt upon that feeding of hogs this season had exceeded last year's total both as to number and weight.

The highest closing level for the crop was witnessed in the corn market. What little corn was booked today to arrive here was promptly taken by shippers who paid a premium for some of it. This circumstance was a late bullish influence and so likewise was a report that the farmers' holding back movement had reached Minnesota in addition to states heretofore named.

Wheat and oats sympathized with corn strength. Wheat was likewise affected by a bullish estimate of farm reserves.

Lower quotations on hogs tended to ease the provision market.

CURB MARKET

Prairie Oil and Gas, which has been heavy recently, jumped 5 1-2 points to 235 and Vacuum moved up 2 1-4 to 3 1-4. Chesebrough Manufacturing, Brone and Sorymser and Swan and Finch, ordinarily inactive, dropped 3 to 5 points. Revival of interest in Lago Petroleum, which moved up to 3 1-2, was the feature of the South American issues. New Mexico Land touched a new high record for the year at 8 1-2 on reports of oil exploration on its property.

Childs company new stock made only a feeble response to the declaration of an initial dividend of sixty cents a share. Centrifugal Cast Iron Pipe declined fractionally in sympathy with the weakness of United States Cast Iron Pipe on the "big board." United Bakeries dropped four points.

GRANT'S HAUGHTON FARM BUILDS AYRSHIRE HERD

Realizing that the bull is the greatest half of the herd, George G. Grant of Taftville, owner of Haughton farm, when he decided to install a profitable dairy on his farm, looked for a bred-for-production sire. His first Ayrshire purchase being a day old bull calf at the National Sale in 1919. This bull, Kitty's Mischief Maker now almost five years old has developed well. His first daughters are coming in milk, the first to be placed on advanced registry test milked 442 pounds the latter half of December. He is by Penhurst Mischief Maker, out of Kitty MacKay of Alderbaran, now on test at nine years of age and milking better than 30 pounds for four months.

The next year at the National Sale Strathglass Dot 2nd was purchased, she was in calf to Strathglass Good Hope, the sire of two daughters with official records averaging 7690 pounds of 4 per cent. milk with first calf. She dropped a bull calf, latter named Haughton Farm Good Hope; he is a grandson of Bargower Dot with four good advanced registry records.

That Mr. Grant is a firm believer in using good bulls is evident in his purchase from the McMillan herd, in Canada, of Springburn Gentleman John; by South Craig Sir John, by Netherton Sir Patrick; out of Springburn Lovely Rose 3rd, a show cow by Lessnesock Golden Love, the only Ayrshire bull to sire a daughter to produce 100 pounds in one day. With the aid of such good bulls Haughton Farm should become very popular in the next decade.

Last year advanced registry work was begun for the first time. Three cows have completed records with splendid yields. Florence Bruce as a four year old gave 10123 pounds of 4.28 per cent milk. Now on test a second time in 106 days has produced 4334 pounds. Her daughter, Florence Bruce Magnificant, tested with first calf, is credited with 7496 pounds of 4.2 per cent milk. Independence Lassie placed on test five days before reaching her eighth birthday gave 11648 pounds of 4.16 per cent. milk. On test again in four months her yield amounts to 4455 pounds. Altogether six cows are now undergoing official test. Haughton Farm Elizabeth is furthest along in lactation, in nine months she has given 10210 pounds of milk. The combined period of lactation of the six cows total twenty-eight months, they have a total milk yield of 28608 pounds.

What is of more than passing interest is the fact that Haughton Farm while established less than five years has been on the Federal Accredited list as tuberculosis free for three years.

Asked why he chose Ayrshires, Mr. Grant said: "Ayrshires are hardy, they are disease resistent. Their constitution enables them to produce profitably over a longer period of years, than most breeds. The product of my dairy is sold as cream. I have plenty of skimmed milk to feed my calves and raise them right. Ayrshires require a minimum amount of feed for maximum production, allowing greater profits. And, finally they are better adapted to the farms of Connecticut."

SEEKS RECEIVERSHIP FOR MYSTIC MANUFACTURING CO.

Suit for a receivership and a dissolution of The Mystic Manufacturing Co. of Stonington has been brought by Eli Giedhill of Stonington, holding 196 shares of the preferred and 1,667 shares of the common stock of the company.

It is claimed in the suit that although said corporation is solvent, all of its funds are invested in factories, lands, fixtures, finished goods, raw materials, etc, but the corporation has no ready cash. It has outstanding obligations of over $155,000 and is unable to obtain such additional raw material as is necessary to complete the manufacture of its finished product and turn the same into cash. Creditors are threatening suit and attachments, which would block the corporation from continuing to operate its plant, collect accounts receivable and carry on its business.

The company has a capital stock of $250,000, divided 1,500 preferred, par $100, and 10,000 common, par $10. Of the preferred stock 236 shares, $23,600, have been subscribed and paid for and are outstanding and the whole issue of common stock is outstanding.

HARTFORD MASTER PAINTERS REFUSE TO RAISE WAGES

The Master Painters' association of Hartford, the members of which, operate their places of business on the closed shop plan, declined Monday to meet the demands of union painters for increased wages and a shorter week. The men asked for a five-day week at $10 a day. They now receive $9 a day for five and a half days.

The master painters say in their statement:

"It is apparent to most any thinking person that the wages of the journeyman painter are high enough to enable him to live in comfort and if inclined to do so save money. In fact, there is no class of workman in the building trades who get more for their labor than the painters. Compared with other trades the painter has to furnish very little in the line of tools, a putty knife, a broad knife, overalls, jumper and duster are his outfit. His employer is obliged to furnish brushes, sponges, ladders and staging, drop-cloths and many other necessary things for which no charge is made to the customer. In addition there is the expense for compensation insurance which is no small item.

"The Master Painters' association favor the employment of union painters and believe in the trade union principles but the demand at this time for more pay and a shorter week we firmly believe to be both unreasonable and unwarranted.

"Each closed shop employs a number of skilled workmen, who, in some cases, cannot be paid their full value, because of the law made by the painters' union, that all painters, regardless of their worth, must be paid the same wage. This works a hardship on the skilled painter and destroys almost entirely the incentive for the unskilled painter to become a better workman.

"We dislike very much to take the stand that we will not grant this demand of the union, but we believe the time is here for the master painter to secure his business against unjust demoNDdoltheiwjet hm hm hm hmhm mands. The cost of a painting job today is very near prohibitive, and unless we lend our influence to keep within reasonable bounds the price of labor and material, our business will continue to shrink and more painting will be done by those who are in no way connected with the painters union, and who will not submit to the unreasonable repeated demands of the union for higher pay.

very difficult to carry on the painting business chiefly on account of the un-

"For the past two years it has been settled condition of labor making it impossible to figure consracts with any degree of safety.

"We believe the public should know that our Master Painters association the thinking reasonable man and woman who are willing to pay a fair we are willing to test our case with stands for a square deal for all and price for a painting job.

ENGELKE IS CHARGED WITH DOUBLE MURDER

Chicago, Feb. 27.—A warrant charging William Engelke with murder was sworn out tonight by the police after a day spent in questioning the suspect about the slaying last Friday of John Duffy, whose body was found in a snow bank at Argo, Ill., and of Maybelle Leah Exley, who posed as Duffy's wife and whose body was found a few hours later in their flat. Engelke refused to change his original story that Duffy himself had killed the Exley girl a week ago during a quarrel at which Engelke was 60, and that Duffy had then forced Engelke to accompany him for a day and finally left him to join several other persons and ride away in an automobile.

During the questioning the police accused Engelke of slaying Duffy because Engelke feared for his own life but this Engelke stoutly denied. He was taken to the state's attorney's office tonight where it was expected he would be questioned for several hours. Engelke's story that Duffy killed the Exley girl was verified today by Carl Heim, a tax driver who said Engelke had told him of the slaying, and said he feared for his own life.

FOURTH CONVICTION FOR SLAYING BANK MESSENGERS

New York, Feb. 27.—Anthony Pantano, charged with being the "tipster" of the gang who murdered two Brooklyn bank messengers last November, tonight was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury was out nearly seven hours. Pantano is the fourth man to face the electric chair in connection with the crime.

Pantano, who had been a clerk in the West End bank where the two messengers were employed, heard the verdict with bowed head. Like his convicted confederates, Joseph and Morris Diamond and John Farina, he showed little emotion when he was pronounced guilty.

The jury's deliberations were longer than in any of the other trials, but the length of the hearing, three days was the same as the trial of Joseph Dimond. Morris Diamond's and Farina's trials were completed in two days each.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

By DAVID CORY

The Owl and the Mouse

As Little Jack Rabbit hopped along, clipperty clip, lipperty lip, he came to a hollow oak tree, in front of which sat an old owl with a long white beard that reached down almost to the ground.

"What brings you here?" he tooted.

"I'm a traveler," answered the bunny boy, sitting down to rest.

This seemed to please the old owl, and, stretching out his wing, he patted the little bunny boy on the head.

"You shall never catch me," said the old owl.

"He said nobody shall ever catch him," answered the bunny boy. "He seems quite sure of himself."

"Better luck next time," replied the owl, and, with a solemn wink, he covered his head with his wing.

When Little Jack Rabbit awoke in the morning, the owl was preparing breakfast. "Come," he said, placing a bowl of steaming lollypops on a small wooden table, "here is a simple meal. When you have finished, I will show you the path through the wood."

Presently they set off together, and on reaching the edge of the path that led to the forest, the owl bid the bunny boy goodbye and flew back to his oak tree house. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

BISHOP ACHESON WILL DEDICATE YANTIC BELLS

The Westminster Peal of bells for Grace Church, Yantic, have been installed in the bell tower and will be dedicated in the afternoon of March 30 by Bishop E. Campion Acheson of the diocese of Connecticut.

The four bells consisting of B flat, E flat, F and G, can be either operated as a chime by one operator or they can be swung by four ringers who can ring 24 changes on the bells. E flat being the key bell, that is, this is the bell which has to be swung last, the other three playing the changes.

Yantic will be one of the very few places in this country to have a swinging peal of bells as the great majority of the bells in America are stationary chimes which are struck and do not peal or swing. The peal was cast by the Meneely Bell Co., of Troy, New York and was installed by the Connecticut Engineering Co., Amos B. Wheeler being in charge of the installation.

The following are the inscriptions on the last three bells to be installed:

E. Flat. Given by public subscription to the Glory of God and in grateful memory of those who gave themselves in the war 1914-1918. "Judge of the nations, spare us yet. Lest we forget, lest we forget." Easter 1924, A. D.

F. To the glory of God and in loving memory of Harriet Wickham Haughton, late president of the Woman's Guild. Given by her sister, Louise Caroline Fitch. Easter 1924.

To the glory of God and in loving memory of Rosina N. Rudd. Given by her daughters, Margaret B and Mary St. John Rudd. "Our voices rise with one accord; To bless and praise our risen Lord."

"Hark! the sound of holy voices, Alleluia, Lord to Thee." In loving memory of her parents, Nathaniel and Clementina Rudd and sister Marion Fay. Given by Mrs. C. E. Carpenter. Easter 1924. A. D.

TAFTVILLE

Ponemah hall was crowded to the doors Wednesday evening, the first night of the minstrel performance given by the Ponemah Wheel club each year. The performance this year far exceeded anything given in the past in this vicinity. The decorations were most attractive, being red and green. This color scheme was carried out in the costumes of the members of the troupe, the chorus wearing red tuxedos with green stripes, the end men, black tuxedos trimmed with red and green, and the interlocutor wore a white tuxedo. The singing was snappy all the way through, the soloists having to respond to several encores. The jokes included many local hits and brought down the house. For a lively, musical entertainment, the minstrel this year would be hard to equal.

The program was as follows: Opening chorus, introducing Dixie, Old Black Joe, Swanee River, Love the Girl Who Kisses; The Little Wooden Whistle, George Seidel; Just for Remembrance, Frang McHugh; Oh, Didn't It Rain, Jake Benoit; It Ain't Gonna Rain No More, John Thoma; solo dancing, Albert Jarvis; selections, Lou Gagnon's Hollywood Four; Don't Think You'll Be Missed, Frank Carbray; Somewhere in the World, Armand Massey; In the Evening, George W. Weller, Jr.; Onions Bring Memories of You, Harry Schwartz; A Kiss in the Dark, Peter Divito; Starvin' Change "Bill" O'Brien; That's a Lot of Bunk, Tom Greenwood; Smiling Through Your Tears, Frank Steinke; At Dawning and When You and I Were Young, Maggie, Walter H. McNeely; closing chorus, Hugo—Home in Pasadena.

The dancing by Albert Jarvis won generous applause for the audience. It was generally conceded that as a dancer he proved fully the equal of professionals; George W. Weller, Jr., proved an able interlocutor in his crossfire with the endmen, Bill O'Brien, Frank Carbray, Harry Schwartz and "Jake" Benoit.

The members of the chorus were A. Jarvis, Adolph Leupold, Joseph Dunlowitz, E. Tracy Clark, Henry Seidel, G. Seidel, Fred Seidel, George Helm, Louis Gagnon, F. Erlbeck, Archibald Torrance, Jr.; Allan Bogle and Fred Holdsworth.

After the performance, the Palace orchestra under the direction of Edgar J. Caron, which had accompanied the singers throughout the performance played for the dancing which was enjoyed until midnight. Among those who assisted in making the performance a success was Fred Holdsworth, master of the wardrobe, who spared neither time nor expense to see that the troupe was properly costumed; William Donahue, stage carpenter; Martin Krauss, electrician who had charge of the dazzling electrical, colored light and spot light effects. William O'Brien who acted as general manager and Edgar J. Caron who acted as musical director and directed the eight piece orchestra.

Tuesday evening Adolph Dugas, organist of Sacred Heart church, was pleasantly surprised at the home of his parents, 24 South A street by the members of St. Cecile choral of Sacred Heart church.

In behalf of the members of the choral Miss Yvonne Lambert presented a gold watch and chain to Mr. Dugas and a bouquet of carnations to Mrs. Dugas saying:

"We are here united tonight, not to deplore your departure from us but to congratulate you.

May our best wishes accompany you in your new fineld of action, where you will soon go demonstrate your musical talents.

"We highly appreciate the enthusiasm with which you have directed the choral of our parish during the past year or more. We thank you very cordially, for as we say, 'anything that begins well ends wel' and we are sure your musical career, so brilliantly inaugurated in our midst without doubt will continue to be a success. We sincerely hope time and again, and we will be very happy to have you display your ability on our parochial organ, whenever the opportunity affords itself, for your clear touch has always made our hearts vibrate with sentiments from above. When you leave Taftville it is not an irrevocable adieu.

So with proof of our appreciation and sincerity please accept this gift of our high respect and gratitude towards you.

Mr. Dugas began his musical career about eight years ago under the instruction of Prof. Frank L. Farrell. While under his tuition he was heard in two piano recitals at Slater hall under the auspices of the Norwich Music Association. Later he went to New York and studied Gregorian Chant at the College of Sacred Heart, under the Very Rev. Leo P. Manseau from which Mr. Dugas received a diploma. He then went to Chicago and studied harmony and solfa under Charles Lagourge, a Paris Conservatory graduate. He then came to Taftville to accept the position as organist to the Sacred Heart church. Mr. Dugas has had considerable experience in church work. When only in his teens he was organist and choirmaster of Notre Dame church of North Adams, Mass., he also played a year or more at St. Joseph's church at Occum, Conn.

SWITCHMAN SUES TWO ROADS FOR $50,000 FOR LOSS OF LEG

Michael McGrail of New London, a switchman in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad Co., who had his right leg so badly crushed that it had to be amputated when he was hit by a train of the Central Vermont railroad Co., has brought suit against both companies for $50,000 damages.

McGrail's claim is that on Aug. 23, 1923 about 7 p. m. while he was throwing one of the switches on the New Haven railroad line near the New London railroad station he was struck by a Central Vermont train on an adjoining track. It is claimed that the switch was in such a position that it could not be operated by the switchman without danger of being struck by a Central Vermont train, which was operated without warning, knocking down and running over the man, crushing one of his legs which had to be amputated. As a consequence he will not be able to perform any kind of work, has lost for a long period the $40.88 which were his weekly wages and has expended and will be obliged to spend large sums for medical attention.

The damage claim is made under the act of congress, approved April 22, 1908, relating to the liability of common carriers by a railroad engaged in commerce between the states.

The suit is returnable in the superior court for this county in March.

AMERICAN WOOLEN OPENS LINES OF FALL FABRICS

Lines of fall fabrics for the coat, suit, dress and skirt trades were opened in New York Tuesday by the American Woolen company with two Norwich mills, at prices lower than was anticipated. The prices on the worsteds were a surprise to the trade, these goods showing decreases that ranged up to 7 8-10 per cent. Certain of the woolens, the angora polaires and velour coatings, were advanced in price, the increase being from 5.2 per cent. in the case of the latter to 7.7 per cent. in the former. Pile sheen coatings were again shown although not in the former wide range.

The significant factor in the showing was the great attention given to sports wear fabrics. Charles H. Silver, head of the department, estimated that about 75 per cent. of the lines comprised fancies for sports garments. This is in line with the trend in women's wear and, together with the low prices named, reflects the great dependence which the company is placing on the women's wear department in getting the desired volume of business. It was announced that the company now has the largest number of mills making women's wear in its history. Five more mills are now producing these goods, in addition to their men's wear quotas.

The lines are considered the most elaborate and varied the company has ever offered, both as to fabric and color combinations. Particular attention has been directed this time to fabrics for the dress and skirt trades, according to Mr. Silver, although the line makes its usual strong appeal to the cloak and suit cutters.

To supplement the line which will appeal to the dress and skirt trades the company is showing an extensive range of fancy, plaid and striped worsteds in almost one hundred different color combinations.

NORWICH PAYS FINAL HONORS TO DR. PATRICK CASSIDY

While the morning light filtered in through the tall Gothic window which he had given to St. Patrick's Church over forty years ago, now become his memorial, the body of Dr. Patrick Cassidy rested on a catafalque before the high altar, Wednesday, for funeral services at which a great congregation assisted.

His Honor, Mayor Milo R. Waters and other city and town officials nearly every member of the city and town medical association, a body of uniformed graduate nurses, many of the Norwich druggists, prominent business and professional men from Norwich and surrounding places, occupied pews at the gospel side of the nave. The remainder of the auditory and the galleries were given up to individual mourners, including scores who were sorrowing for the passing of their family physician, or the friend long and tried throughout many years, in civic, neighborhood, political or religious association.

The funeral was held from the family residence, 104 Washington street, at 9.30. With the members of the family were intimate friends and relatives from Providence, Hartford, Waterbury and a number of other cities. The bearers were the four sons, Attorney John Hughes Cassidy, of Waterbury, Commander Richard E. Cassidy, U. S. Navy, Dr. Louis T. Cassidy, Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, of Norwich, his son-in-law, J. Edward Driscoll of Norwich and his nephew, Edward Cassidy, of Pawtucket, R. I.

The casket was hidden under a pall of white carnations and roses from the children. Among the beautiful floral forms was one from the Nurses' Alumnae Association, of the Backus hospital.

As the body was borne into the church, 25 nurses stood in open ranks, through which the casket was carried to the head of the nave. Organist Frank L. Farrell used as the processional "Abide With Me," accentuating the beauty and solemnity of the melody by the introduction of the chimes, just added to the recently rebuilt church organ.

In the solemn high mass of requiem the celebrant was Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's church, the deacon was Rev. James A. Frederick of Terryville, the sub-deacon was Rev. David R. O'Donnell of Waterville, and the master of ceremonies was Rev. Myles P. Galvin, acting pastor in the absence from town of the rector, Rev. M. H. May. The other officers of the mass were: assistant master of ceremonies, Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, St. Patrick's church, Norwich; censer bearer, Rev. William H. Kennedy, South Coventry; acolytes, Rev. Henry J. Coleman, New Haven; Rev. John Walsh, Bridgeport.

In the sanctuary were seated Rev. Fathers John E. Clarke, Willimantic Bernard M. Donnelly and John Quinn, North Grosvenordale; Christopher T. McCann, Manchester; John F. X. Quinn, Montville; Charles W. Brennan, Norwich Town; Frederick M. Cohalan, St. Mary's church, Norwich.

Final absolution was given by Father Keefe, who also read the prayers and the epistle of the mass, I. Thessalonians, 4.12-17 and the gospel, John II. 21-27, the latter the promise of Jesus to the sorrowing Martha, "I am the resurrection and the life." There was no eulogy and none was needed for one whose life had been as an open book during his over half a century of service and loyalty and patriotism and upright Christian living. As the great bell of St. Patrick's church was tolled 85 times, Wednesday morning, a half hour before the funeral time, it was recalled by many throughout the town to whose homes its significant tones penetrated that it had been the practice of Dr. Cassidy to attend daily mass in St. Patrick's every morning, except when the exigencies of his profession prevented, until failing strength and the infirmities of age deprived him of that solace; first and last, he had been the type of the consistent, cultured, Catholic gentleman—a lay apostle who lived what he professed.

The graduate nurses of the city, who cherished the deepest respect and affection for the aged physician, were given, at the close of the mass, the honor of again showing their deference to his memory. As the body was borne from the church, the uniformed nurses, the members of the medical society and Mayor Waters with his associate officials, moved first to the church-yard, standing in open ranks, through which the casket was borne. The waiting hymn had been the solo by Mrs. Frank L. Farrell; "Jesus, Saviour of My Soul" and this theme Mr. Farrell utilized as the recessional, modulating into "Nearer, My God, To Thee," the delicate tones of the chimes again accentuating the beauty of the melody.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal was read by Rev. Father Galvin, assisted by Rev. Fathers William A. Keefe, David O'Donnell, Rocco J. Guerriero, Henry J. Coleman, John Walsh, John E. Clarke and Bernard M. Donnelly.

Shea & Burke were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Organizations represented by beautiful floral pieces were, in addition to the Nurses' Alumnae Association, the executive board of Backus hospital, Norwich Medical Society, St. Mary's Total Abstinence & Benevolent Society, Congregation of the United Brothers of High street Synagogue, and Norwich Lodge of Elks.

A representation from the American-Irish Historical Society came from New York to attend the funeral.

A number of physicians from other cities were in the assemblage at the church. The Backus hospital, an institution always very near to Dr. Cassidy's heart, was represented by its executive board.

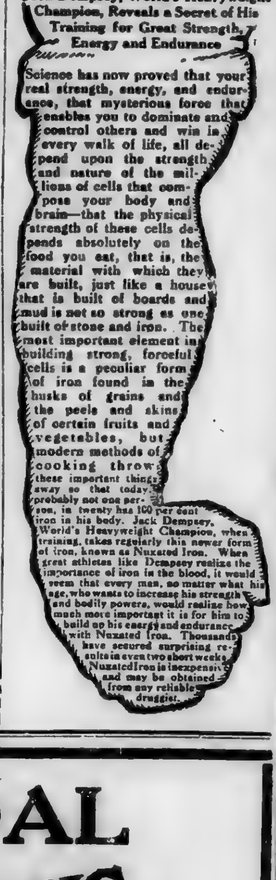
A Secret of Great Strength and Powerful Muscles

Jack Dempsey, World's Heavyweight Champion, Reveals a Secret of His Training for Great Strength, Energy and Endurance



Science has now proved that your real strength, energy, and endurance, that mysterious force that enables you to dominate and control others and win in every walk of life, all depend upon the strength and nature of the millions of cells that compose your body and brain—that the physical strength of these cells depends absolutely on the food you eat, that is, the material with which they are built, just like a house that is built of boards and mud is not so strong as one built of stone and iron. The most important element in building strong, forceful cells is a peculiar form of iron found in the husks of grains and the peels and skins of certain fruits and vegetables, but modern methods of cooking throw these important things away so that today probably not one person, in twenty has 100 per cent iron in his body. Jack Dempsey, World's Heavyweight Champion, when training, takes regularly this newer form of iron, known as Nuxated Iron. When great athletes like Dempsey realize the importance of iron in the blood, it would seem that every man, no matter what his age, who wants to increase his strength and bodily powers, would realize how much more important it is for him to build up his energy and endurance with Nuxated Iron. Thousands have secured surprising results in even two short weeks. Nuxated Iron is inexpensive, and may be obtained from any reliable druggist.

OPPOSITION TO RETENTION OF DAUGHERTY IN CABINET

Some Republican Party Leaders are Dissatisfied with Arrangements to Permit Attorney General to Retain His Portfolio — Resolution of Inquiry into His Administration is to be Given Right of Way Today in the Senate—It is Planned to Begin the Investigation Next Week—New Names Brought Into Records by Senate Oil Investigators—Cdoe Messages Between Publisher McLean and His Employes.

Washington, Feb. 28—Renewed efforts to bring about the resignation of Attorney-General Daugherty are under consideration among senate republicans.

Some of the party leaders who have participated in recent negotiations looking forward to his retirement are not satisfied with the arrangement which permits him to remain in the cabinet until the senate investigation of his administration is concluded. This plan they say, may mean an indefinite delay.

The statement of Mr. Daugherty before he left suddenly yesterday for Chicago was an evident disappointment to these senators. Although the general belief is that his resignation will be demanded at the conclusion of the senate inquiry, it is argued by his critics that he ought not be allowed to remain in office to influence the course of the investigation.

The resolution of inquiry is to be adopted tomorrow under a formal agreement entered into late today, giving it exclusive right of way. Its author, Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, remained on watch all day, but in the turmoil of other senate affairs, was unable to find an opportunity to call it up. Late in the afternoon Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, obtained a unanimous consent agreement for its consideration tomorrow immediately after the usual routine of business, and it will then be debated continuously until a final vote is reached. The leaders expect comparatively little discussion and adoption is assured.

In the brief discussion today Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, recognized as spokesman for Mr. Daugherty, said there was no desire to hamper or delay the Wheeler resolution. He and others will oppose the provision naming Senator Brookhart of Iowa, an insurgent republican, to head the investigating committee but it appeared likely tonight, that he and the other committee members named by Senator Wheeler would be chosen by a majority of the committee.

What is the plan to begin the inquiry next week. Whether Mr. Daugherty will be present is uncertain, since he has to go from Chicago to Florida. It has requested the privilege of being represented by counsel, and senators have indicated that this probably will be granted, but there is no thought of denying the hearings because of his absence from Washington.

How long the inquiry will take no one will predict but if it takes the course of most congressional investigations it may run several months. It is this prospect which has led to renewed dissatisfaction with the plan to keep Mr. Daugherty in office until the hearings are concluded.

Senator Curtis in a statement said two of McLean's employes asked him to see Senator Walsh and see if McLean could be excused from being subpoenaed because of ill health. He added that he suggested that they take the matter up with democratic senators and that he suggested that they see Senator Robinson of Arkansas or Senator Underwood.

BOY SCOUTS SSUCCEED WHERE NEW YORK POLICE FAILED

Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 28—Blood stains on a river bridge, a girl's handkerchief found nearby and footprints of a woman along the Susquehanna river bank were clues found by Boy Scouts today after an entire troop of state police had scoured the countryside in vain for Eleanor Ryleworth, 16 year old high school girl, who has been missing since Tuesday. Tonight policemen aided by members of the fire department, are dragging the river for the girl's body. Powerful searchlights from fire trucks are trained on the stream from two bridges and the river banks.

Shortly after the scouts had made known their discovery to police officials, a citizen reported seeing an object floating under one of the bridges. He said it resembled the body of a woman.

WHILE PETTING BABY CUT DAUGHTER'S THROAT

Norwalk, Conn., Feb. 28—Steve Demko, was arrested late today charged with assault with intent to kill, on his daughter Margaret, 18, in his home. Demko is accused of drawing a razor blade across his daughter's throat while with the other hand he was petting a baby which she was holding. The daughter is in the hospital in serious condition from loss of blood.

The police say that Margaret was visiting her sister Ethel when her father called by telephone and asked both the daughters to return home. NEW NAMES FIGURE IN SENATE OIL INVESTIGATION

Washington, Feb. 28.—Another engrossing chapter crammed with mystery and personal emotion was added to the public records today by the senate oil investigators.

The characters in the story included such mysterious personages as "apricots," "peaches," and "the duck," referred to in code messages exchanged between Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post and his employes, during his visit to Florida.

Among the more striking passages in the chapter before it was completed was a dramatic appearance of Chairman Lenroot on the senate floor to explain and defend his committee's course and to announce that he would be glad to be relieved of the pressing duties of the chairmanship.

As the day's story was unfolded, new names were brought into the inquiry, including those of Senators Curtis of Kansas, the assistant republican leader, and Underwood of Alabama, a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, whose influence was sought in the effort to keep McLean off the witness stand.

Additional witnesses were summoned, among them A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson administration, who acted for a time as counsel for McLean in communications with the oil committee. He will be heard tomorrow.

The writing of more interesting chapters was arranged for by the investigators in their decision to have brought before them additional telegram exchanged between McLean and others as well as messages that may have been sent to Albert B. Fall, J. W. Zevely, cousel for Harry F. Sinclair, and E. L. Doheny.

As the investigators pushed their work forward, others in the senate laid the groundwork for further excursions by them into the affairs of Doheny and Sinclair, and for investigation of charges that millions of dollars of the profits of oil companies have been diverted from the federal treasury.

Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, introduced a resolution asking President Coolidge to forward to the oil committee the income tax return of Sinclair and Doheny for examination as to possible further payments to Fall.

Inquiry into the charge that oil companies have escaped taxation under the discoveries' clause of the tax law was proposed by Senator King, democrat, Utah. He asked that the resolution lie over, while that of Senator McKellar went over an objection by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire.

The names "Underwood," and "Curtis," appeared in telegrams sent to McLean at Palm Beach by his employes here relating to efforts to keep a subpoena for his appearance from issuing. Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, interrupted the reading to state that "Senator Underwood never endeavored to influence my conduct in the matter in any wise."

Harris Marriage Annulment Case

New York, Feb. 28. — Beverly D. Harris, banker, who is suing for annulment of his marriage to Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, on the ground that she concealed the true story of her past and painted pictures of aristocratic family connections passed the day in supreme court telling the story of his courtship, his love, married life and the ending of the romance. When he left the stand his counsel rested his case.

Mrs. Harris' case was opened with the submission of depositions tending to show that she was Eleanor Elaine Lee, a daughter of Mrs. Seleuda N. Lee, born a few months before the death of Mrs. Lee in 1896, but that she was not Samuella, "Susie," or "Susyella," Lee.

The courtroom, as on other days, was crowded and the testimony, at times sensational, kept the spectators buzzing and brought frequent interruptions. Once, when her husband, on cross-examination, was asked about a suspicion he once had had that his wife was the daughter of Zetta Lee, an octoroon who conducted a house of ill-reput in Memphis, Mrs. Harris burst into tears and sobbed on the arm of George Gordon Battle, her chief counsellor.

On another occasion when her husband, telling of her efforts to get a divorce, said he never had as much as $50,000 at one time in his life, she leaped from her chair and gave him the lie. She was admonished by Justice Wasservogel and warned she would be taken out of the courtroom if it happened again.

Mr. Harris admitted on cross-examination that it had been proved that his wife was not the illegitimate daughter of Zetta Lee.

The banker, who said he now was 52 years old, told his story in every detail, from the time he was introduced to Elaine Lee in Houston, Texas, by Congressman Jeff McLemore, until he learned by chance from a Memphis acuaintance that his wife was not a member of the aristocratic family of Lees who operated the Lee line of the Mississippi river packets.

Congressman McLemore, he said, told him Miss Lee was one of the most beautiful and cultured girls he ever had seen, a true blue-blood of the south and "just the girl you should meet." McLemore recited to him her family connections, he said, and everything he said was repeated by Miss Lee after he met her. He told of his love for the girl and their marriage. They went to the coast after their wedding, he said, but it was a business trip, not a honeymoon. His wife smiled amusedly at this statement.

Referring again to the Zetta Lee connection, he said his wife was asked by one of his attorneys if it were true that she had lived in Zetta Lee's house and her answer was that she wanted to get a divorce. They already had agreed to a separation he said, under which he was paying her $1,000 a month. His lawyers told him, he asserted, that Mrs. Harris probably would try to force him to give her $500,000, inasmuch as the Stillman divorce case was in the public mind and for the reason that he was at that time an officer of the bank in which Mr. Stillman had been an executive. He had severed all connections with the bank he said, because he knew that the nature of his differences with Mrs. Harris, when brought into the courts would prove a sensation and embarrass the banking institution.

In substantiation of Mrs. Harris' claim that her husband had been told she was an illegitimate child, Mr. Battle read a letter which Mr. Harris identified as having been written by himself. It follows, in part:

"Precious:

"This is your birthday. Of all the handiwork of God in all the world none is of more exquisite beauty than you. You are a love child, and to you He has given every charm that artist's vision or poet's fancy could imagine, of perfect womanhood."

Mr. Harris then explained that his conception of the term "love child" was "children born of parents that love each other have the benediction of heaven and it is a scientific fact that children born of such parents are superior."

HIGHWAYMEN CAST STOLEN CHECKS IN ALLEY

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—Checks totalling $67,358.97, stolen this afternoon, when highwaymen slugged Myros Gross, 15-year-old messinger of the Indiana National Bank were found a short time later in an alley ten blocks from the scene of the holdup. The checks were of no value except to the consignee.

Gross had left the bank with the regular afternoon shipment of checks to the Federal Reserve bank at Chicago and was slugged as he attempted to pass an automobile parked in a downtown alley. The highwaymen escaped in the machine, when Gross ran a short distance to notify a traffic policeman.

Gwynn F. Paterson, cashier of the bank said the checks were not worth a penny to any one except the Reserve Bank to which they were being sent. The quick recovery of the checks is believed by Mr. Paterson to have been due to the fact that highwaymen discovered they had stolen something of no value and discarded them as quickly as possible.

SHORT CIRCUIT ENDANGERED LIVES OF TROLLEY PASSENGERS

East Hartford, Conn., Feb. 28.—A short circuit in the controller of an eastbound Manchester trolley car late this afternoon fifty minutes after it had left the repair shop, endangered 91 rush-hour passengers and resulted in flames burning James Walker, the motorman, about the face. Walker was prevented from leaping to safety by the crowd wedged in about him, but was able to push a small boy out of harm's way. The accident occurred on the Connecticut boulevard in East Hartford, at 5.40 o'clock, just after the car had left Station Number Three. None of the passengers was injured.

First aid was immediately given to the motorman at Rubin's drug store after which he was taken to his home, where he received further treatment from Dr. Arthur B. Moran. He has been employed by the Connecticut company for eight years.

Engine number two of the East Hartford fire department extinguished the fire in the trolley car with two hand extinguishers. Damages were confined to the controller. The cause of the short circuit is not known.

As a whole the treaty was satisfactory to Germany, he said, and had been welcomed as a hopeful sign.

New Method for the Sale of 1335 Vessels

Terms and Conditions Given by Shipping Board in Advertisement for Bids.

Washington, Feb. 28 — New terms and conditions under which the government would dispose of its entire merchant fleet, comprising 1335 vessels of various types were announced today by the shipping board in a general advertisement calling for bids. Records show that only a quarter of the whole tonnage is in operation, the remainder comprising the "laid up" fleet.

In announcing the call for bids the board said the advertisement was designed primarily to comply with the law governing the sale of its property and was not a "sudden effort to force the sale of the board's fleet" it was in accordance with the "due advertisement" provision of the merchant marine act, it was explained.

Previous offer of sale by the board has been on a flat basis of $30 a ton. Displacing this provision the board said it now was prepared to consider offers for purchase "under the various types, based on their relative value as affected by their desirability from a point of design, physical condition at time of sale and other pertinent factors."

The basic sale price of each vessel, it was explained will be determined by its individual worth, and will be subject to revision whenever necessary due to repairs, damage or other conditions.

Bids must be submitted on or before March 14 and it was stipulated that the board would make no award before that date. Offers must be made on a lump sum basis and may be for one or more ships or for the entire fleet, the advertisement said and each offer must be accompanied by an initial payment of two and one-half per cent. on the amount bid.

The vessels will be sold "as is, where is" exclusive of consumable stores, bunker fuel and submarine signal apparatus or other leased equipment "and without warranty or guaranty as to seaworthiness, condition, description, capacity or tonnage."

The board's fleet is made up of 824 steel ocean built cargo ships; 324 steel lake built cargo ships; 14 refrigerator vessels; 43 steel tankers; 27 passenger ships; 35 tugs and 48 miscellaneous craft.

Sales are being made by the board from time to time. The latest prospect for purchase by private interests on a large scale has been in the negotiations for the ten 535 foot passenger cargo vessels operated by the Admiral Oriental line and the Pacific Mail Steamship company to the Orient.

The government's big liners operated by the United States line out of New York, including the Leviathan, are not excluded for the sale offer.

HOUSE REPUBLICAN LEADERS PARLEY WITH INSURGENTS

Are Hopeful The Democratic Income Rate Schedule Will be Replaced by a Compromise—Organization Republicans are Contending for a 5 Per Cent. Rate on Incomes between $4,000 and $8,000—Several Amendments Were Passed Yesterday on the Excise Tax Section.

Washington, Feb. 28—While the revenue bill was being rushed through another onslaught of amendments in the house today reaching a point where a final vote is possible tomorrow, republican organization leaders continued negotiations with the insurgents which brought predictions that the democratic income rate schedule would be replaced by a compromise.

Republicans lowered the proposed Longworth compromise normal rate to make a five per cent. rate apply on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 instead of six per cent. on all above $4,000, on the basis of which insurgent leaders indicated an agreement was possible.

A last minute backfire in the insurgent group, however, resulted in new conferences which will be continued tomorrow morning. A majority of the seventeen insurgents who voted for the democratic income schedule amendment are expected by republican leaders, however, to support the compromise.

Democratic leaders insisted tonight that the 208 members of their party who voted for the Garner schedule before would be in line tomorrow. If some of the insurgents who supported them before again vote for the Garner amendment, the decision would appear to hinge on the number of republican absentees. On the previous vote the republican organization force polled 196 votes to 222 by the opposition.

In completing consideration of the excise section today reductions involving $23,000,000 loss in revenue were voted on the automobile taxes, the 2 per cent tax on automobile trucks and wagons, the chassis of which sells for $1,000 or less, being repealed, and the 5 per cent. tax on automobile tires, parts and accessories being cut in half.

The stamp tax on drafts or checks and promissory notes, amounting to two cents for each $100 value, also was repealed, while the eight cent tax on each pack of playing cards was increased to ten cents. Several other amendments seeking to impose new special taxes or cut further those in the bill were defeated, including an attmpt of Representative Fairchild, republican, New York, to eliminate entirely the five per cent. tax on jewelry. All articles selling for less than $40 and watches selling for less than $60 had been exempted from the tax by action of the committee.

The total miscellaneous tax reductions allowed as a result of committee and house action now involved about $120,000,000 in revenue. Completion of reading of the section gave automatic approval to the ways and means committee action in repealing the tax on telegraph and telephone messages, on soft drink beverages and numerous other articles.

The Mellon rates provided for a maximum surtax of twenty-five per cent. applying on all incomes in excess of $100,000 and for normal rates of 3 per cent. on incomes below $4,000 and 6 per cent. above that. Under the compromise a rate of thirty-five per cent. would apply on $100,000 incomes.

The democratic schedule provides for a maximum surtax rate of 44 per cent applying on all incomes in excess of $94,000 and for normal rates of two per cent. on incomes below $5,000, 4 per cent. on incomes between $5,000 and $8,000 and 6 per cent. on incomes above that amount. It also would increase the personal exemptions, allowing $2,000 for single persons and $3,000 for heads of families.

MOTHER OF DEAD INFANT HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Portland, Maine, Feb. 28. — Nettie May MacLean, giving her address as Tacoma, Wash., walked into an undertaking establishment here today with the body of her infant daughter in her arms. She was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter. Kenneth Ross MacLean, a sophomore at Bowdoin college, said by the woman to be her husband, was arrested later at Brunswick and brought here. He also was charged with manslaughter.

Mrs. MacLean, who is 19 years old, said he had carried the child from Brunswick, 26 miles by train. Before leaving the college town she said, she informed MacLean, whom she found on the campus, of the infant's death, but he replied that he was busy with examinations and could not aid in disposing of the body.

The woman said she was married to the student in Tacoma, MacLean's home city, a year ago, and had come to Maine to visit her husband, arriving in Brunswick last Friday. She said she found the baby dead when she awoke this morning in a Brunswick hotel. Physicians said they found no marks of violence on the child's body. An autopsy will be held tomorrow.

WITNESSES TESTIFY FOR SUNSHINE HOMES CO.

New York, Feb. 28.—Counsel for officers of the Sunshine Homes Concrete Products company, charged with collecting money from prospective home owners and failing to build, produced four witnesses today who testified they bought portable concrete houses from the defendants, lived in them and liked them.

The principal defense witness was Archille Brile, a retired mining engineer, who said he first became interested in Sunshine concern's proposition through Mrs. Lindley M. Garrison, wife of the former secretary of war.

He paid $950 for a 3-room poured-concrete bungulow which he said the Sunshine company built in its Bridgeport, Conn. factory. He testified the bungalow was hauled to its present site in Corona, Long Island, on the 10-wheel truck made especially for the purpose by Simon Lake, the submarine inventor and manufacturer who is treasurer of the Sunshine firm, although not among the indicted officers.

"I live in the house", said Mr. Brile. "It is all the company promised it would be. For 20 years I had hoped for some such achievement. I believe it is the greatest step the world has ever taken in the erection of cheaper homes."

FREIGHT TRAIN STRUCK TROLLEY CAR IN WORCESTER

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 28—Six passengers, a motorman and a conductor narrowly escaped serious injury this noon when a Greenwood street car of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway company was struck and knocked off the tracks by a freight train of the American Steel and Wire company on the railroad crossing at the entrance to the South works of this company.

The car slipped the trolley when it was half way over the crossing and while the crew were attempting to get the trolley on the wire the freight, which was backing up, plowed into the car knocking it off the tracks. Miraculously all hands escaped injury though they suffered from the shock.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 28—Senator Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, today directed withdrawal of his name from the presidential primary March 18, leaving President Coolidge and Senator Johnson to contest for North Dakota's 13 delegates to the republican national convention.

The telegram gave no reason for the withdrawal. It was expected tonight that the senator's name would be removed in compliance with the request.

SURPRISE WITNESS IN THE TRIAL OF REV. DELORME

Montreal, Feb. 28.—A surprise witness, an automobile painter was produced by the prosecution today at the trial of Rev. J. Adelard Delorme, in an attempt to identify the former priest as the murderer of his half brother Raoul Delorme.

In a courtroom jammed to suffocation, E. Depocas, the witness, corroborated reports that his testimony would be startling. He told of a man in priestly costume and a profile like that of the defendant whom he had seen at night in a closed automobile near the spot where Raoul Delorme's body was found the next day.

Depocas lives opposite the Cote Des Neiges cemetery on the Queen Mary road to Snowden. At two a. m. on the morning in question, he testified he saw a closed automobile come from the direction of Snowden and stop opposite the cemetery gate. Then it turned, crossed the street car tracks and headed back toward Snowden.

The witness said that in turning the car came within 25 feet of his house and the full glare of the headlight streamed through the window from which he was peering.

"The driver wore the collar of a Roman priest," Depocas declared. Asked if he could identify the man otherwise he pointed at the accused and said "his profile seemed to resemble that of Abbe Delorme.

There was a second man in the rear seat of the automobile who dodged out of sight as the car came almost to a stop in turning and the lights from the house shown upon it, according to Depocas. The last he saw of the car it was speeding toward Snowden.

A few hours later was found the body of Raoul Delorme, whom the crown alleges Abbe Delorme killed in order to hide irregularities in the administration of the Delorme estate.

POLICE IN PHILA. CAPTURE "BOBBED HAIR BANDIT"

Philadelphia, Feb. 28.—This city's "bobbed hair bandit" was captured today by police in a pistol battle with her male accomplice who escaped after seriously wounding one patrolman.

The girl gave her name as Dorothy Rodgers, and admitted having participated in the robbery Tuesday night of a chain grocery store. Her capture followed an unsuccessful attempt to hold up a local shoe store, whose manager balked the bandits by a loud outcery, frightening them. She gave the name of her companion as Paul Worth.

They fled to the street, where their efforts to start a parked motor car attracted police attention. The man commandeering a motor truck, cowing its driver with pointed pistol, and ordered him to drive off. Stephen Fabeck, the first policeman to reach the scene, rushed at the bandit as the latter stood on the running board of the truck. At point blank range the bandit fired, the bullet entering Fabeck's stomach, felling him to the street. The truck started leaving the girl bandit bewildered on the sidewalk, where other police seized her. Motorcycle police started in pursuit of the truck, and for a half mile the two vehicles exchanged shots, the police machine being disabled when a tire was punctured.

The girl's mother said she had disappeared from her home last Monday night.

RIOTING IN CHICAGO GARMENT WORKERS' STRIKE

Chicago, Feb. 28—One man was shot and seriously wounded today when rioting again broke out as a result of the walkout yesterday of several thousand members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

WILLIMANTIC

The twenty-two members of the local Chamber of Commerce who accepted the return compliment of the Arcanum Club of Norwich Wednesday evening were given a royal reception by the Boys Club boys and during Thursday were glowing over their delightful entertainment. The committee in charge Tyler D. Guy, Edmund S. Smith and Allen Latham, has been highly complimented for the manner in which the program was carried out. The Willimantic boys enjoyed themselves to their hearts content and but for a little rough traveling the evening was a perfect one.

The Odell M. Chapman Continental and Drum Corps is facing a busy season as plans have already been made for a series of public social events during the coming year. The Mid-Lent dance, held jointly under the auspices of Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard is the first of these events. Out of town drum corps will be invited here and a parade will precede the dance. The annual spring field day, parade and drumming contests will be in May, according to Manager Chapman.

The Chapman Continental Fife and Drum Corps has been organized but two years and in that time has made a name for itself. Two field days are staged each year, one in the spring and the other in the fall, which rank second only to the state convention of the Connecticut Fifes and Drummers' Association for interest and attendance.

Since its organization the corps has attended fifteen field days and returned with several silver cups, seven of which were first prizes, six seconds, and two thirds. In Frank S. The Corset Model Promenade at the Tubridy-Weldon Company store, on Main street, Wednesday evening eclipsed anything of its kind ever attempted in Willimantic. Despite the fact that it was strictly No Man's Land and women had to go without escort, over seven hundred of them crowded the establishment and others who came late could not gain entrance.

As the excluded reporters stood outside in the cold, the pretty models appeared on a decorated platform in silk negligee and corsets taken from the stock.

Plainville won 6 to 2. Hyland has a state record for striking out 71 in three games.

Thursday, resembling a spring day in the mildness of the weather, a good number of applicants appeared at the police station to receive an examination for a motor vehicle driver's license. Officer Henry Heinold of the Five H barracks, Stafford Springs, gave the tests.

Successful rehearsals are being held for a minstrel show which will be presented before the Teachers' club at the meeting in March. The cast numbers about thirty.

At the Al-Pierre Tabarin there was a delightful dance and card party Thursday evening given by the ways and means committee of the Women's club.

A local party attempted to make the jump from Willimantic to Norwich in record time Wednesday evening but the machine was spotted by Deputy Sheriff George Hoxie of Lebanon, who was driving his Ruggles truck and a chase ensued. When the machine was brought to a halt the driver was accosted by Sheriff Hoxie, given a severe reprimand, and warned that if the machine had been driven but a few miles per hour faster an arrest would have followed.

Rev. Andrew G. Littlefield, of Newton, New Hampshire, who recently accepted the call to the Lebanon Baptist church at Chestnut Hill, has arrived with his family and furniture. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Woodworth have returned to their home in South Coventry after an eleven weeks' automobile drive, nine weeks of which they spent in Florida. They covered about 3,420 miles without any trouble to their car.

Contrary to the case in most cities Willimantic is favored with a congenial body of taxi drivers, but a few still persist in displaying a certain amount of audacity. Recently, when a resident driver was preparing to back his machine to the curb, he turned around to see that a jitney car had come up from behind and appropriated the stall with taximan's accuracy.

An abundance of plant-food from the right sources, properly compounded and in the right mechanical condition to give the best results, will go a long way toward cutting labor costs. It takes little more effort and costs far less per bushel to raise a bumper crop than a poor one. It may mean the difference between profit and loss. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

A revision of awards to those who participated in the state championship typewriting contests held at Meriden last Saturday gives first honors and a gold medal to Miss Fleurette Boulaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Boulaine, of Danielson, and a member of the senior class at Killingly High school. This announcement was made Thursday by Principal Ernest R. Warren of Killingly High school following a communication he received from Principal J. C. Moody, of the Commercial High school of New Britain.

In the original awards Miss Boulaine was given second honors and a silver medal, but it develops that the young lady who was given first place was entered in the wrong class of competitors, through an error in filling out her entry registration.

The additional honors that the revised award brings to Miss Boulaine is a source of gratification to all who are interested in Killingly High school and what it is doing to prepare its students in most efficient manner for the work they are to do in life. Miss Boulaine received many congratulations Thursday on her fine achievement at Meriden last Saturday.

The places of workers who left their jobs among the night force at Connecticut mills this week had been filled Thursday. There are no strikers. Those who went out are through. They have been paid off and are free agents to look where they will for work.

It was stated that a total of 22 night workers in the weaving and twisting departments of the big plant made known that they were discontented with their wage scale and some other working conditions. Those who asked for a 10 per cent. increase last Monday were told that the matter would be taken under consideration and that they would be given an answer in due time. They received it Tuesday night when they called to see an official of the mill and were paid off. The same was done for other workers who had walked out and they were paid Wednesday. In the meantime the machines they left are again in operation. The majority of those who went on strike are resident in Putnam and some of them were involved in the strike that so handicapped the Manhasset company, Putnam, the concern now in the hands of receivers, last year.

It appears that propaganda among the workers preceded the strike. Some of those approached went to mill officials and said they did not want to strike. They were told to remain on their jobs, and they did. The majority of the strikers are young unmarried men.

Wednesday evening some of the strikers came to the mill and asked to be allowed to go in to get overalls, rubbers and other things they had left behind. These were brought to them and handed over, ending the episode of the workers' connection with the mill and their dissatisfaction with it.

The reaction of the local public toward the strike was not favorable. In a winter when New England plants are having plenty of difficulties in running at all, strikes are out of favor. Danielson does not want any of its industries tied up by labor troubles. Disputes of that kind in times like the present do little good to anyone, least of all those who become involved in them.

Today brings the end of February and the even of the first month of spring. February has lived up to its long established reputation of being rough. It leaves with the ground hereabouts covered with ice and snow, lakes and rivers frozen over and about two and a half feet of frost in the ground. It has produced ice day after day with morning temperatures below the zero mark and day after day when the mercury has never climbed above the freezing point. It has served to bring about the average cold for a normal winter, after December and January had proved unusually mild. There will be few regrets about the passing of February. And there will be thanksgiving, nevertheless, over the fact that it allowed the harvesting of an ice crop. That is something to be thankful for, involving as it does the comfort and convenience of many families throughout the year.

The Bulletin correspondent is holding a considerable sum of money picked up in Danielson Thursday. There is enough of it to interest the owner in getting it back into his, or her, possession. Ability to describe the container and the kind and denomination of the money will be the means of restoring it to its rightful owner.

These are days of wild tales. It would appear that a story that reached this section of Connecticut Tuesday relative to a battle between rum runners and gunmen over the border in Rhode Island, somewhere near Fairbanks hill, now is represented as having grown out of yarns relative to a Ku Klux meeting held in the vicinity of Anthony on the same night and the posting of armed constables to protect the gathering from being rushed by those who would disperse it.

A number of military officers of high rank are coming to Danielson for the military ball to be given by the Service Battery, 192nd Field Artillery, at the state armory. Among the number will be General M. B. Payne of New London, commander of the Forty-Third Division; Colonel M. A. Mogenson, New Haven, commanding the 192nd Field Artillery; Major Kenneth P. Lord, New London, senior instructor of field artillery commands in Connecticut; Captain Otto H. Schroeter, New London, adjutant of the 192nd Field Artillery; Captain W. R. Dennison of Norwich and Captain Lambdin of the 55th Infantry Brigade.

Mrs. Annie Bouchard, 46, wife of Alfred Bouchard, died at their home in Attawaugan Thursday morning. Mrs. Bouchard was born in Canada. The family was resident in Exeter, N. H., before coming to Attawaugan. There are no children.

Miss Geneva Olson, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Olson, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital Thursday and during the afternoon was reported as resting comfortably.

Deposit your funds in our bank backed by the strength of the Federal Reserve Bank system. The Windham County National Bank.—Adv.

At East Killingly Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knapp observed their silver wedding anniversary. A feature of the affair was dancing at Chase's hall, more than 100 being in attendance.

One hundred per cent. Americans, an observant citizen remarked Thursday, are people that mind their own business.

The next card of boxing bouts scheduled for Danielson likely will be staged here March 13.

Over the Rhode Island line in the vicinity of Chop Mist hill telephone wires that were knocked down in the ice storm of February 6, are still down and tied around fence posts and telephone poles.

It is probable that the report of a special committee of the chamber of commerce relative to granting the clerks a half-holiday will be made at a luncheon the chamber has planned for next Tuesday noon.

PUTNAM

Bricks that came rattling down off the rounding corner of the Central Block, at Main and Pomfret streets, Thursday morning, gave a bit of excitement for many who were loitering about waiting for something to happen. The loosened bricks were released from above a window on the second floor—and when they let go they revealed the boarding underneath and recalled that there is but a single layer of brick on this structure at this particular spot.

No one was injured by the hurtling bricks. They just rattled down at a time when no one happened to be passing that particular point in the center of the city's business district. The corner was promptly roped off and arrangements made for the speed repair of it. The Central block is one of the old structures in the heart of the business district of Putnam. Its walls are seamed. It has stood the test of time. On the street level it is occupied by business offices. Some of the offices on the second floor are occupied. The third floor where an armory for a national guard company was maintained in the days prior to the Spanish war, has been unoccupied for years. The falling of bricks from the outside of the structure Thursday morning directed particular attention to the building, long associated with the history of Putnam.

A number of textile workers resident in this city, who have been in the employ of the Connecticut Mills company at Danielson, have voluntarily joined the ranks of the unemployed. They went on strike this week—and the strike has cost them their jobs. They were employed in the weaving and twisting departments, working nights. They wanted more money—in this winter of troublous times for New England textile industries. The concern would not allow them the extra 10 per cent. they are demanding—and some other things some of them wanted. Numbered among them were workers who went on strike at the plant of the Manhasset company in this city last spring, contributing to the collapse of that big concern, the throwing of it into the hands of receivers and the creation of a situation where the big mill is now idle and to be sold at auction next month.

Just emerging from a financial crisis that it has weathered after serious difficulty, the Connecticut Mills company is no mood to temporize with troublemakers. Banishment from the plant is the lot of the strikers, whether resident here or elsewhere. The majority of the several hundred workers employed at the big plant are satisfied, or at least content under existing industrial conditions, with their lot, and there is very little sympathy for discontented workers who would stir up strife and mayhap wreck another plant's business, as that of the Manhasset company's was wrecked, not wholly by the strikers, but aided by them. Of the 22 who went on strike at Danielson this week all but four or five are resident in this city. They have been paid off and are definitely through with the Connecticut Mills. The machines they were operating are now manned by other workers glad to have the jobs that the strikers turned down. Getting textile mill help this winter is about the easiest thing in the world, a fact that should have been known to the strikers. If they knew it and flouted the situation, the fault is their own.

Young unmarried men with no dependents nor serious responsibilities in life make up the majority of those who went on strike and lost their jobs. They cannot be rated as strikers, for the mill has paid what it owed them and they have been told that they were through. They are not wanted by the Connecticut Mills any more at any price.

Another chapter, it appears, remains to be written in the divorce case of Laura Brodeur Corcoran vs. Thomas J. Corcoran, formerly residents in Putnam and among the best known people in the city. The appeal that has been filed by counsel to Mr. Corcoran from the alimony amount allowed by Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court will mean more litigation. It has been mentioned that the amount of alimony granted in this case—a matter of $11,000 or $12,000—is the largest in memory granted in a Windham county divorce action.

New and heavier rails for the Norwich branch of the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. have been distributed all the way from this city to a point between Wauregan and Central Village, a distance of about 15 miles. The work of putting these rails into service, will be undertaken this spring. New ties and new ballasting will also be included in the improvement program that has been planned. It is probable, it was stated Thursday, that the new and heavier rails will not be put in between Central Village and Taftville until next year.

Next Monday the legal voters of the city of Putnam, at an annual meeting called for the purpose, will have their opportunity to vote on appropriations, as recommended by the common council, covering the requirements of various departments of the city for the present financial year. The voters also will be called upon to levy a tax sufficient to raise the necessary money set aside by the appropriations. The council has recommended that a tax of 9 1-2 mills will be sufficient. In addition, however, there must be considered a tax of 1 1-2 mills for payment of interest and reduction of principal of the sewer debt, both taxes to be collected on or before July 10.

Members of the Putnam town school committee have received invitations to be present tomorrow (Saturday) evening at the opening for inspection of the new Plainfield High school building, at Central Village. This splendid structure has just been completed at a cost somewhat in excess of $350,000. It is of brick, two stories in height and includes all modern approved appointments for a structure devoted to such educational purposes as it is to serve.

This closing week of February has brought a mail bag of letters from Putnam people and residents of surrounding towns who have been spending the winter in the south. The letters bring reiteration of the fact that it has been cold "down south" this winter, even at much advertised Tampa and Palm Beach. W. S. Johnson, writing from Florida, says the mercury has been down to 48, and that old residents have told him that the winter has been the coldest in 25 years.

G. Lawrence Perkins, of this city and Pomfret, has arrived in New York after spending the winter abroad. Mr. Perkins is expected here within a few days.

VEGETABLE PATCH VS. THE MEDICINE CHEST

Our great grandmothers would have considered the feeding of spinach or beet greens to a yer-old baby nothing short of murderous, but in the light of modern scientific research we know that babies and young children in general must be furnished their green vegetables for their proper development. Every family with a baby or young children should grow a vegetable garden to provide fresh green vegetables of the highest quality which can be obtained only fresh from the home garden.

While the necessity of vegetables in the diet of the adult is well known and receives more attention with each passing year, provision for the dieting of children is a matter of more recent understanding. A very small garden patch would provide spinach or beet greens for the baby all summer.

Quality is the most important reason for the home gardep. While fine vegetables can be bought in the market in almost any city and are offered in greater quantity than formerly in the country towns, they cannot be bought of as high quality as when gathered fresh in the home garden. No matter how careful the attention to selection and shipment, a fresh vegetable loses with every hour of delay between the gathering and the cooking or the serving if it is to be eaten uncooked.

Green peas and sweet corn cannot be purchased with their sweetness unimpaired. String beans never are quite so tender and well flavored as when gathered in the home garden a few moments before they go into the stew pan. Radishes are never so crisp and snappy as when fresh pulled.

The care of a garden is a small part of the day's routine once it is started. And a small patch will grow a surprising quantity of vegetables properly planned for succession and companion crops. The wielding of a hoe is as valuable exercise as swinging a golf club and there is something to show for it besides a score card and argument.

Weeding will replace the daily dozen bending exercises to excellent purpose.

WEATHER WISDOM FOR GARDENERS

Weather is something of which we possess a considerable quantity at this time of the year and a subject of vital importance to the gardener. While considering the thermometer and doing fireside gardening, it is a wise idea to secure some weather data for gardening guidance later on.

The date of the latest recorded killing frost in your neighborhood is an important factor. The latest killing frost on record in our locality will give you a basis for figuring just when you can take a gambling chance on an early garden with a good chance of winning. The latest killing frost on record is about a month later than the average date and so is usually safe to plant the hardiest seeds a month ahead of it.

The period of time between the latest and the average killing frost date increases as we move west. In New York there is a margin of 30 days but in St. Louis the average is 38 days earlier than the latest freezing date. Cleveland has a 36-day difference and Chicago latitude is about the same as Cleveland. Allowing 30 days is playing reasonably safe. Plan to start your garden a month before the latest recorded killing frost.

There are many vegetables which frost will not injure. In general all the root crops are hardy and do not mind frosts so long as they are not freezes; most of the crops for greens are in the same category. But only one crop, the immature seeds of which furnish a delicious food, can be called hardy and that it the pea, and only certain varities of the pea.

So while it is freezing or snowing outside gather up weather data and figure the date for the earliest possible start this year. It is waste of seed to start too early and waste of time to start a day too late. The frost records will give you a reliable basis of figuring just the right time to start.

If the plants should be nipped you are not out much but if they are not you are just that much ahead with the garden and the odds are greatly in favor of escaping a killing frost.

GRAPE CULTURE IN CONNECTICUT

Among the fruits the grape ranks fourth in Connecticut in importance—the value of the apple, peach and strawberry crops exceeding that of the grape.

As the grape is easily injured by frost, care should be exercised in the selection of a site which is as free as possible from this source of injury.

While the grape can be grown on a wide range of soils, a loose, warm, gravelly loam should usually be selected if a choice is to be had.

Commercial growers of the grape generally prefer to buy their vines from nurserymen instead of growing their own. However, grapes can be easily propagated from cuttings by anyone who desires to do so.

Planting the vines early in the spring and using one-year old plants will give the best results. Thorough cultivation should be practiced early in the season, followed by the sowing of a clover crop for plowing under the next spring. Fertilization should be sufficient to keep the vines growing well although not too vigorously.

While there are many different methods of training the grape, the Four-cane Kniffin System has been found most satisfactory for the Concord and this probably also applies to most other vigorous growing varieties.

As with other cultivated fruits, the grape needs thorough spraying—from two to four or more applications being necessary according to the season.

When grapes are sold on the local market for table purposes it is important that they be fully matured. As many varieties color well before reaching their best quality, it is good practice to test a few, by eating, before harvesting.

While there are more than 2,000 varieties of grapes which have been described in American grape literature, there are only ten or twelve that need be considered by the Connecticut grower. — W. H. Darrow, Connecticut Agricultural College.

FEED SOUR MILK TO NEW-BORN CHICKS

Chicks just hatched should be given no food for the first two days, as often advised, but one should not wait two days after receiving a batch of chicks from the commercial hatcheries. These chicks generally are already two days old before they are shipped and many times they are three days old before they reach the poultryman. For this reason it is necessary for the poultryman buying chicks from the commercial hatchery to generally feed chicks at once upon delivery.

The first food given the chicks should be some form of sour milk. If one only has 100 or 200 chicks they can use an eye dropper, and should see that each chick individually receives some milk at once. If 1,000 or more chicks are received at a time, probably the eye dropper method would be too slow a process. One can have a dish of sour milk handy, and as the chicks are taken out, their beaks can be dipped into the milk. In this way each chick is assured of some milk at the start.

This milk is necessary because the system of the young chick should be cleaned out of the remnants of the yolk of egg which has been left in when hatched. Too often many digestive troubles start when this sour milk is not given. Sour milk should be given to chicks from then on, until they reach maturity, when the milk can be bought at a reasonable price.

During the first week scratch grain should be scattered at least five times daily on the floor. This should consist of fine pin-head or steel-cut oats. Ready mixed chick feed which is on the market generally gives satisfaction, and where only a small number of chicks are bought, it probably will be more desirable to use them. The third or fourth day it is a good policy to put down in shallow dishes some rolled oats for the chicks to pick at. In the second week one should start the dry mash feeding, which consists of two parts of bran, two parts of corn meal, two parts of oat meal and one part fine meat-scrap or powdered milk. This dry mash should be substituted for the two feedings of the scratch grain. This should be increased each day until the dry mash is kept before them all the time. From the third week on the scratch grain and dry mash rations are continued except as the chicks grow older coarser grains will be substituted.

In putting litter on the floor in the brooder house do not use old straw or hay as there is danger from fire, and also liability of the chicks becoming entangled and smothering. Hay chaff that is not too dusty or any clean finely ground litter will do. Some use cat hulls. Dry fine gravel should be sprinkled over the floor of the brooder so as to give the chicks something to work in. One should be positive, however, that this gravel is dry, as many chicks have been lost because gravel has been put in which was wet or damp. This causes colds among the chicks. Grit and gravel which has been finely ground should be kept before the chicks at all times.

Constant supervision of the chicks should be made, to see that they do not start in pecking one another's feet. To prevent this one can use various things. More room generally is needed or a place for exercise where they can secure fresh air at the same time. It will also help to put in pieces of bone that have a little meat on them; they will peck these instead of themselves.

Besides feed and milk, one should be very careful that water is available for the growing chicks at all times.

DWARF FRUIT TREES

Dwarf fruit trees are especially adapted to small gardens where space is limited and in such places for several reasons they are to be preferred to the so-called standard or full sized trees. They seldom attain a height of more than five or six feet come into bearing quickly, that is within two or three years from the time of setting out, and present a beautiful picture when perhaps only four or five feet high and covered with blossoms or when dropping to the ground with bright fruit.

Dwarf apple and dwarf pear are the only true dwarf trees, but quince peach, plum and sour cherry are naturally rather small trees. Fruit of the dwarf apple and dwarf pear is as large or larger and equally as good as that from large or "standard" trees.

Dwarf trees of apple are produced by nurserymen by budding the suitable common varieties of apple on to the small growing European "paradise" or "Doucin" apple seedlings or rooted sprouts which are imported for the purpose. Some of the best apples to buy and grow as dwarfs are Northern Spy, McIntosh, Delicious and Grimes Golden. Among pears the Bartlett, Clapp's Favorite, Seckel and Duchess D'Angouleme give good satisfaction.

To-day is the time to do things; tomorrow is the time to do nothing.

PROPER HIGHWAY PROTECTION

With the serving of notice by the state department of public works of Massachusetts that heavy trucks will be barred from more than 100 through routes in that commonwealth, commencing with next week, it becomes evident that the states in the lower tier of New England are at least convinced that there is need for the protection of highways against heavy loads at the time of year when the frost is leaving the ground.

It is an old story of course as to what the highway conditions are in the spring of the year when the thaws set in. The unimproved roads are routes to be avoided, while the improved roads which have their weak points or are built through low sections, are quickly destroyed when the heavily loaded cars get to grinding through spots which have shown a disposition to ravel.

Connecticut found it necessary to place restrictions on loads several years ago. Rhode Island has recognized the merit of such protection and Massachusetts endorses the plan. In that state no more than a five ton load, including the weight of the truck, may be hauled on the 100 designated roads without a special permit.

Maintaining the highways of a state is the cause for a steadily increasing expenditure. In the spring of the year the roadbeds are bound to be at their greatest uncertainty. Once a weak spot is opened by the thaw no time at all is required for heavy cars to ruin it if they are permitted to go unrestricted. Till the permanent highway is obtained over the much used routes it is for the interest of all who are concerned, with good roads whether they drive a flivver or a truck, that adequate consideration should be given to the protection of the roads, and all wise steps should be taken to prevent any greater destruction than is necessary and to keep at the minimum the cost of maintenance. That is the object of the ban.

It takes but a little time to break up good roads under spring conditions, but once the damage has been done it not only means much expense in getting them back but quite as much inconvenience for the users while the restoration is under way.

COAST GUARD CRAFT

According to Admiral Billard of the coast guard it seems likely that with the approval of congress there will be assigned to that service some of the destroyers of the navy that are available for use in connection with the enforcement of the law against rum runners. Destroyers were not built for such service but there are many on hand. They are of course armed and they possess the needed speed and would serve notice from the time there were brought into use that the government means business in stopping the rum running.

The employment of vessels that are in the possession of the government for this purpose has been urged from the time the necessity of such service became apparent. The cost of operation and the fact that none available actually comply with the requirements for coast guard service have been pointed out as reasons for seeking new vessels.

According to Admiral Billard there is no assurance that the decision to use destroyers would mean that they would be kept permanently in such service. They are now out of service and but a short time would be needed to commission them, and they could be employed during such a period all would be necessary to build any new vessels that might be authorized. Certainly it is preferable to have the destroyers used for such a purpose than to have them stand idle and rust away.

Possibly the putting of them into such use will demonstrate that they come nearer to requirements than has been believed, although those serving on such a vessel are not likely to enjoy the rolling that such a craft is bound to experience in the outside service.

Combatting the rum runners calls for additional craft in the coast guard service. Those fitted for such work are best, but if it is impossible to obtain the funds for new construction in keeping with requirements, there must be resort to such craft as are available, whether destroyers or some other type.

AN UNJUST INFERENCE

Many things are being said in congress in connection with the oil probe that create a far different impression than the facts warrant. The aim seems to be furnish the basis for the spreading of false ideas, back of which there seems to be ground for feeling that politics is the guiding spirit.

For instance Senator Walsh of the oil investigating committee is quoted as saying: "The department of justice has a bureau of investigation whose head is the greatest sleuth since Sherlock Holmes. Not a suggestion, not a hint has come from that source to help this investigation."

Senator Walsh is unquestionably correct in saying that he has received no suggestion and no help, but he creates the impression that the bureau has been hostile to such assistance. He would have it inferred that the bureau was endeavoring to serve the attorney general or others by its silence. And that is the foundation for the false notion that is likely to be gained from the Walsh statement.

As a matter of fact the bureau's services have never been sought. Director Burns of that bureau says: "The bureau of investigation has never been called upon by the senate or the public lands committee, or any member thereof, to render any service as to the investigation now in progress with reference to oil leases or any matter related thereto, and the bureau of investigation has not at any time without some request volunteered its services to congress or its committee. It might be proper to add that the attorney general has placed every facility and agency of the department of justice, including this bureau, at the disposal of the special counsel appointed by the president to investigate the oil frauds and to prosecute any and all persons guilty of violations of the law in connection therewith."

It becomes quickly apparent that Senator Walsh's statement is an injustice. He made no attempt to use what was available and yet he would give the impression that the bureau has been remiss in its duty.

STANDING BY THE LAW

Down in Texas one man has given up his life and another may die because of the determination to participate in a lynching party. It was a case where the authorities were unwilling to deliver a prisoner, a colored man, into the hands of the lawless crowd. He was charged with a crime which may result in his execution if evidence sufficient to convict is produced.

Happily it was the determination of the authorities that he should be given his rights under the Constitution and not be strung up to a tree without a trial. It is not always possible to successfully resist a mob but in this instance cold lead did the trick. The man killed and the one seriously wounded invited what they got. There was no justification whatsoever for the attempted raid upon the jail. There was no reason to believe that the accused would escape trial or proper punishment. There was, however, evidence of the mob spirit that was prepared to defy the law and to take life in keeping with a practice that has received too much indulgence in certain states.

Whether the Texas community will profit from the lesson, and those who were engaged in the raid upon the jail will assume their responsibility in connection with the death of one of their number and the wounding of another, remains to be seen. Those who engage in lawless undertakings must realize the seriousness of their offense. Such an affair was entirely needless. There was no more justification for their attempt to take the life of the colored man than there was for imperiling those who made up the mob and attempted to take affairs into their own hands.

SHAPING THE ALIEN BILL

By the action of the senate immigration committee in making the 1910 census the basis for the new immigration bill when figuring quotas, it indicates the abandonment of the plan in the Johnson bill of using the 1890 figures, against which there has been so much objection on the ground that they would discriminate so greatly against southern and eastern Europe.

That the country has a right to say who shall come in and who shall not, quite the same as other countries set up barriers in accord with their own desires, is not to be questioned, but the advisability of voiding ill feeling has apparently been recognized.

In connection with the retention of the census figures that are being used under the present immigration bill, there is, however, displayed by the senate committee the desire to cut the number to be admitted. This would be accomplished by reducing the three per cent. quota to two per cent. This will work for all nations alike, with few exceptions, although it will mean that many more of some nations will be admitted than of others. The discrimination will still exist but on a different basis and with different results than would be the case were the 1890 census figured to be adopted.

The senate committee action may not mean that its verdict will be adopted, but it gives indication that the immigration legislation adopted at this session of congress will differ somewhat from the provisions set forth in the Johnson bill.

HER PROPOSALS

"I just don't know what to do!" beamed the mere child with the large and innocent eyes as she carefully selected the best piece of candy in the gorgeous box before passing it to the entirely grown-up young woman who knew a lot and liked to act as though she knew more. "I am worried!"

"Maybe. I can help you," kindly suggested the entirely grownup young woman. "Do tell me what is the trouble, Argentina! If my advice would be any good to you—"

"Would it?" gasped the mere child fervently. "Why, Peoria, it's the very thing I want! You don't know how I should appreciate—"

"Not at all," the other assured her. "What happened?"

"It hasn't," confessed the innocent-eyed one. "It's a man. I mean two men. Both of them seem to like me awfully well—"

"Well, I must say!" murmured the grown-up young woman, with considerable interest. "The idea, at your age, of having two at one time—they can't be serious of course, Argentina, and I expect with your inexperience you have mistaken merely a casual interest on their part for something else."

"You may be right," agreed the mere child, "but when a man proposes to you and says he is mad about you, what else can you think except that he has a slight interest in you? They are both handsome and have plenty of money and all the other girls—"

"I see just how you feel," said the grownup young woman wisely. "There are several men, who, er—well, they are great friends of mine, who are that sort and naturally a girl doesn't want to make a mistake and let go of something that a lot of people stand ready to grab, if you get what I mean. Of course I am having such a perfectly fine time that I haven't the slightest desire to marry and settle down, although the persistence of—er—some friends makes it rather difficult. In fact, I don't mind saying that just at present I am very seriously considering one, in fact two of the men who are most devoted to me—it really is not kind to them not to decide it one way or the other—"

"Isn't it thrilling!" gasped the girl with the large and innocent eyes. "Mine both proposed to me the same week—did yours?"

"Yes—that is," the entirely grown-up young woman hedged, "your ideas are so childlike, Argentina! Men don't have to propose in words of one syllable before one understands what they mean, my dear. After you have had more experience you will sort of tacitly understand."

"Well, I'd rather have it right out, distinctly, so that I am quite positive," the mere child told her, shaking her head firmly. "I should think the other way there would be apt to be mistakes. A man, miffint get mad if he was turned down and when the girl mentioned secretly to all of her best friends that she could have married him if she had wanted to he could chortle coldly ha, ha, wasn't it a joke and that the poor girl had a great imagination—and there you are! She couldn't do a thing to prove her case!"

"What disagreeable ideas you have!" the entirely grown up young woman reproved her. "I guess there'd be no danger of anything like that if the men were as devoted to a girl as these two are to me! It is positively pathetic he way hey wach me—"

"Isn't it!" gurgled the mere child in pleasant reminiscence. "I was a trifle disappointed that neither of my two threatened to move away or abandon life if I refused him—though Co—though one of them did say sternly that if I eventually told him no he should never look at another girl and his life would be wrecked and the other one tells me every time I see him that I cannot know what I mean to him—"

"No doubt they think they are serious," the other told her comfortably.

"Well, I'm pretty sure," mused the mere child. "When Col asked me to marry him—"

"Who?" demanded the grown-up young woman. "Do you mean Colvin Pepper actually asked you right out to marry him?"

"Why, yes!" the mere child assured her. "I know you won't tell. And the other is Glass Beakers!"

The grown up young woman was getting up majestically and there was a greenish cast to her countenance. "But those are my two!" she got out before she thought. "You don't mean—I never heard of such impudence and assurance! The idea of making up such a story to tell me when I am perfectly positive——"

"Well," the mere child said with some satisfaction, to herself as she watched the distracted older belle's swift departure, "I guess I'll hang on to the definite, or common, or garden variety of proposals! There's something about these aesthetic, thought-transference affairs that seems awfully upsetting, I declare!" —Exchange.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

ABYSSINIA

"Abyssinia, whose formal application for admission to the league of nations has not been acted upon by that body because of the prevalence of slavery in the country, is the only free and independent state in the whole of Africa except Egypt and Liberia," according to a bulletin of the National Geographic Society issued today from its Washington, D. C. headquarters.

"It seems paradoxical, too, that one of the three free states in Africa, lying in the protruding portion of the eastern part of the continent, should also be the last home of open slavery.

"One traveler through the country said that he believed there were more slaves in its capital, Addis Ababa, than there were freemen. Servants of Europeans living in the country have their own slaves, and sometimes it is impossible for Americans or other foreigners to keep from owning slaves, because if a slave happens to be given to a resident of the country, there is no known method by which he may be emancipated. If he is set free he is subject to capture and enslavement by someone else.

"In fact, so many of the people of the outlying districts have been captured, chained together and taken in droves into the great slave markets at Jimma, that it is possible to march for mile after mile, day after day, through a once flourishing agricultural district without seeing a man, woman, or child. Recently it has been reported that the traders are beginning, for lack of people in their own country, to make raids into the neighboring Kenya colony, the British Sudan, and elsewhere for their quarries.

"Few countries show such a marked change during a short period of ten years as Abyssinia has since the death of its 'grand old man,' Menelik, who was so progressive in his ideas that Italy gave his country the ancient empire of Ethiopia—its independence. To swear 'by Menelik' is today the most binding oath a native can take.

"In his home a child might drive a cow from the confines of the city to a remote corner of the kingdom without being molested, but today that same child, grown to manhood, might be snatched up before he had proceeded very far on his journey and sold into slavery in some distant city.

"The old king, during his reign of a quarter of a century, built up his capital city, laid out metaled roads, and railway lines, installed telephones, and promoted banking, schools, sanitation, a water supply, hospitals, and a definite system of law and order. Today his railroad is under French management and depends upon the French for its financial backing, the streets are neglected, and even the foreign legations have to be barricaded to keep out the brigands.

"Abyssinia also enjoys a peculiar distinction among the native states of the continent—since the fourth century, it has been known as a Christian nation. Menelik's vain and arrogant successor bound a gorgeous Moslem turban around his wooly head, however, and turned the faces of his people toward Mecca, in order that he might satisfy his desire for a harem. But when he was deposed in 1916 and a daughter of Menelik, Waiseru Zauditu, and Ras Tafferi were proclaimed rulers the historic faith was restored.

"The tactful individual who wishes to get himself into the good graces of the natives always remembers that he must speak of them as Ethiopians, for the term Abyssinian means (mongrel' and probably came into usage originally because it is hardly possible to find on the earth so mixed a population, ranging from certain light-skinned individuals of Mediterranean stock, through mulatto, and dusky-skinned Arab, to 'high yellow,' 'gingerbread,' and the true blacks.

"The Ethiopians speak of Europeans as the 'Red Faces.' Many of them are particularly fond of raw meat, and the warmer and fresher the kill the better they like it."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

In Answer to Mr. Lucas

Mr. Editor: Will you kindly allow me to say a few words in answer to Mr. Lucas' letter that came out in this morning's paper. No true native of the south could let it go unnoticed. I am a native of Virginia and am proud to say so, but I also like the north very much.

I would also like to ask Mr. Lucas why the southern natives are sore to have northern capital come in. I have never noticed it.

We have no reason to love Mr. Lincoln although we acknowledge him to be a great man. We love our Robert E. Lee.

Yours Very Truly,
LILLIAN A BULMAN

Favors Johnson Bill

Mr. Editor: Apropos of congressional legislation restricting immigration are your readers familiar with the mental tests, during the war of hunderds of thousands of our soldiers?

In these, all northwestern Europe ranked high. England, for example, gave us only 87 low powers per 1000 immigrants, with 197 highpowers. These latter were fitted by capacity for leadership to be officers. The countries giving the lowest quotas are (1) Poland with 699 lowpowers per thousand and only 5 of the officer class, (2) Italy, with 634 lowpowers and mentally deficients, yet only 8 highpowers per thousand.

If we discharge our responsibility to those whose bloody footprints on Valley Forge snows testified to the sufferings they had to endure to give our citizens of today their legacy of American institutions, if we remember our duty to the generations of Americans yet unborn, should we not, as individual citizens write our senators and congressmen, telling that we plead for their votes for the Johnson restrictive immigration bill.

Very Ernestly.

Stories That Recall Others

The Wisdom of Babes

When his mother called him for lunch she noticed he was burying something.

"Bobby, what are you burying?" she asked.

"My hatchet," he replied.

"What for, dear?"

"I want to grow a little hatchet."

What Better Could He Offer

As he was coming down the street one day he was reminded by a bachelor maiden of a speech he had made a year ago, in which he said that unmarried persons were most useless in the world.

"Mary and I were the only ones there so we felt it was aimed at us," she said.

"Well, you noticed that Mary got married," he returned.

She nodded.

"Go thou and do likewise," he quoted concisely, "while it is yet leap year."

Mary Lyon, the seventy-fifth anniversary of whose death is to be observed at Mt. Holyoke College in March, was the founder of that college, and a famous pioneer in work for the higher education of women.

JOINT-EASE For Stiff, Swollen Joints

Rheumatic or Otherwise

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at all druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not to the same for you.

Learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine, taken internally; that is now sold by druggists generally. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent., and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands of people, and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

Your eyes are worthy of our service.

FEBRUARY'S EXTRA DAY BRINGS BIRTHDAY TO NORWICH PEOPLE

FRANK M. GREEN
Who Has Had 11 Birthdays in 48 Years

A search of the town clerk's records has revealed the interesting fact that during the last half century there have been eleven persons born in Norwich who hold the distinction of having a birthday but once in four years, every February 29th. This year the calendar gives February 29 days, so Friday brings the arrival of a birthday for the 11 who are alive. The vital statistics in the town clerk's office show the following births occurring on the 29th day of February since the year 1875.

1876—Frank M. Green, son of Frank E. and Mary M. Aldrich Green.

1892—Elizabeth J. Toomey, daughter of John and Mary Conley Toomey, then residing at No. 12 Hickory street.

1892—Richard Patrick Shea, son of Thomas and Matilda Hanley Shea, then residing in Taftville.

1896—Lena Bendett, daughter of Nathan and Katie Herr Bendett, then residing at No. 142 Yantic street.

1904—Nicholas Barrett, son of Michael and Sarah Burke Barrett, then residing in Taftville.

1904—Haroid Maples Billing, son of Samuel and Edith Lamb Kinney Billings.

1913—Annie Dubinetski, daughter of Alexander and Lizzie Micholitz Dubinetski, then residing at No. 96 Thames street.

1912—Arthur Bernard Breen, son of Bernard J., and Julia Sullivan Breen, then residing at No. 79 Fourth street.

1912—Alvin Giles Hitchener, son of Joel A. and Maud E. Otter Hitchener, then residing at No. 41 Fountain street.

1920—Alexander Butkiewics (deceased) son of Charles and Elitsabeth Lavandowski Butkiewics, then of No. 53 Maple street, now residing at No. 4 Rock street.

1920—Viola Léan Miller, daughter of Calvin and Fanny Allen Miller, then of East Great Plain, later of rear of No. 88 Dunham street, present address not known.

An effort has been made to locate the present whereabouts of these eleven persons. Some of them have moved out of town, at least one is dead, no trace of several can be found, while the other three or four are still in Norwich.

Frank M. Green, the first in the list, has had but eleven birthday anniversaries, although he was born 48 years ago. He resides at No. 30 Penobscot street, is manager of the Pequot Brass foundry and has served the city as a member of the common council.

The present address of Elizabeth J. Toomey could not be located by The Bulletin. From 1892 until 1907 the family resided on Hickory street. As far as could be learned, Richard Patrick Shea, the third in the list, lived in Norwich but two years, as his parents in 1894 removed to Fall River. The parents of Lena Bendett, who was born Feb. 29, 1896, resided at No. 142 Yantic street from 1896 until 1902, when they removed to West Thames street and shortly afterwards removed to Mohegan.

Nicholas Barrett is probably residing somewhere in England, as in 1906 the year after his birth, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barrett, left Norwich to make their home in that country. Harold M. Billings, who today celebrates his fifth birthday, although he is now 20, resides with his parents at No. 2 Willey place. He is employed as a linotype operator in The Bulletin composing room. Annis Dubinetski, who celebrates her third birthday, being now twelve years of age, lives with her parents on North Main street. WRITES FIRST EXPERIENCES IN TRIP AROUND WORLD

Mailing a letter at Madeira, which is the first port in the cruise around the world, upon which he recently started from New York, Rutherford C. Plaut of this city writes in his characteristic and interesting way of people and events. His letter is as follows:

On Board Canadian Pacific Liner
"Empress of Canada"
At sea, February 2, 1924.

My dear Ed. and all at the store:

When I first thought of a trip around the world, my folks all jested with me—said I was dreaming again. Only this time, perhaps, I could make the dream come true. I began to read advertisements. Advertisements of cruises were plentiful, and literature on the subject was luminous and exciting. My office desk, as you all remember, became gorgeous with prospectuses in blue and gold, that looked like samples of diamond dyes. The Sphinx, the Pyramids, and prows of stately vessels looked out from many covers and became back grounds for lofty dark blue camels and dusky men and women of fantastic dress. Often I awoke at night, lit my lamp, and consulted these books. When I went to New York, I made the lives of the various agents I consulted miserable. It was hard, it was nerve racking, to decide, but on one occasion I overheard in the Canadian Pacific office that the Steamship "Empress of Canada" would set on her cruise with eight tons of dressed chicken and twelve thousand bottles of champagne. I hesitated no longer.

My remembrance of the next month is hazy. I had to convince Mr. Cadden and he had to talk it all over with his two sisters and also do some figuring, because every time I would plank down a dollar he would have to meet it with three. Well, finally one day he said, "Yes, but—", and then I wondered what the 'but' was. My heart stopped beating. I thought he was going to suggest that if he went along I was to stay at home, but not so. He wants a room with a bath for himself and one for his sisters. Well, I overcame that obstacle in procuring suite 89 and 91 on the "Empress of Canada," leaving New York on January 30th.

The boat operates on the Vancouver, Japan, China route and is the largest mail and passenger vessel sailing on the Pacific and also the largest vessel turned out from the yard of the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Company of Glasgow. The principal dimensions are as follows: Length over all is 648 feet, breadth 77 feet and seven inches; gross tonnage 22,500 tons. It is the most handsome furnished vessel afloat. Accommodations are provided for five hundred first class passengers. The first class accommodations are arranged on B deck in state rooms for one, two and three passengers. In addition, there are a number of private suites, such as we have, comprising sitting rooms, bedroom, and bath. The dining room is on D deck, amidship, and will accommodate 307 persons at one sitting. The reception room, situated forward of the dining saloon on D deck, has been designed to give a large open space for dancing, the floor having an area of 2,000 superficial feet, laid with oak parquet, and believe me, it is a beautiful layout. On A deck, the main stairway open's into the long gallery, which has been made a feature of the ship as it gives access to all the principal first class public rooms. The gallery is about 100 feet long and 15 feet wide. At the forward end of the gallery is the lounge and at the other end is situated the smoking room. At the other end of A deck, and opening out of the smoking room and bar, is the verandah cafe. Here they have a fully equipped modern soda fountain. A large swimming pool, porcelain and tiled, about 30 feet long, 18 feet wide, with a maximum depth of 8 feet, is arranged on deck D. The gymnasium is arranged next to, and communicating with, the swimming pool. The decorations and furnishings of all these public rooms have been arranged with great care and embody all the latest details for the comfort and convenience of the passengers. All in all, I do not see how it could be equipped any more luxuriously and the food is wonderful—The same outfit that has made the Chateau de Frontenac famous at Quebec is installed on this boat. The Canadian Pacific owns the Chateau and their service is supreme. Our bedroom stewards and our waiters are all Chinese, who know their place and do their work in a very quiet manner. The steam laundry connected with the outfit is marvelous and it was a revelation to me. They have twenty-two Chinamen in the laundry, all stripped to the waist, and they are turning out some material.

It was a nice bright day when sailing day arrived. What a crowd there was at the dock and on the boat. I thought all New York must be going. That was an error on my part, however. They were mostly visitors, as I discovered later. The crowd averaged about four visitors to a passenger, I should think. I had over twice as many. I am not boasting. They came mainly to be sure that I got aboard and stayed there. There were just ten to see us off—Adelard, Hugo Wassermann, Cadden's cousin, Gertie Cohen, Sydney Davidson, Rosa Plaut, her sister Hattie and niece Rosalie, Peter Guanarias of St. Clair's, my sister and her husband. We worked our way through among the passengers and visitors, who seemed to be all talking and laughing at once or pawing over the mail and packages heaped upon a cabin table. I did not feel like laughing or talking and I wasn't interested in the mail. Almost everybody in the world that meant anything to me was in the crowd and they were going away presently to leave us on this big ship amongst strangers bound for strange people and strange lands. I was beginning to get cold feet and any inducement that I could have accepted diplomatically might have recalled me to my native hearth.

I wish the ship people wouldn't find it necessary to blow their whistles so loud and often to send one's friends ashore. How the visitors do crowd ashore! A word—a last kiss and hug—a "good luck and goodbye"—and your own are gone. You push to the side of the boat—you see your dear ones with their ever shaking handkerchiefs—then you notice they apparently wipe a tear from their eyes—and then wonder if it is joy at being rid of you, sorrow at leaving, or just custom. The last visitors are straggling down the gangplank. Now one of the gangplanks is hauled away. A messenger runs up with supplementary mail. The whistle blows a long, long blast again. The last gangplank is hauled ashore. Some one slackens a rope, and with our eyes on our friends and our hands full of paper streamers, which instead of throwing to our friends we find later in our hands, some one yells "We are going." We drop away from the pier, and then a band (our band) turns loose a perfect storm of music. Those on the pier continue to wave—We can see the handkerchiefs but can recognise them no more. We are off! The big tugs are swinging us to the ocean and now its all over. We are going out to sea.

Then we go to our state rooms. We are impressed by the stately furnishings, but we only throw ourselves into a cosy arm chair and think it will be six months before we see the United States once more.

We have settled down now into a pleasant routine of lazy life. Most of us are on deck, and we see new faces daily. Each takes up the amusement that pleases the most. Some are reading, some playing games, others gossiping, more writing diaries. Here and there are Mah Jong parties or bridge. There are even one or two mild cases of flirtation. Quite a crowd is in the "Booze Parlor" as you know we fly the British Flag and no Volstead law interferes here. They advise you to drink Bass Ale instead of water and say that Johnny Walker's brand will do you more good than tea and that "Three Star Hennesey" is good to keep your stomach right. I believe it all and try it all. Last night we had a very pleasant poker party, so you see there is no chance to be lonely. We are all getting acquainted and rapidly finding out whether or not we are married, single or divorced, and why, what, if anything, we do when we are at home, how we happened to come on this trip and a great deal of useful and useless information. Our meals cannot be excelled. We have all been to them regularly. Carrie had a touch of "Mal de Mere" and was forced to stay in her room. She flatly denies this fact, however, and said she stayed in her room because "if she went on deck she might fall down it being so rough."

Sunday we all grieved to learn that Ex-President Wilson had passed away on that day. You see we are equipped to hear the world's news as soon as you get it in Norwich.

Of the 305 passengers aboard, including the cruise staff, 202 are citizens of the United States; 99 from Great Britain and Canada; two from Norway; one from Switzerland; one from Bohemia. From a bulletin we glean the information that the average age is 44 to 53 years. The youngest passenger is two years old and the oldest is seventy-eight. Twenty-five are less than 20 years old; 45 are in their twenties; 48 in the thirties; 55 in their forties; 68 in their fifties; 50 in their sixties and 14 in their seventies; Twenty-three states of the union are represented and seven of the Canadian Provinces. England, Ireland Switzerland and the Phillipines are also represented. Among the notables are Sir and Lady Augustus Nanton, of Winnipeg, Senator and Mrs. Nathaniel Curry of Montreal, Canada, Colonel and Mrs. George J. Denis of Los Angeles, California and Senator Robert J. O'Brien of Cincinnati, Ohio. Harrison Fisher, the celebrated magazine artist, was compelled to cancel his passage at the last minute, owing to a sudden illness.

They have formed a Rotarian club on board, having members from all parts of the globe, and they meet regularly and have a good time. The Masonic club has also been formed and they have a large membership.

The staff and the crew of the ship includes 491 Chinese, 78 British, and 12 Filipinos.

H. D. Barrows, the shoe man who has a shoe store in Norwich and one in New London is a passenger on board and is accompanied by his wife and grandson. The prospectus is correct in one item absolutely. It says that the "Empress of Canada" has a displacement of 23,000 tons. That is handsome and is not too much. I realized that some moments ago, when I felt our noble vessel "sashay" in her slow majestic fashion toward Cuba, then pause to revolve the matter a little and after concluding to sink, suddenly set out in a long slow upward slide for the moon. I knew then that her displacement was all that it was claimed to be and I prepared for the worse. So did Miss Caddes and she suddenly started for the state room.

We are getting south now and the weather is much warmer. The sun is bright, too, and a little rainbow travels with the ship right over the port screw. When the water is really quiet, the decks are gay. New faces still appear, however. Every little while there is a fresh arrival, as it were—a fluttering out from some inner tangle of sea magic and darkness, just as a butterfly might "emerge from a cocoon" as Aline Morin would say. Some of them do not stay. We run into a cross sea or swell and then they disappear again, and their places at the table remain vacant.

Last night was "Chinese New Years" and the Chinamen aboard gave a show. It was good, but it might have been better had we been able to understand it. Cadden says it was a bit immoral, so you see he understands Chinese. I don't. Tonight they are to have a Masquerade Ball and I suppose it will be an event, but they will have to go some to get ahead of the Fancy Masque Ball that we enjoyed on the Steamship "Western World" last year, when we were on our way to Rio de Janeiro. This is Tuesday. February 5th and Thursday we make our first stop at Maderia. I am going to mail this letter to you from there. Be sure, Ed, to give my regards to every one and let all in the store read this, and then send it to my sister, because it would be a calamity if I had to write all this to each one individually. All I can say now is that we are all fine. Cadden still has his $14 bathing suit and it is still dry. He has not ventured into the pool. Minnye knows every one on the boat and keeps us informed of what is going on aboard. Carrie is quiet. She perhaps fears a concurrent attack of "Mal de Mere." No use of my telling you that I am otherwise than fine, because if I wasn't I could not write much. But as I said to you in New York that I would drink plenty of Burton Ale and when doing so would think of you, I am keeping my word to the letter.

I'll say Au Revoir. Don't forget to remember me to the kiddies. I'll leave a space here should something develop between now and the closing of the mail. I'll make a postscrip of it.

Once more Au Revoir to all. I am as ever 4 D

My next letter will be about the things I saw at Funchal, Maderia.

A notice is posted to the effect that the wine in Maderia is very strong so be careful.

Makes the Finest Bread Baked

Early Church Utensils.

When our Puritan forefathers first began to pass the plate for contributions in the meeting house it was not a plate they passed in most places but a brass warming pan. Into this the coins jingled cheerfully until someone decided that it was too cheerful and a long-handled wire corn popper was substituted. The artistically carved and velvet-lined plates used in many churches today are a recent adaptation. In the earliest colonial days no collection was taken at all and the salary of the parson was paid in pork and pumpkins, potatoes and peas, flour, dried apples and beans, with occasional "donation parties" that provided further luxuries. When church activities began to extend beyond the immediate parish it was necessary to collect coins, so the warming pan and the corn popper were both used to gather them up quickly.

Sold Wind" to Skippers.

A very curious vocation was that which provided the livelihood of Bessie Millis, who lived in the village of Stromness, in the Orkney Islands, in the early part of the last century. Old Bessie "sold wind" to the skippers who put out from that port, and it is said that no mariner ever sailed out of Stromness without first paying her a visit. She made no pretensions to magical arts, but merely boiled her kettle and gave the vessel, the benefit of her prayers. For this service she exacted the modest emolument of sixpence. According to Sir Walter Scott, Bessie held that the wind was sure to come, although sometimes the sailors were obliged to wait quite a while for it. Old Bessie's house was located on the brow of the hill on which the town is built, and was so wind-swept and exposed that it gave considerable color to the dame's claims of controlling the wind.

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, Feb. 28—Johnny DeSalvo of Boston and Freddie Lux of Providence fought ten rounds to a decision at the arena here tonight. The referee, Billy Manice of New London, awarded the decision to DeSalvo, although in the seventh round Lux crashed to the floor and lay gasping after what many in the audience took to be a low blow. When Lux went down Manice did not begin to count but instead walked over to the timers' corner and asked if there was a physician in the house. Dr. J. N. Perreault, the club physician, sitting at the ringside entered the ring and after an examination of Lux, who was then lying on his back with his eyes closed and gasping, said that he found no marks of a foul blow or outward sign of injury.

Boxing Commissioner Frank Murphy of Hartford, in view of the physician's finding, said that Lux would be given a rest of a minute and would then endeavor to go on with the bout guaranteeing the fans a full run for their money. Lux came back all right and fought the remainder of the seventh round and the last three rounds with as much pep as he had shown at any time during the bout, which was really a good one, but he was shaded in about every round by DeSalvo, who was a tough, rugged customer and seemingly immune to punishment which he hands out in wholesale quantities on his own account.

The semi-final between Frankie Busch of Norwich and Young Pelky of Worcester was a slashing affair from bell to bell. Both men weighed in at 165 pounds and the event went the limit. Referee Manice raised Busch's arm in victory at the end of the bout but this decision was not popular with the fans, it being generally contended that Busch, at the best, was entitled to no more than a draw. Pelky had Busch groggy and almost out in the fourth round when he also gave Pely a real beating. In the sixth Pelky also had the advantage by a wide margin. In the opinion of the majority of the fans there was no round in which Pelky did not hold his own. Notwithstanding, Busch put up a remarkable fight, battling every minute of the way even at times when an ordinary boxer would have quit. It was good news to the fans when Commissioner Murphy announced from the ring that this pair will be rematched to meet here probably on March 15th.

In the preliminaries which were as good as any that have been seen here Young Coulon of Taftville put away Harry Doyle of Bridgeport in the first minute of the third round. This pair of battling Billies gave the crowd a lot of entertainment while they were in the ring and Coulon responded to the rooting of the Taftville part of the audience to be quick about putting Doyle away.

Jerry Bergard of Putnam made short work of Johnny Murray of Rockville. This preliminary had more class than most bouts of the kind and the sailor boys, both formerly in the navy, were at it hammer and tongs from the start. Murray took the count after two minutes and 20 seconds of fighting in the third round.

As a whole the card of the evening was one of the best seen in Danielson.

FLOTILLA FIVE AT PLAINFIELD TONIGHT

The Sub Base team of New London will clash with the Plainfield quintet at the Community House tonight. In their last appearance here, early in the season, the down the river outfit put up a stubborn fight and it was not until the last few minutes of play that the home team was able to overcome the lead gained by them earlier in the game.

Since this game the visiting aggregation has played some of the best teams in the state including the Dixies of Hartford who after a stubborn battle defeated them by a small margin, the Army and Navy of Taftville who were forced to their limit to beat them by the narrow margin of two points. The Flotilla outfit will be made up of Kohoe and Compton forwards, Green center, Osgood and O'Hare guards.

Plainfield will use Benjamin and Belair in the forward positions, Mills center, Swanson and Provost guards, Dougherty utility.

In the preliminary game the Buddies and Tips up against the fast Peace Dale, R. I. team.

JOHNSON SAYS HE MAY QUIT MAJOR LEAGUE BALL

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28—Reports which have been current during the winter that Walter Johnson, star pitcher of the Washington Americans, contemplated retiring from the major leagues after this season were confirmed by the veteran strike-out king at Hot Springs today, according to advices received by the Cleveland Plain Dealer from its staff correspondent tonight. His retirement hinges, according to the story, on whether Johnson is able to purchase a Pacific Coast League club for which he is negotiating. If he is successful in landing it, Johnson will manage it and take his turn on the mound.

Johnson is starting his eighteenth year with Washington, during which time he set a strike-out record. He also is regarded as one of the speediest pitchers who ever broke into the game.

HERMANN CALLS OFF DEAL WITH ST. PAUL

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 28—President August Hermann of the Cincinnati Nationals announced today that the Brooklyn club had called off its part of the many sided deal with St. Paul, and that Catcher Miguel Gonzales, therefore, will presumably revert to the St. Paul club.

"Up to the present time," added Mr. Hermann, "Pitcher Herb McQuaid is the only player transferred to St. Paul. There is absolutely no chance to get Cliff Lee from the Philadelphia Nationals, and there is no use trying to figure him in a possible trade with St. Paul for third baseman Dressen.

MILE CHAMPION NOT TO ENTER COLLEGE MEET

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 28—Edward H. Kirby, captain of the Cornell track team and intercollegiate mile champion, will not enter the intercollegiate indoor meet at New York next Saturday night, it became known today. Kirby has just been discharged from the infirmary after an attack of grippe, and it was said Coach Moakley did not feel he was in condition to run. H. M. Stone, hurdler, also will be out of the New York competition.

Moakley has picked a squad of 28 athletes to enter the meet.

BERLENBACH KNOCKS OUT FISHER IN THE SIXTH

New York, Feb. 28.—Two of the ring's most promising title aspirants scored knockout victories tonight in star attractions of a show at Madison Square Garden.

Ad Stone, Philadelphia's "fighting Marine", stopped Dave McGill, Irish light heavyweight, in the 11th round, while Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight sensation, gained his 25th consecutive knockout at the expense of Young Fisher, Syracuse veteran. Both were 12-round matches.

Stone and McGill put up a slashing battle but the former marine's heavier punching had McGill in frequent distress, the referee stopping the fight when the Irishman, bleeding and groggy, reeled about the ring under a shower of blows in the 11th round. McGill gamely absorbed his punishment and forced Stone to the defensive with a rally in the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds, after being badly battered in the early rounds. Both fighters showed numerous marks of battle.

Stone weighed 176 and McGill 174½.

Fisher failed to live up to his reputation for ruggedness against Berlenbach. He showed flashes of aggressiveness in the first two rounds but wilted rapidly under the heavy battering of his young opponent after the third round, when he claimed a low blow.

Weights—Young Fisher 158½; Berlenbach 165.

"CHIP" DUGAS SAYS BARBER HAS COLD FEET

Sporting Editor: I want to express my opinion about Frank Barber. I sincerely think that Frank has a severe case of "cold feet." Mr. Morin has claimed the championship of Springfield as a candiepin bowler, and Barber claims the Eastern Connecticut title as a duckpin bowler. Mr. Morin is willing to meet Barber at the duckpin game if Barber is willing to meet Morin at the candle pin game. There is such a small difference in the game that there should be no argument about it. When Barber talks the tenpin game I can only see that Barber has been afflicted with some sort of disease or his backers have left him.

If Barber had to put up his own money he wouldn't bowl. Because Barber won't bowl for any less than $200 that does not make him the best bowler. He has a few backers that don't care if they don't eat a day now and then. With us fellows it is different, we eat and put up our own. Barber has called the Taftville boys a lot of "bias bias" boys without knowing what he was talking about. Some one has put a challenge in the Hartford paper to boost his business unknown to Morin or his manager, and right away Barber jumps at us and wants to bowl—why don't he? The bowlers of this part of the state know that Barber is a duckpin bowler and Morin a candlepin bowler, that ends it for my part.

"CHIP" DUGAS.

MUCH INTEREST BEING IN WHIRLWIND GAME

Basketball followers of Eastern Connecticut are looking forward with interest to the greatest basketball attraction staged in this vicinity when the Army-Navy five meets the Boston Whirlwinds, recognized champions of New England and one of the contenders for the world's title.

The management has this year endeavored to give the fans of this section the best basketball obtainable in New England and not only have they supported a fast team of the chalked court themselves but they have spared no expense in bringing to the village some of the fastest quintets in the state and Sunday's match will be a lively contest as the visitors have a strong five.

The appearance of the Boston Whirlwinds on the local court recalls the exhibition that this quintet made against the crack Celtics in Madison Square Garden last month, when they forced the celebrated aggregation display thier best form.

In a recent letter to Mgr. Murphy the management to the Boston Whirlwinds stated that he will present his strongest lineup eager to display championship ability before the local fans.

The Army and Navy will be strengthened considerably for Sunday's battle and feel confident they will give the champs a stiff battle. The lineup of both teams will appear in tomorrow's paper.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR FIRPO AND WILLS BOUT CALLED OFF

New York, Feb. 28.—All negotiations with a New York syndicate for a match July 19 with Harry Wills, Negro heavyweight, were called off today by Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine boxer, through his American representative, William McCarney, because of conditions imposed by promoters.

McCanney announced he had been instructed by Firpo to abandon negotiations after the syndicate, headed by Lew Raymond and Simon Flaherty, had issued a statement setting forth the terms on which they made a final bid for the fight, for which they had put up a half million dollar purse.

Conditions which the syndicate imposed and Firpo rejected were that a preliminary forfeit of $50,000 be deposited in New York, instead of Buenos Aires, and that the Argentine, upon his arrival in this country and until the proposed fight, place himself under the control of the syndicate to protect its interests. The latter stipulation would have meant cancellation of an extensive exhibition tour arranged for Firpo.

Firpo indicated in a cable dispatch last night that he might waive his demand that the $50,000 forfeit be deposited in Buenos Aires, if the syndicate waived its condition that he abandon other ring engagements prior to a fight with Wills, but when Raymond refused to modify his terms, the Argentine abruptly called off further dealing.

With the withdrawal of the syndicate, Tex Rickard's bid for the Firpo-Wills battle may be accepted. The promoter offered Firpo $200,000 and Wills $100,000 for a match which he would be ready, he says, to stage in his Jersey City arena, Boyles Thirty Acres in July.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At The Palace

Three acts of vaudeville stand out on the bill at the Palace theatre for the last half of the week as real headline acts that will please even the most critical theatre patrons. These acts are far above the general line of vaudeville numbers and each is given the reception due it. The acts, are the Hori Japs, Goelet and Hall, and Chester and D'Vere. The other two acts on the bill while not to be compared with the other three acts are not by any means poor.

The bill is opened by Margot and Francios in an eccentric acrobatic novelty in which Miss Francois introduces several acrobatic stunts on stilts. Her work on the stilts is exceptional and she deserves no small amount of credit.

White and Franks, billed as singing comedians, have a comedy act that is well received.

For soft-shoe dancing the work of Chester and D'Vere is second to none that has ever been shown in this city. These two dusky boys work every minute they are on the boards and their dancing is a distinct pleasure to watch. They introduce several novel and difficult steps weaving them into their acts with perfect rhythm. This act is one that gets across in grand style.

In Miss Hall of the team of Goelet and Hall, Norwich people will see one of the best hard shoe dancers that has ever played local theatres. Her complete mastery of work is a revelation and her perfect timing of her dancing is exceptional. Mr. Goelet is exceptionally pleasing in his work with the banjo, piano and clarinet. He also possesses a good voice which adds to the brilliance of the act. For an all around good act this one is hard to beat.

The Hori Japs present one of the best foot juggling and pole balancing acts on the big time. They have some very difficult feats which are executed with an ease and perfection that makes them seem almost simple but they are none the less dangerous and daring.

The feature motion picture is Broadway Gold starring Elaine Hammerstein as Sunny Duane, a Broadway chorus girl. The bill is completed by an educational film and a comedy.

BREED THEATRE

For the feature attraction today and tomorrow the Breed will present Douglas Fairbanks in The Mark of Zorro. This story is an adaption of Johnston McCulley's novel The Curse of Capistrano which appeared in the All Story Weekly magazine.

It is a dual role that Fairbanks is called upon to essay. As Don Diego Vega, the young man, he leads a secluded life. He exhibits a fondness for the companionship of books and quietness and amiable in disposition upon all occasions. Anything of an excitable nature was abhorrent to him and never was he found mingling with the populace in their various festivities. But when he became awakened to the oppression and persecution, without justification, of the natives by those in power, he felt that the time has already come to act. Disguised as Senor Zorro, we see him executing various exploits practically unaided in the attempt to free his people from the despot's yoke. He becomes transformed into a veritable dynamo of boundless energy. What a mass of new feats of skill he performs! There is a girl in the story that really furnishes the strong love interests.

The third chapter of The Way of a Man, the serial sensation of a century, and the Pathe news will make up the remainder of the bill.

AT THE STRAND

King Vidor has given us another of hi sexcellent character studies in a picture which is full of thrills and sudden climaxes. There is no doubt vidor has surpassed his first Goldwyn success, "Three Wise Fools," in "Wild Oranges," his screen version of the popular Joseph Hergesheimer novel.

The story has to do with a man who loses immediate interest in society after the tragic death of his beautiful wife. He wishes to run away from it all, and becomes a recluse aboard an old yacht. He manages to avoid the everyday humdrum of life until he anchors his yacht in a little lagoon off the Georgia coast.

Vidor took his company to the Florida coast to obtain scenes which are remarkable to obtain their beauty and fidelity to the story. The photography is excellent. Virginia Valli, Frank Mayo, Ford Sterling, Nigel De Brullier and Charles A. Post form a good cast for this unusual photoplay.

The short subjects included a new Jimmy Aubrey comedy and a new Kinogram News.

Vaudeville will be at this theatre all next week.

Whiteman's Steamship Orchestra at State Armory, Norwich

This wonderful aggregation which Keith Pitman, a product of Worcester, has organized and led and finally by permission of the Whiteman office was taken off the greatest boat which has been his home since July 4th when the monster palace of the seas made her maiden trip.

Ten picked musicians, the pride of the Whiteman office, with the pick of all special arrangements which the Whiteman dance library affords reinforced by special quartettes, sextettes and many singing features arranged by Mr. Pitman can and will be put over an enjoyable evening's entertainment both for the dancing public and for those who love dance music as especially prepared and played today.

While still on the boat but in New York on their four days shore leave the Leviathan orchestra made several records which have been favorably received. THE SONG OF THE WORKER

I lay no claim to a niche of fame
In the halls of the storied years;
I may not hope for the crowd's acclaim
Swept high in a storm of cheers.
Obscure, unknown to crown or throne,
I journey my prosy way—
But I do the task that is mine alone
As well as a worker may!

On far winds flung by script or tongue
The fame of the great is whirled;
They have wrought full well and their deeds are sung
Through the width of a grateful world.
I have not won to a place in the sun
With the kingly ones of the earth—
But I know that that humblest task, well done,
Is not devoid of worth!

I have no part in the mighty art
That flowers in the dreamer's breast,
But I know the joy of a workman's heart
In doing his little best!
I boast my role in the world's great plan—
My share in creation, too;
For I do as well as a worker can.
The task that is mine to do!

MYSTERIES OF THE ANCIENTS

The Department of Agriculture of Egypt has seeds which were found in age-proof containers in the tomb of King Tutankhamen which they will endeavor to propagate at their Agricultural Research Laboratories. These seeds may represent herbs containing medicinal properties that this age and generation knows not of. It was the simple roots and herbs of the field that half a century ago produced Lydia E. Pinkham's remedy that has never been equalled in overcoming ailments peculiar to women.

Home-Made Cough Mixture Considered Best
Spreads Over Membrane, Soothes, Heals and Stops Cough Almost Instantly.
Cost But a Trifle

Make your own cough syrup in two minutes at home if you want the best. Simple coughs, or stubborn coughs, it doesn't matter which, this home-made mixture will stop them quicker than any expensive cough syrup you can buy ready made.
It's fine for cheat colds too and for acute nasal catarrh.
Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength) — to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint —that's all there is to it, and children like it.
Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hanging cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.
And remember—ayn remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.
Get Parmint and get better.

We will accept on DEPOSIT as CASH, LIBERTY BOND COUPONS due March 15, 1924.
DEPOSITS made on or before Wednesday, March 5th, will be entitled to INTEREST or DIVIDENDS from March 1st.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKEKT WAS STRONG

New York, Feb. 28—Stock prices moved briskly upward in today's more active session on publication of despatches from Washington setting forth that the regular republicans and the so-called "insurgents" had reached a compromise on the tax bill whereby the maximum surtax rate would be 37 1-2 per cent. Much of the buying power consisted of covering operations by traders who have been selling stocks freely on the relatively poor northwestern railroad earnings for January and the unfavorable developments in the copper industry.

Today's trade news was varied in character. Omission of the regular dividend on Inspiration Copper was offset by the declaration of the regular payment on Kennecott and a further increase of 1-8 to 1-4 of a cent a pound in the price of the red metal which probably was a result of a curtailment of operation by the Inspiration and Calumet and Hecla companies.

Fresh selling of the copper shares followed the announcement of the Inspiration directors action, Anaconda, which controls Inspiration, establishing a new 1924 low at 32 3-8, but it rallied later to 34, off 1-8. Announcment of the Kennecott dividend made good buying support into the copper group and emphasized the contrast between the earnings position of the high and low cost producers. Kennecott closed 1 1-2 points higher at 36 5-8. American Smelting and Utah registered substantial fractional gains.

Speculative interest in the market was not confined to the industrials. Norfolks and Western jumping about 9 points to 119 1-4, a new 1924 high on reports of its possible acquisition by the Pennsylvania and its prospects for an extra dividend. Chesapeake & Ohio also was in good demand, closing nearly 3 points higher at 71 1-4. Northern Pacific dropped 1 5-8 on publication of a poor January earnings statement. Several of the other Northwestern railroads were heavy for the same reason, but the net losses were limited to fractions.

Among the so-called pivotal stocks U. S. Steel common closed 1 3-4 higher at 104; Baldwin moved up 1 1-8 to 123 5-8; American Can advanced nearly 2 points to 113 3-8 and Studebaker showed a net gain of 1 1-8 at 104 3-4.

Oil shares, which have been displaying reactionary tendencies as a result of the Washington oil inquiry disclosures and speculative fear of government control of oil production and prices, developed special strength today on publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum institute showing substantial reductions in crude oil production and imports for the week ending February 23. Other outstanding strong spots were DuPont, General Electric, Mack Truck, American Beet Sugar, American Hide and Leather preferred, Burns Brothers B and Willis Overland preferred, all up 2 to 4 points.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 1-2 per cent. Time money was still on a 4 3-4 to 5 per cent. basis. The commercial paper market was quiet with no change in rates.

Foreign exchange rates displayed a firm tone. Demand sterling ruled about 1-3 cent higher around $4.80 and French francs rallied about 13 points to around 4.21 1-2 cents. Other European currencies improved in sympathy.

CURB MARKET

New York, Feb. 28—Renewed buying of the oil shares, apparently predicated on the further decrease in crude oil production and imports, imparted a strong tone to today's curb market after an early period of irregularity.

Standard Oil of Indiana, the most active issue, closed a point higher at 62 3-4, while gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by Cities Service, Prairie Oil and Gas, Penn-Mex Fuel, Standard Oil of Kentucky and Swan and Finch. Chesebrough Manufacturing jumped five points to 400 on a few odd lot sales.

Strength and activity of Dunliler Radio, which advanced nearly 1 1-2 to 22 7-8, a new 1924 high, was the feature of the trading in the industrial list. Marked strength also developed in continental Tobacco, that advanced from 23 1-2 to 24. United Bakeries corporation advanced one point to 45. Ford Motors of Canada dropped 2 points to 452 on a few sales. Kresge was heavy.

There was little of interest in the mining list, Hawthorne Mines being restored to the list and selling between 50 and 52.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Feb. 28.—Heavy buying of Norfolk & Western convertible 6 per cent. bonds accompanied the brisk advance of the stock today, both issues reaching new high levels for the year. The bonds touched a price of 119 before falling back to 118 1-8 at the close, a net gain on more than 7 points for the day. Despite conspicuous strength of other issues, the general price trend of the railroad mortgages was lower, with considerable irregularity in other sections of the list.

Reports that Norfolk & Western would be leased to the Pennsylvania railroad under a plan guaranteeing annual dividends of 8 per cent. and that the road also was considering payment of a 20-per cent. stock dividend were responsible for the activity in its stock and bond issues.

Strength of Chicago & Alton 3 1-2s, which gained 2 points on publication of an earnings report showing substantial recovery during the year, was another feature of trading in railroad bonds. Advances in Seaboard, Frisco and New Haven issues, however, were offset by losses in Kansas City Southern 5s, Wabash 5s, Illinois Central 5 1-2s and other high grade issues.

Partial recovery of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues followed optimistic statements from official sources, indicating that the company had sufficient cash to meet current needs. After their drastic decline of yesterday all issues steadied, the 7 1-2s with warrants closing 2 points higher and the 7s gaining fractionally on the day.

Liquidation of the copper company liens was less pronounced despite the omission of the inspiration dividend, and prices held fairly firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Feb. 28—Breaking of the season's high price record continued today in the corn market. This was the third successive day that, owing to prospective scarcity, the July and September deliveries attained a new top level. Closing quotations were irregular at 1-4c net decline to 1-4 c advance, May $1 3-4 to $1 7-8c. Wheat finished unchanged to 1-2 higher, May 1.10 3-8 to 1.10 1-2 and July 1.10 7-78, with oats 1-8c to 1-4c to 1-4c down, and provisions varying from 2c decline to an equal gain.

Best prices in the corn market were reached as soon as business began. Then persistent selling was encountered but no decided setback in values took place, and the market was rally at the last. Although a good deal of this selling was of profit taking sort, many traders were acting on opinions that a three-day advance had brought about a somewhat strained pit condition and that a price setback was due. Rural offerings, however, were light and country roads were reported to be in poor shape as a rest of thaws which made hauling difficult. The upward tendency that the market showed in the late dealings was partly because of the wheat strength based more or less on a bulge in Wall street quotations.

Shipping demand here was brisk for dry corn. Chicago shipping interests appeared to be in favor of a price level to ensure a movement of sufficient volume to permit accumulation of a seasonable stock of corn here.

Wheat trading, listless most of the day, picked up finally on reports that a tax legislation compromise at Washington was rallying the New York stock exchange. There was no special call for oats.

Provisions were upheld by firmness of hog values.

TENDENCY OF THE TIMES IS TO MAKE MOLLYCODDLES.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Uncle Ike fairly snorted one evening when his new daughter-in-law sweetly asked him whether he'd rather have shredded wheat or puffed rice for breakfast, next morning. "Neither one," he snapped. "Nd I don't hanker arter baled hay 'nd stale popcorn, neither."

So she gave him sausages and wheat cakes and plenty of maple syrup instead, a big cup of steaming coffee with real cream in it, and a dish of homemade apple sauce. After which Uncle Ike allowed that, when she got some of her "new fangled nonsense" squeezed out of her, she had a'the makin's" of a pretty good housekeeper.

Now, there are more Uncle Ikes in this world than some of the youngsters think. Some of us aren't oldsters, yet, either. We don't care so much for frills and fads as we do for real food,—substancial food, nourishing food,—food which "sticks to your ribs," as the old saying goes. We prefer steaks or stews to soups or salads. We like food which has distinct and individual flavors; which doesn't taste as if all forty-seven kinds were cooked in the same steamer at the same time, and just put in different shaped cans with different colored labels.

Some people say this should be called The Age of Scientific Discovery, pointing to such things as radium, and ions, and bacteria, and insulin, and anti-toxins generally. Others think it ought to be called The Age of Invention, relying on telephones and radio service and aeroplanes to back up their contention. Others denounce it as The Age of Skepticism, in which every item of old faiths is questioned and doubted or denied.

My own conviction is that all these are dead wrong. The future historian, delving below the surface and into the very heart of things, will label this The Tin Can age. Whereupon some rival historian will move to amend by making it read "Tin Can and Pasteboard Carton age." Then the two schools of thought will have a simply glorious time, squabbling over the question whether tin cans or pasteboard boxes were the chief symbols of the age.

Owing to circumstances quite beyond our control, those of us who are living in it will, by that time, have passed into the silences, and will not be able to set them right,—if indeed, we could do so.

The entire surface of the so-called civilized world and many areas of the uncivilized are sown thick with rusting tin cans. An ameteur statistician of my acquaintance asserts that fifty-nine and two-thirds per cent of the kitchen fires of America are kindled with the aid of empty pasteboard cartons.

It isn't a case of "Water, water, everywhere, and not a drop to drink," but cans and cartons everywhere and not a meal of old-fashioned food in the whole caboodle.

For it must be remembered that all of these uncountable varieties of canned and packaged stuffs are put up, primarily, to make money for the canners and packers. They are not manufactured to give the world better food, or food better prepared, or cheaper food, but to secure profits for the canners and packers. And they're doing it, or the millions of dollars spent in advertising and labelling, etc., wouldn't be thus spent.

The really philosophic historian of the distant future, however, won't be satisfied with ticketing this as "Tin Can age," and sticking it away in a pigeon hole of his cabinet. He'll ask and try to find out what was the motive, the underlying cause which sent it rampaging after tin cans. And I very much fear that, not having any too much respect for us who dwell in it and no dread of our voting against him if he tells the unpleasant truth, he will be compelled to admit that the only apparent explanation lies in two words,—shiftlessness and laziness.

Of course, the desire of canners and packers to make money off their simpler fellow citizens is the immediately visible cause. But they couldn't make this money unless their said fellow citizens were willing to turn it over to them,—for the sake of saving some work and trouble to themselves.

Which is both shiftless and lazy.

Now, I'm not going to make a ninny of myself by sighing over "the good old times." There weren't any "good old times." Nor am I going to pretend that the old fellows of former generations were wiser than we are today. As a matter of fact, they were a good deal more superstitious and credulous in most matters, from theology to cucumber-planting and boneset-tea drinking.

But they weren't lazy. And they weren't afraid of roughing it. And they weren't hypocrites or parrots. They had their own ideas, which they stood up for, cantankerously sometimes, but inflexibly. They didn't look on life as a game of "Follow your Leader" no matter where. They didn't buy canned sauer-kraut. They raised their own cabbages and made it themselves.

One of the hymns they used to sing with great gusto if with perhaps defective harmony ran:

"Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize
And sailed through bloody seas?"

We don't hear that hymn often, now-a-days. It wouldn't "take" at all. For the excellent reason that the congregation is, with practical unanimity, doing its level best to climb up and lie down on any "flowery bed of ease" which come handiest. It not only wants to be carried to the skies on that sort of conveyance, it wants to ooze through this life the same way.

The tendency of the times is to make mollycoddles of us all. We don't want to rough it, any more. We don't want to take trouble, if we can hire somebody else to take it for us. We don't want to know how we can do the best work, but how we can do it the easiest and quickest. We don't aspire to do more work, but scheme and plot and bully to see how little work we can do and "get away with it." We want the productive world discombobulated and turned topsy-turvy so we can shuffle out more time to play golf or go flivvering.

We don't want to bake our own bread or cook our own corned beef or prepare our own pork and beans because it's easier to buy them in cans, already cooked. We don't even want a range any more, because it's more trouble to keep shovelling in coal than it is to turn on the gas in a gas stove.

Why, practically all the apartments now being built in the cities make not attempt to provide for any storage room for supplies nor any room for cooking furniture more cumbersome than gas or oil or electric heaters. The tendency to run out to the corner grocery and buy a day's food at a time, pre-cooked and put up in cans or cartons, is so nearly universal that landlords find no demand for old time cellars and storage rooms and cooking ranges.

Therefore every year the size of garbage cans has to be increased to hold the deluge of tin cans and pasteboard boxes which cascades incessantly into them.

Now I have no quarrel with any particular sort or brand of canned or package goods. What I do know is that, when I buy a can of meat or vegetables I not only pay for all the food that's in it, but also for the tin can, for the soldering outfit, for the printed labels, for the wages of those cooking and canning and labelling,—and a generous percentage further for the profit of the boss canner. What I do NOT know is whether the materials were fresh or tainted when the canner took them in hand; whether or no he used chemicals to soften or color them; whether or no the cooking was cleanly; whether or no the subsequent handling was sanitary and safe. All those things I must take on trust,—trust in the self-sacrificing devotion to my welfare of a man who is in the business not out of reason for my welfare or anybody else's but, solely to make money for himself. That calls for a good deal of credulity, seems to me.

I once raised four acres of sweet corn for a canner. He simply wouldn't permit me to break it when it was tender and good. At that stage it was too milky, and cooked away too much. He wanted it half glazed, tough, hard, chippy. A little soda softened the kernels; a little water replaced the milk; a little glucose restored a sort of sweetness,—and he got twelve cans where a similar number of really fresh ears would have netted him but ten. I carefully remark that I do not charge all canners with this sort of management. All I say is that we don't any of us know, when we buy the canned stuff, whether it's been treated that way or not. We buy a pig in a barrel, "sight unseen," as the boys used to say. If, once in a while, a few of us die from botulism or ptomaine poisoning, why, it's all in the game and who cares?

It's easier to buy canned stuff than to buy fresh stuff and cook it. And that's what this age considers of first importance.

That is also why the landscape is all cluttered up with rusting tin cans, and garbage containers bulge with empty pasteboard boxes.

A recent groucher in The Rural New Yorker complains because he can't get any more good codfish cakes. The old split codfish which every grocer carried in stock as a matter of course, has entirely disappeared. Instead you are compelled to take a dessicated, dried up, chippy, tasteless handful of what once might have been codfish,—or hake or pollock or for all you can tell, sea weed,—in a paper package at about twice the cost of what an equal weight of the real thing would have been worth.

But it "saves work and trouble" to get it that way. And what's the difference in nutritive food value compared with saving work and trouble?

It's the same practically all through the list of canned and package goods,—a list which is steadily growing and threatens to stretch out to the crack of doom.

Today, half the shelves of most grocery stores are filled up with rows on rows of cans and cartons, each one striving by gaudiness of labelling or showiness of types to outshine its neighbors,—externally, at least. Hotels buy 'em, and restaurants by 'em and private customers buy 'em; buy 'em and serve 'em. It's getting so that a man could eat his way across the continent, from Quoddy Head to the Golden Gate, and get about the same sort of stuff, with just about the same flavor, at every table which he might sit before.

"Baled hay," forsooth! Uncle Ike may have been a bit over sarcastic. But do you blame him?

I don't!

THE FARMER.

PETITION FOR JUNIOR H. S. VOTE HAS 550 NEW LONDON SIGNERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 28.—Mrs. George Ballady and infant son, of North Bank street, and Miss Harriet Goss of Bank street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Two more arrests were made today in Waterford of owners of dogs, who, it is alleged, have violated the law in failing to have their dogs licensed. They are Elmer and George Smith and the accused will be given hearings before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton on the night of March 5th.

P. Nall Shurts, 76, one of New London's prominent citizens, died shortly after 5 o'clock this morning at his home, 34 Bristol street, following a lingering illness and brought about by a general breaking down. Mr. Shurts is survived by his widow and by three sons, Harry T. and Arthur H. Shurts, the latter associated with his father several years in the real estate and insurance business, and Frank E. Shurts of New Haven and by a daughter, Mrs. Gerard Banfield of Hartford. A brother, Rev. A. B. Shurts of Newark, N. J., also survives.

Mr. Shurts was born in Green Brook, N. J., but had resided in New London many years. He was at one time associated with James P. Johnson in the drygoods business, discontinuing this business about fifteen years ago. Mr. Shurts was especially active in leasing and sales of real estate in Neptune Park and about Ocean Beach.

An automobile, owned and operated by Dr. Harold H. Heyer and a machine owned and driven by Oscar T. Wilson of 968 Bank street, were in collision this forenoon at the corner of Bank and Shaw streets. Both machines were damaged. The physician's automobile emerged from Shaw street just as the machine operated by Wilson, which was headed in a southerly direction, was about to pass. Both drivers attempted to avoid a collision by applying their brakes suddenly, but the two cars came together with considerable force.

The New London police were given a wild chase this morning when information was received at the police station that automobile thieves were operating in the rear of the National Bank of Commerce on State street. The report was an erroneous one, for it developed that the information was sent to the police station by an employe of the bank. Shortly after 11.30 o'clock, a contractor who has a force of workmen engaged on the alterations to the building of the Alling Rubber company just east of the bank, arrived at the rear of the structure from Hartford with five laborers. The men alighted from the car and awaited the transaction of some business by their employer. While the latter absented himself some of the men inspected a machine that was parked there and as they did so a young woman employed in the bank caused other employes to be informed that the men were about to steal a machine. The police were communicated with and Traffic Officer John Courtney, who was on duty corner of State and Bank streets, was the only officer available at the time. The ... was dispatched with haste to ... of the bank and while hurrying there he came upon Captain ... Pinney and Sergeant Nel... The trio of officers went ... and it then developed that ... thieves, the quintette ... only awaiting orders ... lever.

... Alfeiro and his wife have ... agree and to live apart ... hereafter. They have been in ... ice in the past ten days, each ... husband being accused of ... to his wife. He denied the accusation each time and alleged that the trouble came from jealousy on the part of the wife. But the police declare that there was reason in the charge Mrs. Alfeiro made and that Guiseppi is not the mild mannered man he represents himself to be. Today the court found that Alfeiro was guilty as alleged and fined him $25. The execution of the judgment was suspended, however, and Alfeiro agreed to pay his wife $15 a week for a period of six months that they might live apart. He was generous, too, to allow his four children, all small, to reside with their mother. The man gave up so readily that there was suspicion as to what led him to yield the affection he claimed for the little ones. The couple agreed to divide their furniture in their home on Grand street, something that a diplomat will have to intercede in, probably, to accomplish.

John Sprague of Pleasant street, Groton, and Miss Nellie Sheehan of 36 Huntington street, were married last evening at the rectory of St. Mary's star of the sea church. William Kane of Groton was best man and Miss Mary Sheehan, sister of the bride, attended the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Sprague are now in New York on a wedding trip and will reside in Groton upon their return.

The circulators of the petition calling for a referendum on the ordinance authorizing the construction of the ... school have filed with ... and con... voters, or ... than requir... Legal. At the ... council to be held ... it is probable that ... the voters an opportunity to cast their ballots in favor or against the erection of the proposed school will be announced.

John Harrison and Arthur Gendreau, Hartford young men, who were apprehended in New London several nights ago when found with a machine owned by the Model Baking company, of Hartford, which they had stolen, were in the Hartford city court yesterday. Probable cause was found on the charge of theft of an automobile and the accused were held for trial at the next term of the criminal superior court for Hartford county.

Mrs. Robert Wheeler of 863 Williams street, is a patient at a local private hospital, where she recently underwent an operation. The condition of the patient is reported as favorable.

Mrs. Charles Bedford of Williman tic is spending several days the guest of Police Chief Charles A. Pinney.

Mrs. Elmer Brown, who has been confined to her home, 20 Darrow street several days with an attack of grip, is reported today as being greatly improved.

Daniel H. Driscoll and Miss Marion G. Welch, both of Waterford, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The nuptial ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ.

The combined Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus will probably exhibit in New London early in June. If it does it will be the first time in 20 years that either show has appeared in New London. William Cox, ... representing the circus was in New London today and is negotiating for the production of the show on Plant field. The circus is moved on several special trains, the cars being 175 feet in length and 132 in number.

Some time ago the city council made appropriations for the improvement of the streets about the city that are traversed by heavy vehicles. Those improvements are now to be started so that the work can be completed by the early part of the summer and before the great volume of transient automobiles begin to pass through the city. One of the streets to receive attention is State street, from the corner of Meridian St., where the block pavement ends, to the corner of State and Huntington street, where the pavement again starts. The section of State street between these points will be paved with the same grade of pavements that has already been installed on either side of the block to now claim attention. The other street to be paved is Howard street from where the granite pavement now ends, which is at the approach of Shaw's cove bridge, to the corner of Walbach street.

Frank Silva, who is a patient at a local private hospital, having undergone an operation, is rapidly recovering and it is believed that he will be able to return to his home in another week.

Announcement is made of the wedding at St. Pancreas church, Glendale, L. I., last Monday of James Enright Woods, son of John H. Woods of 22 Alger place, and Miss Katherine Karl, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Karl of Glendale.

Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson is spending a few days in New York.

At the meeting of Daughters of Pocohontas, held this evening in Odd Fellows hall, a class of candidates received the initiatory degree.

Miss Gordelia Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Palmer of Greenwich, have returned home after having spent several days with Miss Palmer's brother, John Palmer.

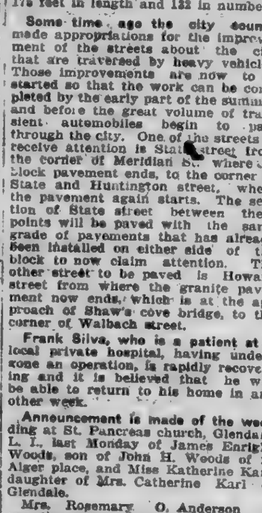
Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony De Costa, of 119 Thames street, Groton, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret, to Theodore Haven, son of Mrs. Francis Gray of 192 Crystal avenue, this city. The wedding will take place next month.

A fellow, who was too drunk to disclose his identity, was arrested at Gales Ferry late this afternoon, by State Policeman B. W. Kenerson of the Groton barracks, charged with intoxication and abusive language. The man was locked up at the New London police station and will be given a hearing tomorrow evening at Gales Ferry.

The fellow, who it is understood, boarded a New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad train at Norwich, is a resident of that place. Before the train reached Gales Ferry the man became so abusive as to annoy other passengers and when the train arrived there the fellow was hustled from the train and left on the platform.

The state police barracks was notified and Officer Kenerson was detailed to have the offender conveyed to the New London police station.

Ex-Kaiser's Daughter Settles In Munich



The only daughter of the former Kaiser, Princess (of Prussia) Victoria Louise, Duchess of Brunswick-Luneberg. Her father-in-law, the late Duke of Brunswick-Luneberg died a few weeks ago on his beautiful estate at Gmunden, in Austria. The Princess and her husband, previously known as Prince Ernst August of Brunswick-Luneberg, Duke of Cumberland, have lived on the Cumberland estate in Austria since their forced abdication at the outbreak of the German Revolution. But whatever the rest of Germany may think, Bavaria is now quite thoroughly royalist and has become a ... "refuge" for German princelings; so the new Duke of Brunswick-Luneberg and the daughter of the ex-Kaiser have settled down in Munich, with their four sons and their one daughter.

DISCOURAGED BY FAILURE, ACTRESS TAKES HER LIFE

New York, Feb. 28—Discouraged by long years of failure to sell the product of her pen or to make a name upon the musical comedy stage Valerie Belasco Martin, 25 years old, ended her life in her mother's Riverside Drive apartment today. She drank a bottle of cleaning fluid.

The girl's story of failure has its first chapter in Milwaukee, her native city. There her mother, when Valerie was 11 years old, established a little theatre and Valerie wrote a play. It was a quaint piece and her mother staged it. People liked it and in Valerie's heart beat pangs of success. The family moevd to Seattle where Valerie began the study of elocution.

Then she learned the art of stage dancing and her voice, naturally true in tone and quality, was cultured a bit. She seemed fit for an entrance into New York and her mother brought her here. Valerie was then 19.

"You'll see," she toM her mother, "soon" you will have a famous daughter. Our cousin will start me on the road to to big successes."

The cousin was David Belasco, the producer. He did help, for the magic name of Belasco won her an engagement in the musical comedy "Very Good Eddie." Her part was a minor one, but she was content to start at the bottom. The show ended its run and weeks of idleness followed.

She obtained an engagement in another musical comedy, but that didn't last long. Followed a number of small engagements with long gaps of idleness between. The "big time" she learned, was crowded, and there were many others like her. Her last engagement was in a comedy that ended after a run of two weeks in Atlantic City.

Among the "dainty dishes" of the Chinese are dog's flesh, duck's gizzards, canned earthworms, marmalade made from roses, birds' nests, dried and preserved oysters, and eggs that have been kept for years.

COUNTESS DE PERIGNY FILES GENERAL DENIAL

New York, Feb. 28.—In an answer filed with the county clerk today, by counsel for Countess Margaret Thaw Carnegie De Perigny, sister of Harry K. Thaw, a general denial was made of allagations in a suit brought against the Countess by Madeline Helyo, Modice for $500,000 damages for the alleged alienation of the affections of the latter's husband.

By DAVID CORY

Waited on the Land of Dawn

A princess lives in a garden fair,
But the walls are high and strong,
And there she must stay for a year and a day
Till a bunny boy comes along."

After a while not so very far, he came to a beautiful garden. At the

"Little bunny, have you traveled far in this great world?" she asked. "And is it a very beautiful place"

"When one is happy, it is beautiful; and when one is unhappy, nothing is beautiful," answered the wise little rabbit.

"What is that jewel hanging on the ribbon?" he asked, suddenly, for it was a ruby, red as the one which the rag picker from the Wind Country had given him.

"Ah me," sighed the lovely princess, "'twas given me by a fairy once upon a time."

Goodness me! At once a great flame shot up from the two lovely jewels and the next minute he and the lovely princess were lifted high into the air as on a crimson cloud. But, strange to say, they were not harmed by the flames, which suddenly disappeared leaving only a rosy haze about them.

Just then a little breeze up and wafted them away, far away, to the Land of Dawn where the Great Sun rises every morning from his purple couch.

"I think I shall always be happy here," said the little princess. "There will be no garden with a high wall to imprison me and perhaps some day a handsome prince will marry me."

As she finished speaking, a noble prince drove by in his coach drawn by four prancing steads. On seeing the lovely princess, he commanded his coachman to halt, and, jumping from his coach, knelt at her feet.

"Lovely maiden, long have I searched for one as beautiful as you," he cried, "Come with me to my castle and we shall be married this very day."

"May I bring this dear little rabbit?" she asked, with a rosy blush. Of course the prince answered yes, and the next minute, the three were rolling along in the great gilded coach to the castle.

"Wouldn't mother be surprised to see me," thought the little rabbit, suddenly remembering he was far away from the dear Old Bramble Patch.

"Be it ever so humble.
The little home cot
In all the wide world
Is the loveliest spot."

Sang the sweet voice in the treetop as the bunny boy wiped a tear from his eyes. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

The Lady—I wonder why the artist has called this picture Home?

The Man—Because there's no place like it, I should say.—London Opinion.

"Good news," said the office boy, "I can hear the art editor laughing."

Clec—He's a man of letters, isn't he?

Pat—Rather! They're what I intend to get my breach of promise on.—London Mail.

Pa—Yes, that's so.

Willie—Well, what are the others here for?—Hydro Lamp.

Little Gustave, out with his mother, meets an old aunt and exclaims: "Oh, what a lot of whiskers you've got!"

Being chided by his mother, and deeming an apology necessary, he added: "But your face looks better with them than it would without."—Chicago News.

The Press Man (interviewing notorious personage recently released from prison)—And then shall I say that you walked forth from the grim gates of prison a free man?

The Notoriety—No, no; you can't say that. I had the wife with me.—London Humorist.

A circuit judge was holding court in a small backwoods town. A local character came up for trial, took the stand in due time and spun his narrative.

The judge, something of a wag, charged the jury as follows: "If you believe the defendent's statement, he is guilty. That is all."

The jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. Somewhat surprised, the judge asked the foreman why such a verdict was rendered.

"We thought we were following instructions, your honor," exclaimed the foreman. "We know that bird. You couldn't believe him on oath."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

For some time past customers of a certain fashionable shop in Bond street, London, have been puzzled over the identity of an ususually attractive assistant who sometimes attends to their wants. Now it transpires that she is Lady Rosamond Gallwey-Robertson, daughter of the earl and countess of Garrick. Lady Rosamond is an expert designer of dresses and so great was her desire to put her talent to practical use that she at last obtained her parents' consent to accept the position she now holds.

The first result of man's study of the weather was apparently to run away from it. Sir Napier Shaw, the English authority on meteorology, points out that the first civilization of which we have much record, that of Egypt, existed where there was really no weather. This civilization may have been the result, he says, of a migration of all the fright individuals or races from other parts of the world, who fled their inclement native climes and settled in Egypt. A similar movement seemed to be in progress at the present day.

STUDY OF GOLDEN RULE IN "Y" BIBLE CLASS

Unusual interest was manifested by the large group of men attending the weekly bible study class at the local Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening. The scripture used was Luke 6:27-38 and the topic was "The Golden Rule". There was plenty of freedom in the discussion, many taking part. Among other points the following were developed in the discussion: "No Christian man can expect to go through this world without having some enemies, and in a sense it would not be a good indication. Generally speaking, the man who does things, who is aggressive, is bound to be criticised. Jesus knew that his disciples would have enemies, for he had plenty of them in his own experience. There was difference of opinion as to whether it was possible to "love your enemies", but all agreed that though the ideal was a high one, it is quite possible for every man to move up nearer to the ideal than he yet has, but he can only do so by keeping in close touch with the divine one. There is never justification for a Christian man to really hate another. While we perhaps are not expected to love our enemies just the same way we love our best friends, yet we never should hate them. Some ways in which we can love our enemies are, to do him a favor; say nothing bad about him; speak pleasantly to him, and pray for him; the best way to maintain such a spirit toward our enemies is to keep constantly in mind God's great kindness and forgiveness to us. We gain nothing by "getting even," we get no lasting satisfaction by it, and we curtail our good influence. The Christian man should show a more kindly and unselfish spirit than a non-Christian and the world has a right to expect something different. We should despair of no man, for in every life there is somewhere a spark of goodness, though often hidden behind a bad exterior.
No man deserves any particular credit for being kind to a friend, but when he is kind to an enemy, he will probably in due time be rewarded. A Christian man should show his love for the man he works for by giving him his very best service. A Christian man should show his love for his competitor by speaking well of him and refraining from "knocking" him. No man can live according to the golden rule unless he is a Christian, in fact Jesus was the great example of the golden rule. He was himself a golden rule."

PLANNING TO MAKE COUNTY FAIR GREATER ATTRACTION THAN EVER

At a meeting of the executive committee of the New London County Agricultural society in the office of Secretary Edwin V. Ross Thursday, there was a spirit to boost the Norwich fair into even better proportions and quality than have been possible in past years, and to do something additional for the comfort of those who attend. A start will be made to provide resting places for patrons and this season the first installment of 50 benches will be put in. These are a special design particularly adapted for fair grounds and other out-of-door occasions, and will follow the design of those used at the Springfield fair.

It was also voted to retain a balloonist for the ascensions with the requirement that ascensions shall be made not later than 4 p. m. standard time. This will give patrons from farm communities the opportunity to see the ascensions and get home for the chores before dark.

The premium list came in for considerable overhauling and since the list below is complete as far as the committee has gone readers of The Bulletin should clip this article and retain it as a reference until the list itself is published.

LENTEEN SEASON BEGINS NEXT WEEK WEDNESDAY

With Ash Wednesday falling on March 5, the annual Lenten penitential season will begin later this year than usual, bringing Easter on Sunday, April 20. Last year, Easter came on Feb. 14. In 1913 Easter fell on March 23, the earliest Easter since 1856. Prior to that the earliest Easter was in 1818 when it came on March 22.

Lent is a period of six weeks preceding the anniversary of the Saviour's death, and is set apart as a special season of fasting, penitence and prayer. Ash Wednesday is called so from the custom which prevailed in the early church of sprinkling ashes on the heads of the penitents the first day of Lent, in token of humiliation and sorrow for sin. Lent lasts for 40 days but, begins 46 days before Easter because there are six Sundays in the penitential season and as all Sundays are feast days, kept in honor of the resurrection, they are taken out, and to make up for these, six days are added at the beginning of the Lenten observance.

ASKS ARREST OF JUDGMENT FOR PLAINTIFF'S ACTIONS

A motion of arrest of judgment to set aside the verdict and for new trial has been filed with the clerk of the court by counsel for the Connecticut Co., against which a verdict of $1,800 was given by a jury in the superior court in favor of Salvatore Sabilio of Waterford, who sued the trolley company for $4,000.

Following the arrest and arraignment of Sabilio, charged with attempting to influence Arthur H. Davis, Station 3, Waterford, a member of the jury which awarded the judgment in Sabilio's favor, Attorney Whittlesey lost no time in drawing up the motion in which he alleged that the plaintiff attempted to influence Arthur W. Davis, one of the jurors and attempted to talk to him concerning the case and "did say to said juror taht after said case was finished he would pay said juror for his time on said case.

It is expected that arguments on the motion will be made before Judge Christopher L. Avery, before whom the Sabilio damage suit was heard, and who ordered Sabilio's arrest, Thursday, after hearing the story related by Juror Davis.
